ROOSEVELT WINS SUIT FOR LIBEL; EDITOR RETRACTS

Newett Goes on the Stand and Admits He Did Roosevelt an Injustice in Charging Him With Drunkenness.

ONLY NOMINAL DAMAGES AT REQUEST OF COLONEL

Roosevelt Told Jury He Didn't Want Money, But Vindication—Six Cents Damages Awarded by Jury.

HIS PURPOSE ACHIEVED, ROOSEVELT IS CONTENT

Marquette, Mich., May 31.—Colonel Roosevelt's statement to the court was as follows:

"Your honor, in view of the statement of the defendant, I ask the court to instruct the jury that I desire only nominal damages. I did not go into this case for money. I did not go into it for any vindictive purpose. I went into it, and, as the court said, I made my reputation an issue, because I wished once for all during my lifetime, thoroughly and comprehensively to deal with these slanders, so that never again will it be possible for any man in good faith to repeat them. I have achieved my purpose, and I am content."

Marquette, Mich., May 31.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt today won his libel suit against George A. Newett, who charged the colonel with drunkenness, and, having waived damages after the defendant had uttered a retraction, the jury awarded the nominal damages of 6 cents, provided in such cases by the laws of Michigan. Each party to the suit will have to pay his own expenses.

Judge Flannigan instructed the jury to bring in a verdict for the plaintiff, which they did without leaving their seats. The colonel left for Chicago and the east at 5:30 o'clock this evening, less than two hours after the conclusion of the case.

When the afternoon session began the air was electrical with expectancy. Rumors were flying that the suit would be terminated. Attorney Van Benschoten, for the plaintiff, however, resumed the reading of depositions. It was noticed, however, that he ignored the testimony of some witnesses. The next move was sudden.

Editor Makes Statement.

"The plaintiff rests," remarked the attorney, James H. Pound, in a matter-of-fact manner. William P. Belden, of Ishpeming, who, with Horace Andrews, of Cleveland, was Mr. Newett's attorney, said: "The defense will call Mr. Newett." A ruddy-cheeked man, whose color did not disguise the fact that he is suffering from a serious illness, took the chair. In his hand he carried a manuscript. When the defendant began reading Colonel Roosevelt moved to the edge of his chair, and betrayed an excitement which his stoical face could not hide. Mr. Newett was well along in his reading before the colonel, whose position seemed like that of a man about to lean forward, lost the tense look on his face.

It is fair to the plaintiff to state that I have been unable to find in any section of the country any individual —or seven cents a line—is an unusually low rate for amount and character of the circulation offered. 18,000 women in Georgia—8,000 of them in Atlanta—participate in the production of this edition. They, with their numerous friends, will read every page—news and ads—in the Woman's Edition. Thousands of copies will be preserved because of the informative and educational character of the edition.

ONE CENT A WORD FOR WANT ADS

In the Special Classified Section of the Woman's Edition

It is seldom, indeed, that those who use classified advertising—and especially those catering to womankind—can place their offers before such a large and intelligent number of people at so low a rate. And this Special Classified Section, though carrying the regular classifications of The Constitution want ad pages, will be separate and apart from the latter, which will appear in their usual position.

Cash must accompany copy, and copy must be marked for this special section. Checks, drafts or postage will be accepted for small amounts from those outside of Atlanta. All copy must be in The Constitution's office by noon of Tuesday, June 3.

70 MILES AN HOUR GALE SWEEPS CITY SMASHING RECORD

Street Cars Are Stopped for Nearly an Hour, and Telephone and Telegraph Service Is Damaged.

BALL GAME IS STOPPED BY SUDDEN SANDSTORM

Flagpole at Piedmont Crashes to Pavement, Snapping Off Trolley Wires — Temperature Drops 30 Degrees.

Weather records of thirty-five years' duration were smashed by a gale that blew over Atlanta yesterday afternoon at the rate of 52 miles an hour for 25 consecutive minutes, and smashed plateglass windows, blew down trees, tore up signs at the ball park, stopped the game and put the street car service out for nearly an hour.

At one time the wind velocity reached 70 miles an hour, and at this point the huge flagpole on top of the Piedmont hotel came crashing to the street ten stories below, where hundreds of people were scurrying to shelter in the driving rain that came with the wind.

The pole crashed through the trolley wires as though they had been cotton cord and stopped car service until a repair crew replaced the wires. That no one was injured by the pole or that it struck no other building in its fall is regarded as little short of marvelous.

With the windstorm that blew steadily over the city came a severe electric storm, followed by hail in the suburbs, and the mercury dropped from 92 degrees, the maximum for the present year, to 62 degrees within less than an hour.

Big Drop in Temperature.

The 30-degree fall in the temperature and the high wind from the west, coupled with the rain and hail, made Atlanta appear as chilly for a short time as though the city were located in the arctic zone.

While reports of damage came from all parts of the city and the two telephone companies suffered severely, the fact that damage was not greater and that no lives were lost is still puzzling Atlantans who were in the midst of the gale and who forced to remain in the office buildings, which seemed to tremble from the wind.

The storm came up at 3:57 o'clock in the afternoon, according to the official records of the United States weather bureau, and the wind soon reached an average velocity of 52 miles an hour, or nearly a mile a minute.

This continued for 25 minutes, with an extreme velocity of 70 miles an hour, surpassing all previous records of the weather bureau, and proving one of the hardest windstorms in the south, except on the coast.

With the storm came a rainfall of .45 inches, bringing the total rainfall for this month up to 2.42 inches and considerably above the normal of 3.09 inches.

Fears of a Tornado.

The peculiar appearance of the clouds, when the sky turned a grayish hue and the sun was obscured, caused fears of a tornado, but the wind came from the west during the greater part of the storm, and picked up quantities of waste paper beside the clouds of dust that hurtled across the sky and proved the chief cause of the peculiar color that hid the setting sun.

According to those who spent Saturday afternoon at East Lake, the waste paper from the city was blown that far and deposited on and around the golf links and over the lake.

Reports of various damages from the storm came in from all parts of the city. The most serious inconvenience came from the stoppage of street car service. The Georgia Railway and Power company officials announced that the severe electric storm caused them to shut off the current for 50 minutes for the safety of their passengers.

Many telephone wires were blown down or crossed, so that service on scores of lines was discontinued during the afternoon and night. Along Peachtree street several large plateglass show windows were blown in by the wind, and awnings were torn from their fastenings in various parts of the city.

Piedmont Flag Pole Drops.

The crashing of the flagpole at the Piedmont was probably the most serious one of the blowdown results of the wind. The huge iron pole was torn from its position on the top of the building at the Peachtree and Luckie streets corner and brought to the ground as though it had been made of flimsy wood.

An old man was among those who were near where the pole struck as it crashed through trolley and guide wires to the pavement. As people rushed forward to look at the pole, hundreds of curio seekers picked up fragments of it and carried them off.

Manager Dutton, of the Piedmont, rushed out to see if any one had been killed. He was looking up and down the street when the old man, who possibly came nearer to injury than any one else, spoke to him.

"If that thing had er hit me," he said, "I'd had a swell damage suit against this hyar hotel."

"That remark stunned me more than I could have been if I had been hit by the pole," said the manager later, "but at the time I could not find a word to say to him."

Buggy Is Damaged.

Another peculiar accident reported was that which occurred on Piedmont avenue. Mather Holbrooks was driving a horse to his buggy, and had another animal tied on behind. When the rain came up he fastened the horse and sought shelter. A decayed tree standing in front of No. 10 Piedmont avenue fell with a crash upon the buggy and damaged it without touching either one of the horses.

The fact that the high wind did not

Roosevelt Very Serious in Witness Chair

TRIAL ROOM MARQUETTE COURT HOUSE — ROOSEVELT IN WITNESS CHAIR — W. P. BELDEN CHIEF COUNSEL FOR NEWETT

When Colonel Roosevelt testified in his libel suit against George A. Newett, editor, at Marquette, Mich., he was never more serious in his life. Reciting the principal facts of his career and then telling exactly what he did and did not drink, the former president made an impressive figure in the witness chair. He rarely smiled. It was plain that he was never more in earnest in his eventful career. His defense of his character was as forceful and energetic as any speech he ever made. The courtroom, a view of which is shown here between sessions—the judge refusing a flashlight during the trial—was always jammed. W. P. Belden, chief counsel for the defendant, made every effort to probe Roosevelt's present and past.

D'ARTIGNAC DEAD; COMPANIONS HURT

Prominent Augusta Man Is Killed in Auto Accident and Four Companions Injured. Car Struck Wagon.

Augusta, Ga., May 31.—Harris H. D'Antignac is dead and four companions who were with him in an automobile are more or less seriously injured as the result of an accident at a point about a mile beyond the Dann Bowles place, near Double Branches.

At a point where the Savannah road is intersected diagonally by the road leading to the Richmond county Agricultural Society club house, the automobile, which was being driven by R. W. Spofford, "side-swiped" a loaded farm wagon, spun around in the road and turned over. The occupants of the car were pinned under it and sustained injuries.

Occupants of the Car.

In the car were:

R. W. Spofford, superintendent of the Augusta-Aiken Railway and Electric corporation.

H. H. D'Antignac, son-in-law of Hon. Thomas Barrett, Jr.

Albert A. Davidson, of the Augusta-Aiken Railway and Electric corporation.

John A. Swallow, of the engineering department of the Charleston and Western Carolina Railway company.

James Smith, of the division department of the Southern railway, Columbia, S. C.

Of the five gentlemen in the car, Mr. Swallow and Mr. Davidson are now the most seriously injured, the former not having fully recovered consciousness at midnight, and the latter apparently suffering most from a severe injury to the back. Both are at the city hospital and information is that it will be impossible to tell until probably tomorrow afternoon whether or not Mr. Swallow has sustained internal injuries.

Driving at High Speed.

The gentlemen made up one of the parties leaving the Carmichael Fishing club a little after 8 o'clock, after attending the annual barbecue of the cotton exchange. Mr. Spofford, driving the car, was making an effort to get to the city as quickly as possible. At the point where the accident occurred the road has a slight bend, partly obstructing the view to the highway beyond. Driving at a high rate of speed, Mr. Spofford attempted to suddenly cut around a loaded farm wagon which he saw almost upon him. The front wheels of the automobile were swerved clear of the wagon, but the rear wheels struck the wagon on one side of its front and drove it backward nearly fifty yards. The automobile was spun around and toppled over, catching the occupants under it.

HEROIC GIRL SAVED BY A GIRL HEROINE

Montgomery, Ala., May 31.—While a large number of children were on a picnic three miles from town, the small boys played in a creek. Felix Seymour Thornsbury, aged 12, got into deep water. His sister, Dorothy, aged 15, went to his assistance. She reached him but became exhausted and both sank. Alma Dressler, aged 15, sprang into the water and succeeded in saving the girl, after an heroic struggle, witnessed by many persons. The boy's body was recovered.

ANNOUNCEMENTS and INFORMATION about THE WOMAN'S EDITION

Since early February, the organized women of Georgia have been hard at work upon the Ella F. White Edition of The Atlanta Constitution, the earnings from which are to become the nucleus of the Ella F. White Endowment Fund of the Federation.

The success of this Edition is now assured, both from the business side and from that of the production of a valuable and interesting paper, which will be a record achievement for the women of the state who have produced it.

We now ask that in every city, town, village and hamlet in Georgia, its women will make of WEDNESDAY, JUNE 4, a gala day in honor of this edition.

All federated women should wear white dresses, with green ribbon badges (the Federation colors are white and green), and be much in evidence during the entire day "making a joyful noise" in celebration of the successful ending of our long work, and in pressing the sale of the paper.

Beside the large advance sale, every club woman will find many people who will really wish copies of the paper if you will present the opportunity to them, and everyone asked will be glad to buy.

The Edition is truly a notable achievement on the part of Georgia women. Get out on June 4 and show that you are proud of it!

Special plans for the sale of the Edition in Atlanta, under the supervision of the club women, and a reception and general meeting at the Woman's Room at The Constitution building are given elsewhere. All club women are urged to familiarize themselves with these plans.

$232,000 INSURANCE CARRIED BY WALKER

Macon, Ga., May 31.—(Special.)—The will of B. Sanders Walker, the Macon real estate dealer, whose gallant fight for life after he had swallowed a bichloride of mercury tablet through mistake attracted the attention of the entire country, was filed for probate today, the widow being the sole beneficiary of an estate valued at over a half million dollars. She was also made executrix.

Walker carried $232,000 in insurance, one policy alone being for $80,000. He also had one accident policy of $10,000. His real estate holdings in Georgia, Tennessee, south Georgia and Florida amount to $250,000.

ATLANTA MAN DIES OF CARBOLIC ACID

Washington, May 31.—After having swallowed the contents of a bottle containing carbolic acid, a man believed to be Frank P. Smith, of Atlanta, Ga., was found in a dying condition in Potomac Park, south of the white house tonight. He died shortly after being rushed to a hospital. In his pockets were found several discharges from the army. At his lodging house several letters indicating that his wife was in Atlanta were found, and the police of that city were notified. His business could not be ascertained.

Assistant Chief of Police Jett received a telegram from Washington last night asking him to notify this man's relatives, who are thought to be in Atlanta, of his death. Every effort was made to reach them, but up to an early hour this morning the relatives of Frank P. Smith could not be located.

YOUTH CONFRONTS NEGRO SUSPECTS

Wade Stevens Forces Wilkes and Maynard to Admit They Knew Mrs. Stevens and Daughter Were Alone.

Wade Stevens, the runaway son of Mrs. Sarah C. Stevens found with her adopted daughter, Nellie Stevens, murdered in the charred ruins of their burned home near Constitution at daybreak Wednesday morning was instrumental in revealing startling circumstances to the detectives Saturday afternoon when he confronted in the presence of Chief of Detectives Lanford and other detectives at headquarters, Walter Wilkes and Joel E. A. Maynard, two negroes, who were arrested Saturday afternoon in connection with the murder.

When Chief of Detectives Lanford was informed by young Stevens that Wilkes, a former workman on the Stevens farm, and Maynard knew that Mrs. Stevens and Nellie Stevens were alone on Tuesday night and that when last seen were headed in the direction of the Stevens place, he ordered their arrest, and assigned Detective Bass Rosser, with the assistance of Wade Stevens, to find them.

Stevens Identifies Negroes.

Detective Rosser received information, early Saturday afternoon that the negroes had been seen and later found them on Decatur street, the negroes being identified by Wade Stevens.

Stevens had told Chief of Detectives Lanford that about 11 o'clock Tuesday morning as he was leaving home he met Wilkes and Maynard and spoke to Wilkes.

Wilkes told him, said young Stevens, that he was going out to see Mrs. Ste-

CONLEY IS REMOVED FROM FULTON TOWER AT HIS OWN REQUEST

DESTRUCTOR CO. WILL NOT ALLOW CASH DISCOUNT

Ultimatum of Samuel N. Evins Is That the City Must Pay the Contract Price of $276,000.

WOODWARD INSISTS ON $60,000 DISCOUNT

Says He Is Willing to Buy Plant for Cash This Year, But It Must Not Hamper Schools.

The ultimatum of the New York Destructor company, given through Samuel N. Evins, local attorney, to the finance subcommittee yesterday afternoon, was that the city pay $276,000 cash for the garbage plant.

Efforts to induce the company to concede to a discount of $60,000 were futile. Chairman W. G. Humphrey adjourned the committee after a lengthy conference with the attorneys, and W. E. Dowd, Jr., sales manager, who arrived to enter into the negotiations.

Major James G. Woodward declared again Saturday afternoon that he was willing to concede many things if the Destructor company will discount the contract for cash. He estimated that $60,000 less than the contract would be a fair concession.

Would Leave No Profit.

"If Mayor Woodward or anyone else can show us where there is that much profit in the contract we will be glad to take the matter up," Attorney Evins declared. "The mayor is going on the assumption that it is not proper for the company to make any profit. We disagree with him on that point."

Members of the subcommittee of the finance committee, composed of Alderman Harwell and Councilmen Humphrey, Colcord and Wood, made an inspection of the garbage incinerating plant Saturday morning. Each declared afterwards that they were satisfied that the plant was worth the money.

"If we were spending our own money we would not hesitate," Alderman Harwell said, "but we are handling the money belonging to the taxpayers, and, must go about this proposition in a judicious way."

Sales Manager Dowd informed The Constitution Saturday afternoon that he was of the opinion that this company would make no concession.

"The attorneys are not allowed in the contract to the city would have to be paid with 6 per cent interest," he said. "The city can borrow the money to buy the plant from any of the banks, and under the agreement it will have to pay only 2 per cent. It can save 4 per cent on the deferred payments which will total $27,000.

"We have been forced to concede to too much already. The city engineers forced us to put in steel doors, which were not included in the contract. We were also forced to put in extra material in the stack and in the furnaces. All the extras are estimated above $32,000. We have agreed with the city engineer on everything rather than to have it said that this or that part of the plant was not what it should be.

Best Ever Seen.

"Our strongest advocates are Captain Clayton and Engineers Hansell and Kauffman. They say that the plant is the finest they have ever seen, and they are in a position to speak from knowledge, for they have also seen every brick that has gone into the building, furnaces and walls."

Monday will probably bring about a settlement one way or the other. Chairman Humphrey's plan that the city lease the property for one year with an option to purchase, the rental to be applied to the final purchase price, has been eliminated. City Attorney Mayson has ruled that the city must make a definite contract, providing for the purchase this year. Chairman Humphrey's scheme would necessitate carrying over $125,000 now in the finance sheet, for next year's council to appropriate along with $150,000 to be supplied. The ruling of the city attorney thus prevents one council burdening another.

More Schools Needed.

Mayor Woodward says he is anxious to have the dispute settled. He is willing that the city buy the plant for cash this year, although he is opposed to letting the purchase interfere with any of the special projects for which the people clamored last year. aMyor Wodward is particularly anxious to provide for the new schools, particularly the English Commercial and the Davis Street schools. Five ward schools have been asked for, which will cost approximately $350,000.

"The people out there in the Fifth ward need a respectable school building," says the mayor. "They should have had the school last year. If they don't get it this year the chances are that they won't get it next year.

"It is not my fault that they haven't got what they asked for. The three Fifth ward representatives were lined up against me when I was fighting to keep the money out of the sheet. If they had served the people of their

Friends of Leo Frank Have Tried to Intimidate Him, Negro Sweeper Tells Detective Chief as Reason for His Transfer to the Police Station.

LANFORD RAPS SHERIFF DECLARING HE IS NOT ASSISTING THE POLICE

"He Appears to Be Placing Obstacles in Our Way," Asserts Chief, in Speaking of Attempts to Interview the Suspected Superintendent. Mangum Denies Intimidation Attempts.

Chief of Detectives Newport Lanford is authority for the statement that James Conley, the negro floor sweeper of the National Pencil factory, who, in his latest affidavit, has admitted his complicity in the Mary Phagan murder, after the killing, but lays the crime at the door of Superintendent Leo M. Frank, was removed from Fulton county tower to police barracks for imprisonment at his own request to put an end to the attempts of the friends of the superintendent to intimidate him.

Conley was carried to the police barracks Saturday afternoon after he had been removed from the Tower to the courthouse, where he was put through two hours of questioning by Solicitor General Hugh M. Dorsey and his assistant, Attorney W. M. Smith.

Wanted to Avoid Frank's Friends.

Chief of Detectives Lanford declared to a Constitution reporter last night that Conley had asked him to be taken away from the Tower to escape the harassments of the visitors of Leo Frank, declaring that they stopped at his cell and tried to make him drink liquor, and had tried to intimidate him by making jeering remarks to him and implying threats.

"I could shoot you through the bars of your cell right now," and, "Don't you think you ought to be shot?" are some of the statements visitors are quoted as making.

"Besides," said Chief of Detectives Lanford, "I want to be sure I can have Conley where I can talk to him whenever he is needed, of which I would be by no means certain were he allowed to remain in the Tower.

"I don't want a repetition of the circumstances under which we have to deal with Superintendent Frank. Sheriff Mangum and the friends of Frank to visit him by the score, but flatly refuses to allow men working on the case to see him or talk with him. The sheriff says that Frank does not want to see the detectives and that he will not admit any one to see Frank without his consent.

Three Attempts To See Frank.

"We have made three attempts to obtain an interview with Frank for Conley, who says that he is sure he

SENATE ON TRAIL OF TARIFF LOBBY

Monday President Wilson's Charge Will Be Probed. Every Senator Will Be Questioned.

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, May 31.—(Special.)—One of the most sweeping investigations of the senate by the senate ever undertaken will begin on Monday at the instigation of President Wilson, and in response to his public charge that an "insidious" lobby was attempting to defeat the Underwood tariff bill.

Senator Bacon will be among the first four senators who are to be examined as to whether they know anything about a lobby, have been approached improperly on tariff legislation or any other since they have been in the senate, and whether they are "financially or professionally" interested in any corporation which business is affected by the tariff bill. Senators will be called alphabetically and each will consume 15 minutes of time.

Wilson May Be Witness.

President Wilson is also expected to appear as a witness later on and give them information which led him to make his charge against lobbyists that will focus national attention on the senate during its consideration of the Underwood bill.

For a president of the United States to appear before a committee of congress is a violation of precedent more pronounced than his delivery of his messages to congress in person, or his act in carrying the plum tree to the senate marble room.

Among those who have appeared before the senate committee or urged in letters and telegrams amendments of the bill are F. B. Gordon, of Columbus, president of the Georgia Cotton Manufacturers' association; H. H. Mekelham, president of the Massachusetts mills, Lindale; Hollins N. Randolph, of Atlanta, and others.

Senators Bacon and Smith must pass upon the motives of the applicants and state whether they are lobbyists or persons who have approached in a proper and legitimate manner their representatives in congress on a matter of public concern.

The Probing Committee.

The investigating committee is composed of Senators Overman, Walsh, Cummins, Nelson and Nelson. Mr. Overman will be chairman.

The sub-committee considered a tentative list of questions prepared by Senator Overman.

President Wilson was sent a certified copy of the resolution authorizing the inquiry, and Senator Overman telephoned to Secretary Tumulty the information that the committee would begin work Monday.

"We will not ask the president to come before the committee," said Senator Overman. "What the president wishes to do in the matter the committee will leave to his own good judgment. We hope to conclude the inquiry in ten days, as specified in the resolution. It is our purpose to rush it as rapidly as possible, not overlooking anything of importance that develops."

Each Senator Under Oath.

Each senator will be required to tell under oath whether he has an interest in any matter affected by any bill now before congress, or that has been before the senate during his term; and whether or not he has ever tried to influence any other senator to vote for a measure in which he was interested. Subcommittee Chairman Overman expressed the opinion tonight that the questions would require a statement by each senator as to any business interests he may have that would be affected by the tariff, currency or any other legislation.

Many members of the senate are openly associated with manufacturing, trading, live stock, field or farming corporations or interests and under the questions of the committee they probably will be required to give any such connection in detail, if the tariff would affect their business in any way.

Each senator will be put under oath and required to answer eleven formal questions and further questions that members may ask.

The First Two Questions.

The first two questions submitted are as follows:

"Please state whether or not you are financially interested in the production, manufacture or sale of any article mentioned in the tariff bill or any other bill now pending in congress or which has been considered during your term as senator; if so, state fully the nature and extent of such interest and whether you ever sought to influence any other senator as to the duties upon such articles."

"Please state whether you represent or are connected professionally or otherwise, directly or indirectly, with any person, firm, association, corporation or organization which is engaged in the manufacture, production or sale of any article named in the tariff bill now pending in congress; if so, state whether you ever sought to influence any other senator as to the duties upon such articles."

The committee will then attempt by further questions to develop fully the facts as to the statement that a great and powerful lobby is working to secure special tariff concessions. The course to be followed in securing President Wilson's testimony or any statements he may have to make has not yet been determined upon.

Senator Overman tonight issued an appeal for public aid in the hearings.

"We invite the public to give us any information they may have in regard to a lobby," he said. "The committee wants to go into this matter as thoroughly as it can; if there has been any lobbying done in Washington in behalf of any legislation the committee wants to get the facts fully. We will not consider anonymous communications."

In Blocks of Fours.

The committee will call senators "in blocks of four," Senator Ashurst, Bacon, Bankhead and Boran appearing at 11 o'clock Monday; Senators Bradley, Brady, Brandegee and Bristow at 12 o'clock, and the balance of the senate in relays of four each hour. Sitting until 10 o'clock each night, with noon and night recesses, the senators hope at this rate to expedite the investigation. Each member of the senate, in addition to questions affecting personal interest in legislation, will be asked to give: The names of any persons who have approached him for the purpose of influencing any legislation, especially the tariff bill.

The particular items of the tariff bill such persons were interested in.

A description of the interviews he has had.

A statement of whether any person, directly or indirectly, attempted in any manner improperly to influence him or his action upon any legislation pending in congress, especially tariff legislation.

Any information as to the use of money "or of any other improper means or methods," to influence action on legislation.

Any knowledge of the use of money to support a lobby, with a definition of "lobby" and "lobbying."

Any knowledge of the use of money for advertising or literature "intended to mislead or otherwise influence public men or public opinion."

A statement of whether he knows of "any lobby or lobbyist maintained in Washington or elsewhere to influence any legislation now pending before congress?"

Any other information on the subject.

Georgia Bar Opposes Calling Of Constitutional Convention

Robert C. Alston, of Atlanta, Is Elected President of the Association.

Members of the Georgia Bar association who attended the two-day session at Warm Springs on Thursday and Friday appeared overwhelmingly against the suggested calling of a constitutional convention this summer, or at any time soon.

The matter was given the attention of the association for practically all of the final day's session. A committee, headed by Alex W. Smith, was appointed to go thoroughly into the question and make a report on the final day.

The committee reported adversely on the question, taking the stand that for the good of the commonwealth it would not be wise at present to undertake such a venture, as under the present state of mind of a number of demagogues it would not be safe to make changes in the constitution and to open the way for various radical difference in the established order.

After thorough discussion on the part of numbers of the lawyers present a vote was taken, and the report in which the matter was treated adversely was almost unanimously accepted.

The Atlantans received high honors at the hands of the association. Robert C. Alston was chosen as president of the association and Alex W. Smith was chosen on the permanent committee on revision to succeed the late Judge John L. Hopkins, of Atlanta.

Mr. Alston's election as head of the Georgia Bar association came as the second high honor of the week paid to him. In Athens three days ago he was elected as chancellor of the Episcopal diocese of Atlanta, one of the greatest tributes which his church could pay a layman.

ROBERT C. ALSTON: New president of the Georgia Bar association.

Walter Harris, of Macon, was selected as chairman of the executive committee.

Parade Three Miles in Length Planned by Grocers and Butchers

In a parade of over three miles in length, participated in by nearly 1,000 grocery wagons and by automobiles and led by a brass band, the Retail Merchants of Atlanta will inaugurate on Wednesday afternoon their first Wednesday half holiday of the season. Through June, July and August the grocers will give their employees an afternoon off on Wednesdays, and on the first day upon which this is done, they plan to celebrate it in due form.

There are in Atlanta over 980 food stores interested in the movement, with something over 7,500 men in their employ. These stores reach every man, woman and child in the city at least three times a day, and often between meals.

As an instance of what they are worth to the business of Atlanta and to the progress of the city, the following facts have been cited. The annual rents of these stores amount to over $2,000,000, and their salary rolls amount up to $80,000 every Saturday night.

The grocers do an annual business amounting to over $20,000,000, and employ more men than any other single line of industry, as well as purchasing annually more horses and vehicles than any other industry and also employing more men than any other one line of busiess.

The grocers have announced through the chairman of the committee, Francis E. Kamper, that their reason for holding the parade is to impress the people of Atlanta with the importance of a half holiday for the great number of men and women whom they employ, and to let the masses of the people see how many people are given an afternoon off in this manner.

The movement to allow grocery store employees a half holiday in the summer was first brought actively before the association last year by Colonel Harry L. Schlesinger at a luncheon at the Piedmont hotel, when the following were present, besides himself: C. T. Camp, W. A. Byers, Frances E. Kamper, J. P. Eve, John R. Morris, J. G. Rainey and R. H. Comer.

Colonel Schlesinger called attention to the fact that the dry goods merchants on Whitehall street had taken up this custom and found it a profitable one for the sake of the increased efficiency of their employees during the summer months and that the wholesale jobbers, commission merchants and packing houses had also adopted this plan. He then asked the members present why the retail grocers should not be as generous to their employees.

Will Close Each Wednesday.

Since then the matter has been worked up by the committee and by various other members of the association. They have been aided by the City Salesmen's association, the wholesale jobbers, commissioner merchants and packers, until over 400 of the leading grocers have signed petitions, agreeing to close on each Wednesday during the three summer months.

The parade which will break a century old custom on Wednesday will form at Washington and Mitchell streets and march through town. It will be headed by a number of mounted police, followed by the grand marshals of the day, Colonel Schlesinger and Nym McCullough, with their aides-de-camp.

They will be followed by the Marist college drum corps, in an automobile, and after these will come the 1,000 grocery wagons. The Greater Atlanta Boys' drum corps, directed by Major Albert Roberts, will follow in order.

Practically every grocery wagon in Atlanta will be in the parade, and they will be decorated with bunting. Confetti and various advertisement cards and souvenirs will be thrown out along the way by the men and women employees who will ride in them.

Immediately following the wagons will come the wagons of the local and western packing houses, the jobbers, commission merchants, cracker manufacturers, pickle manufacturers, bakeries and others. The city salesmen will also be in the parade.

Following these will come the sixty-five automobiles and wagons of the Atlantic Ice and Coal corporation, with their leaders on horseback, and following them will be other corporations with their outfits.

Decare Half Holiday.

The merchants of East Point and College Park, a great number of whom have decided on a half-holiday, will join in the parade with the Atlanta grocers.

The grocers will form heading on Washington and Mitchell streets, and will form on Washington street, north of Mitchell streets, on Washington street viaduct, on East Hunter street, on Capitol square and streets east of Capitol square. The packing house wagons will form on East Mitchell street, Central avenue and west of Washington street, and will follow the grocers. The commission merchants' wagons will form on East Fair street and Trinity avenue. The bakery wagons will form on Washington street, south of East Fair and on Woodward avenue. The Ice and Coal corporation's wagons and their manufacturers will form on Pulliam street and other cross streets. The parade will assemble at 1:30 o'clock, and will move promptly at 2, going down Washington to East Fair, East Fair to Brotherton, Brotherton to Whitehall, Whitehall to Peachtree, down Peachtree to North avenue, down North avenue to West Peachtree, back up West Peachtree to Five Points and there disperse. During the afternoon there will be special features appealing to and of interest to every grocery-man and their friends. At all of the moving picture shows at night there will be other special features, and the opening race at the Motordrome.

TRIENNIAL CONVENTION FOR RAILWAY TRAINMEN

San Francisco, May 31.—Conventions of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen hereafter will be held triennially, instead of every two years, the organization decided late today. The proposition rejected several days ago was revived this afternoon and finally carried by vote of 3 to 1. A special committee appointed to consider the question had reported that the triennial meetings would mean a huge saving to the brotherhood. The remaining sections of the constitution were considered today and the committee's report adopted as was the report of the committee on general rules.

Congressman Kenig Dead.

Baltimore, May 31.—Representative George Konig, democrat, of the Third Maryland district, died of pneumonia at his home here this evening. He was 57 years old.

Denver Offices Guarded.

Denver, Colo., May 31.—Every municipal office in the city and county of Denver tonight is under heavy guard of uniformed and plain clothes policemen to frustrate any attempt of the newly-elected commissioners to take possession of the city administration.

Building Up.

(From Judge.)

A man goes away to build up his run-down physical system and comes back to build up a run-down financial system.

WINDER, GA.

Among the series of parties given for the bride-to-be, Miss Gussie O'Neal, was a lovey party given Wednesday afternoon by the Misses Carithers. The color scheme of pink and green was effectively carried out in decorations and refreshments.

Thursday afternoon Mrs. G. A. Johns gave a lovely shower for the bride-to-be. The guests registered in the bride's book as they entered and were served with punch and sandwiches. Mrs. Potts sang "I Love Love," and Miss Ora Lee Camp sang "To Have, to Hold, to Love," then as Mrs. Bradley played "O Promise Me" little Sunie Johns and Mary Lamar Jackson carrying bouquets of pink sweet peas came in which the little wagon covered in pink which held the little trunk of gifts to shower the bride. The guests were asked to write suggestions to the bride, then they enjoyed a flower contest.

Another pretty affair in honor of the bride-to-be was the handkerchief shower given by Mrs. Quarterman Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Lee Radford gave a lovely linen shower Saturday afternoon for the bride-to-be. This was one of the prettiest among the showers given and was a very enjoyable affair.

The Young Ladies' Sewing Circle will give a quarter shower Tuesday for the bride to buy souvenirs on her trip abroad as she will sail June 7. This will be a lovely shower.

JACKSON, GA.

Miss Ezra Morrison returned from Monticello Thursday and will spend the summer here with Mrs. C. R. Gresham.

HYDROPHOBIA MAY BE ELIMINATED

No Case in England Since 1902—Plan to Drive the Disease From the State of Georgia.

Can rabies in dogs and its equivalent, hydrophobia in human beings, be eliminated from Georgia? That is one of the problems that the legislature will be asked to solve this summer. A bill will be introduced giving the state board of health large discretionary powers to order the muzzling of dogs and to make regulations governing their transfer from one locality to another.

Can Be Eliminated.

That the disease can be stamped out altogether and that without very much difficulty when once its elimination is undertaken in earnest is the conviction of the health board and of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce. With a view to this end, the chamber of commerce, through the chairman of its committee on public safety, W. J. Lowenstein, has recently instituted a careful research into what has been done in other countries toward combatting the disease. Here are some of the things Mr. Lowenstein has found:

The first countries in Europe to take up the fight on the disease were Norway and Sweden. There has not been an authenticated case of rabies or hydrophobia in those countries for more than a generation.

Germany next tackled the problem and in nearly all of the German states the disease has been entirely eradicated.

England's Experience.

The first legislation in England on the subject was as long ago as 1871, but no serious effort was made to rid the land of the disorder until 1897, when the board of agriculture, which by law invested with power to deal with the subject, passed a sweeping order taking upon itself the supervision of all muzzling regulations which had previously been enforced solely by the local authorities, and adopting rigid provision for the isolation of all dogs in infected districts and the slaughter of those known to have been bitten by an infected animal.

No Case Since 1902.

As a result of the board's change of attitude toward the subject, there has not been a case of hydrophobia in England since 1899, and there has not been a proven case of rabies among dogs in that country since 1902, a period of eleven years. As the extinction of the disease was brought about within five years it was at once seriously taken up notwithstanding the fact that for fifteen or twenty years before that time it had been greatly increasing, it would be well for the people of Georgia to understand just how they did it.

In England, just as well as in all the other countries that now are practically owing with the disease, was to enforce the muzzling of dogs at large and in public places. They did not try to muzzles all the dogs in the country at one time nor to put into effect police regulations on the subject in country districts difficult of access, but they did subject large areas to muzzling orders and to a system of close inspection for the purpose of discovering the malady the minute it should break out, and by gradually extending these areas of muzzling and rigid inspection, in a remarkably brief period of time had all free dogs in the country under observation, as it were, and rendered it next to impossible for a case of rabies to break out, while these rigid rules governing the importation of animals prevented the introduction of any dogs that had been exposed to the disease from abroad.

It was at the close of the year 1888 that measures were first taken by the privy council to check the progress of rabies in London, and it was determined by the board of agriculture to extend the operation of muzzling to the thickly populated districts of Lancashire, Yorkshire and other localities where the disease was prevalent. The result was that, while the reported cases had risen from 160 in 1888 to 312 in 1889, they were reduced to 125 in 1890. In 1891 they fell to 79, and in 1892 to only 38 reported cases. Then, owing to the opposition of dog owners, the muzzling operations for a time were relaxed and the problem again abandoned to the local authorities. In 1893 the number of cases of rabies rose from 38 in the preceding year to 93; in 1894 it rose to 248, and, in 1895, the extremely high figure of 672 reported cases was reached.

It was now evident to the board that the local authorities could not be expected to cope with the situation, and that if it were really desired to extirpate rabies and hydrophobia from the country, it could only be done by general muzzling regulations scientifically applied to all sections of the island. Each local authority naturally hesitated to incur the odium of making muzzling regulations that, if successful in extirpating the disease from its own boundaries, could only end in its re-introduction from a neighboring local authority that had not co-operated in the work.

When the board of agriculture seriously undertook to rid the country of the disease by its general order of 1897, which compelled the muzzling of all dogs in public places in those localities where any cases of rabies had been reported, the effect was quickly apparent. As has already been indicated, the disease in dogs was practically eradicated by 1899, since which year there has been no case of hydrophobia in the island, and entirely so by 1902, since which time no authenticated case of rabies has occurred.

But it was not sufficient for the board merely to aply its restrictive regulations to dogs that were already in the country. Close espionage must be kept on imported dogs in order to prevent the introduction of the disease from abroad. It was required that every imported dog should be kept in confinement or at least isolated on the premises of its owner for a period of six months after its landing. This is the limit of the time during which the disease may develop in a dog that has been bitten by an infected animal. Anyone who desired to import a dog must first obtain a license from the board to do so, and the license required the detention of the animal in a place approved by the board and under the control of a veterinary surgeon. No mitigation of the rule was allowed, except in the case of performing dogs and dogs which were to be exported within forty-eight hours after their arrival.

That the situation in Georgia is far more serious than it was in Great Britain, when these muzzling regulations were first undertaken, is clearly indicated in the reports of the state board of health. Not only are there many more cases of the disease reported annually in this state than in England's bad year, 1895, but they are increasing in number at a really alarming rate. This is notwithstanding the fact that the dog population of England is considerably larger than that of Georgia, and the number of human beings is between fifteen and twenty times as great.

Health Board Figures.

Here are some of the figures which show how the disease has progressed in Georgia since the introduction of the Pasteur treatment by the board of health in 1908. These figures, be it understood, are not of mad dogs reported as in England, for there is no law requiring the reporting of dogs afflicted with rabies, but of persons actually treated who have been bitten by animals reputed to be infected. In the year 1908, 216 cases were treated; in 1909, 449; in 1910, 462; in 1911, 485, and in 1912, 673. In 1913 the report for the first quarter alone shows 201 cases treated, which ratio, if kept up for the balance of the year, would bring the total over 1,200, nearly double that of last year, which was greater than any that had preceded it.

The 673 cases treated last year were at a cost to the state of about $5.50 for each treatment. While even this is a great saving as compared with the treatment of patients at a private institution as formerly, it will be seen that the eradication of the disease will mean a further economy to the state treasury of several thousand dollars annually.

Increase Alarming.

It is true that of the 2,586 cases treated by the board since the installation of the treatment, only nine have died, and that five of the nine had developed the disease before the treatment was applied, but this only proves the efficiency of the treatment and does not lessen in any respect the magnitude of the problem indicated by the rapid increase in the number of cases treated. That this increase cannot be attributed to hysteria or unreasonable fear in the patients treated is proved by the fact that of 1,351 brains of dogs examined by the board for evidence of rabies during the five-year period under review, 999 were positive and 352 negative. This shows that nearly 66 2-3 per cent of the slaughtered animals sent to the board for examination were found to have been afflicted by the disease.

To Pass Moderate Law.

It is not the intention of the chamber of commerce of Atlanta and of others interested in legislation on the subject to have an act of such radical nature passed that the temper of the people would not allow of its enforcement. They realize that there are too many dead letter laws on the statute book already. They are not asking for a law that would put muzzles on the faces of every canine in Georgia without regard to breed or location, but they are asking for legislation that will give the board of health increased authority to cope with the subject.

In the first place, they would have some system of registration of diseased animals adopted, so that the board might be able to tell just how prevalent rabies is in each locality. Then they would have the board given authority to order the muzzling of dogs in those localities, particularly in cities, where the disease is found to be most prevalent. Third and lastly, they would have the board given authority to inspect and isolate animals shipped into the state from other states and foreign countries, so that the disease might not be introduced from abroad.

Say Muzzling Humane.

One of the chief arguments adduced by the opponents of muzzling is that it is an unnecessary cruelty imposed upon the animals. It is hardly fair, they say, that the entire canine population should be made to suffer torture to keep a few from being bitten by a stray mad animal. On the other hand, the advocates of muzzling insist that the dog soon accustoms himself to the muzzle, and is not at all inconvenienced by it, and that as an instrument of torture it is not to be compared to the bit when first introduced into the mouth of a young colt or to the check rein from which all horses suffer, young and old. In the physical suffering it produces, it is not to be compared with vaccination for smallpox in human beings. Yet the most tender-hearted mother freely consents to the vaccination of her child in order that it may be immune from smallpox, a disease that is not half so horrible or deadly as hydrophobia.

Necessity Therefor Temporary.

Then the advocates of muzzling urge that its necessity will only be temporary while its results will be permanent. Once you have eradicated the disease from the state, it will no longer be necessary to apply the muzzle. Says Dr. H. F. Harris, secretary of the board of health:

"If I could muzzle every dog in Georgia for six months and prevent the introduction of infected animals from outside, rabies and hydrophobia would be entirely unknown in the state."

NO RACING PLANNED.

The Public Invited to Inspect New Motordrome.

Following a conference with Police Chief Beavers, Saturday morning, Councilman Claude L. Ashley, of the Forth ward, made the statement that the police would be asked to stop the exhibition motorcycle races at Jack Prince's motordome if any are attempted, Sunday afternoon.

Councilman Ashley says he does not object to the concert, but he is against exhibition races on Sunday, even though no admission be charged.

"There will be hundreds of negroes attracted to the place, and there is certain to be some disorder," Councilman Ashley says. "I am not fighting the races nor the management of the track. I don't want the Sunday peace and quiet of the people of the Fourth ward disturbed, and I have asked Chief Beavers to send men out to stop the races, if any are attempted.

"In my announcement in the daily press," said Jack Prince, it was specifically stated that no riding would be done, but that the management and all riders would be on hand to show the fans just what the motordrome is and to explain all the details of the tracks and the machines.

"Therefore, it is hardly necessary for me to comment on this resolution. It has no meaning, as there will be nothing at the track that can be stopped, unless they see fit to stop the band concert."

The BRIDAL NUMBER

"Of white satin and lace shall the wedding gown be." So said Dame Fashion ages ago, and so it happens that each new gown is simply an old idea with new lines, a new touch here and another there, giving individuality to each new model.

The gown illustrated shows the draped satin skirt over which is effectively draped a lace tunic. The bodice is also trimmed with this lace, and the satin girdle is fastened with a cluster of orange blossoms. A small cluster of blossoms is also caught along the frill on each sleeve. The veil is caught closely over the forehead with a spray of orange blossoms.

EGH

can make Frank admit the truth of his (Conley's) affidavit, but have been refused upon the same grounds—that Frank does not want to see Conley.

"It seems to me that the important question is not whether Frank wants to see any of the detectives or Conley, but whether the men who are making every endeavor to clear up the mystery of this horrible murder should be hampered in their work by being cut off from the most important man in the whole case.

"Contrary to assisting us in this case, which, as I understand it, is the duty of the sheriff of the county, it appears to me that Sheriff Mangum has placed obstacles in our way.

"So far as my knowledge goes, the extent of the sheriff's investigation has been an interview with Frank, who stated that he was not guilty, following which statement, Sheriff Mangum has been quoted as saying, 'I do not believe he is guilty.'"

Sheriff Explains His Position.

Sheriff Mangum stated last night that he does not believe there was any attempt to intimidate Conley while he was in the Tower, or that he was disturbed in any way by visitors.

In regard to not admitting detectives or Conley to the Tower to see Frank, Sheriff Mangum said:

"The prisoners in the Tower will be convicted in the courts and not in the jail. If Mr. Frank will not give his consent to seeing any persons who may ask admittance, that person shall not be given an interview with Mr. Frank with my consent. It is the judge or any one else who has the authority to cares to admit interviewers without Frank's consent, it is another matter.

"If any blame is placed on my shoulders they are broad enough to bear it.

Conley Tells Story Again.

Once more on Saturday—this time to Solicitor Hugh Dorsey and his counsel, W. M. Smith—Jim Conley, the negro floor sweeper of the National Pencil factory, who has admitted his complicity in the murder of Mary Phagan after the crime, but places the actual commission of the crime upon the shoulders of Leo M. Frank, the incarcerated superintendent of the pencil factory, told the details of how he had helped conceal the dead girl's body in the basement of the National Pencil factory, just as he has told it over and over before, and it is believed that before daybreak this morning the detectives working on the case may compel him once more to repeat the horrible tale to them.

Since the final affidavit, which the detectives take as true, Jim Conley, though questioned from every possible angle, has never wavered in any particular of his story.

Story Rehearsed Again.

Early Saturday afternoon Conley was taken from the Fulton county tower by Deputy Newt Garner to the office of Solicitor General Hugh M. Dorsey, in the court house, where the solicitor and Attorney Smith had Conley rehearse his story to them in detail at the time.

After the interview with the solicitor, Conley, contrary to all expectations, was replaced in jail at the police barracks instead of the tower whence he had been removed to the court house.

Many Friends Visit Frank.

Contrary to the advice of the detectives, there have been but few minutes since Frank's imprisonment in the Tower when he has not been surrounded by anywhere from one to a dozen of his intimate friends, while the detectives themselves have been denied admission by the county authorities.

This they consider as a very dangerous policy and are trying to find means of putting a stop to it.

The proposition of confronting Frank with Conley, which has been the subject of a two days' fight of the detectives, has been practically abandoned.

Sheriff Wheeler C. Mangum, of Fulton county, has refused to allow the two men to be brought together except by consent of Leo M. Frank and his counsel. At one time Luther Rosser, Conley is not only agreeable to the ordeal of facing the man, whom he has openly charged with the murder of Mary Phagan, but is extremely anxious for the opportunity.

"If we stand together and look each other in the eye," Conley is quoted as saying, "some of us will go down—and it won't be me."

Efforts Meet With Failure.

Two determined efforts on the part of the detectives to bring the men together have been flatly turned down by Frank, the detectives say, and they now regard further effort as useless.

They believe, however, that these refusals of Frank to see Conley will have material bearing on the case.

Frank is said to base his refusal upon a lack of advice from his counsel, Attorney Rosser.

Conley's interview with the solicitor and Attorney Smith Saturday afternoon was characterized by all the firmness and accuracy of every statement he has made since he voluntarily informed the detectives that he had decided to tell the whole story of the crime as far as he knew it.

Solicitor Dorsey and Attorney Smith went over the negro's entire affidavit with Conley step by step, overlooking not even the minutest detail, and got from him the identical story that he told before and nothing more. Solicitor Dorsey would issue no statement further than that the evidence gained from Conley was in no way different from what he had given before.

Easy Money Offer.

Conley told how he had gone to the factory with Frank on the morning of the murder at Frank's request and had waited until 1:04 o'clock that afternoon, when Frank called him into his office and asked him if he wanted to make some easy money. He told how Frank had directed him to go to the rear of the building and remove the body of a girl whom he (Frank) had "picked up and dropped."

Conley said that when he reached the girl's side she was dead. He recounted the gruesome details of how he and Frank had struggled with the heavy corpse as they carried it to the elevator, dropped it to the basement and again . He told of how they carried it to the basement in the elevator, and of how they had concealed the body and both returned to Frank's office exhausted.

Conley's story of Frank's concealing him in a wardrobe while visitors came to his office, and of the superintendent's gift of several hundred dollars, and his subsequent refusal to let him keep it, was recounted.

Chief of Detectives Newport Lanford and Detective John Black, with the Pinkerton man, Harry Scott, who have worked up the evidence in the case, declared Saturday afternoon that they are ready to take the case to the jury. They accept the negro's tale in every detail, and declare that the last link in their chain of evidence has been welded.

Just when the grand jury will take the case up is still a matter of speculation. Foreman H. H. Beck has called a meeting of the grand jury for next Tuesday, but Solicitor Dorsey on Saturday declared that the Phagan case would not be considered at that meeting. When asked whether Conley would be indicted, he said: "That is a matter that will come up later."

YOUTH CONFRONTS NEGRO SUSPECTS

vens and find out whether she would employ him again, and asked Wade if he was leaving home. Wade replies that he was going to New York. Following this statement from Wade, Wilkes is said to have asked where Mr. Stevens was, and Wade replied that he was in Europe attending the old soldiers' reunion.

Wade told the negro, says Chief Lanford, that he expected he would not have any trouble in getting work at the Stevens home, since Mrs. Stevens and Nellie were alone.

The two negroes admitted their identity, but denied having seen Wade Stevens on Tuesday, or of having been to the Stevens home.

Admits Stevens' Story.

They were closely questioned by Chief of Detectives Lanford, Detective Rosser and others at headquarters, but it was not until Wilkes was confronted by Wade Stevens in the presence of the detectives that he would admit the story which he told the chief. He, however, admitted then that Wade Stevens' story was true.

The detectives asked Wilkes if he had read the newspapers, and Wilkes is said to have replied that he could not read.

It appears, however, that Wilkes follows preaching as a sort of a side line, and he was shown his Bible in which were a number of marked passages. When asked if he had marked these passages and why, he replied that he had marked them because these were points that he wanted to "argue about." He then admitted his ability to read the Bible, but maintained that he was unable to read the newspapers.

Other admissions are said to have been gained by the detectives from the negroes.

Because an ax and hoe were found in the hallway of the burned house, Chief of Detectives Lanford has formed the theory that the crime was committed by two men.

He regards the fact that the two men under surveillance were found together when arrested is an important item.

Both negroes produced alibis, which the detectives are investigating today.

Lanford Probes Case.

Chief of Detectives Lanford has made a thorough investigation of the ruins of the Stevens home, where he obtained the locks to the doors, revealing that the front door was unlocked, while the back door was locked. The door to the kitchen, however, was unlocked, as were all doors leading to the room in which the murder appears to have taken place.

The door to the room in which the bodies of Mrs. Stevens and Nellie Stevens were discovered, however, appears to have been locked. This circumstance leaves open several theories. Was the door open or opened before the murder, and afterwards locked upon the bodies of the women to make certain of no possible escape from the burning house should the job not have been thoroughly done? Was the door locked all the while and entrance and exit gained otherwise by the murderers? Or was the lock socket prized off the door facing and the lock bolt left unturned?

Robbery is assigned as the motive for the crime, and such a motive dictates the finger of suspicion toward Wilkes.

Had Money in Bank.

While it is not believed that Mrs. Stevens had more than a few dollars in the house on Tuesday night, she was an extensive dealer in real estate, and, as she did not conduct her business through a bank, she is said frequently to have had sums as large as $4,000 or $5,000 in the house. Wilkes, having worked about the house a great deal during his former employment by Mrs. Stevens, is believed by the detectives to have known of the large sums of money which Mrs. Stevens was in the habit of handling.

Chief of Detectives Lanford frankly admits that he and his men are as far from the solution of the many mysterious phases of the case, but believe that progress has been made.

70 MILES AN HOUR GALE SWEEPS CITY

cause more damage to property or to human life, declared the officials of the weather bureau as due to the steady force of the gail and to the lack of sudden gusts which often do more damage than a steady gale of greater velocity.

While the wind of Saturday afternoon was the record-breaker for continuous high wind, weather records shows that on March 24, 1909, a gale blew at the rate of 72 miles an hour for a five-minute period, and this comes nearest to reaching the new record.

Atlantans complained during the day of the excessive heat, and suffering was caused upon the sizzling hot pavements of the down-town district, but the heat was practically forgotten in the tremendous gail that literally "blew it away."

The maximum temperature of 92 degrees, while the hottest of the current year, lacked 2 degrees of equalling the record for May, which was made first on May 24, 1908, and equalled on May 30, 1911, when the official thermometers recorded 94 degrees.

Not the Coldest Day.

The present month also did not come up to the record for a cold day, as the coldest temperature of the month was recorded on the 24th, when the mercury went down to 51 degrees. A temperature of 50 degrees on May 1, 1898, is the record for low temperature in the month of flowers.

During Saturday the temperature was high for the greater part of the day. At 7 o'clock in the morning it was 74 degrees, and, although the wind, rain and hail storm brought it down to 62 degrees, the mercury soon rose so that by 7 o'clock in the evening the thermometer stood at 70 degrees.

For today the weather man forecasts only fair weather, and no particular change in temperature, so that the day will undoubtedly prove another hot one, although the sudden storm coming after the forecast, may have changed things so as to keep today cooler than indications showed on Saturday morning.

DESTRUCTOR CO. WILL NOT ALLOW DISCOUNT

ward as faithfully as they served the Destructor company, the children out there would be given "getting a school."

Mayor Woodward says that he is not alarmed over the attitude of the Destructor company. He declared Saturday that it would have to make a concession to the city before he approved any plan.

Hasn't the Facilities.

"Even if the city pays $276,000 for the crematory the sanitary department hasn't the facilities to haul the garbage from all parts of the city to the plant," says the mayor. "The department would be forced, even with the crematory burning, to dump a great part of the garbage on account of the long haul. The relief, without the hauling facilities, will be only partial.

"As long as the city must dump garbage, why not, if the Destructor company will sell for less than $276,000, appropriate $25,000 and buy some trucks." Chief Jentzen informs me that the man named Sartell was the only city to dump on his lot outside the city. As I understand it the lot is 800 feet from any dwelling.

"The city spends a lot to build a crematory on when the question first came up. I think something like $40,000 was paid for it, and it is practically useless. It can be used as a dump pile.

"I don't want to be understood as being for garbage dumping. I realize that it is objectionable, but it is the only solution unless the Destructor company accepts the contract."

Members of council take the position that in view of the character of the work done on the crematory, material, and other conditions, it would be unfair for the city to demand a reduction or discount. They take the same position as Attorneys Evins and Spence that the Destructor company is entitled to make a profit.

The proposals made by the finance committee were forwarded to New York Saturday night. Monday is expected to bring fresh developments.

Swiss Medal for Peary.

Geneva, Switzerland, May 31.—Rear Admiral Robert E. Peary, the discoverer of the North pole, was presented today with the gold medal of the Swiss Geographical Society. The medal is inscribed:

"In honor of the greatest explorer of the earth and sea."

Bryan's Peace Plan.

Washington, May 31.—Austria-Hungary and the Netherlands today gave notice of their willingness to consider secretary Bryan's peace plan. Ten countries have responded favorably to the administration's recent note on this subject. Mr. Bryan announced the names of eight yesterday.

Four Students of G. M. A. Made Exceptional Records

Among the cadets of the Georgia Military Academy to receive special honors at the close of the session were

Winner of medal for best shot.

ALBERT SELIG,
Winner of Woodward Medal.

Leonard C. Parker, of Americus, Ga., who won the Blount medal for the best all around officer during the year. Cadet Parker was captain of Company C,

WILLIAM BURCH,
Winner of Castleman medal for excellence in drill.

LEONARD C. PARKER,
Winner of Blount medal for best record as officer.

and the winning of this medal carries with it the highest efficiency in conduct, military service, class-room work and all around athletic participations.

Major Lester M. Farell again won the Blount medal for the best average on the target range. Twice in succession Mr. Farell has won this medal, and unquestionably his success in this will lead to further achievements in the national guard or the regular army.

William Burch, of Dublin, Ga., won the Castleman medal for the best individual drill in the manual of arms.

Albert Selig, of Atlanta, Ga., won the president's medal, which was a beautiful seal ring, for the best original oration and delivery.

George Towns, of Cuba, was awarded a beautiful medal by an unknown friend in the city of Atlanta for having the model young man in Christian Endeavor work in the cadet corps for the year.

Altogether, the Georgia Military Academy has closed its most brilliant year, and preparations are already under way for the making of the next year a greater success than ever. Colonel Woodward has spared no pains in organizing into the faculty the strongest and most effective school workers possible to be obtained.

WM. D. PHIPPS JOINS NUNNALLY COMPANY AS SALES MANAGER

WILLIA MD. PHIPPS,
New sales manager for The Nunnally company.

William D. Phipps was chosen fifrom a strong list of eligibles for the position of sales manager of The Nunnally company, with offices at 59-61 Ivy street, when changes demanded by increasing business were recently made in the company's sales department. Mr. Phipps came to the Nunnally company with a record of splendid service. Although a native of Boston, he has made his residence in Atlanta the last seven years, where he has represented as sales manager, the Robert Gair company, of New York, with offices in the Candler building.

Changes in the office force of The Nunnally company were necessitated not only by a rapidly expanding business in the south, but also in New York, where the Nunnally factory has met with phenomenal success, and where its candies are now on sale in some 400 stores in the greater city.

Mr. Phipps went into his new field with a hand trained in the sales service, and he is "making good." He has become an Atlantan in spirit as well as in fact, and it is his purpose to spread the name and fame of his adopted city along with the Nunnally product.

In her important addition to the department is J. S. Jetton, advertising manager, who comes from Memphis, where he was for a long time sales and advertising manager of the Phoenix Cotton Oil company. With splendid reputations as business builders wherever they have been, many predictions of success are being made for Messrs. Phipps and Jetton in their new field.

The Lifting Veil.

(From The Los Angeles Times.)

I sometimes visit a land I know—
I call it the Land of the Yellow Light—(Motion and gold and life are one.
And I am nearer the central sun
When thither Itake my flight.)

Never a flower is there in bloom,
Not a blossom springs in the way of earth,
But there is a fragrance over the land,
Like a presence the soul can understand
When it learns how death is birth.

And I never speak in the terms of words,
Nor yet do I think with the thoughts we know,
And I never sing nor pray when there—

Druggists Use Motorcycles.

(The Pharmaceutical Era.)

Though living in the suburbs of the city, or even in the suburbs and beyond them, the success of that part of the country who patronize the marts of Savannah, Ga., for their necessities, particularly fortunate in the motorcycle delivery service that has been established by the leading drug stores of the city. Some time ago one of the enterprising druggists bought a motorcycle and advertised that it would be used for quick deliveries for the public. The innovation so increased his business that it soon became necessary to add another machine to the same service; other druggists in the city saw that the most feasible example [illegible] way to be competitors, with the result that now all pharmacists have motorcycle delivery service.

REJOINDER OF JAPAN TO THE UNITED STATES

It Will Be Submitted to State Department Early This Week.

Washington, May 31.—Japan's rejoinder to Secretary Bryan's reply to the Japanese protest against the California alien land legislation will be submitted to the state department early next week, according to present plans. This was made known today without suggestion as to probable contents. Notwithstanding pressure from certain quarters at times, however, it is regarded as doubtful that the Japanese embassy has concluded to turn to a request for amendment of the American naturalization laws as a solution of the present issue.

The successful treatment by the Canadian parliament of complaints from British Columbia of the competition of Japanese has attracted the attention of the negotiators on both sides in this country, as the underlying principle of the Canadian legislation is separation of the two races in the interest of permanent peace, to be attained through absolute exclusion of all but the traveling and student classes. It was suggested today that a similar remedy might be found to fit the present issue in America.

Indications point to a judicial test of the California land law as soon as possible, after August 10, when it will go into operation.

No Official Action Yet.

Tokio, May 31.—Another note from the Japanese government dealing with questions arising out of the recent "alifornia alien land ownership legislation is soon to be forwarded to Washington.

The idea that the United States has not said her final word is prevalent here and it is intimated in authoritative circles by inference that no official action is to be initiated yet by Japan.

The formation of a Japanese association in the United States to co-operate with the Japanese government is really favored here, and the object of the members of this association. When it is formed, will be to reach a permanent entente by a definitely to be made of a new treaty or by a change in naturalization laws.

Jap Envoys Counsel Patience.

Sacramento, Cal., May 31.—Counseling patience, urging that nothing radical be done and expressing a belief that harmony would follow the negotiations now proceeding between Japan and the American government regarding the enactment of the anti-alien land law, the Japanese envoys who recently arrived in Sacramento talked today to a delegation of countrymen on the law of the Buddhist temple here tonight.

S. Ebara and A. Hattori, members of the Japanese parliament; Dr. Soyeda, representing the Japanese business men, K. Kamiya, secretary of an immigration association of Japan, and T. Yamatto, secretary of the Tokio Y. M. C. A., were the speakers. Dr. Soyeda, speaking in his native language, said:

"A Japanese who adopts this country should keep in harmony with its society. If he does there will be no cause for agitation. He should mold himself into the type of those people with whom he lives."

One Too Many as It Is.

(From The Kansas City Journal.)

The announcement that an effort will be made to divide California is a little disquieting. One California is about all the country feels like putting up with.

Wedding Rush Is On.

New York, May 31.—An unprecedented rush of prospective bridal couples to the city hall today resulted in the issuing of 265 permits for marriages.

NEW FREEDOM COMING FOR AMERICAN INDUSTRY

Redfield Predicts Great Growth With Elimination of Inefficient Management.

Pittsfield, Mass., May 30.—Secretary Redfield, of the department of commerce, speaking at a banquet here tonight tendered by the democratic city committee, denied the contention that American manufacturers could not compete successfully abroad, and declared that on the other hand, they were doing so more and more successfully. He pointed to a continuous growth in the business of American manufacturers abroad, beginning with a total of $563,000,000 in 1892, to an estimated total of $1,500,000,000 in 1913. He predicted a still greater growth with the elimination of what he termed "unsystematized management."

"A new freedom for American industries," he said, "was the affirmative test to which the democratic party had set its hand.

"It stands for industrial education and for federal aid to it," said he. "It stands for the reduction of the taxes, not only upon food, but upon the means of earning, such as tools, buildings, upon machinery, and upon materials, which together compose the fundamentals of our industrial life. It does not stand for a reduction of wages, because it knows that American economic history has taught as perhaps its greatest lesson that the highly paid workman, well equipped and well fed, is the cheapest producer in the world, else with our handicaps we should not be selling $1,500,000,000 abroad now."

Tariff Keeps Prices High.

"All through the ten years since 1902 there has existed a high tariff in this country. No one will deny that this has kept prices of buildings, machinery and materials at a much higher level than they are abroad. The owner of a great woolen mill, in protesting against the reduction of the tariff now proposed, has urged that each of these three items costs him a great deal more here than in Europe. Say do, no one doubts it. Therefore, it appears to be the truth that notwithstanding what some men would call severe handicaps in the way of more costly machinery, more costly buildings, and often more costly materials, the results of which I speak to you have been worked out. "How is it that in spite of greater expense in these the important directions, we have yet managed to sell goods abroad in competition with the world at the rate of about $1,500,000,000 a year in manufactured goods alone this year? It is because of the high efficiency of our well-paid labor when combined with the fine mechanical equipment of many of our factories? Osers, I do not say 'all our factories,' for it is unfortunately not true of all our factories.

"We have industries that are highly efficient, as, for example, steel, though in this industry there are wide variations in efficiency. In other industries we have individual factories that are highly efficient, while others are less so. You will find, for example, in various lines of machinery one factory selling its goods all over the world and another selling more outside the United States, the variations of efficiency exist in from 50 per cent of a good standard up to 70 per cent, and even higher. Our factories are very much unlike, and a good many of them have gotten along somehow at a rather high cost to the public in the price of the goods they make, because being free from foreign competition they have not had to be efficient.

Not the Only Handicaps.

"But these are not the only handicaps that have retarded our industries. We have almost wholly lacked industrial education and we still lack it sadly. We spend a lot of money turning boys and girls out into the world quite untrained to do anything in particular. Yet, does not the very fact of the wonderful thing that have been worked despite such obstructions point forward to the times when wonders yet undreamed shall come to pass, once these obstructions are removed?

"If for a condition in which most of our industrial plants come under the head of what is called 'unsystematized management,' we substitute another where merely in order to exist plants must become systematic in their methods; if for the ignorance as to cost and the carelessness as to waste, which still prevails too much in many a factor, there shall be substituted intelligent care in both directions; if for the views which shall still dread as open of machinery and buildings and materials excessive we may substitute a system which shall make due allowance for the general ignorance of our young working people of any definite occupation we may substitute the trained hand and instructed mind of intelligent young men and women; if, I say, we may do all these things, why may not our commercial position in the world, already mighty, become the mightiest?"

CONTEST IS BREWING OVER FRISCO SYSTEM

Bond-Holders Will Fight to Have One of the Receivers Removed.

New York, May 31.—Members of the international banking firm of Speyer & Co. had a conference today with New York lawyers who will co-operate with Frederick W. Lehmann, of St. Louis, as counsel to determine a plan of action in a fight to bring about the dismissal of at least one of the receivers appointed for the St. Louis and San Francisco railroad and the substitution of a man to represent the interest of the bond-holders.

Mr. Lehmann is expected here early next week and will soon return to St. Louis, where the receivers are appointed, and that legal proceedings would be begun early next week.

James Speyer has cancelled an intended trip to Europe and will remain here to look after the interests of the holders of $65,000,000 Frisco bonds which Speyer & Co. floated and for whom, it is said, on behalf of the firm, it feels a responsibility.

Dispatches from Paris say that French investors in the bonds are very indignant that the receivers should have been appointed without consulting the bondholders of the road, and proposed to send representatives to this country to follow the reorganization proceedings.

The fact that Speyer & Co. issued a statement stating that they were "not consulted" in the appointment of the receivers, both of whom are officials of the road, has brought about what is characterized in Wall street as open warfare between the firm and B. F. Yoakum, president of the road, and it is predicted that the coming legal contests will amount virtually to a fight to control the Frisco.

Mr. Yoakum is quoted as saying that "the securities of the company are all safe. The stock will be worth more than ever. It will take only a little time to demonstrate this."

The fact that the Frisco's bonded indebtedness far exceeds its outstanding stock, which is, according to Wall street opinion, the chief cause of the road's troubles. In behalf of the Speyers it is said that the fate of the bonds, which are a lien ahead of the stock, is the more important question to be determined.

Friction between Speyer & Co. and Yoakum began a few months ago, it was said, when the firm declined to finance maturing notes for $150,000. This brought about the receivership, although the earnings of the road, the bankers said, did not warrant such action.

JUDGE COVINGTON TALKS AT DAWSON EXERCISES

Dawson, Ga., May 31.—(Special.)—Dawson's public schools closed a successful year last evening with interesting commencement exercises in the auditorium. Superintendent Mosley's baccalaureate address was most appropriate and enjoyable. Judge W. A. Covington, of Moultrie, delivered the literary address, speaking for three-quarters of an hour to a large and attentive audience. His address was replete with good, practical and admirable utterances, and made a fine impression.

MURDER IS CONFESSED BY A GEORGIA NEGRO

Maxton, N. C., May 31.—Arrested here today on the charge of larceny of merchandise from a Wadesboro store, a negro giving his name as Joe Davis, and his home as Cartersville, Ga., broke down and confessed to having killed George Redding, a sea captain, at Jacksonville, Fla. Davis says there is a reward of $4,000 offered for his arrest in that state. Jacksonville authorities have been notified of the arrest.

MILLION TO VANDERBILT FROM ANDY CARNEGIE

Ironmaster Makes Notable Gift to Medical Department of the University.

Nashville, Tenn., May 31.—Chancellor J. H. Kirkland, of Vanderbilt universities. The income from the relation had been made by Andrew Carnegie to provide a million dollars for the benefit of Vanderbilt's medical department. Of this sum $250,000 will be given the university at once for the erection and equipment of laboratories, three of whom shall be eminent in medicine, $800,000 will be paid annually for the support of the department, through the corporation.

A condition of the donation provides that the direction of the educational and scientific work of the department be committed by the board of trustees to a small board of seven members, three of whom shall be eminent in medical and scientific work.

The offer has already been reported to the executive committee of the board of trust, and accepted by it. The action of this committee is to be ratified at the annual meeting of the board of trust on June 16, at which time the governing board of seven will be selected. It is provided that the chancellor himself be one of the seven.

The gift is the largest single gift ever made the university. To the interest of Dr. Henry S. Pritchett, president of the Carnegie Foundation, is ascribed the handsome donation.

PREPARING TO PROBE WEST VIRGINIA STRIKE

Washington, May 31.—Consideration of plans for the senate probe of conditions in the strike zone of the West Virginia coal fields was begun today by the senate committee on education and labor.

After four days of effort, advocates of the investigation finally succeeded in getting the committee together. It is expected the investigation will be begun by a sub-committee, which will visit the strike district. And take the testimony of mine owners, strikers and officers of the militia.

No definite plans were formulated today, but the sub-committee will meet again Monday. It is expected that before the senators go to West Virginia, a general investigation will be begun in the senate documentary, evidence concerning the activities of the West Virginia militia after the declaration of martial law.

The committee wants to have a fairly complete record of the legal status of conditions in the strike zone when it visits the affected territory.

BURWELL CONFIDENT HE WILL BE NEXT SPEAKER

Representative W. H. Burwell, of Hancock county, who is running for the speakership of the next Georgia house, was a visitor in Atlanta yesterday. Mr. Burwell has canvassed the situation pretty thoroughly, and he has every confidence that he will win out. He believes that he will be elected on the first ballot, with probably as many as 125 votes.

While Mr. Burwell would not discuss the legislation that will occupy the coming session of the legislature, he says that the question of local option will be a busy one, and that important measures will be enacted.

Other candidates for the speakership are Representatives Hardeman, of Jefferson, and Sheppard, of Sumter. All three are experienced legislators and have many friends in the state.

FIRE-FIGHTING FORCE FORMED AT WASHINGTON

Washington, Ga., May 31.—(Special.) A largely attended mass meeting of citizens met Friday evening at the courthouse for the organization of a fire department for Wasnington, which was effected by the selection of the following officers: W. W. Hill, chief; F. K. Rogers, assistant chief; T. W. Miller, captain of the up-town division, and Joseph Toomy, captain of the down-town division. An advisory board composed of the following well known citizens was named: R. A. Almand, Charles E. Irvin, J. G. Wright and W. M. Hill. The city council will be requested to clothe the department with sufficient powers to act in properly handling of the fire-fighting force and equipment in Washington. A superintendent will be employed to devote his entire time to the fire house, and the city council has been petitioned to purchase an automobile fire truck.

CLUBMAN IS ARRESTED FOR SHOOTING A GIRL

Los Angeles, May 31.—Fred E. Kolb, a wealthy young clubman, is under arrest, charged with having shot Miss Irene Noble, 22 years old. George E. Noble, girl's brother, according to his statement to the police, found her lying on the floor of his residence last night, unconscious from the wound, with Kolb at the telephone summoning physician.

When she was revived at the hospital Miss Noble charged Kolb with having fired the shot, probably was fatally wounded. A letter in her handwriting addressed to her mother, threatening suicide, was said by the police to have been found in her clothing.

Kolb is the son of the late C. C. Kolb, millionaire manufacturer. He inherited a large portion of his father's estate.

Kolb said that the girl had wounded herself during an attack of hysterics brought on by brooding over the mental condition of her mother. Kolb made the statement after being told that his sweetheart, although shot through the neck and paralyzed from the shoulders down, had a chance to recover.

Miss Noble's mother, Mrs. W. H. Gutland, and her brother, George Noble, told detectives they believed Kolb's story. Kolb, however, will be held pending further investigation.

George Bailey, Whitesburg.

Whitesburg, Ga., May 13.—(Special.) George, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Bailey, died Thursday morning, after a brief illness. The little fellow was a great pet in the town and loved by all. He was about four years of age.

Buying Diamonds on Partial Payments is Money Saving.

Our plan is offered to anyone who promptly meets their obligations. To have a regular amount to meet each month, and to know that it is for something worth while, prevents the wants of salary and income that otherwise is trifled away for things of no intrinsic value.

Diamonds possess a constancy of value given only to gold. Wearing them gives an air of prosperity and success, a cultivated finish to the toilette. One of the great humorists transposed a familiar quotation into "Them who has, gits." Nothing succeeds like success.

We insure the value of your Diamond in that we contract to buy back our Diamonds at 90 per cent of purchase price at any time within one year, and always allow just what you pay for it in exchange for a larger Diamond. You can run no risk in buying our Diamonds.

We mean that you can buy from us a $100.00 Diamond, wear it for an entire year, and return it to us and get $90.00 for it. Our small margin of profit of 10 per cent being all that you pay for the pleasure of wearing a handsome ornament a whole year.

If you desire to exchange it for a larger diamond, at any time, we would allow you $100.00—your full purchase price—for it, and our plain-figure cash prices enable you to make the exchange at the same price as if you were paying all cash. On account of the constant increase in the price of Diamonds, we can frequently allow more than the original price.

Whether you buy on our deferred payment plan or for all cash, our prices are just the same. We accept notes from those whom we are assured are worthy of credit, and divide the payments over as much as ten months, if desired.

Our Diamond Book, No. 7, tells all about our plan, and more. We would like to send you this Book No. 7. A postal will bring it.

Assisting Mrs. White.

The reception given by Mrs. Warren D. White, in honor of her daughter, Mrs. Dan Glasgow, of Tyrone, Pa., Miss Lina Andrews, a bride-elect, and Mrs. Robert Hall, of Washington, D. C., will be one of the large and brilliant events of this week, occurring on Wednesday afternoon, June 4, at 5 o'clock. Mrs. White will be assisted in entertaining by Mrs. George W. Andrews, Mrs. Frank E. Markel, Mrs. John R. Wilkenson, Mrs. S. C. Dobbs, Mrs. W. A. Candler, Mrs. John R. Dickey, Mrs. Fay Wilson, Mrs. W. M. Fain, Mrs. R. C. Turner, Miss Pauline Norman, Miss Kate Baker, Miss Jennie Sue Bell and Miss Annie Mays Patterson. Punch will be served by Miss Mildred Harris and Miss Louis Patillo.

Matrons' Social Club.

Mrs. Daniel Boone entertained the Matrons' Social club at her home on Friday afternoon. Mrs. Wood presided over the punch bowl. Mrs. G. S. Finch, Mrs. Ed Jackson, Mrs. Charles Austin, Miss Grace Hakenbeck and Miss Florrie Griffin were invited guests.

Heart-dice was played, the prize, a lovely piece of white and gold china, being won by Mrs. H. W. Finch. Mrs. Austin was given the consolation, a piece of white and gold. The hostess prize was a colonial dinner place in white and gold.

A delicious salad course was served. Mrs. Wood rendered some piano selections. The club will meet with Mrs. J. J. Harod in June.

Gailmard-Johnson.

An Appeal to D. A. R. of Georgia For Oglethorpe Memorial School

By MRS. JOHN H. MORGAN.

Through the beneficient offer of Mrs. Anna Dodge, of Frederica, on St. Simons Island, Ga., the D. A. R. of Georgia have now the opportunity of establishing as their own, a great institution as a memorial to Oglethorpe, a school for the education of our orphan boys, our poor boys and the boys of moderate means throughout the state.

There is not in the state of Georgia an orphan asylum that will keep a boy after he is 18, there is not a training school that will accept him before he is 16. Hence the need for the immediate establishment of this school, which will undertake that and not only educate him but train him industrially to prepare him to cope with the world successfully and also for useful citizenship.

There is not in the length of breadth of the United States a school owned and operated exclusively by the Daughters of the American Revolution.

As Frederica was the scene of the activities of Oglethorpe, the great philanthropist, who built for the present generation this great Empire state of the south, Georgia, so it is hoped by the D. A. R. of our state that it may be the scene of a great modern day philanthropy, the permanent establishment by the D. A. R. with the aid of the loyal of Georgia of the needy youth of our state, the Oglethorpe Memorial school.

Mrs. Dodge's Life Work.

For twenty years Mr. Dodge has given his life and her means towards the rearing and education of orphan boys in her spacious home on one of Georgia's noted anti-bellum plantations at Frederica.

In all of these years she has cared constantly for twenty boys. She has had many applications for admission into her home, which has been known as the Dodge home, but has been compelled to decline them on account of her limited facilities.

But wishing to pupetuate her work and at the same time honor the founder of our state, she has offered to the D. A. R. of Georgia her private residence, her plantation of 2,000 acres, and the interest from an endowment fund of $75,000 to be used for scholarships, provided the D. A. R. of Georgia build a dormitory and study hall which will accommodate 100 boys and boys to begin with, that we assume all responsibility and management of school, which will be absolutely the property of the D. A. R. The school will be managed by the D. A. R. through a board of trustees as the university of Georgia is.

The land is fertile, the soil productive and very favorable for farming, stock and poultry raising—all of which will be carried on by the students.

Will Be Self Supporting.

Through this the scholarships of the school will soon be self supporting, by charging a small amount per year by those able to pay, and also by scholarships contributed to those boys who are not, by chapters or individuals who may be interested. In this manner every D. A. R. will feel a personal pride and interest in this school which will be our own.

The location of this school should be of interest to every loyal Georgian and to the country at large, for it will be within half a mile of the spot where was located the only home owned and occupied by General Oglethorpe in this country—on Georgia's soil at Frederica.

Urges Chapters to Act.

I want to urge every chapter in Georgia to take this matter up, consider it seriously, begin work at once towards raising funds for the erection of this dormitory. Let us resolve now to make efforts to have this dormitory up in a year. All loyal Georgians should help us. Make your appeal to them—not alone to the D. A. R.

I want every D. A. R. in Georgia to realize the great and far-reaching good of such an institution, that it will be ours, and its success and greatness will be ours, and that its opportunities for good are limitless, and that we must look to the future and posterity a credit and an honor to our organization, Daughters of the American Revolution. I appeal to you, do not let this great offer of Mrs. Dodge's pass through our fingers to some other organization, as it will, if we do not take it, and to the end we will every effort towards its accomplishment.

It is too great a thing for us to turn from. We appeal to your loyal D. A. R. to take up this work at once.

We have worked for years for other schools and individuals. Now that the opportunity has presented itself, let us work together for our own institution—the Oglethorpe Memorial school. All contributions are to be sent to Mrs. John H. Morgan, of Brunswick, Ga., state chairman Oglethorpe Memorial school.

SPLENDID AVERAGES MADE IN RECENT ESSAY CONTEST

Mrs. John A. Selden, of Macon, chairman of the state medal committee, gives out the following information in regard to the essay contest:

Miss Gladys McGee, of Forsyth, made an average of 96 4-5. About 1,000 put pils entered the contest. All chapters have sent in the correct numbers of contestants. Again Atlanta won in the largest number—3,450. Too much praise cannot be given Mrs. L. G. Tesford, chairman of the essay contest, Atlanta, for her excellent work and the interest she has created in the study of confederate history among the pupils of Atlanta.

Nine essays were sent to the state committee as follows:

Virginia Polhill, Louisville, Ga. Average 94 1-2.

Effie Johnston, Thomaston, Ga. Average, 91 1-2.

Carolina Barnes, Forsyth, Ga. Average, 96 4-5.

Rosalind Shepherd, Maysville, Ga. Average, 92.

An essay from Eastman, Ga., no name given. Average, 93 3-4.

Martha Stovall, Cuthbert, Ga. Average, 95 1-4.

Robert Foster, Carrollton, Ga. Average, 96.

Carswell M. Morel, no town given. Average, 94 1-5.

Richard Bowden, Thomson, Ga. Average 97.

The Gallant John B. Gordon

(Prize-Winning Essay.)

By Gladys McGee, of Forsyth.

It is a difficult task to add to the words already spoken and written about General Gordon. The subject mocks the painter's brush where truer artists have already done their best work. It is the earliest and the truest sun is just now rising!"

General John B. Gordon was born February 6, 1832. His earliest ancestor, can ancestor, Adam Gordon, came from Scotland to Virginia in the seventeenth century. Like most of Georgia's great men, he was educated at the state university, graduating from there with highest honors in 1852.

After practicing law for a short time, he entered the mining business with his father.

In 1854 he married Miss Fanny Haralson, the daughter of Hon. Hugh Anderson Haralson.

At the beginning of the war between the states he promptly offered his services to his beloved southland, entering the army as captain. His natural military ability, his great skill, his matchless military genius and his undaunted courage caused his rapid promotion from captain to lieutenant general.

Swayed Hearts of His Men.

No soldier who ever led citizen soldiery knew better how to sway and inspire the hearts of his men on the battlefield. His rare facility for handling masses on the field and his lordly personality aroused the admiration over all obstacles and in many instances changed seeming defeat into victory.

"General Gordon had the sublime faith of Jackson, the sound judgment of Johnston, the steadfastness of Longstreet or A. P. Hill, the fiery zeal of Forrest, the boldness and dash of Stuart, the intensity of Early or Davis and was as unselfish and pure in thought as Lee."

General Gordon would have been a great man in any age or under any conditions of environment.

Where he was his soldiers would dare to follow and to die and on many a doubtful day in the battle of the day by placing himself in the most dangerous position, scoffing danger and daring the enemy in the very mouth of the cannon and amid the storm of shot and shell.

At Sharpsburg he was wounded five times and remained on the battlefield with his men, bleeding with four frightful wounds, but when struck the fifth time he was borne unconscious from the field and was saved only by the nursing of his faithful wife. Here he won the stars of brigadier.

At Spottsylvania courthouse, where he ordered General Lee to the rear, and led to victory that glorious fight, he won the title of major general. He held the last lines of Petersburg and was the last to make an attack on the federal breastworks at Appomattox.

The Rising Genius of the South.

General Gordon won international fame as a soldier and an English correspondent declared him the rising genius of the south.

After the surrender he called his ragged, broken-down men around him with these words: "Bear their trial bravely, go home in peace, obey the laws, rebuild the country and work for the weal and harmony of the republic."

Often wounded, sometimes grievously, by his foes, he was spared for the service of his people in the trying period which followed the war.

After the war closed he settled in Atlanta, where in 1868 he was elected to the national union convention, held in Philadelphia, and was chairman of the Georgia delegation to the national democratic convention in 1868. In 1872 he was delegate to the national democratic convention at Baltimore and was elected to the United States senate. He was reelected in 1872, but resigned in 1880 to become president of the Georgia Pacific railroad.

Elected Governor of Georgia.

In 1886 he was elected governor of Georgia, of which he resided in 1888, and in 1890 was again elected to the United States senate. His service in the senate was brilliant and prominent as statesmanlike. He delivered powerful and eloquent speeches and made a masterly defense of the south. In the general assembly he was chosen by the democrats on congress to draft an address to the people of Louisiana and those of the south urging patient endurance. He aided Lamar in saving Mississippi from political misrule, and was empowered by Governor Hampton to look after South Carolina's interest. It was General Gordon who, after the adjournment of congress, secured the removal of troops from South Carolina. The ladies of this state expressed their appreciation of this by presenting him with a massive silver service. As governor of Georgia, his administration was faultless.

At the organization of the United Confederate Veterans association, General Gordon was unanimously chosen commandant and at every annual meeting was re-elected with great enthusiasm by the old soldiers.

He declined to allow the use of his name for re-election to the United States senate at the expiration of his third term, and devoted himself to lecturing and to the preparation of his reminiscences. As a lecturer, he was one of the most popular of the country and no word of bitterness against the north ever escaped his lips. His great historic lecture, "The Last Days of the Confederacy," had a distinct purpose in uniting the bonds of peace between the north and the south.

Pleasing personality was one of rare sweetness and charm. He was "prince of Christian chivalry," a man of deep religious instincts and with a profound interest in the spiritual welfare of his men.

Man of Mighty Heart.

The thing that made Gordon great, that will bind him close to men and made him dead to them, was his mighty heart—strong, yet gentle and pure as the sephyrs of its own southland. He was masterful, manly because he was master of himself.

The one object nearest his heart was to wipe out, so far as possible, all bitterness between the people of the north and the south.

He died January 9, 1904, at his winter home, Biscayne, Fla., after a brief illness, showing to the very last that vivid interest and enthusiasm for all the best things of life and that exquisite thoughtfulness for others which were the keynotes of his entire career.

The whole country mourned his death. Flags were at half-mast and business was suspended in almost every southern city. On January 11, two days after the funeral arrived, many thousands of men and women poured into Atlanta to do honor to his memory.

The muffled drum has beat the funeral march, but from over the whole south today there rises a strange music, which blends into a solemn requiem —not the dirge of unavailing sorrow, but rather a paean of heroic triumph, rending the darkness of funeral folds of him whom the people mourn."

Popular in the North.

General Gordon was the most popular southerner among the people of the north. His fame is secure. Death cannot rob such a man of his glory. He was an all-around great man, a valiant and distinguished soldier, an eminent statesman, a great orator, an author of merit, and a public spirited and loyal citizen. He was a man among men and as great in peace as he was undaunted in conflict.

Splendid and magnificent soldiery bearing, together with his splendid ringing voice and far-reaching oratory, made him the white-plumed knight of our southland.

General Gordon was the man who had done most to make the people forget the animosities of 1866 he was the course since that time had marked him with the attribute of true greatness.

Immediately after his death a movement was started to erect a suitable memorial to his memory in the capital city of Atlanta. Subscriptions poured in from the north as well as the south, and on May 25, three years after his death, the magnificent equestrian statue was unveiled by the authorities.

Fighting always with his face to the foe and his heart resting in God. "The man of the 12th of May" has fought his last battle and the people whom he served with such devotion because he was true to them and true to himself.

There is no one to take the place of the south's "peerless hero," General John B. Gordon.

Empty Tomb at St. Helena.

(From New York World.)

Complaint is made in France that the government is neglecting the house in which Napoleon died and the tomb in which his body was laid at St. Helena before removal to the church of St. Louis of the Invalides.

In 1858 the Longwood house, in which the master lived while a captive, and the plot in the Valley of Geraniums where his tomb was made, were given by Queen Victoria to Napoleon III. for the French government, which desired to maintain them as lasting memorials. But of late years little has been done to preserve either the home or the sepulchre. The building is falling into ruins, the farmers of the neighborhood let their sheep graze in the valley. Visitors are few. It is believed that are long a Napoleon will wreck the decaying building, and that in all probability the caretaker will be withdrawn and the land abandoned to the farmer and the herdsman.

Sentiment will mourn over such surrender of ground to utility, but it is inevitable. In a world where the palaces of Alexander and Caesar have crumbled into nothingness, there can be no perpetuity for the homes of Napoleon. The Tuileries went to ashes long ago; why save Longwood?

Longest Words in Two Tongues.

The longest word in the English language is said to be "anticonstitutionalliement," and the longest word in the German language, "antitransubstantiationalism." The old saying, "Brevity is the soul of wit," still holds good, however, particularly with poor spellers.

CRONE BOUND OVER FOR BLATON KILLING

Witnesses Testify That He Had Been Knocked Down Before Shots Were Fired.

Clarksville, Ga., May 31.—(Special.)—L. W. Crone, charged with the killing of Tom Blaton at Tallulah Loldge on Thursday, was bound over to the August term of superior court at the preliminary hearing before Justice J. N. Gabriel at this place on Friday.

The evidence brought out by the state's witnesses showed that the defendant, Crone, was quarreling with the woman with whom it is said he lived on his own premises when Blaton interfered.

Witnesses to the killing testified that Crone remonstrated with Blaton not to come on his premises, and to let him alone, but that Blaton was not only advanced on the defendant, but after reaching him, struck him, knocking him to the ground, and that Crone, after he struck the ground, shot from a reclining position, emptying his revolver in the shots fired—five in number—and that Blaton did not fall until about the time the last set was fired. Blaton died instantly, two shots having pierced his arm and one entering his face through the bridge of his nose. All witnesses for the state agreed on the material points involved in the case.

Attorneys for the defense, J. C. Edwards & Sons, introduced no evidence. The case was tried before Judge Hutcheson at the August term of the superior court, George L. Daniel, of Clarksville, appeared for the state.

SCOTS TO MAKE PLANS FOR ANNUAL PICNIC

The annual picnic of Atlanta Scottish association has become a leading annual event in Atlanta.

Each member of this organization believes thoroughly in the fact that all that is good in their make-up is traceable to the fact that they are "Scots to the backbone."

W. A. Somerville, the secretary of this association, has mailed to each member of the order a notice to attend the regular monthly meeting, at which plans will be perfected and concluded for their annual picnic.

Many letters come from throughout the southland have signified their intention of attending, and the day promises to be one of great enjoyment for all who attend as prominent speakers and singers will entertain with Scottish song and story.

The Call of Life.

By Florence Earle Buck.

No sooner starts the fire at eve to burning,
Than I draw near to it a rocking-chair,
And sit there dreamily engaged in turning
My thoughts—and making castles-in-the-air.

II.

For I can build them, in the quiet gloaming,
My head soft-pillowed, resting on my hand
High up—like a lone eerie bird this homing,
I live at first—far from the world's demands.

III.

Yet not content, though sheltered, I am pining,
To leave my storied castle, and to go,
Out yonder—where there seems to be reclining,
A hamlet, in the valley's lap below.

IV.

The flames leap brightly, and the picture changes
The glare behind the twilight and the gloom;
I see no castles high on mountain ranges,
Nor valley—it the shadows of the room.

V.

It is a smoke-begrimed and sordid city,
Besieged by sin, which suffering nations share;
My soul is yearning—moved to generous pity—
And I must help them—I am needed there.

VI.

No! in t.e safe, the sheltered, easy places,
Nor prepared wealth for individual need,—
Mine is the call of life! where all the races,
Work heart to heart, humanity their creed.

A Physician's Drug Store.

Something new in the way of a drug store has been established in Chicago—a drug store exclusively and wholly devoted to the practice of proprietaries. We propose to conduct it with a number of south Chicago physicians, says The Pharmaceutical Era, while quoting the secretary of the new company as follows:

"We intend to do a retail drug business with ethical proprietaries and prescription work. The members of the company are all practicing physicians, and the physician member of the board of drug store and are, without doubt, the representative physicians in the district. Most of them have in the past, for various reasons, been dispensing their own prescriptions, but under ethical drug business, catering especially to physicians. None of the employees in the store will be financially interested in the business and if a physician writes for ichthyol he will get ichthyol if he specifies a patent medicine he will get it. Also our prescription clerks will not wait on customers at the counter, which is important. Believing that most mistakes made in prescriptions are due to the fact that the person filling the same is called away from his task, and is likely to forget whether or not he added certain ingredients, we have decided that there will be no counter prescribing and no refilling without orders from the physician in charge. All prescriptions will be written in cipher. There will be written 100 prescriptions where one was written formerly, and there will be no attempt at curiosity on the part of the clerks to find out for what or for who a rx. also wishes. N.F. and U.S.P. preparations will be used exclusively, and patent medicines will be discriminated."

The Modern Traveler.

(C. E. D. Phelps.)

The modern traveler (the heroic explorers of old belong to another class) is formed by leisure, opportunity, and a certain nakedness in pecuniary matters —like that plant whose seed vessels burst in heat, so explodes his shell of habit when the sun of prosperity warms warmly, and forthwith he is scattered to the four winds. "It's a small world," quoth he bromidically as he goes to and fro over the earth, and finds therein many delightful persons resembling himself. Like the man in the street he meets with mirrors, his reflections are numerous, and all alike. No wonder he feels like Sancho Pancho Pansa's hazelnut inhabitant of a mustard-seed world.

Those Paris Styles.

(From Judge.)

"I see that hand-painted dresses are the latest style from Paris."

"Yes; and now the Futurists and Cubists will make their fortunes."

BOOK REVIEWS IN TABLOID

Sally Castleton, Southerner. By Crittenden Marriott. A very interesting war story, laid in Virginia, which was reviewed several months ago. This book is adding to the popularity of Mr. Marriott by growing to be very attractive to literary readers north and south. (J. B. Lippincott Co., Philadelphia.)

The Amateur Gentleman. By Jeffrey Farnol. The scene is laid in England during the nineteenth century, and, of course, there are the usual country scenes and people, the elegant women and fastidious men of fashion, romantic adventure, but the most interesting of all is the love story about Barnabas Barty, a country-bred youth, and son of the village champion pugilist of England, who is left a fortune. His first idea is to become a "gentleman," and he immediately leaves for London, where he meets the usual widely different types of men and women. He has many adventures and finally falls in love with a very fine girl. The book was pronounced Mr. Farnol's best work when it appeared as a serial some time ago. (Little, Brown & Co., Boston.)

The Penalty. By Gouverneur Morris. With full-page and double page illustrations by Howard Chandler Christy. Another love story which from different motives plays upon all the emotions of the human heart. The plot is laid in New York, it is that New York of which a great newspaper surveying the events of the week editorially, said: "Every twenty-four hours brings forth romances as strange, tragedies as terrible, comedies as bright, as those of the ancient city of Bagdad."

Barbara Ferris, a beautiful girl, and an amateur sculptress, the only daughter of a prominent and wealthy father is the heroine and Stephen Chalmers are drawn from about Central Park and the East River bridges. There you'll meet Harry West, brave and true, of the secret service; Clever Bubbles, a street Arab; Blizzard, a legless man and a combination of mysterious power and evil will. Mr. Morris can also slowly wakes up in time to see that life is worth living and that there is a work for every young man, friend, lover and business man. (Chas. Scribner's Sons, New York.)

The Catfish. By Charles Marriott. "For the catfish is the demon of the deep and keep things lively." Mr. Marriott has in his last book of fiction given to the public a deeply human story.

George Tracy, the hero, is a man of affairs, one who looks upon things through the eyes of a poet and his interpretation of same is truly prophetic. He first appears upon the scene as a boy of five years of age. It is then that he begins to make the effort to climb out of his own world of reality and to gain a foothold in the world of make-believe created by other people. When he grows to manhood two influences come into his life—one "takes his life handling, the other will ask me nothing." The author has written a very strong book, which no doubt will prove to be a popular seller. (A. C. McClurg & Co., Chicago.)

MISCELLANEOUS BOOKS.

Immigration. A World Movement and Its American Significance. By Henry Pratt Fairchild. The effort of the author has been made to regard immigration, not simply as an "American problem," but as a sociological phenomenon of world-wide significance. (The MacMillan company, New York city.)

Lore of Roserpine. By Maurice Hewlett. The author in his preface says: "I hope nobody will ask me whether the things in this book are true, for it will then be my humiliating duty to reply that I don't know. Some of these are pseudo-mythical, and others somewhat resemble fairy stories for grown-ups. (Charles Scribner's Sons, New York.)

The Girl's Fight for a Living. How to protect working women from danger and due to low wages. By Dr. Thomas H. Russell, a member of the American Academy of Political and Social Science. This is an impartial survey of present conditions, results of recent investigations and remedies proposed. With statements by Hon. Barratt O'Hara, lieutenant governor of Illinois; Hon. Edmund Besli, employers and governors of many states. Illustrated with portraits. (M. A. Donahue & Co., Chicago.)

How to Obtain Citizenship. A book for the foreigner in English, Italian, Yiddish, German and French. Plain and simple directions for the alien or foreigner who would become a citizen of the United States and full information will greatly benefit him. By Nathaniel C. Fowler, Jr. Sully & Kleinteich, publishers, New York.)

Magnetic Paris. By Adelaide Mack. With many illustrations especially drawn by George Desains and Charlotte Schaller. (Bobbs-Merrill company, Indianapolis.)

LITERARY NOTES.

The Century Company reports the nineteenth printing of the Century Cook Book, the twentieth of Hudyard Kipling's second Jungle book, the forty-third of "The Lady of the Decoration," and the forty-sixth of Mrs. Rice's book, "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch."

Edward Hungerford is giving a copy of his new novel, "Gertrude," to all his acquaintances who bear the name of the heroine. The number of copies thus given away by Mr. Hungerford has not yet been computed.

Dr. Leary will soon make his fourteenth voyage on the Mediterranean, and on this trip he will endeavor to procure the latest available data on Syria for his forthcoming volume "Syria, the Land of Lebanon," which is to be published this fall by McBride, Nast & Co.

Edgar Saltus, the noted American author, has just finished a new novel, "The Monster," which is in process of publication by the Pulitzer Publishing company.

"Ashes and Sparks," by Percy White, which the Putnams published in February, is the sealed book of a very joyous novel. Mr. White is said to be one of the most delightful and penetrating of living ironists, and the present book shows him up in his truest colors. Suffragists and anti-suffragists should read the book. It is considered as education for both.

Doubleday, Page & Co. have just published a book, "The New Housekeeping," by Mrs. Christine Frederick, who says: "I am convinced that the new era in woman's work—traditionally never-ending—is coming." She has worked out her theories and demonstrated them by actual experience in her efficiency kitchen in her Long Island home, and her latest book should be in the hands of every woman who continues to believe that the burden of most women still is housekeeping.

SKETCHES TO BE PUBLISHED OF GEORGIA'S 1789 ELECTORS

After the adoption of the constitution of the United States that had been signed by delegates from each of the thirteen states, and accepted by the states, the next important step was the election of a president and a vice persident.

As Georgia had her signers ,George Walton, Button Gwinnett and Lyman Hall, she also had her electors in the first congress that elected George Washington, the first president. These electors are names that should become familiar and are given—George Handley, John Wilson, George Walton, H. Osborne, John King.

In accordance with the constitution, each state appointed as many electors as was equal to the whole number of senators and representatives to which the state was entitled in the congress. In this first congress when Washington was elected the first president of the United States, four out of the thirteen original states failed to send electors. These were New York, Vermont, Rhode Island and North Carolina. So the electors from nine states were responsible for the choice of Washington, president, and Georgia was one of the nine.

The official organ of the National Society of Daughters of the American Revolution, The American Monthly Magazine, has requested that a short sketch of each of these electors mentioned be sent to the editor for publication.

The state regent, Mrs. S. W. Foster, will assign this task to one capacitated for the same. Georgia is ready and anxious to respond to the roll of her sons. In the meantime your state editor will gladly publish any facts relative to these Georgia electors that may come into her possession.

NEW CHAPTER FORMED.

D. A. R. Organization at Jackson Starts Off With 15 Members.

Jackson, Ga., May 31.—(Special.)—Saturday, Mrs. S. W. Foster, of Atlanta, was in Jackson and assisted in the organization of a chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution. There were fifteen members present at this occasion, out of which Mrs. J. D. Jones was elected regent; Mrs. Frank Etheridge, vice regent; Mrs. J. W. Jones, treasurer; Mrs. Mary Buttrill Watson, registrar; Miss Louise Harris, corresponding secretary; Mrs. P. W. Nolen, recording secretary; Miss Lucie Goodman, historian, and Mrs. W. L. Etheridge, auditor.

Between this time and the next meeting, a name will have been chosen for the new chapter. Those under consideration are William McIntosh, the celebrated Indian chieftian, and from whom Indian Springs, in Butts county, was purchased in 1825; John Martin, last revolutionary governor, and John McIntosh an officer of the revolution.

Mrs. Foster was the guest for the day of the new chapter and in the afternoon, accompanied by several of the members, motored to Indian Spring.

XAVIER CHAPTER, ROME, HAS INTERESTING MEET

Xavier chapter held a called meeting of unusual interest at the home of Mrs. Annie Dowdell Chidsay, Thursday afternoon. Definitel arrangements were made in regard to the real rooms, which is being fitted up on West Second avenue, near Broad street, and will be opened June 1.

A United States flag for the Martha Berry Girls' school was displayed and admired. This flag is five by nine feet, and will be presented at the opening of school in September.

A marker to commemorate the signing of the treaty between the Cherokee nation, Chief Major John Ridge, Chief Elias Boudinot and Chief Elias Boudinot, which gave to Georgia this beautiful Cherokee country in exchange for lands in Indian territory.

The three Indian chiefs were martyrs to the cause, having been assassinated by the opposing party soon after reaching their new home in the west. Commitees were appointed to make investigations. The D. A. R. are marking historic spots and placing stones on unmarked graves of revered soldiers.

Ah, Here It Is!

(Loudon Cor. New York Times.)

The Incorporated Institute of Hygiene has been investing into the question of corsets. The council of the society recently appointed a committee to collect data and report upon it, the committee yesterday issued its report. It says:

1. That as an actual fact most English women do wear, and will probably continue to wear, some form of corset or stays or bodice.

2. That the requirements of modern dress and the exigencies of modern civilization appear to make the wearing of some form of corset a practical necessity to the majority of women.

3. That many corsets still in use are wrongly constructed and tend to produce injurious compression and displacement of important internal organs, and to interfere with the important functions of respiration, circulation, and digestion.

4. That owing to the spread of knowledge regarding the importance of freedom of movement and the need for physical exercise in order to develop the muscles of the back and abdomen, the objectionable rigid corsets of the past are becoming much less worn and are gradually being replaced by lighter and more flexible corsets, constructed on hygienic lines.

5. That the injurious effects attributed to the wearing of corsets can be greatly minimized, if not entirely removed, by the adoption of properly constructed corsets and their right adjustments.

In view of this report, the council of the institute, whose president is Sir William Bennett, K. C. V. O., F. R. C. S., have thought it well in the interest of the public to issue precise instructions in regard to the right construction and correct adjustment of corsets. As to the construction of corsets, the instructions say:

1. The corset should be sufficiently flexible to allow of free movement of the body in every direction.

2. The corset should be constructed so as to exert pressure only on the lower part of the abdomen—the direction of the pressure being upward and forward.

3. The corset should be quite loose above, so that no pressure is exerted on the lower ribs or upper part of the abdomen, as any pressure in this region tends to interfere with the freedom of respiration and also to produce injurious compression.

"This is equally important," continues the report, "to have the corset properly adjusted as to obtain the right control to begin with, in order to insure proper and healthful support. The wrong adjustment of the right corset may be followed by injurious effects, both in regard to health and symmetry of figure."

Women are therefore urged to pay particular attention to the following instructions:

1. Put on the corset and fasten it so that the back lacings are open widely (not less than six inches to eight inches, with two conveniently long loops at the waist line for adjustment purposes.

2. Stand erect before a mirror, so that you can see what you are doing, and so as to be able to adjust the corset without having to bend down), brace back shoulders, draw in the abdomen, and support the weight of the body upon the front part of the soles of the feet.

3. Put the corset around the body and fasten the busks in front from below upward.

4. Bend down and fasten the suspenders to the stockings well inside the knee, and having once more assumed the erect attitude, pull the corset as low down on the body as it will comfortably settle. (This is best done by a diagonal pull on each side. First holding the right upper edge with the right hand and pulling down the left lower edge with the left hand, and then reversing the process with the left hand above and the right hand below).

Stays that can be of value from the hygnic point of view is forgotten, for the report then proceeds to deal with the lacing of the corset.

The report concluding with some general remarks, which is a warning that careful measurements should always be taken before a corset is made or purchased.

Tied Herself to a Man.

(From The Kansas City Times.)

The motion picture theater was well filled yesterday afternoon when a stout woman entered and wedged herself in next to a slender man. For a few minutes she appeared extremely interested in the picture. Then the woman noticed that one of her shoelaces was undone. After something of a struggle she bent over and finally succeeded in bringing both of the laces together. A few minutes later the man arose as though to start for the door. Down he went in the aisle and the woman gave vent to an exclamation. The audience turned from the flickering to the real catastrophe. She had knotted her shoelace with his. It was several minutes before the pair became untangled and untied.

The Well Dressed Woman

The Trousseau of the Parisian Bride

WHILE a young man in France never personally asks the lady of his heart to marry him, before addressing her parents on that subject, he is reasonably sure of being accepted by the daughter. For in these modern days, when all the world is broader-minded, the French girl marries the man whom she loves and is not simply married to the man she best pleases her parents. In fact, she smooths the path to her parents' consent for her wooer by saying to them that she cares for Monsieur A. if so it be and that she knows he likes her.

The idea that the bridegroom must have a dot in order to marry is for her own country a convention as dead as many girls who marry have no dower whatever. Among intelligent women particularly, the question of money is never taken into consideration. Juliette, Blanche or Marie may know what Jules, Georges or Alphonse has a position of a good salary, but she does not expect to add anything to his income and often she marries without asking a sou from her father's income toward the expenses of her (or society's) wedding.

As soon as the young man has the consent of the girl's parents he communicates the fact to his own parents, who at once call upon the parents. Within a short time after that they formally receive her into their family by giving a dinner to which they invite their nearest of kin and most intimate friends. Later they arrange an evening reception for the purpose of introducing her to a larger circle of friends. While affianced, the pair never dream of going anywhere unchaperoned by the girl's parents or by some one whom they would like to shield under the most important laws not ruled by French etiquette. The two find their enjoyment with the girl's mother and father and as any of the public places of amusement, it is [illegible] wedding do not take [illegible] as they do even after marriage in France, as in America. The pair never marry until they have been engaged for three months at least, and often not for six months or more. And the protective attitude which an engaged man assumes toward her before the marriage is to take place. For the [illegible] works previous to the date set for the wedding, that is, the [illegible] in the church where the [illegible] ceremony is to be solemnized. At the same time the names of the [illegible] are registered at the Mairie and [illegible] anybody who does [illegible] to say it is or she knows any [illegible] to counteract to either the [illegible] or bridegroom elect, and if so to [illegible] it known. It seldom happens that [illegible] girl in France who [illegible] as [illegible] knows [illegible] exceedingly well [illegible] anything worth [illegible] about each other [illegible] antecedents.

People of [illegible] in France [illegible] Paris [illegible] to the [illegible] ride to the [illegible] ceremony even after the banns have been called. Whatever parties are given in honor of the bride-elect are held from the public and the [illegible] at which [illegible] gives [illegible] for her and [illegible] are simple affairs. When [illegible] a little supper to her friends [illegible].

A day or two before the [illegible] ceremony, the [illegible] proceeds to the Mairie's office to be married in accordance with the civil law. They are accompanied by the [illegible] witnesses, one and [illegible] necessary to [illegible] and the women of the party are very [illegible] gowned. The other day at the Mairie's office one bride, a pretty dark-eyed blonde, wore a skirt and Eton jacket of night blue charmeuse enlivened by a gay little waistcoat of cerise-striped white satin. Following closely upon her heels was another bride in a dull-hued sprigged silk made into a loose, square bolero and a narrow skirt trimmed about the hem with a three inch frill of white mousseline matching a chic little blouse. After the civil wedding, the bride goes quietly to her own home and continues her preparations for the religious wedding. This ceremony, whether the family is Catholic or Protestant, takes place in a church. In fact, it never is solemnized anywhere unless some close relative is [illegible] and it is deemed expedient to have it at the sick person's bedside. In that event, there are no festivities.

THE religious ceremony is always elaborate, the wedding party usually including from eight to ten bridesmaids—never a matron of honor—and several flower girls. These bridesmaids, chosen from among the intimate girl friends of the bride, wear charming costumes of chiffon or satin or silk; lovely hats of filmy materials and small corsages of flowers. They never carry large bouquets. Big baskets of exotics are carried by the flower girls—small sisters or cousins of the pair to be married—who wear chiffon or mousseline frocks in the color scheme of the wedding. Both the church and the house are beautifully decorated with flowers and foliage.

Nor is the bride, in France, burdened with an immense bunch of flowers. She carries a few lilies-of-the-valley, orange blossoms or white orchids and on her gown of ivory satin (if she is a brunette) and of pearl-colored satin (if she is a blonde), there is no lace. If a very young and slender girl she may wear white chiffon hand-embroidered, but never lace-trimmed. She may, however, wear the wedding veil of old lace which was worn by her mother and her grandmother, perhaps secured by pearls—the only jewels which she would dream of wearing at the altar. Even though the gift of the bridegroom exhibited in common with the other presents—were of diamonds, she would not wear it before her marriage.

In France no bride goes to the altar decollete. Her gown has a glimpse of chiffon or net and usually a high collar, and its sleeves cover the wrists.

Frocks Which the Bride Is Sure to Need

THE INDISPENSABLE SEPARATE WAIST AND SKIRT

A dainty lingerie waist of fine voile with the yoke daintily hand embroidered in blue. The oddly-shaped frill is finished with Valenciennes lace and the touch of blue is repeated in the crystal buttons. The skirt may be either of voile, of crepe or of ratine, and is plaited front and back.

THE BRIDE'S AFTERNOON GOWN

A charming costume that would be delightful either for a tea or for a garden party, is this of white voile embroidered in pink roses. The collar and cuffs are of white silk, but the girdle is of deep rose-colored satin. The hat is of pink net, with an edging of white straw around the brim. Small frills of the net are arranged around the crown with here and there a white rose.

What She Should Have in Her Trousseau

By Marion Morris

ALTHOUGH the getting of new clothes is always a fascinating task, the planning of a trousseau is a greater joy! And this pleasure is not increased by extravagance, for the girl who can only afford an inexpensive bridal outfit is just as happy. When she is planning her dainty lingerie, simple frocks and pretty wedding gown of white lawn, as is the girl whose gowns alone cost thousands of dollars.

The brides of the last generation had such elaborate trousseaux that their dresses became passe before they had the opportunity of getting a reasonable amount of wear out of them. Mothers in those days had a fastidious horn that they might be criticised if their daughters were not amply supplied. But as those brides are the mothers of to-day, experience has taught them that it is absurd to get their daughters more gowns than they will need for the season. At present, the evolution of style is too rapid to permit the getting of sufficient gowns to last for eight months or a year.

The lingerie question can be answered in the same extravagant way as in days of yore, for no woman can ever have too many dainty undermuslins.

When planning a trousseau, one naturally starts with lingerie, for its styles are not so fickle and if there is plenty of time, the bride-to-be frequently likes to make some of these dainties herself. And right here I want to remind you that it is very foolish for you to sew and embroider like a fiend and wear yourself out for the sake of sentiment, when undermuslins—hand, as well as machine made—can now be purchased so satisfactorily at moderate prices.

Even though your lingerie expenditure may be quite limited, I thing that you should have—

Six nightgowns, six lingerie petticoats, three silk petticoats, six combinations—or six drawers and six chemises or corset covers, six vest chemises, six knitted undervests, three chiffon or net camisoles, six brassieres, two or three pairs of corsets, six pairs of cotton or lisle thread stockings, six pairs of silk stockings.

If you are fastidious that all of your undermuslins should match, very well and good—but the diversity of styles this season makes a variety commendable, too. For instance, although crepe de chine and chiffon lingerie is adorable, you may only want two such fine sets; the dainty prints and light blue batiste undermuslins may fascinate you to the degree of wanting a set or two; exquisitely fine French lingerie may be your ideal and you may be content with several American-made sets to balance the expenditure for the luxurious.

Too much attention cannot be given to the getting of corsets, for the present silhouette depends upon correct corsets for its beauty. Be sure that your corsets give you long, straight hip lines, but the low (or natural) bust. If you are slender you will probably adopt the uncorseted effect figure, which is given by Tricot, or rubber corsets—this silhouette is especially suitable for the gracefully draped evening and dinner gowns. Above, I said two or three corsets, but you should have at least three pair—two for utility wear and another for dress.

Handkerchiefs are not too small a detail to require your getting less than two dozen of them.

Gloves are very important, too. A dozen pair of various long and short white kidskin gloves will be a moderate supply. Besides, you will need three pair of white washable chamolsette gloves, two pair of natural chamois and probably a few colored kidskin gloves to match various gowns.

Shoes are vital this season because the costumes make them so conspicuous. First of all, these are necessary: One pair of tan boots, one pair heavy black calfskin boots, two pair black and tan oxfords or pumps, one pair patent leather boots with gray suede tops, one pair patent leather Colonials with cut steel buckles, one pair white evening slippers, one pair black evening slippers, one pair shoes and one pair boots of white canvas or buckskin.

A smart umbrella for the rainy days, and two parasols—one tailored, the other for afternoon frocks—for the sunshiny afternoon days of Summer.

Now, the gowns and suits that are the most important of all.

First, the wedding gown! Whether you are going to have a regal church ceremony, a picturesque lawn or modest home affair, you will surely want to wear white. If it is to be a little runaway, or just to-the-parson's occasion, that's another story—and then the traveling suit will be appropriate.

The bridal gown, whether of exquisite white satin, silk crepe, or sheer batiste is fashioned with simplicity as its keynote—this is possible if you adopt Martinet Armand's court train model, an artistically draped Calliot mode, Doeuillet's slightly draped style, or Lee's new ankle-length gown. The high stock and long sleeves are no longer considered necessary, because the dainty and soft lines given by low rounded and pointed necks, and the gracefulness of short sleeves have broken down that long-standing mode that almost became a rule.

The bridal veil should be draped according to its wearer—if she wears a low Psyche knot, then it should be mounted on Greek bands, if the Manilla fashion is most becoming it should be worn, and the cap worn by Faust's "Marguerite," or the Oriental turban style are considered as correct as the simply draped veil mounted on a band of orange blossoms.

The traveling suit should be of blue serge or wool poplin. But a silk faille, a cotton ratine and a linen suit are necessary too.

Two evening gowns, one dinner gown, two silk or crepe afternoon dresses, three lingerie dresses, four morning dresses of voile, crepe, satine and linen will be quite sufficient.

Besides a demi-tailored traveling hat, the trousseau requires a feather-trimmed dress hat, a flower-adorned chapeau, a tailored hat, and an outing hat.

BRIDAL LINGERIE.

Two handkerchiefs, either plain hemstitched or embroidered, will make a handsome corset cover with the addition of lace insertion, edging, and ribbon. Take one handkerchief and cut in two pieces from corner to corner, then take the other handkerchief and cut in two pieces the same way; then take one of these pieces and cut in halves again. There are now three large triangles and two small ones. Take two of the large pieces for the bottom, with the other large piece fitting at the top. Place a small piece at each side in front.

All these pieces are put together by a double row of insertion, forming a straight oblong piece when finished. If cut as indicated, one can readily see how they are to be pieced, together. Edge the top and bottom with beading to run ribbon through, being wider at the bottom than at the top. Put a double row of insertion down each side at the front, the side which buttons over also having a ruffle of lace. Edge the neck with a ruffle of lace. The straps for the arms are made from bands of beading or embroidery edged with lace. This corset cover may be increased in size simply by adding extra rows of insertion and beading.

HER DINNER GOWN

The flaring plaited tunic of white chiffon is the attractive feature of this evening gown of violet liberty satin. The bodice is outlined around the yoke with a trimming of rhinestones and the girdle, which is slightly raised in front, is of satin several shades deeper in color than the dress.

WHEN SHE GOES ON HER HONEYMOON

For the traveling suit a fine blue serge is one of the best selections one can make. It is here shown trimmed with black and white striped silk. The jacket does not fit in closely at the waist in the back, but hangs straight and is belted with black satin fastening with a silver buckle.

WHEN SENDING THE WEDDING GIFT

Arrange as much as possible in a plain white box, unless a gift is contained in a fitly box of its own, and write a few words, not on the [illegible] of the article, but [illegible] the recipient in knowing just who sent certain gifts, and all [illegible] gifts, as often it is a puzzle to know whether a certain article is a bridal or a wedding gift.

BRIDESMAID DRESSES.

Bridesmaids should be dressed in harmony with the bridal frock, yet nothing more elaborate or expensive. All gowns should form a setting for the one gown of importance. A bride should always wear gloves, as well as her bridesmaids, and this holds good when there is a home wedding without hats being worn. The bridesmaids may wear hats if they choose, but not unless the bride is veiled.

Handkerchiefs for the Bride

Instead of a plain, soft one, [illegible] French basket. To do this, first darn in the finish and first inches of the left hand and roll as finely as possible in your machine to sew. The lace edging or insertion that you trim with should be sewed on with the same stitch that sews the roll. In other words, the roll and edging are sewed at the same time. If it takes a prettier, more delicate finish than a hem, as it is almost invisible. Such handkerchiefs may be trimmed as simply or as elaborately as you wish. If you wish to embroider the bride's monogram or initials, put her signature from the bottom of a letter. Place it against the window-pane with the handkerchief on top and trace the name in pencil upon the linen.

A nice handkerchief is made with a four-inch diamond-shaped center of white velveteen, which takes the place of the chamois. Powder may be dusted upon the chamois-velvet center, and it clings to the puppy face even better than to the surface of a chamois skin.

A WHISPER TO THE ENGAGED GIRL.

A little bride who lives in the outskirts of the city, and who has to rise early, lies in her trousseau several cups of linen lawn and lace, and it is a dainty little white capped woman who pours the coffee at the morning meal. Her husband declares that she is prettier in her little breakfast cap than in her "dress up" hat. The cap allows her to comb her hair, arrange it in a loose knot, and slip the cap over it. It is but little expense and requires but little time to make. Besides it protects her hair from the steam of cooking and from dust.

TWO-THIRDS OF TEACHERS ARE NOW PAID PROMPTLY

Important Data Contained in Report Prepared for Governor Brown by Secretary Hardy Ulm.

BORROW TWO MILLION OUTSIDE MONEY YEARLY

Counties Must Make Loans at Big Interest Charges to Settle School Bills When Due.

Of the 13,000 teachers in the public schools of the state, two-thirds, or about 8,000 are paid promptly, but at big expense to their counties in interest on loans; 2,800 of the remainder are paid in part promptly; the remaining 2,600 have to wait from one to twelve months for each month's salary, or discount their claims at great loss. This information is contained in a report which Executive Secretary A. H. Ulm has just prepared for the governor, and which Mr. Ulm gave to the press yesterday.

$2,000,000 Borrowed Annually.

Mr. Ulm finds that the outside capital needed in financing the public schools during the year 1912 reached the alarming sum of two million dollars, and that this money was obtained at an interest cost to the various communities involved of $75,000.

In order that he might obtain more exact data on the subject of the payment of teachers than had hitherto been available, Governor Brown, some months ago, requested Mr. Ulm to make an investigation of the subject and to prepare a report thereon. Mr. Ulm reports that he has heard from 139 county superintendents and from fifty special town or city systems. In this connection the report says:

The County Systems.

"Out of 139 county systems reporting, the superintendents of seventy-nine state that their teachers were paid promptly, that is within ten to thirty days after the close of each school month. Twenty-eight counties paid part promptly, and thirty-two made no prompt payments.

"Twelve counties report that prompt payments were made throughout the school year from funds collected for the purpose, that is without obtaining temporary loans. In other words, they had a balance saved from previous years sufficient to overcome the deficit caused to the state's delay in making remittances. Some made part payments without borrowing. A few making no prompt payments borrowed, in order to shorten the delays.

"Those which made full or partial payments without borrowing were able to do so by frugal management during preceding years. And I note the hopeful sign shown by statements of other counties that they have such balances for use this year.

"A total of ninety-six counties report temporary loans, ranging from a few hundred to more than a hundred thousand dollars.

"I find, as nearly as I can estimate from the figures before me, that, for the state as a whole, the money used in making prompt payments was derived from the following sources: From the state, 35 per cent; from temporary loans, 41.75 per cent; other sources, 3.25 per cent.

"Other sources include local, county-wide taxation, tuition fees, income from investments, donations, etc. The estimate is for the state as a whole.

"However, the thirty-five counties which report local taxes as having aided them in making prompt payments, give to that source a mean average of 31.50 per cent.

Local Taxes in Twenty-three Counties.

"But only twenty-three counties report affirmatively that local taxes were levied—so, no doubt, some have confused the operations of special school districts with those of the county as a whole.

"Fifty-four counties report either entire or part payments in 'script,' or that their teachers discounted their claims by other means. Some counties allowed reasonable interest on the 'script.' Cobb, for instance, allowed 7 per cent and made all payments in such way. The teachers discounted the paper at 1 per cent. This made the money cost 8 per cent. The board paid out $981.40 in interest, as the paper was taken up, to which should be added the $150 or more lost by the teachers.

Summary As to County Systems.

"Number of teachers in counties which report no prompt payments, 1,884; number of teachers in counties which report part prompt payments, 1,647; number of teachers in counties which report full prompt payments, 3,787; total number of teachers reported on, 9,814; number of teachers reported as paid wholly or partly in script, or who discounted claims, 3,756; total of sums borrowed by county boards reporting, $1,451,069.55; average of rates of interest paid by boards, 7.69 per cent; total of sums paid out in interest by boards, $54,955.82.

Loans Ran From Three to Twelve Months.

"Average delay in counties making no prompt payments (approximated) three months and four days. Average portion of school year during which prompt payments were made by counties which did not pay promptly throughout year, one-half of term or about three months. I am unable to approximate the amount of money obtained by teachers themselves on script or other paper, but I am sure it was more than $100 for each of those involved, and that each was taxed an average of $10 or more for such advances.

Special School Districts and Systems.

"Special school districts reported on by county superintendents, 582.

"From the reports it may be safely estimated that in more than 20 per cent of such districts teachers were paid promptly either by means of accumulated balances, local taxes or loans. Even in those counties where the teachers at large had to wait for each month's pay, the special district teachers, as a rule, were paid promptly."

"Out of 50 reports on special—town or city—systems, only seven say their teachers are not paid promptly. Fewer than one-half of them report temporary loans.

"Total of sums borrowed by city or town boards reporting, $53,574.90.

"Total of sums paid out in interest by city or town boards reporting, $2,207.11.

General Summary.

"Aggregate of all sums borrowed by all boards making reports, $1,504,674.90.

"Aggregate of all sums paid out in interest by all boards reporting, $57,-163.08.

"No reports were received from seven counties and more than 25 independent systems, some of the latter being among the largest in the state. No doubt many owing to the difficulty in differentiating between special systems with their own boards and local districts under county boards and superintendents, failed to report some loans."

Continuing, the report says:

"Taking everything into consideration, I would estimate that the outside capital used in financing the operation of the public schools during 1912 amounted to $2,000,000, and that the cost of this capital was at least $75,000.

Not Entirely State's Fault.

"This condition, I think, is not entirely due to the state's delays in making remittances. More than one-half of the money spent on the common schools, according to the estimate of the state superintendent (this includes high schools) is raised by local taxation or other means. If the state made its remittances with exact promptness as they become due some boards would have to obtain loans to cover delayed receipts from other sources, and for improvements and unexpected contingencies.

"However, the conclusion is forced upon me that if the state were able to make prompt monthly remittances, the necessity for borrowing would be reduced to a minimum.

"Concretely, I would say, and I think these reports justify the estimate, that out of about 13,000 teachers in the public schools, two-thirds, or about 8,000, are paid promptly, but at big expense as the figures show. About 2,800 of the remainder are paid part promptly, and about 2,800 have to wait from one to twelve months for each month's salary or discount their claims at great loss. More clearly, about two-thirds of the teachers are paid with promptness and one-third subject to more or less delay.

"Those boards which borrowed money to make up casual deficits paid in 1912 from 6 to 12 per cent interest on funds. It is of interest to note that several have been borrowing from a Michigan bank at 6 per cent because they could not obtain money at so low a rate at home, and others state they have arranged to patronize the outside bank this year.

"Teachers who have to discount non-interest bearing paper do so at a loss of from 8 to 25 per cent, and in one county, the superintendent reports, they were unable in 1912 to discount claims at any rate.

"It is interesting to trace through these reports the many evidences of the benefits of local taxation. Wherever such is levied better salaries are paid, payments made more promptly, loans apparently more easily obtained and at a lower rate of interest than otherwise prevails.

Hopeful Note.

"A hopeful note runs through the reports of many counties as they will soon join those in the local tax column. There is an evident rapid growth in the number of McMichael law districts. A large area which did not pay promptly last year have arranged to do so this year.

"However, from the reports before me, I am convinced it will be many years, if ever, before all the various subsystems will adjust themselves to the tardy payment situation and avoid the waste it causes."

RED MEN HAVE LODGE NOW AT FAYETTEVILLE

A large party of Atlanta Red Men left last night to install a lodge of the Improved Order of Red Men at Fayetteville, which was recently organized under very favorable conditions and with bright prospects of becoming one of the leading lodges of the order in that section of Georgia.

Under the direction of Past Sachem Charles L. Woodall, the degree team of Comanche tribe, No. 6, of Atlanta, went to Fayetteville to exemplify the work and ceremonies in installing the lodge.

LITTLE RUBY MOORE IS A COUNTY MASCOT

RUBY HILL MOORE,
One of Fitzgerald's Most Attractive Children.

Fitzgerald, Ga., May 31.—(Special.)—Little Miss Ruby Hill Moore, the beautiful young daughter of Judge and Mrs William B. Moore, of Fitzgerald, was one of the queen's attendants at the recent May day fete in Fitzgerald, and the accompanying picture is her photograph in the costume in which she appeared on that occasion.

Little Ruby enjoys the distinction of being the first child born in Ben Hill county, she having celebrated the creation of the new county by arriving in it coincident with the governor's signature to the bill. She is universally regarded here as the county mascot, so to speak, and in the recent May festivities in which she was a charming participant, she received a cordial ovation.

DORSEY WILL DELIVER CUP ON ALUMNI DAY

Athens, Ga., May 31.—(Special.)—Cam Dorsey, of Atlanta, was today chosen to deliver the address on the occasion of the delivery of the sophomore cup at the university on alumni day. According to custom, a member of the class of ten years back, 1903 this year, is selected. Class reunions of the classes of 1908 and 1858 will be held also this year on Tuesday of commencement.

Florida Citrus Fruit Loan.

Washington, May 31.—The constitutionality of the Florida law of 1911, prohibiting the sale or the shipment from the state of immature citrus fruits, is to be passed upon by the supreme court of the United States. S. J. Stitch, of Wayeross, Ga., convicted of shipping immature oranges from Florida to Georgia, today docketed an appeal in the supreme court.

FIGHT TO BE CONTINUED, SAYS MRS. LONGSTREET

She Declares Tallulah Case Will Be Taken to the Higher Court.

Washington, May 31.—(Special.)—I have received The Constitution containing the vicious attack made on me in the Tallulah Falls trial by one H. H. Dean, of Gainesville. The creature that he is finds it safe to attack a woman six hundred miles away, who has no weapons to meet the methods of things like him. I am detained in the east, making arrangements for my future affairs, driven out of Georgia by the hirelings of the water trust which is occupying the state's property at Tallulah. Personal attacks on me furnish poor defense to the rotten titles of the Georgia Railway and Power company to the fairest stretch of scenery on the western continent.

The lawyers employed by me under direction of the Georgia legislature and the Tallulah Falls Conservation and Parking Association stayed away from the dummy trial at Clayton because Dean and his crowd will face me and they will face my lawyers at the next legal encounter, which won't be any makeshift.

I believe the day has not dawned in Georgia when Georgia's supreme court can be made to do the bidding of corporation gold. I believe that day will never dawn. If it ever does, we will blot from the nation's flag Georgia's star of statehood and bid the curfew toll the knell of our parting day; and we will write over our gates what Jugurtha proposed to write over the gates of Rome: "For Sale: A Venal State If She Can Find a Purchaser."

Can the Georgia Railway and Power company run the courts of Georgia? We shall see. We shall see. Can the Georgia Railway and Power company defy Georgia's remaining body? We shall see. We shall see. It is the intention of this waterpower trust to get the decision of the lower court sustained by the supreme court at a special sitting before the next legislature meets. But Georgia's supreme court does not wear the yoke of the Georgia Railway and Power company. And the day will never dawn when the yoke of this interloper can be placed upon the necks of Georgia's own sons who are called to her supreme bench.

HELEN D. LONGSTREET.
President Tallulah Falls Conservation and Parking Association.

MARIST CADETS WILL DRILL ON WEDNESDAY

An exhibition drill by the Marist College cadets on the college drill grounds Wednesday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock will be an attractive feature of the commencement exercises of that military school beginning June 4.

The entire corps of cadets will take part in the drill under command of Major Eugene Behmidt, commandant, and will be critically watched by regular army officers from Fort McPherson.

Thursday, the second day, will be given over to competitive drills, individual as well as squad and company, and the work will be graded by regular army officers who will award the Silverman and the McCall medals for the best individual orkers in the contest.

Trophies indicating proficiency in military training will be awarded the best drilled squads working in the competition.

NEW LOCATION NEEDED FOR DISTRICT SCHOOL

DeKalb County to Make Strong Fight for State Institution. May Change Law.

Will it be necessary to move one or more of the district agricultural schools every time the state is redistricted for members of congress? That will be one of the questions for the legislature to settle this summer. As the law stands now it is more than likely that there will be a shift in the location of one or more of the schools every decade with the taking of each new census.

The act creating the schools, which was passed during the administration of the late Governor Joseph M. Terrell, provided that there should be one school in each congressional district of the state. The possibility that a school might be in one congressional district one decade and in another the next seems to have been overlooked by the author of the bill.

Now the problem will be, how can there be built up strong, permanent institutions of learning in these schools as long as the possibility exists that they may be switched from one county to another by the decennial rearrangement of congressional district lines?

A concrete illustration of this shifting of schools from one district to another will be presented to the legislature next month in the case of the Fifth congressional district. The school of this district is in Walton county, which by the redistricting act of 1911 was cut off from the Fifth district and annexed to the Eighth. As a result, the Eighth district now has two district agricultural school, while the Fifth district has none. Now, as the Eighth district extends to the state university and the State College of Agricultire the addition of another agricultural school is manifestly out of all proportion to its just entitlement, while the fifth district will never stand to be left out of the count altogether.

DeKalb the Logical Location.

So the legislature will be asked to give the Fifth district a school and a strong effort will be made to locate it in DeKalb county. Representatives Alonzo F. Field and R. E. Smith are back of the movement to secure the school for their county and it is believed that they will succeed. Mr. Smith is scheduled to speak on the subject at a meeting to be held at the court house in Decatur tomorrow. It is believed that he will stir up a very strong sentiment among his constituents to have the school located in DeKalb county.

The advocates of DeKalb will maintain that their county is the only logical county for the institution, as it is not likely that DeKalb will ever be separated from Fulton in any future redistricting of the state, while it is more than probable that all the other counties in the district will be cut off after the census of 1920.

CAMPAIGN CONTINUES FOR COLORED Y. M. C. A.

A popular campaign is being launched in the city for the new Y. M. C. A. building for colored men and boys. In addition to the work being done by the teams of the churches for the next thirty days, a new band of workers have pledged themselves to pull off a popular campaign known as the "Dollar a Man," the object of which is to collect one dollar each from several thousand men and boys for this much-needed work, during the month of June. It has been made so easy that the amount pledged can be paid in four weekly payments, if not all at once. Secretary Trent says that he has been most agreeably surprised and encouraged at the active and enthusiastic interest already shown by the men of the hotels and the clothing of the deep interest taken in the distribution of the cards by the representatives of the six Insurance companies, to say nothing of the fine spirit shown by the Y. M. C. A. force.

The following persons have paid their pledges in full during the past few days: W. B. Wallace, $25; Mrs. F. V. Folds, $25; I. B. Hulin, $10; A. Haks, $5; C. A. Bullard, $25; J. E. Tate, $25; W. R. Finley, $10; Professor J. J. Phillips, $15; J. W. Jones, $10.

OVERHAULING CAPITOL FOR LEGISLATIVE MEET

Seats and Desks Installed in the House Chamber for New County Members.

A gang of cleaners were busy at the capitol yesterday getting the building ready for the coming session of the general assembly, which is less than a month away. Carpets are being taken out and beaten, furniture refurbished, lawns mowed and the premises otherwise spruced up for the legislators when they arrive.

One improvement that will add much to the appearance of the capitol and that will be permanent is the new set of electric lights that are being installed on the front and rear entrances of the building. They are globes of the same size and power as are those used in lighting the downtown section of the city.

To accommodate the members from the two new counties, Wheeler and Bleckley, new seats, with desks, are being installed in the house of representatives' chamber. It was a noteworthy fact that will doubtless be seized as a good omen by the advocates of new counties this year, that while only two additional desks are needed, six or eight are being put in.

"It looks like they are getting ready for Candler and Barrow when they come in," was the remark of a habitue of the capitol who was watching the work.

MORE SENATORS PLACED ON PARTY COMMITTEE

Washington, May 31.—Twenty senators, instead of nine as at present, were agreed on as members of the democratic congressional committee hereafter by senators and representatives conferring on the plan for increasing the proportion of senators on the campaign organization. Representative Lloyd, of Missouri, as temporary chairman, tonight issued a call for a meeting of the congressional committee next Monday night to act on the plan.

Representatives Lloyd and Page, of North Carolina, temporary officers of the committee, and Senators Gore, Newlands and other members of the senate agreed upon President Wilson's suggestion that there should be on the congressional committee one senator from each state to elect a senator in 1914, providing at least one senator from that state is now serving. With this plan will go to the congressional committee a recommendation that five members of that body be chosen to meet with five members of the democratic national committee to conserve as a committee of ten in active charge of the next congressional campaign.

Under today's agreement the following senators would become members of the congressional committee:

James, Kentucky; Thompson, Kansas; Pomerene, Ohio; Chamberlain, Oregon; Clarke, Arkansas; Fletcher, Florida; Hollis, New Hampshire; Gore, Oklahoma; Johnson, Alabama; Newlands, Nevada; Overman, North Carolina; O'Gorman, New York; Lewis, Illinois; Shively, Indiana; Smith, Georgia; Smith, Arizona; Smith, South Carolina; Smith, Maryland; Stone, Missouri, and Thomas, Colorado.

Gives Quickest and Surest Cure For All Sore Feet

The following is absolutely the surest and quickest cure known to science for all foot ailments: "Dissolve one tablespoonful of Calocide compound in a basin of warm water. Soak the feet in this for a period of 20 minutes, gently rubbing the sore parts." The effect is really wonderful. All soreness goes instantly. The feet feel so good you could sing for joy. Corns and callouses can be peeled right off. It gives immediate relief from bunions, sweaty, smelly and aching feet. A twenty-five-cent box of Calocide is said to be sufficient to cure the worst feet. It works through the pores and removes the cause of the trouble. Don't waste time on uncertain remedies. Any druggist has Calocide compound in stock or he can get it in a few hours from his wholesale house. It is not a patent medicine, but is an ethical preparation.

Tech's Splendid Growth In Quarter Century; From Log Cabin to Plant With 700 Students

View of Buildings and Campus of Georgia School of Technology.

Georgia Tech begins is quarter centennial celebration tomorrow.

Georgia Tech is one of the few big educational institutions in America which could hold a quarter centennial.

One of the remarkable things about Tech is the fact that it is a product of a single generation.

Most educational institutions which rank beside it, north and south, go back fifty or one hundred years for the date of their founding.

Dr. Hopkins Idea.

Prior to the early eighties, the Georgia School of Technology did not exist even as an idea. In 1882 or 1883 Dr. Isaac S. Hopkins, who later became the first president of Georgia Tech, fitted up a modest work shop in an old log cabin in the back yard of his home in the village of Oxford. He was then a professor in Emory college. He had a love of mechanics, and a genius for invention, and the students of Emory used to eagerly gather around him and watch his work at the bench and with the lathe. It so fascinated them that they wanted to learn, too. Yielding to the requests from parents of the boys, Dr. Hopkins began to instruct them in tool craft in 1884. It was there that technological education in the south had its birth.

From a log cabin less than thirty years ago to a magnificent plant covering twenty-five acres, with sixteen buildings, valued at approximately $500,000 is the history of the progress of technological education in Georgia in twenty-five years, as it will be celebrated at this quarter-centennial.

Tech's Real Beginning.

The work of Dr. Hopkins in his little cabin at Oxford, however, was merely creating the prologue to the real founding of Georgia Tech. The bill creating a state technological school in connection with the state university was formed and introduced by Colonel N. E. Harris, of Macon. It passed the state legislature in 1885, and Colonel Harris thus became the founder and father of the institution. He has never ceased to take active and effective interest in working out its destinies, and is today president of its board of trustees.

Georgia Tech has only had three presidents in its history, Dr. I. S. Hopkins, the late Dr. Lyman Hall and Dr. K. G. Matheson, its present president. Under the successive direction of these three gentlemen, all of its wonderful growth has taken place.

Georgia Tech today has between 600 and 700 students. Twenty-seven states and some foreign countries are represented. It has a faculty of sixty-five members and associate members.

Still Cannot Meet Demands.

Yet with all its splendid growth, the Georgia School of Technology cannot turn out graduate engineers fast enough to meet the demand in the south, and Dr. Matheson hopes to see greater growth during the next ten years than Tech has ever known in one decade before. He hopes to see the real founding of Georgia Tech. The bill creating a state technological school in connection with the state university was formed and introduced by Colonel N. E. Harris, of Macon. It passed the state legislature in 1885, and Colonel Harris thus became the founder and father of the institution. He has never ceased to take active and effective interest in working out its destinies, and is today president of its board of trustees.

Georgia Tech has only had three presidents in its history, Dr. I. S. Hopkins, the late Dr. Lyman Hall and Dr. K. G. Matheson, its present president. Under the successive direction of these three gentlemen, all of its wonderful growth has taken place.

Is Practical.

The Georgia School of Technology takes its chiefest pride in and attributes its wonderful success to the fact that it is intensely practical. It turns out capable men—"builders" in the widest meaning of that word. Its mechanical engineer, electrical engineers, civil engineers, textile engineers, chemists and architects are today helping to build a new south.

If the city of Atlanta, with all its churches, roads, factories and skyscrapers were swept off the map by a tornado today, the graduating class of the Georgia School of Technology could furnish the brains and the technical knowledge necessary to direct its reconstruction.

A boy who graduates from the Tech can do more than wield a hammer or run a dynamo. He can make a hammer. He can build a dynamo. He is taught to make tools, to use them, and above all, to direct their intelligent use by others.

Yet the scholastic and intellectual amenities are not neglected. The departments of English and modern languages are as fine as those in any non-technical college. Culture is considered along with the work of a purely practical nature. Students who desire to do so, may learn German, French and Spanish. Tech doesn't turn out mere specialists. It turns out well-rounded men.

At Georgia Tech one gets the combination of theoretical and practical knowledge, which is today recognized as the best form of education. A leading engineering magazine recently said, "Either theoretical knowledge or practical knowledge is a good horse, but they work and pull best together."

At the Tech the theory of engineering subjects is obtained from classroom and laboratory from men expert in their line, whose character and knowledge have been vital forces in building up the school.

Study in the Shops.

In the shops one learns the practical side of the question, sees the work done by expert machinists, foundrymen and so on, and does the work himself under their supervision. By performing these different kinds of work, all useful and practical, one soon becomes familiar with shop methods and shop limitations, learns the "impossibilities" which a good designer must not call for, learns the best methods of doing such work, and, therefore, the best methods of design. In the work of designing, too, the student is taught by actually drawing and designing different machines and parts of machines under the guidance of men who know. With their supervision the theoretical and practical sides of designing are studied and discussed. Some of the things which have been designed and built in the shops are steam engines, one of which is now driving the shops, several gas engines, a rotary converter, one or two electric generators, and numerous small things, such as reducing valves, repairs on many of the different machines around the school, lathes and so forth, for shop equipment. Altogether, the system of study and work is designed to produce men who are trained to do and to think.

Besides opportunities of obtaining technical training and knowledge, Tech offers other very valuable advantages to a young man, which he cannot afford to neglect, if he is to attain success. Because of its location in a large and enterprising city, students have the opportunity of seeing countless construction jobs of observing new engineering practices as they appear, of examining the work done in the many manufacturing plants located in or near the city, and of observing the methods of management of these plants.

Athletics Not Neglected.

Just at the time the average man is in college, he is passing from boyhood to manhood and his whole success depends on obtaining and keeping a strong, healthy body. At Tech, under the instructions of the best coaches in the land, one may take up baseball, football, tennis, track work, basket ball and other forms of athletics, and this keep his body in fit physical condition for hard study in classroom work. The advantage of this cannot be overestimated.

Another advantage is the good influence continually thrown around the students by the Y. M. C. A., the Student Bible Study Groups, by the Sunday school classes which have been established solely for their benefit, and by the example of the men who are at the head of the institution.

To Celebrate This Week.

It is the building up of the institution described here which will be celebrated this week and next week in connection with the commencement exercises.

The first public gathering is tomorrow night at the Grand opera house.

Georgia Tech is a state institution. It belongs to Georgia and the people of Georgia. All its friends and patrons who can come are cordially invited to be present at the celebration exercises.

LAST WEEK OF SCHOOL, PERIOD OF ACTIVITY

Little Folks Are Making Ready for Vacation Joys—Graduating Exercises at Grand.

This is the last week of school. It will consequently be a week of joy and excitement to approximately 22,000 of the growing generation of Atlantans. When they are dismissed from school for the last time this afternoon, it will be the end of the study season for the three months and the beginning of the merry, care-free, irresponsible, out-of-doors vacation time.

Many are the plans that are incubating in the brains of the little folks for the enjoyment of their period of freedom. Some will go away to the country and a few to the seashore, but most of them will spend the time right here in Atlanta, many of the poorer ones having to go to work to help out their families. The great majority of them will be ready and willing to get back to their school tasks again when the bells ring in September.

This week then will be a week of great activity in all the schools. Stock will be taken of the year's work, to use an expression familiar to merchants; examinations will be finished and promotions announced. Many of the grammar schools are preparing entertainments for their pupils' parents and friends. There will be the graduating exercises of the high schools at the Grand, when the finishing classes will reach the summit looked forward to by all their juniors in the grades below them and be handed their diplomas.

Superintendent William M. Slaton reports that the year just passed has been the most prosperous and the most generally satisfactory in the history of the public schools. The enrollment for the year is 24,065, as against 22,071 last year, showing an increase of 1,094. This is said to be the greatest increase in enrollment yet made in a single year. That there is a large number of young Atlantans still unprovided for in the schools, however, is shown in the census recently completed by the state department of education. This census gives the number of children of school age, black and white, within the confines of the city as 32,149.

An unusually large class of girls will graduate from the several divisions of the Girls' High school this year. The total is 158, of which number 21 are normal school graduates, 46 in the English Commercial High school and 97 in the High school proper. The graduating exercises to be held next Thursday evening at the Grand opera house will doubtless be most interesting and brilliant in every particular.

There will not be near so many boys to graduate this year as girls. It is true that the girl graduates usually outnumber the boys, but the chief reason for the great difference this year is in the fact that there will be no graduates of the High School of Technology, owing to the addition of another year's work by the board of education. Those who had set out to finish this year will not be graduated until June of next year. The graduating exercises of the Boys' High school will take place at the Grand Friday evening.

ON THE "SMUT" SONG CHICAGO PLACES BAN

Chicago, May 31.—Chicago officially put a ban on the "smut" song today, when an amendment to the city ordinance went into effect prohibiting all public acts of indecency, suggestive gestures or songs or abusive or threatening words, or acts, in any public place.

Superintendent of Police McWeeny sent out an order calling attention to the amendment and instructing that all violations be followed by arrest and prosecution. The penalty for violations is a fine ranging from $5 to $100.

"The new amendment is broad and is especially good for the suppression of 'smutty' songs," said the police chief.

Strict enforcement of the amendment is promised, and official "censors" expect to keep a close watch on all theaters and cabaret shows.

DARDEN ON HIS WAY FOR THREE-YEAR TERM

Instructing his attorneys to give up all attempts to secure him a new trial, E. T. Darden, recently sentenced to a three-year term in the state farm at Milledgeville, left yesterday morning to begin his sentence.

As he left Atlanta he declared that his case had proved the fallacy of the claim that there is such a thing as the "unwritten law" in Georgia. "I shot C. M. Goddard," he reiterated, "because he ruined my home and then bragged of it to neighbors, and I still believe that I did right."

POSTAL TO ESTABLISH OFFICE IN WASHINGTON

Washington, Ga., May 31.—(Special.) The Postal Telegraph-Cable company are preparing to bring their lines into Washington and will establish a local office by the first of August. Poles from bringing the wires from Crawfordsville, via Sandy Cross and Ficklin, have been ordered, and Superintendent G. W. Bibble, of Atlanta, who has charge of the southern division of state, will be in Washington within the next week to arrange for the local offices.

HOT FIGHT EXPECTED AT MERCER MEETING

Expected That Differences Between Prudential Committee and President to Be Aired.

Macon, Ga., May 31.—(Special.)—When the board of trustees of Mercer university meet in Macon Monday there is sure to be something doing, and by some it is said the fight will wage about the administration of the affairs of the college by President S. Y. Jameson, who recently declined the presidency of the Ouachita college at Arkadelphia, Ark., and announced his intention of remaining at Mercer another year.

The members of the prudential committee, which is composed of the members of the board of trustees residing in Macon, are said to be lined up against Dr. Jameson, and it was this difference existing between that committee and the president which caused the board of trustees to appoint a special investigating committee some months ago to look into the matter. The report of this committee will be made to the trustees Monday.

Dr. P. C. Dargan, president of the Southern Baptist convention, pastor of the First Baptist church of Macon, and chairman of the board of trustees, is said to be at outs with Dr. Jameson, and he has the support of the other Macon members. The strained relations existing between President Jameson and Dr. Dargan is said to have caused President Jameson to decide to have the annual commencement sermon preached in the college chapel this year, instead of at the First Baptist church, as has been the case in former years.

The local trustees will not discuss the fight that it is reported will be made on Dr. Jameson, but they do not deny that it is brewing.

It is said that it had been planned to demand the resignation of President Jameson at the meeting of the trustees last year, but Dr. Dargan advised against such action.

One of the other important matters to be considered at the meeting of the trustees Monday in the proposition to abolish the Greek letter fraternities from the university. The non-fraternity men have the support of President Jameson in this fight.

One of the causes of the strained relations existing between the Macon trustees and Dr. Jameson is said to be the outspoken advocacy of Dr. Jameson in favor of the removal of the university from Macon.

Shoofly Hits Freight.

Macon, Ga., May 31.—(Special.)—While a switch engine was standing on a siding at Jones' brick yard, two miles south of Macon, this morning at 9:15 o'clock, it was struck by Southern passenger train No. 107, known as the Joe Brown Shoofly, and eight persons were injured, three fatally, three of them being members of the train crew. The injured are:

S. J. Hayes, engineer of the passenger train; shoulders and arms badly bruised.

S. M. Joiner, of Hazlehurst, fireman on the passenger train; chest bruised and internal injuries.

P. H. Landrum, of Atlanta, ticket collector, back sprained and internal injuries.

J. E. Richertson, LaGrange, passenger; chest slightly bruised.

T. E. Everett, Bullards; neck and face bruised.

J. H. Smith, of Phillips; left side slightly bruised.

Dr. B. F. Watkins, of Bullards; right ankle and shoulder bruised.

J. W. Davidson, of Chester; two teeth loosened and face bruised.

Of the injured only four were seriously enough hurt to necessitate them being taken to the hospital. They were Engineer Hayes, Fireman Joiner and Ticket Collector Landrum, of the train crew, and J. E. Richertson, one of the passengers.

Conductor J. E. Bennett, of the switch engine, had gone into the brick yard office to telephone to the Southern railway office to find out where the passenger train was, and while he was doing that he heard a crash. He thought at the time he had five minutes to spare.

Engineer Brantley, of the switch engine, jumped in time to avoid being hurt.

The passengers on the Joe Brown train were all shaken up more or less, but only those named were in anywise injured.

Radcliff is Released.

Macon, Ga., May 31.—(Special.)—W. J. Radcliff, the young Atlanta man who last Monday ran into E. Green, a negro, with his motorcycle, causing injuries from which Green died, was today released from the county jail, Solicitor Ross deciding that the accident was unavoidable.

The young man was greatly disturbed over the accident, and while in jail declared that he would willingly trade places with the dead man if it were possible.

Radcliff will leave in a few days for his home.

THREE ARRETS MADE IN HAWKINS MURDER

Coroner's Jury Adjourns Until Tuesday, When Bellton Killing Will Be Taken Up.

Lula, Ga., May 31.—(Special.)—The coroner's jury has adjourned until Tuesday next, when they will again take up the Hawkins murder, which occurred near Belltown, Ga.

There have been three arrests made, the two Cantrell brothers and a young man named Miller. All have been placed in Hall county jail at Gainesville.

It is said Mrs. Hawkins requested the Cantrell brothers and Miller to go look for her husband when he failed to come in at the usual time, and they found the body, but left it alone in the woods, where it remained all night, and until the sheriff arrived on an early train from Gainesville.

WILSON TO MAKE FIGHT FOR CURRENCY REFORM

President Is Urging Monetary Legislation by the Present Session of Congress.

Washington, May 31.—Senator Tillman today made public a letter from President Wilson in which the president declared for currency legislation at the present session of congress.

In that portion of the letter referring to currency, the president wrote:

"This is the time to pass currency legislation and I think we are in a sense bound in loyalty to the country to pass it, so that any attempt to create artificial disturbances after the tariff shall have become law may be offset by a sense of credit which will make it possible for men, big and little, to take care of themselves in business."

Senator Tillman, in a letter to the president, had inclosed one from Representative Johnson, of South Carolina, urging immediate currency reform. Representative Johnson took the position that "certain influences and men" were desirous of seeing the tariff revision followed by stagnation and hard times.

"We ought to have a banking system that will enable the government to prevent, or at any rate, check in its incipiency a monetary panic," Representative Johnson wrote.

When Senator Tillman gave out the correspondence today he accompanied it with a prepared statement in which he began by declaring that the republicans were fighting to retard tariff legislation and to retard or prevent entirely currency reform.

"In my judgment it is of vital importance to the future success of the democratic party that we should have currency legislation as soon as possible," said he.

"We ought to force the fighting on the tariff and drive it through the senate under whip and spur, just like it was driven through the house.

"We ought to begin promptly to inaugurate changes in the currency and banking laws, which will make it possible for men, big and little, to take care of themselves in business. We have too many multi-millionaires, and too many paupers. The division is not just or equal, and the people know it. And they have commissioned the democratic party to right these wrongs."

Senator Tillman's statement added that the "game" of the republicans was to retard or prevent tariff or currency legislation at this congress, in the hope of turning the democrats out of power at the next elections and controlling the legislative situation during the remainder of President Wilson's term.

Representative Johnson also issued a statement urging immediate currency reform, declaring that if it were now delayed, it would not be accomplished until the regular session of congress in 1914.

MOTHER'S LETTER SAVES SON FROM CRISP CO. JAIL

Cordele, Ga., May 31.—(Special.)—A pathetic letter from an anxious mother at Halifax, Nova Scotia, pleading earnestly for the freedom of her son, caused Judge W. F. George to show leniency toward Ralph Silverthorne, a youth of about 20 years, charged with a misdemeanor in superior court of Crisp county.

Silverthorne has been confined in the Crisp county jail since February with Arthur Haslam and George Davis, who claim their homes as London and Glasgow, respectively. These men were charged with assisting Silverthorne in committing a theft of food and other articles from the home of a farmer in the county. Silverthorne pleaded guilty to the theft and the other two men were freed of the charges against them.

Pope Company Meeting.

Washington, Ga., May 31.—(Special.) The Pope Manufacturing company, a local stock company capitalized at $115,000, which operates an oil mill, ice factory and grist mill, held its annual meeting this week. The following officers were unanimously re-elected: I. T. Irvin, Jr., president; C. S. Lucas, vice president; James A. Benson, Jr., manager, and F. H. Fiskin secretary and Treasurer.

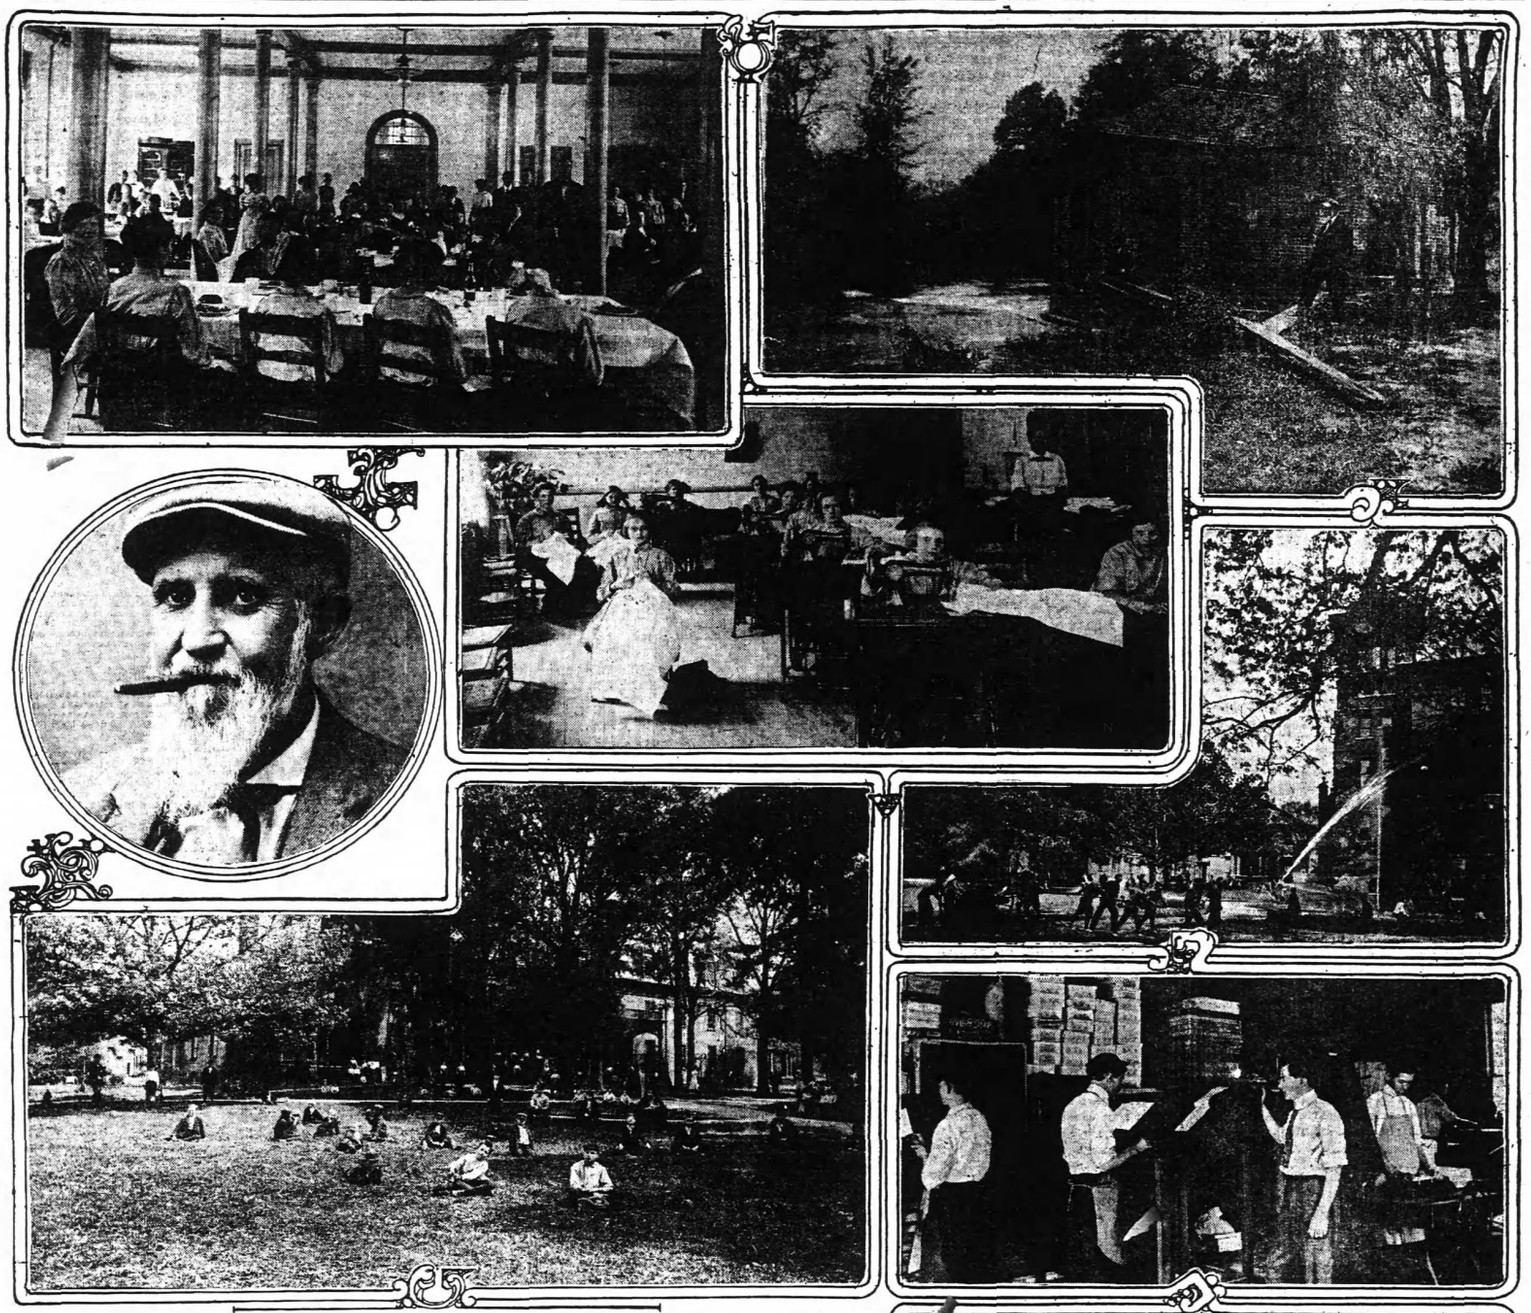
MAKING GOOD CITIZENS OF GEORGIA'S DEAF AND DUMB

History of State Academy at Cave SpringReads Like a Chapter from a Story Book.



Top row: Corner of the dingin hall, and a scene showing water power house and picturesque surroundings. Center row: Principal W. O. Connor; an intermediate class in sewing; the school fire department at prace, the academic building being in the foreground, boys' dormitory ext, dining hall in middle distance and girls' dormitory to left. Bottom row: Girls' dormitory and spacious lawn; scene in print shop. At right in corner: Mutes making furniture in carpenter shop.

By J. D. M'CARTNEY.

In 1832, the state of Georgia began to realize that it was worth while to educate the deaf, and efforts were begun in that year looking to the ultimate establishment of a state school for these unfortunates.

After many vicissitudes, the movement reached a point in 1846 where the Hearn academy at Cave Spring was induced to establish a department for deaf children, and systematically to educate them.

Oliver P. Fannin, a native Georgian and assistant principal of Hearn, was deputized to go to Hartford, Conn., to learn the methods of teaching the deaf from the American Asylum for Deaf at that place.

He returned in a few months, and on the 15th day of May, 1846, in a little log cabin at Cave Spring, with an enrollment of four pupils, began the work which has grown steadily, and almost by its own efforts, into a great institution of usefulness to the state and nation.

In 1849, the first real state institution was opened in a very modest way, with Mr. Fannin as superintendent. Its growth was rapid, for it filled a real want, and when the war between the states began in 1861 more than fifty pupils were in attendance.

Three years previous to this time Wesley O. Connor had entered the service of the school as instructor, but, feeling the call of his state, he enlisted in the confederate army, and served through that conflict, in spite of an offer of the school's superintendency if he would resign his military position. All the male teachers of the school, regarding their duty in the same light as Mr. Connor, went to the war and left no one in charge of the institution. It was, therefore, closed until the end of the conflict.

In Charge of Institution Since Civil War.

In 1865, after he was released from Camp Chase, where he was a federal prisoner, Mr. Connor was called back to assume the management of the institution. With fidelity and efficiency he has since served continuously in the same capacity, until he is now, as superintendent of the state institution, the oldest in point of service, and best-known instructor of the deaf in the United States.

The location of the Georgia School for the Deaf is at Cave Spring, Floyd county, 16 miles from Rome, on a branch of the Southern railway.

The environment is pastoral, though not inconveniently so. Cave Spring, with 1,000 people, is not large enough to present those diversions and temptations which beset pupils of schools located in cities. The high altitude and picturesque scenery is as bracing and delightful as the state can furnish. Located in the famous Van's valley, the school can raise and buy its vegetables, chickens, eggs and produce at from 20 to 30 per cent less than elsewhere. By this fact alone the state saves several thousands of dollars annually.

As its name implies, this is a school for the education of deaf persons strictly, and in no sense an asylum, any more than the colleges at Dahlonega, Athens or the Tech in Atlanta; neither is it a charitable institution.

It is a public school established for the benefit of such persons as are too deaf to be instructed by methods used in other public schools in the state. All persons over seven and under twenty-five years of age, who are mentally and physically in condition to receive instruction profitably, but so deaf that they cannot be taught in the common schools, are entitled to the benefits of the institution free of charge. Absolutely no fees are charged for such length of time not to exceed twelve scholastic years, both board and clothing being furnished.

The control of the school is in the hands of a board of trustees, seven in number, appointed by the governor. W. J. Griffin, who was appointed on the board in 1899, has been chairman for ten years, while D. W. Simmons, clerk of the superior court of Floyd county, has been secretary and treasurer of it for several decades. The other members of the board are Dr. J. W. Taylor, of Luthersville; Dr. William Bradford, of Cedartown; Hon P. M. Hawes, of Elberton; H. C. Arnall, of Newnan; Wilson M. Hardy, of Rome, and W. T. Roberts, of Douglasville. Professor Wesley O. Connor is principal, and Miss Nettie McDaniel assistant principal. They have an able corps of assistants.

Pioneer in Vocational Training in South.

The Georgia School for the Deaf was the pioneer in industrial education and vocational training in the south. Th pupils are taught those simple occupations by which they can earn an honest living in competition with those who speak and hear. The trades of the shoemaker, the printer, the tailor, carpenter, barber, painter, harness-maker, wood carver, pyrographer, hair dresser, dressmaker, rug-maker, farmer, truck gardener and domestic science are among those which the pupils are taught at Cave Spring, and in which they become quite proficient.

More than 1,200 boys and girls, by virtue of their training, have left the institution to become solid and substantial citizens, instead of wards of the state.

The 1910 census reveals the fact that there were in Georgia only 22 deaf children of school age not enrolled in the G. S. D., and several of those were in private institutions in Georgia and New York. This shows the unanimity with which the deaf people appreciate the opportunities afforded them to gain an education. The enrollment at Cave Spring this year is 170.

Seventh State in Union to Establish School.

Georgia was the seventh state in the union to establish a school for the deaf. Inspired by the work of the Cave Spring institution, J. H. Johnson, one of the trustees, founded a similar school at Talladega, immediately after the war. He has been succeeded by his son and grandson, both namesakes.

The large and complete plant at the Georgia School for the Deaf enables the state to educate its deaf at a minimum cost. Over 100 acres of fertile land cultivated intensively and scientifically, with dairies, water and lighting plants, go far toward making the institution and each individual pupil as a unit self-sustaining. The farm work and domestic work is done largely by the pupils.

In recent years there has been a wide discussion of the merits of two methods of teaching the deaf—the oral and the manual. Experience has shown that the best results are obtained by using both, and the G. S. D. does this.

When it becomes apparent that a pupil can be taught to read the lips of a person talking, he is instructed in the oral method. On the other hand, there are large numbers who cannot be successfully taught the oral method, and these are instructed to talk an read by signs and finger-movements.

Veiled criticism which has been made of several southern institutions because they have not forsaken the first method of teaching—the manual—has been well meant, but ill advised. Those pupils who are hardest to teach, the dullest, cannot be taught in any other way. By using both methods, as is done in the largest deaf schools of the United States, all classes of children can be reached. No institution can carry out its mission in any other way.

Professor Stockard, of the Cornell University Medical college, has announced through the Journal of the American Medical association his discoveries of the effects of alcohol on racial degeneration.

The result of the investigations has shown conclusively that alcohol may affect the offspring through either parent. In order that records of degenerates, statistics on insanity and the great quantity of other contributed evidence could be verified by actual tests, the doctor began his experiments on lower animals.

It is wonderful how every opposition appears to lose its substance when we men actually grapple with it.

COL. ROOSEVELT WINS HIS SUIT FOR LIBEL

witness who is willing to state that he has personally seen Mr. Roosevelt drink to excess."

At this the plaintiff smiled, and relaxed. The colonel broke into a grin again when Mr. Newett said, with reference to the mass of testimony adduced by the plaintiff, "I am forced to the conclusion that I was mistaken."

The statement admitted that a search of the country had been made to investigate stories of persons alleged to have knowledge that Mr. Roosevelt drank to excess, but in every case the stories flattened out to mere opinions or hearsay.

Libel in Good Faith.

The libel was published in good faith, Newett said, in the belief that it was true and proper information. That it was true the defendant said he believed until the trial opened.

No demand for a retraction ever had been made, he stated, and when the bill was filed against him, there was nothing left for him to do but make preparations to contest the suit. Forty depositions were taken in various parts of the country, but to use, or attempt to use them, would be to continue an injustice which had already become apparent to him and to his attorneys.

Leaving the stand, Mr. Newett looked in the direction of Colonel Roosevelt, but the latter was whispering to his counsel. Attorney Pound then said:

"With the court's permission the plaintiff would like to make a brief announcement."

The judge nodded and Mr. Roosevelt arose. Bowing to the court, the colonel said he would waive the matter of damages save for the nominal amount provided by law. Speaking of his purpose in instituting suit, he said:

"I wished once for all during my lifetime to deal with those slanders so that never again will it be possible for any man in good faith to, repeat them."

Roosevelt Convinced Judge.

Here recess was taken. Judge Flannigan read his charge to the jury immediately after recess as Speaking of Colonel Roosevelt, as the plaintiff, Judge Flannigan said:

"Certainly he has convinced the court, not only that he never was drunk, but that he is now and always has been a temperate and abstemious man."

At the same time court held that Mr. Newett, in publishing the editorial, "was not actuated by any actual ill-will toward the plaintiff and that he acted in good faith."

But, the court held, the injury to the plaintiff, had he not waived his right to damages, would have sustained a verdict in any sum up to the amount claimed in the plaintiff's declaration—$50,000.

As soon as the foreman, William Matthews, a miner, 27 years old, announced the verdict as directed by the court, court adjourned and Colonel Roosevelt stepped forward and took the hand of each juror.

"I thank you gentlemen, each one of you," said the colonel. "It was splendid, just splendid, splendid!"

Matthews, smoothshaven and youthful, said the jurors had been much impressed with the testimony of each witness. "After Mr. Roosevelt's testimony I think we were impressed chiefly with that of Mr. Garfield and Mr. Bills," he added.

The statement of Mr. Newett himself, that he could not doubt that Colonel Roosevelt was a temperate man after considering the character of the witness was just how we felt."

The scene in the little mahogany furnished courtroom in the county building on the hill overlooking Lake Superior never for a moment during the last three days of the trial was at a time of the trial, extending over five days, lost its dramatic interest.

Editor Never Ill a Day.

Hour after hour Mr. Newett, although suffering from a serious malady and with pain always visible in his face at last, began to testimony given against him by former members of Colonel Roosevelt's cabinet, literary men, doctors, naturalists and others of national reputation. Ten feet away sat Colonel Roosevelt, the plaintiff. The ladies and the seats behind the lawyers' tables were always filled.

The first witness was Colonel Roosevelt, and the last one for the plaintiff was Admiral George Dewey, whose testimony was introduced by deposition. Between them were James R. Garfield, Robert Bacon, former secretary of state and ambassador to France; Gifford Pinchot, Truman H. Newberry, former secretary of war; Major General Leonard Wood, chief of staff; Lyman Abbott, W. Emlen Roosevelt, George R. Cortelyou, Dr. Alber Shaw, William Loeb, Jr., Jacob A. Riis and many newspaper men, all of whom testified orally or by deposition that Colonel Roosevelt did not "get drunk," as charged. Mr. Roosevelt, smiling delightfully after the verdict, was chatting with various persons. Mr. Newett was speaking with friends in the room, while everybody else was watching to see if the two principals to the suit would get together.

Mr. Newett was the first to leave the courtroom, but although frequently halted by persons who wished to express their admiration of the manner in which he had acknowledged himself in the wrong, he was on his way to his home in Ishpeming before the colonel left the building. The colonel had to hurry to catch his train, which left at 5:30 o'clock, and on it, besides the colonel, were James R. Garfield, W. Emlen Roosevelt, William Loeb, Jr., and others.

The libel of which Colonel Roosevelt complained was published October 15, 1912, in Mr. Newett's weekly paper at Ishpeming, the "Iron Ore." It took the colonel to task for "preaching" to others when "he himself gets drunk, and that not infrequently, as all his intimates know."

The Editor's Retraction.

Mr. Newett's statement follows:

"I was born on a farm near Janesville, Wis., in 1858, and lived there until I was about 16 years of age.

"I obtained my education in the district school. I came to Marquette county in 1875, when I was 17 years old, and since then I have lived there ever since. In 1874 I began working for the 'Iron Home,' the first paper published in Ishpeming, and have ever since been engaged in newspaper work in this county.

"In 1878 I left the 'Iron Home' and started the publication of a paper of my own, and have continued publication from then until the present time. This paper is known as 'Iron Ore.'

"In October, 1912, it had a circulation of from 2,500 to 3,000, four-fifths of which was confined to the county of Marquette.

"I do not use wines or liquors myself in any form, and am an absolute teetotaler, having strong convictions on this subject. Neither do I use tobacco in any form.

"In 1888 I was appointed commissioner of mineral statistics for the state of Michigan, a position I held four years, in 1890 I was appointed postmaster at Ishpeming by the plaintiff of this case, and held that office for four years, at the end of which term I resigned. I have also held various positions on civic boards in the city of Ishpeming.

"Prior to 1912 I had been for many years a strong supporter of Theodore Roosevelt, recognizing him as the most republican leader, and had frequently published editorials and other articles in Iron ore commending him and approving his policies, and I had therefore assisted all his campaigns, not only by personal effort, but also by financial contributions. Even in the primary campaign of 1912 I supported him as choice for the republican nominee.

"I mention the facts as indicating the impossibility of my harboring any feeling of personal malice against the plaintiff.

He Heard Roosevelt Drank.

"Some time before 1912 I began to hear statements from various sources that Mr. Roosevelt was drinking wines and liquors to excess, and during a period I took a trip throughout the western country, passing through the states of Montana, Nevada and Arizona, as well as the intervening cities. The statements of Mr. Roosevelt's excessive drinking were repeatedly made in my hearing in various sections by many persons whom I believed to be reputable, but notwithstanding this, I was loath to credit them. I felt that there was a possibility that these persons were mistaken, and therefore thought the statements probably unwarranted.

"Later, during the winter of 1912, I took a trip to Florida, passing through Chicago and other cities en route, and spent several weeks at Belleair and other Florida points.

"During this trip the same statements as to Mr. Roosevelt's habits were repeated in a very circumstantial way, although no one was able to say that he had actually seen Mr. Roosevelt drink to excess or personally knew that he did so.

"During this period I also talked with various reputable people in Ishpeming and elsewhere than the places before mentioned, who claimed to have personal knowledge of the matter. Washington, and in whose statements I had the utmost confidence, both as to their reliability and their opportunity to know the facts.

"During the spring of 1912, newspapers came to me on our exchange list, several of which contained reference to Mr. Roosevelt's drinking habits. I saw and read these newspaper publications. From the statements so made by these papers and all the information which had come to me from the other sources mentioned, I felt that I could no longer credit the truth of the statements which had been made, much as I regretted to believe them.

Why He Attacked Roosevelt.

"When Mr. Roosevelt was nominated for the presidency on the national progressive ticket, I opposed his election, believing that a defeating republican and believing that the success of that party would be for the best interests of the country. In October, 1912, Mr. Roosevelt made a campaign trip through northern Michigan, and among other places spoke at Marquette on the 12th of that month. I was present on that occasion and heard him speak. In the course of his address he made what I considered a most unjust attack on our candidate for congress, who was one of my lifelong friends.

"This incident, coupled with the statements that had previously come to my knowledge, confirmed me in the opinion that Colonel Roosevelt ought not to be elected president, and I concluded it was my duty in opposition to his candidacy to publish the statements which I then believed to be true.

"I thereupon wrote and published the article which is here complained of. This opinion was intended only as a blow to Mr. Roosevelt's candidacy for the position he then sought. In this publication I acted in entire good faith, believing that the facts stated were true and believing that as a publisher I owned the duty to my readers to make that statement.

"After this article was published on the 12th day of October, 1912, neither the plaintiff nor any one in his behalf notified me that he claimed the charges made were unfounded nor did they request me to make any correction of the same.

"On the contrary this suit was commenced on october 25, 1912, and the service of the papers constituted the first intimation I received that the article was complained of.

Sought Evidence in Vain.

"After the commencement of this suit there was nothing for me to do but to prepare to defend it and I did so to the best of my ability. From that date on I devoted to investigating the actual facts which could be shown by witnesses who would testify under oath. As I have said up to the time of the publication my information had been through persons who claimed to have knowledge of the statements which had been made, and I went forward to verify those statements and determine the witnesses by whom they could be proven. During this period I took a trip throughout the western country, passing through the states of Montana, Nevada and Arizona, as well as the intervening cities. The statements of Mr. Roosevelt's excessive drinking were repeatedly made in my hearing in various sections by many persons whom I believed to be reputable, but notwithstanding this, I was loath to credit them. I felt that there was a possibility that these persons were mistaken, and therefore thought the statements probably unwarranted.

GEN. PORFIRIO DIAZ BOUND FOR MEXICO

Former Dictator Reported to Have Sailed on a French Liner—Report, However, Is Denied by Friend of Diaz.

Paris, May 31.—According to a dispatch from Corunna, Spain, the newspaper La Voz de Galicia says General Porfirio Diaz is proceeding to Mexico aboard the French line steamer Espagne. The Mexican consul at Corunna, the paper adds, is understood to have received letters addressed to the ex-president aboard the steamer. A member of the Diaz household in Paris, however, denied today that General Diaz is leaving on the Espagne. The former president, he said, had gone on a short visit to his son in the country near Paris.

Huerta Forces Defeat Rebels.

Laredo, Texas., May 31.—Federal forces numbering 250 men surprised a Carranza force of nearly 200 at Columbia, 25 miles above here, on the Rio Grande, this morning. They poured in upon them a deadly fire from machine guns, killing 25 rebels and wounding 30 and taking 106 prisoners. Only six federals were killed. The rebel force, which had been stationed near Columbia for months, conducted a government of their own, collected customs duties on cattle and in general carried out their plan of separation from the Huerta government.

Taking the offensive, the federal forces under command of Colonel Geronimo Villa Real, silently left Nuevo Laredo last night for Columbia, arriving at 7 o'clock this morning, before the rebels realized the federals were in the vicinity.

The rebels soon became demoralized and fled precipitately.

Twenty rebels crossed the river at Minerva, Texas, and were arrested by the Fourteenth cavalry patrol.

It is said that among the federals is one American, Paul Mason, who, with Lee Christmas, had been identified with several revolutions in Central America. The American, it is said, took an important part in directing the federals.

Sheriff Sanchez, of Webb county, who took charge of the prisoners, requested the military authorities to hold the prisoners, but was advised to take charge of their arms and allow the prisoners to return to Mexico, which they did. It was reported that another battle had taken place with 300 constitutionalists at Hidalgo, 20 miles above Columbia, but this could not be verified.

Later in the day the rebels were reinforced by 300 men from Hidalgo. When the fresh forces arrived the federals are reported to have abandoned many of their prisoners and to have returned to Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, leaving Colombia again in the hands of the rebels.

Mercado Succeeds Rabago.

Chihuahua City, Mexico, May 31.—General Samuel R. Mercado, recently recalled from Parral, today was appointed military governor of Chihuahua state. He succeeds General Antonio Rabago, who has been called to Mexico City.

Colonel Romero, with 1,800 federals, is marching south in an effort to restore rail and wire communication along the Mexican Central railway as far as Torreon.

In a fight with insurgents under Villa, Herrera and Hernandez, at Saucillo, the government reports 25 rebels killed and several taken prisoners.

The constitutionalists are concentrated at Santa Rosalina, while the government troops are repairing burned bridges at Conchos. The government column is carrying several pieces of heavy artillery. The insurgents' strength is estimated at 1,400, well mounted, but poorly armed and with no heavy artillery.

American Is Wounded.

San Antonio, Texas, May 31.—Aroused by reports that M. L. Vought, formerly of St. Paul, Minn., one of the best known Americans in northern Mexico, was seriously injured in protecting his wife and her sister, Miss O'Keefe, of Topeka, Kan., from assault by two Mexican soldiers in his home at Xicotencatl, state of Tamaulipas, John Warren, of this city, Mr. Vought's business associate, today sent urgent telegrams to Senator Culberson and Governor Colquitt demanding protection for the women and official investigation of the outrage.

Details regarding the affair are meager and it is not known whether the soldiers were punished, nor whether they were federals or constitutionalists. Mr. Warren declared his intention of wiring Senator Morris Sheppard and the American consulate at Tampico asking an investigation.

DR. OGDEN TO BEGIN PARABLE SERIES TODAY

Taking as his theme, "The Parables of the Kingdom," Dr. Dunbar Ogden will begin a special series of sermons at the Central Presbyterian church today. He will interpret the lessons of Christ's parables in the light of modern problems, and the series will be one of the most interesting he has ever given.

"The Word of the Kingdom" will be the subject of the first of these sermons, given Sunday morning. It will be followed in the evening by an address on "The Sons of the Kingdom," and on subsequent Sundays the series will be carried out with other sermons forming the thought and philosophy of the old parables of the kingdom of God.

During the past two weeks the pulpit of the Central Presbyterian has been occupied by many of the leading Presbyterians of the country—among them being Moderator Russell, of the United Presbyterian assembly; Dr. William H. Roberts, stated clerk of the Northern Presbyterian assembly, and Dr. J. H. Strickler, former pastor of Dr. Ogden's church, who is now of the Union Theological seminary, at Richmond.

Theaters Offer Fine Entertainment

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Forsyth.)

The bill of Keith vaudeville that is to be the attraction for the busy Forsyth for the week that commences with matinee on Monday and that will keep the theater very much alive all the week, the matinee and evening performances, is headed by Lillian Shaw, about the most popular of the singing comediennes who visit this city, and there are six other acts of the very highest quality, just the sort that have been liked best here in Atlanta, and that will most surely register hits that will have a big and strong drawing value.

Lillian Shaw is indeed one of the headliners of modern vaudeville. She is possessed of every quality and every mark of a star. She has held her own for several seasons, and is so much in demand in the largest cities that it is the rarest event that she is billed in any other place. It is her own wish to play in Atlanta every season, and theatergoers recall with keen pleasure the fact that her summer visits to the vaudeville theater helped to make things brighter and happier and more worth while. She has been the feature of some of the biggest shows that have been offered along Broadway this season, and her three months' stay in Chicago won new laurels for her already crowded crown. Miss Shaw is a character comedienne in a class all alone, and she is going to introduce some of the newest song hits, and some of the newest of the newest ideas. Jack Hazard is a monologuist that lots of people have heard, and that many more have been seen here before. He is the creator of a lot of interesting stories that have a laugh in them, and the songs have been applause flight from the time when some one else scored with them. He is a popular fellow with every audience he meets, and along Broadway there is no one in vaudeville any more popular than he.

Wright and Dietrich and Heath played at the Forsyth three years ago, and all that helped to make a big attendance record was "Seldom's Poems in Marble." Since that engagement the artistic offering has been seen in many parts of the country, and with the same success that has been registered in Atlanta. Returning a few weeks ago from abroad Seldom took up his American route, and will be one of the features of the bill. He is a wonderfully clever artist himself, and with models that are marvelous will present an act that will have a strong drawing power. Horace Wright and his pretty little partner, Miss Rene Dietrich, will offer a singking novelty that has an extreme big value. They are both clever people, and have not failed at an ytime to give real assistance in making a vaudeville program delightful.

The Caites Brothers, an eccentric dancing duo, and the Three Alex's, in a mighty interesting gymnastic performance, will be on the bill, and the big comedy feature will be the appearance of the famous character comedians, Ward and Curran, who will offer their satire on stage life, "the Stage Door Tender." There are no better funmakers in the profession than "Pop" Ward and Frank Curran. They have been comedy headliners for a long time, and though younger performers have come into the business, Ward and Curran still occupy a position that makes their service of real value to any vaudeville theater.

There will be much on this bill that will interest, and there are many reservations and box parties already listed.

"The College Girl."

(At the Bijou.)

That the Bijou has grown more popular in two weeks than it has been during the last two years is best evidenced by the tremendous and most unusual business that has been registered since the introduction of Tabloid musical comedy and vaudeville at extremely popular prices.

The Bijou is splendidly adapted for the presentation of tabloid shows. It has an splendid seating capacity, and the theater is equipped with every modern idea for cooling and ventilating. It has been a perfectly comfortable place during warm weather and because of its great seating accommodations there have been thousands of people entertained in the most comfortable fashion.

The attraction for the week starting Monday will be "The College Girls," a big comedy of comedians and pretty girls, who are going to make a merry week of it. There is comedy and then more comedy, music then more music, novelty ideas and songs and dances and a bit of vaudeville that will contribute to the fun. The comedians who are perhaps unknown and whose names in advance may carry but little value, will be well known before Tuesday morning and people who have seen the show in other cities declare there has not been a prettier group of girls with any attraction that has been seen in southern territory this season.

Exclusive song hits have been given to "The College Girls." These songs were written purposely for the company, and have not been released for professional use to any other persons. The dances were staged by a master of the craft, and the costuming was selected by an artist who is perfect in his profession. Scenic and electrical effects make the show the equal of most any of the high-price offerings that have been seen from time to time, and in fact, there is everything in this tabloid to make it popular and worth is 10 cents for the best seats, and at night the admission is 10 cents, with reserved seats at 10 cents extra.

There will be two matinee performances on Monday and Saturday, and one matinee each day during the week. There will be two night performances all the week. The matinee admission is 10 cents, with reserved seats at 10 cents extra.

Tabloid musical comedy is growing so popular that there are theaters turning over to the policy in every principal city in the United States, and shows are worth more than the price of admission, but it is the tremendous attendance that enables the management to make a profit that is handsome, and that affords the individual an opportunity to have good, clean entertainment, that is really refreshing and at a very small cost.

HELPED TO GET THE NEWS FOR CONSTITUTION

This is the Mighty Michigan "40." The Constitution's press car used in reporting the results of the hill climb of the Atlanta Automobile and Accessories association last Saturday. It was one of the handsomest cars at the Stewart avenue hill, and created much comment.

The New-Plan Corn Cure. No Fuss. No Pain. Sure and Quick.

You never used anything like "GETS-IT" on your feet! You're sure at last that every stubborn corn that you've tried so long to get rid of is a "goner." You apply "GETS-IT" in 2 seconds, that's all. "GETS-IT" does the rest. There's no more fussing, no more bandages to fix, no more salves to turn the flesh red and raw. No more plasters to get misplaced and press on the corn. No more "pulling," no more pain, no more picking and gouging, no more razors.

"GETS-IT" stops pain, shrivels up the corn, and the corn vanishes. "GETS-IT" never fails, is harmless to healthy flesh. Warts, calluses and bunions disappear.

"GETS-IT" is sold at drug stores at 25c a bottle, or sent on receipt of price by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago. Sold in Atlanta by Jacobs' Pharmacy Co., Elkin Drug Co., Coursey & Munn, Gunter & Maxim Drug Co., E. H. Cone, Inc., Tipton & Co.

"How I Did Suffer From Corns for Years!" "GETS-IT" Got Them All in a Few Days!"

Are Rheumatic Sufferers Negligent?

Many Suffer Excruciating Agony for Years Without Investigating the Cause of Their Pain or Its Cure.

Rheumatism frequently comes from uric acid poisoning. Uric acid accumulates and is deposited in the joints, in stomach and intestines, which fermenting, generates and re-absorbs this poisonous acid. If not expelled promptly it gets into the blood, and then it is carried to the muscles, which settle in joints and muscles and stiffen them.

JACOBS' LIVER SALT has been remarkably successful in the treatment of rheumatism and uric acid poisoning. It is a true uric acid solvent which will break up the deposits already formed, dissolve the uric acid out of the tissues and hold it in solution until expelled in the urine. It will not cure your rheumatism overnight, neither did your rheumatism come overnight. But JACOBS' LIVER SALT will relieve you more promptly and surely than anything else, because it thoroughly purges the system of fermenting waste, eliminates the poisonous uric acid and purifies the blood.

Almost without exception the suffering from rheumatism is subject to constipation, biliousness or dyspepsia, and a sluggish liver is at the bottom of the whole trouble. JACOBS' LIVER SALT stimulates both liver and kidneys, and makes them keep your system clean. No other liver medicine has the same solvent action upon uric acid, therefore insist that your druggist give you the genuine JACOBS' LIVER SALT. If he hasn't it fill size jar sent upon receipt of price, 25c, postage free. Made and guaranteed by Jacobs Pharmacy Co., Atlanta.—(Advt.)

Praise This Remedy For Lung Trouble

If the voluntarily written words of grateful people, living in all parts of the country, praising Eckman's Alterative, a remedy for the treatment of coughs, colds, throat and lung troubles, are to be believed, this medicine is certainly doing a vast amount of good for such sufferers. This is a sample taken from many:

St. Mary's Academy, O'Neill, Nebraska.
"Gentlemen: About seven years ago I was attacked with Tuberculosis. I coughed uncessantly, could not sleep at night, even could not speak out loud and could do no work. I had three hemorrhages, relief coming at the time and suffered with night sweats, fever and chills. A specialist of Columbus, Ohio, pronounced me Tuberculous.

"Nearly five years ago I heard of your Alterative and procured some at once, with the result that I soon found myself restored to health. I consider your medicine a faithfully taken, a most excellent remedy. Mother Superior permits this testimonial.

(Signed) SISTER MARIE,
Sisters of St. Francis.

Eckman's Alterative has been proven by many years' test to be most efficacious in cases of severe Throat and Lung Affections, Bronchitis, Bronchial Asthma, Stubborn Colds and in upbuilding the system. Does not contain narcotics, poisons or habit-forming drugs. For sale by all Jacobs' drug stores and other leading druggists. Write the Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for booklet telling of recoveries and additional evidence.

Widow of Policeman in Need; Case Is a Deserving One

There has come to The Constitution the appeal of a widow of a policeman who died shortly before Christmas while in the service of the citizens of Atlanta.

There is in this family a 14-year-old girl who is feebleminded and unable to render any assistance, a little 2-year-old child, and a few weeks' old baby.

The woman is under ordinary circumstances self-supporting, but owing to conditions she has had to appeal to the Associated Charities for help.

The doctor has advised that in order to give this little baby a fair chance so that it can be started on its development as a normal healthy child that it is absolutely necessary that this mother be allowed to nurse it during the summer months.

It is not only necessary that this baby be given its due right for a fair start, but it is also necessary that this woman be given reasonable time in which to regain her strength before having to start on a battle for existence for herself and children.

The doctors say that she should be taken care of for five months, which will take her and the baby past the hot summer months to the autumn, when she can again become self-supporting.

To do this requires a pension of $40 a month and the Associated Charities are appealing to the citizens of Atlanta to help this widow and orphans of a man who died in the service of the city.

This woman is not a beggar, but is only asking a fair chance for herself and babies, and the Associated Charities are appealing through The Constitution for this five months' pension with which to save this family and relieve the city of a burden.

Send your subscriptions to Joe C. Logan, Secretary, Gould Building.

Gala Week at Asheville.

Battery Park Hotel, Asheville, N. C., May 31.—With the probable season of grand opera, the horse show, the completion of Asheville's "great white way," the innovation of a "baby show" at the state fair, the opening of another resort hotel, and the influx of 125,000 tourists, Asheville will be placed in the front ranks of the summer resorts of the country. That the Battery Park hotel is to have more than the usual number of summer guests is proved by a glance at the long list of advance bookings, for at last northerners are beginning to realize that even south of the Mason and Dixon line it is much cooler than at many of the northern resorts, provided the tourist spends the summer in the Blue Ridge mountains, where even in August grate fires often blaze cheerily in the hotel lobby.

Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels and William Gonzales, editor of The Columbia, State, are to be two of the distinguished guests at the meeting of the North Carolina Press association to be held here this summer. Mr. Gonzales has been recommended to President Wilson for appointment as minister to Cuba.

Governor Locke Craig will come to Asheville next Tuesday and will be tendered a luncheon by Mother de Planck at St. Genevieve's college, where later in the afternoon the governor will deliver the commencement address. The governor always pays a visit to the Battery Park hotel when in Asheville, where he is sure to find many of his friends.

That Atlanta guests are to figure in the summer gayeties at this resort is understood by a glance at the long list of advance bookings for guests from that city, and not a week goes by that a small colony of them cannot be found at the Battery Park hotel.

Mrs. Frank Butt, of Atlanta, who has been spending some time here as the guest of Mrs. Annie D. Martin, at her home on Church street, has returned to her home. She was entertained at numerous informal affairs during her stay in Asheville.

St. Elmo Massengale, of Atlanta, made a visit to the Battery Park last week on business, but later in the season will return with his family to spend the summer here.

Mrs. E. T. Paine, of Atlanta, has been sojourning here.

Miss Dorothy Wells and Mrs. Arthur Billings, of Atlanta, are expected next week for a month's stay at this hotel.

Miss Taylor to Entertain.

Miss Annie Taylor will entertain at her home, 306 Capitol avenue, on the afternoon of Saturday, June 7, in honor of Miss Daisy Patterson, a popular bride-elect of this month.

Roberts-Forrest.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Grubbs announce the marriage of their niece, Miss Bessie Curry Roberts, to Mr. Joe Roney Forrest, at their home, in Sylvester, Ga., June 22, 1913.

Coffee-Poller.

Mrs. J. A. Coffee announces the marriage of her daughter, Eugenia Brown, to Dr. Alphonse Raimond Poller, the marriage to take place in Vienna, Austria, May 18.

Birthday Reception.

Mrs. H. M. Jones entertained at a pretty reception yesterday afternoon, in compliment to Mrs. R. H. Stewart, of Chicago, who, with his daughter, Mrs. George R. Stewart, are the guests of Mrs. Jones, after attending the reunion in Chattanooga.

The occasion marked the seventy-fifth birthday of the honor guest, and was a very happy one. Mrs. Jones' home on West Peachtree street was decorated with palms and ferns, and a profusion of white carnations and sweet peas artistically arranged.

The table in the dining room was covered with a cluny lace cloth, and the centerpiece was a plateau of carnations and sweet peas.

A white birthday cake, embossed with pink sweet peas, was a feature of the attractive table, and all other details were in pink and white.

Punch was served in the den by Mrs. J. A. Baldwin, and assisting in entertaining were Miss Kirkpatrick and Mrs. W. H. Hester.

Mrs. Jones was gowned in cream charmeuse satin with lace draneries, and Mrs. Stewart wore a white lace gown.

Mrs. Sewell Entertains.

Mrs. J. A. Sewell delightfully entertained her Fancy Work club at her home on Grant street Thursday afternoon.

Twele club members and four other guests enjoyed Mrs. Sewell's hospitality.

Mrs. J. W. Tallent will entertain the club Friday afternoon, June 13, at her home on Grant street.

Junior Banquet.

A delightful event of Friday evening was the banquet given at the Aragon by the Junior class B, of the Boys' High school.

The toastmaster of the occasion was Mrs. J. P. Stewart, and other appointed speakers for the evening were Messrs. Spurlock, Johnson and Hendrix. Short impromptu talks were made by Messrs. Kempton and Price, the president of the class.

For Wedding Party.

Mrs. E. A. Wooddy will entertain at a buffet supper at her home on Courtland street for her daughter, Miss Irene Hartzog and Dr. J. C. Wright, after the church rehearsal for their wedding on Wednesday evening.

Hartzog-Wright.

The marriage of Miss Irene Hartzog and Dr. Jesse Colquitt Wright will be an interesting event of the week, taking place Thursday morning at the First Methodist church at 10 o'clock.

Mrs. C. N. Dennis will be Miss Hartzog's matron of honor, and the bridesmands will be Miss Essie Wright, of Chattanooga, and Miss Effie Westbrook, of Fairburn. Mr. Robert W. Spires will be best man and the ushers will be Colonel Frank L. Neufville, Mr. C. N. Dennis, Mr. George Cunningham, Mr. J. E. Duffree.

The ceremony will be performed by Dr. DuBose, and Miss Irene Bearden will play the wedding music.

There will be a wedding breakfast at the home of the bride's mother on Courtland street, after which Dr. Wright and his bride will leave for an automobile trip through North Carolina and Tennessee. On their return they will be at home with the bride's mother.

Rosser-Holcomb.

Griffin, Ga., May 31.—(Special.)—An elaborate social event in Griffin will occur next Thursday evening, June 5, when Miss Mary Rosser, of this place, and Mr. Alfred Starr Holcombe, of Atlanta, will be joined in marriage.

The ceremony will be performed in the First Methodist church, of which the bride is a member, and will be read by Rev. Arnold Orme Flinn, pastor of the North Avenue Presbyterian church, of Atlanta.

Prior to the ceremony proper, will be rendered a special musical program for an hour, by Mr. J. T. Hagan, Jr., organist, at the North Avenue Presbyterian church of Atlanta, and choruses, Miss Aline Cumming, organist, at the Griffin First Methodist church; Mr. Walter Hegner, Indianapolis, clarinet; Mr. Jarks Walker Griffin, violin. A quartette of the best voices in Griffin and a chorus of ten young ladies will sing. Mrs. M. J. Daniel, soprano; Mrs. T. H. Wynne, alto; Mr. H. E. Williams, tenor, and Rev. E. A. Osborne, bass, constitute the quartette. The ten young ladies who will sing "The Bridal Chorus," from Lohengrin, are as follows: Miss Lillian Scott, Miss Cynthia Ellis, Miss Annie Scott, Miss Louise Durkee, Miss Helen Griffin, Miss Helen Walton, Miss Sara Garland, Miss Mary Bass, Miss Ruth Powell and Mrs. Charles Mills, Jr.

The ten ladies to sing "The Bridal Chorus," from Lohengrin, will be the bridesmaids, and will sing the chorus as they enter the church. Miss Olivia Reed, of Madison, Ga., will be maid of honor, while Mr. Walter Hegner, of Indianapolis, Ind., will be the best man. Messrs. J. A. Northcutt of Chattanooga, J. M. Tucker of Atlanta, J. H. Walker and Robert Walker of Griffin, will be ushers. Miss Mary Louise Warren, of Griffin, a niece of the bride, will be flower girl.

Nearly 600 invitations have been issued, and a very large number of visitors and guests are expected to be present and witness the marriage. Among them, Mrs. F. L. Bennett, a sister of the groom, of Rochester, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Rosser, of Wesleyan college, of Macon; Mr. and Mrs. John E. Rosser, of Fort Worth, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Philo Holcombe, of Atlanta; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Beverley, of Atlanta; Miss Rosa Fletcher, of Forsyth, and many others from Georgia and adjoining states.

On Wednesday evening, prior to the wedding, Dr. and Mrs. L. C. Warren, brother and sister to the bride, will entertain at an entire bridal party at a reception in their home on West Poplar street.

Immediately after the wedding the bride and groom will leave for the north. Upon their return they will be at home for a part of the summer in a summer home at the foot of Missionary Ridge, near Chattanooga, Tenn. In the fall a permanent home will be established in Knoxville, Tenn., to which place Mr. Holcombe has been transferred and promoted in his insurance work.

Miss Rosser is the daughter of the late Rev. John E. Rosser, formerly a member of the North Georgia Methodist conference. She is quite gifted in art and music. She has studied at several institutions, holding a diploma for voice culture from Shorter college.

North Avenue School.

On Friday morning the children of the North Avenue Presbyterian school school. The songs sung by the pricolose of the year of study. The most interesting feature of the exercises was the fact that they were representative of the regular work of the school. The songs sung by the primary grades were some of the ones learned during the year. The little play that the fourth grade presented was done in the same manner in which the children have dramatized their reading lessons. The eighth grade gave a folk play which reflected credit on the members of the grade, for they had managed the training and the presentation with very little help. The living pictures posed by the high school, with some assistance from the primary grades, were favorite personages chosen from their history and literature.

Besides the pupils who took part in the entertainment, especial praise is due to Isabel Guinn, Frances Knight, Lin Adams, Thomas Hull and Emery Flinn, who managed the staging and lighting.

Before the gubets were seated they were shown exhibits of the handwork done in the various departments. The drawings of the younger children showed excellent training. From the higher grades there were note books showing some of the splendid Bible work that has been done by every class in the school. The history classes displayed the scrapbooks which have helped to vitalize their interest in the great deeds of the past. The girls of the home economics department exhibited creditable specimens of their work in sewing and cooking; and the boys demonstrated by a display of woodkork what they have done in the annual training class. The flowers used in decorations were grown in the school gardens.

Announcement was made of the winner of the U. D. C. medal which Mrs. McCabe had offered to the school. This year the subject of the essay was John B. Gordon. The medal was won by Helen McCarty, and honorable mention was given to Frances Knight, Majorie Weldon and Dorothy Albright.

MRS. JOHN HAMILTON HOLLAND.

As Miss Helen Britton, she was one of Atlanta's most attractive young women. Her marriage to Mr. Holland took place in April.

Miss Bates Entertains.

A happy occasion of Friday evening was the dance and lawn fete given by Miss Annie Bates at her home on West Peachtree street. The house was thrown together and decorated with palms, ferns and flowers, and an orchestra furnished bright music for the dancers.

The lawn was lighted with many Japanese lanterns, and presiding at the punch bowls were Misses Sarah Eubanks, Naomi Jemmison, Irene King and Maude Barker Cobb. Delicious refreshments were served on the lawn during the evening. Miss Bates wore a dainty gown of white shadow lace over white, with trimmings of pink satin, and she was assisted in entertaining by her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Winship Bates.

The guests included about two hundred and fifty of the schoolgirl and boy set.

Birthday Party.

One of the most enjoyable events of the week was the birthday party given by Mr. and Mrs. George B. Hill in honor of their daughter, Miss Dellie May, who celebrated her ninth birthday. Games where enjoyed. Prizes were won by Miss Helen Witherspoon, Miss Annie Wolpert, Miss Theresa Knoff. Refreshments were served in the spacious dining room, which was decorated with pansies and sweet peas. Miss Carrie Califf, Mrs. Otis Witherspoon, Mrs. B. Rogers, Mrs. James Hollowell and Mrs. J. B. Morgan assisted in entertaining the guests. Music by Mr. George B. Hill was enjoyed.

The guests were Misses Margie Morgan, Bertha Knoff, Edna Rogers, Martha Rogers, Mary Highsmith, Maude Knoff, Edna Thompson, Florine Wilson, Dellie Mae Hill, Thelma Hollowell, Helen Frambrough, Ethel De Lorm, Helen Witherspoon, Marguerite Lazy, Annie Wolpert, Messrs. William Wolpert, J. T. De Lorm, Harold Hollowell, Jim Califf, Harold Goldstein, Leman Lazy, Inis Frambrough and Beverly Rogers.

Dr. White to Lecture.

Dr. John E. White will lecture before the Twentieth Century Coterie at the residence of Mrs. Walter G. Cooper, Peeples street, June 5, at 4 o'clock p. m. His subject will be "Sidney Lanier." Mrs. Cooper requests that each member of the Coterie come and bring a guest.

Horse Guard Give Ball.

On Thursday evening, June 12, the Governor's Horse Guard will give a dance in Taft hall, this being the last one given before the troops leave for St. Simon's island to attend their annual encampment. One thousand cards have been issued to the friends and acquaintances of the troop and the Hyperion club and Entre Nous have also joined in with the troop, all expecting to have an enjoyable time. Refreshments in the form of "Military Punch" will be served, this being a delightful beverage made famous by being served by the Governor's Horse Guard at all of their dances.

All arrangements are in the hands of a committee of three, composed of R. Marshall Todd, chairman; S. LaPrade Sloan and E. Horine Andrews.

Mrs. Neal to Speak.

Mrs. W. J. Neal will give a talk Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Second Baptist church on the jubilate recently held in St. Louis.

Piano Recital.

A piano recital will be given by Miss Mabel Wilkie, pupil of Miss Evelyn Jackson's School of Music, June 3, at 8 o'clock, 587½ Piedmont avenue.

Mr. Weltner to Speak.

The Atlanta Equal Suffrage association will meet Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at Carnegie library. The leading feature of the afternoon will be Mr. Philip Weltner's address, "Crime and Its Cure."

Psychological Society.

The Atlanta Psycnological society, which has been meeting every Sunday afternoon for nearly seven years in the Carnegie library, will meet this Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the Cleveland-Manning piano parlors at 86 North Forsyth street. There will be an interesting program of music and new thought recitations. Mrs. Rose M. Ashley, president, will give a short talk on "Today's Problems." These meetings are very interesting and instructive, and all who are interested in psychology, new thought, metaphysics, etc., are cordially welcomed. The new place of meeting is very pleasant and attractive.

The Cheapest in the End

If you use a simple toilet preparation and if proves to be worthless, you only lose money. When you use a questionable depilatory, however, it is a very serious matter because you not only lose money, but you take the grave risk of permanent disfigurement.

If You Value Your Face

use De Miracle, the one safe, perfected hair remover of proven merit. Remember the injury caused by the use of doubtful hair removers will either result in permanent disfigurement or cost you many dollars because it will take months or possibly years to gain control of hair growths that have been stimulated by the use of such preparations.

Only Guaranteed Hair Remover

Others advertise "Guaranteed," but give no guarantee. De Miracle is the only depilatory that has a binding guarantee in each package. ## BR'ER RABBIT BRISBANE.

Arthur Brisbane, most brilliant of the Hearst editorial galaxy, is the Br'er Rabbit of American journalism. Br'er Rabbit was the envied of all the field animals for one cute trick—he was the slipperest customer the field held when it came to getting out of awkward corners. Concerning the famous "lamplight funeral" story, you must hand it to Br'er Arthur for dexterity. See his editorial reproduced elsewhere.

The original issue was the Covington "lamplight funeral" sob-story, published editorially some weeks ago by Brother Brisbane as "an indictment of Georgia civilization." The Constitution objected to having Georgia thus unjustifiably placarded. It probed and pounded the life out of that yarn. It was the faking that discredited Georgia and not child labor that was under discussion. The sob-story disproved, from beginning to end, what does Brother Brisbane do? Plays the Br'er Rabbit stunt—creating a brand-new issue—child labor—and proceeds to pummel his straw man without stopping for a minute to withdraw his disproven charges against Georgia civilization.

Here is how the machinery goes around. His original sob-story, based ostensibly upon an item in The Covington News, ran to the effect that a girl worker in the Covington cotton mills had died of consumption. Her friends in the mills wanted to attend the funeral. The mill owners were too ghoulishly greedy to let them off in the daytime. The funeral was perforce held at night. With these premises as a background, Brother Arthur launched into a terrific indictment of the civilization of Georgia and America.

The Constitution knew no such outrage could occur in this state. Before making inquiry, even, it said so. Simultaneously, it acquitted Mr. Brisbane of any intention to slander Georgia. We declared our belief that he had been imposed upon. Investigation on the ground disclosed that he had been imposed upon. Brother Brisbane's pitiful story had been built, not upon the bare announcement of the funeral in The Covington News, but upon information furnished him by a correspondent. That correspondent wrote The Constitution that he had discovered he had been in error, and had so written Brother Brisbane.

The Constitution will play the game fairly with Mr. Brisbane. We reproduce his entire editorial elsewhere. He does not reproduce even a line of the editorial to which he makes elaborate reply. Never once in his editorial does he quote even an extract from the editorial in which The Constitution set forth certified facts which absolutely disproved every charge made by him.

Now to the premises upon which Mr. Brisbane builds his tearful dissertation upon child labor, an imaginary cold trail of his invention which now turns up for the first time in connection with this case—which has nothing whatsoever to do with child labor.

We let him state his own case in the first three paragraphs of his editorial reproduced on this page. Note his charges and then, on the basis that they are true, how magnificently he condemns with a sweep of the hand a civilization that would permit of such a horrible state of affairs—utterly disregardful of the fact that there is not a scintilla of truth in either one of the three premises on which he draws the doleful conclusion in the fourth paragraph immediately following his three paragraphed premises.

Let us see:

Premise No. 1—"A girl who had worked in the Covington mill, at Covington, Ga., died of consumption."

The "girl," who was a woman aged 25 years, never worked in the Covington mill. That fact is admitted.

Premise No. 2—"The funeral service was held at night because her friends wanted to attend the funeral. And they couldn't attend the funeral in the daytime, as they had to be in the mills in the daytime."

The funeral service was held at night, at the request of the family, to meet a family exigency. The interment was held in broad daylight. At that interment were dozens and dozens of the girl's friends who worked in the cotton mill, very few of whom were at the service the night before. One and all, they testified they had no difficulty in getting away from the mill in the daytime. They never had difficulty in getting away from the mill in the daytime, and they were never penalized in wages or conditions. The PREACHER who conducted the service will probably be accepted as a competent witness. HE TESTIFIES THAT THE NIGHT SERVICE WAS HELD AT THE REQUEST OF THE FAMILY, AND FROM NO EXIGENCY OF EMPLOYERS' OPPRESSION, AND THAT THERE WAS ABSOLUTELY NO BASIS FOR THE "LAMPLIGHT FUNERAL YARN."

Premise No. 3—"The facts were taken by this newspaper from The Covington News, published where the thing happened."

The only fact, as we have said, taken from The Covington News, was the bare announcement of the night service. The embellishments were supplied to Mr. Brisbane by a private correspondent, who has since admitted to The Constitution that he was misinformed, and that he so informed Mr. Brisbane.

How unjust, therefore, Mr. Brisbane's conclusion: "We have said, and we repeat, that it is a fine picture of our civilization when a working girl who dies of consumption before she is 25 must have a night funeral in order to give her friends a chance to see the last of her."

Of course! And who wouldn't say the same thing if such a condition existed anywhere!

As to the child labor issue, dragooned into the discussion to divert attention from the real issue, The Constitution's attitude in that matter has been more effectual in Georgia than Mr. Brisbane's has been in New York. We have the advantage of him, in that conditions are infinitely better in Georgia, in this respect, as he admits, than in New York. In the bettering of these conditions, The Constitution is proud to say it has taken a leading part.

We have brought Br'er Rabbit Brisbane back to the facts. He should now, in simple fairness to a people, retract the statement that the "Covington outrage"—proven to be purely a myth—is an indictment of our civilization! Will he not give Georgia the benefit of his circulation to right a wrong unintentionally put upon the state?

WHO IS READY?

With a crematory ready to work and summer at hand—

ANYBODY WHO ASSUMES THE RESPONSIBILITY FOR NOT LETTING IT PERFORM ITS LIFE-SAVING FUNCTION—

May be prepared to accept accountability for the first death ensuing from municipal inefficiency!

Who is ready to assume that responsibility?

THE HEAD IN THE SAND.

The supreme court of Georgia has in reality done the city of Atlanta a service. It has taken the municipal head out of the sand where, for a good many years, it has been hidden in sublime indifference to the menace that has hedged the city on every side. The supreme court is going to bring us down to brass tacks as regards this city's present and future. It has told us that the moral obligation device, upon which we have depended for nearly all of the imperative public improvements for the past few decades, is a broken reed. The tribunal did not pass on or deny that the improvements secured by this method were indispensable; that was not within its province. But every Atlantan of sound mind knows they were and are indispensable. What the supreme court has done is to decree that hereafter and forever the moral obligation device is taboo. If it had not so held, Atlanta might have gone on indefinitely pursuing that course and cramping itself in many vital particulars. That bogie is now brushed aside and we stand face to face with naked facts.

What are we going to do about it? Admittedly, the city is run down at the heel, municipally-speaking. Nearly all of its public facilities are inadequate. Schools are insufficient in floor space, vulnerable to fire. Our sanitary functions are, from financial cramp, notably insufficient. Our streets are ragged, lacking in uniformity, needing to be regraded, readjusted. Our sewer and water system requires standardization.

In almost every detail, turn where you will, will be seen the crying need for the knife of the municipal surgeon, cutting away the old rotten growth and replacing it with healthy material, material so fitted as to stand the pressure of expansion no less than the obvious requirements of the moment.

In meeting this situation we have been essaying the impossible. We have been trying to take care of current up-keep and also of growth, and all out of current income. No other city of size attempts this economic insanity. Any business house that tried it would be put out of commission by the mercantile agencies and its creditors. And if Atlanta keeps it up after the thundering warning of the supreme court, she is going to face a heavy future penalty.

The logical way out is the authorization of a bond issue sufficient to wipe out the neglect of the past and to get the balance in trim for the future. Already council has provided for a commission on the initiative of Councilman Thomson, for a thorough probe as to the advisability and scope of a bond issue. Its work should be prosecuted speedily but conservatively. We have five or six millions of credit lying absolutely idle. The city is suffering and will suffer still more for the need of improvements that are permanent in their nature, and in the payment of which it is simple justice that posterity should have its share. The constitutional restrictions around Atlanta's credit are so hidebound as to make any bond issue by this city religiously safe. Atlanta's credit is gilt-edged in the money market.

The supreme court has made us take our head out of the sand. It is time for us to realize our duties and opportunities in the premises and get busy.

MADE IN ATLANTA.

The committee of Atlanta merchants who investigated the working of Chattanooga's permanent "home-made" industrial exhibit have returned home with glowing reports of the enterprise. They are strongly of the opinion that Atlanta should do the same thing.

Atlanta's expostion of last August was an indication of what even a temporary display can accomplish. It showed that a regular exhibit would be of incalculable value in encouraging the coming here of new industries and promoting the patronizing of home industries.

A careful analysis of the expenditures of Atlanta for the necessities and luxuries of life would, undoubtedly, disclose that we are each year sending outside the state hundreds of thousands of dollars for articles and commodities that are manufactured within our borders. We are paying the freight two ways, adding a middleman's profit and, most serious of all, we are supporting capitalists and wage-earners elsewhere when we could as well increase the number and wealth of both right at home.

Home-made goods must, of course, compete with those imported, and meet them upon every qualification. Atlantans should buy goods made in Atlanta, not because of that fact, but because they cannot buy similar goods made elsewhere any better in quality or lower in price.

An object-lesson of what is made and what can be bought at home day in and out, the year around, will serve an admirable purpose. The process is cumulative. The dollar spent not only remains here, but it attracts other industries, to the enrichment of the entire community. That fact is a strong argument for the permanent manufacturers' exposition.

The Spirit of Love's Dream.

I.

A dream shines through life's shadows—a dream that speaks to me
In mysteries of music—like bells, heard far at sea,
A face love-blest is with me where stars of midnight beam
And I quaff a cup to dreamers for the beauty of my dream.

II.

Musing in the shadows, alone I fill my

Yet not alone, for memories like ghosts before me pass;
I wander in loved pathways, 'neath skies
serene and fair,
Where the south-winds kissed the violets and Jenny's golden hair.

III.

In a sweet dream I see her beneath those far-off skies,
The light of Love's own heaven bright in her lifted eyes;
And when she said: "I love you," life's dream
of heaven came true,
And only the silent cedars and the stars and violets knew.

IV.

O meadows of Love's Maytime, with all the world in bloom,
Your memories like stars have come to light
the midnight gloom;
My heart would answer with a cry but that it fears to speak,
For I feel Love's benediction and her breath upon my cheek.

V.

Still let me dream forever as on this night
divine,
As Memory sits beside me and her hand is seeking mine;
For sweet are all the shadows, and blessed are the gleams
In the land where Love still lingers to give me back my dreams.

The life race, my hearty,
Win you Love's grace,
And well if he gives you
A rose for the race.

So, heed his command;
Earth's riches are yours
With a rose from Love's hand.

MR. BRISBANE AND THE "LAMPLIGHT FUNERAL"

Under the following heading, Mr. Arthur Brisbane, in The New York Journal and the other chain of Hearst newspapers, answers a recent editorial in The Constitution:

"Mr. Clark Howell, Didn't You Sweep the Dirt Under the Bed?—Sweep It Out of the Front Door—Admit That It Is Dirt—By the Way, Do You Know Why You Are Rushed and Busy, and Useful to the Public, Instead of Being Lean, Haggard and Nearly Dead?—We Shall Tell You."

With this illuminating headliner, Mr. Brisbane proceeds:

A girl who had worked in the Covington mill, at Covington, Ga., died of consumption.

The funeral service was held at night because her friends wanted to attend the funeral. And they couldn't attend the funeral in the daytime, as they had to be in the mill in the daytime.

The facts were taken by this newspaper from The Covington News, published where the thing happened.

We said, and we repeat, that it is a fine picture of our civilization when a working girl who dies of consumption before she is twenty-five must have a night funeral in order to give her friends a chance to see the last of her.

It is surprising and disappointing to have Mr. Clark Howell, of The Atlanta Constitution, criticise fair criticism of mills and working conditions in Georgia.

Mr. Howell takes the broad ground that everything in Georgia is perfect.

We tell Mr. Howell that he is mistaken, and that the state of Georgia, and other states, knows that he is mistaken.

We tell Mr. Howell that the old-fashioned method of sweeping the dirt under the bed is out of date. You only hide the dirt for a little while when you sweep it under the bed. It has to come out in the end, and when it does come out, it is offensive and makes painful house-cleaning.

Sweep your dirt out of your front door right away, and be done with it, Mr. Howell.

And since you represent the people as an editor, tell your readers where the dirt is, and let them help to sweep it out.

Don't defend any child labor system, don't defend the rotten system that ties women through all hours of sunlight in factories, and sends them into the grave with consumption before they are twenty-five.

Tell the truth about everything, even about industries in your own state.

You can please a few mill owners, you may think you are pleasing financial investors, and encouraging them to come to Georgia, by hiding the dirt under the bed. But you don't help your state and you don't help your readers.

We tell Mr. Howell, whom we have often seen looking happy and proud, as he well may do, in the corridor of the Waldorf-Astoria, why it is that he reminds us of a happy little round cherub.

His complexion is pink. He is the exact opposite of the cubist's ideal, for he is all made up of curves and smiles, and energy and power.

He is healthy, with red blood in his body, and with a good active brain.

But does he know why he possesses these fine qualities?

Mr. Howell, you are round, plump, pink, cherubic, healthy, strong, and useful—when you don't defend a rotten industrial system —because when you were a child you were playing in the sunlight and not working in a mill.

You are happy, fat, prosperous and powerful, in middle life, Mr. Howell, because you had a chance when you were a child.

Use your paper to give other children of Georgia the chance that you had.

Don't use your paper defending mill owners that work children and mill owners that work women into consumption.

There isn't enough money in the north to make it worth while for a self-respecting southern editor to defend an industrial system, no matter how big dividends it pays, if that system hurts the inhabitants of the state who must supply the victims for the mills.

Tell the truth about your own state and about your own mills. Sweep the dirt out of the front door.

In New York state, conditions are worse than they are in Georgia—and the newspapers that respect themselves in New York state say so.

The canning factories of New York state are worse than anything in Georgia. We doubt if there is any man in Georgia brutal enough to work women and children as they are worked in the New York canning factories.

The thing to do is to tell the truth about them, and get laws passed, as has just been done here in New York, regulating the brutality.

It doesn't hurt a state to tell the truth, Mr. Howell. It doesn't offend the people of a state to protect their children and their women.

It will not help a state to protect men who exploit labor unjustly.

It helps every kind of a house to sweep the dirt out of the front door.

Remember that, good friend Howell, and you will be a much better editor ever afterwards.

The Georgia Hills.

The Good Book tells of wondrous streets
All paved with purest gold;
But these old Georgia hills today
Are wondrous to behold.

The good old hills, the faithful hills
That gave to me my birth,
I'd be content if heaven itself
Was made of such red earth;

For from it springs the rarest things
That ever pleased the heart of man,
And yestermorn I saw Young Spring
Come down the road with Peter Pan.

She lightly tript while gayly he
Blew elfin strains upon his flute;
All Nature hushed each sound to list,
The Mockingbird himself grew mute.

"O Life thou'rt fleet and Love thou'rt sweet;
Grim Care can wither in a day:
We'll prison Grief and Joy set free
And dance a merry roundelay."

The vision passed, but well I know
Pan is not dead, he lives again;
From every feathered songster's throat
I seem to hear that glad refrain.

So, come with me, and mayhap we
Can find him in some fairy wood;
We'll spend the hours amongst his bowers
And hear his tales of Robin Hood.

—WILLIE H. BELLAH.

TEAMSTERS THREE.

By Philip Weltner, Secretary Prison Association of Georgia

No one can blame the meanest of wardens, or the lowest of guards. We can only blame ourselves. Think about it a minute. Remember there is nothing offered the convict to do his best. It is to his advantage to do the least he dares. Even that is too much. This means that the guards must be constantly on the alert, the captains ever ready with the lash. Put yourself in their place. What would you be at the end of ten years? The wonder is they do not throw up the job and quit. If they get any work out of the convicts, they are bound to be hard. The system gets them in the end. There is no way out.

Most of the Saturday night crowd had dispersed to their homes. The water trucks were plying up and down, sprinkling the dust-laden streets. Even the missions had closed. The "bums" were asleep.

In a dark alley in the slums stood three figures. The one in the middle was supported by his two companions. A flask was pressed to his lips. He tried to push it away, but partly by force and partly by persuasion, they induced him to take another pull.

It had been pay day with these teamsters three. They had brought the young one along to "put him out" and take his pay. Across the street two mission workers were watching. They brought a policeman over to see the sight. The teamsters saw them and vanished, except the boy, who was too full to flee. The mission people carried him to their room and put him to bed.

The trio were employed at a convict camp to drive the wagons. If you were a teamster, you would be a drunkard, too; anything to forget. This is what Georgia has done—inaugurated a penal system that degrades the convicts and harms those in control. Why endure it longer? The remedy is not far to seek, nor hard to effect. Georgia owes it to the convict, to his overseer and to humanity. This does not mean that Georgia's plan of working convicts on the roads is not the best. It simply means that the administration of the plan is woefully deficient.

The Sensation Monger.

(From The Cedartown Standard.)

The Atlanta Constitution is doing a good work in placing in the pillory of public opinion the sensational penny-a-liners who misrepresent Georgia, especially in writing to New York papers. No lie is too bald for them to tell if they can sell it. Only a few days ago some slanderer wrote that Georgia mill owners were so grasping that they would not let their employees off to attend funerals, and that their burials had to be held at night! Down in Macon a young real estate man swallowed a dose of poison by mistake, and he made a brave fight against the slow but sure action of the deadly drug. Some pervert made a sensational story out of his gallant fight, and represented him as attending a banquet and giving a big farewell reception to his friends!

Young Men and Their Work.

(From The Philadelphia Ledger.)

There is a general tendency among the effective young men of America to get to work earlier in life. They are studying out the problems and they have found that it is a mistake to spend too many years in preparation. In fact, every year given wholly to study after twenty is toll upon a career. Of course, there are many exceptions to this statement, but they serve to prove the rule. The specialist has to take more time, but the specialists are the minority.

One result of the new tendency is that many young men are leaving college for their sophomore and junior years. This is most unfortunate. They should graduate, even though they feel the pull of active employment. But it shows how powerfully modern work is attracting the young people. Business has become a great post-graduate school in itself, and some of the big corporations with system expressed in a working science are higher universities. No wonder the ambitious boy wants to get into them, to draw his own pay and feel that he is in line for the rewards of merit and industry. The great thing in life is youth. Business is hungry for it. The world wants it more and more. And youth is eager for the game.

Country Schools.

(From Popular Mechanics.)

Inspecting the country schools as regards grounds, building, furnishings, heating, ventilation, library, water supply and sanitation, as well as to the qualifications of the teachers, and the granting of a standard school diploma to the schools found to be fit in all these respects, is the method adopted by the Illinois state school authorities, as an incentive to improvement. With the presenting of the diploma goes a placard or nameplate. This is of steel, covered with a black preparation, and bearing the legend "Standard School" in gold lettering. Placed on the door of the school, it can be read several hundred feet away. Some 657 of the 10,532 one-room country schoolhouses in the state have already earned the right to display these plates.

Influence of Galileo.

(Professor Henry Craw in Science.)

Perhaps, after all, his most important contributions lie outside of physics. Indeed, Galileo has not yet shot his last arrow. For his life still teaches us that nothing is so because any man says it is so. His example still shows how experiment can rob a man of all arrogance of opinion, how familiarity with unsolved problems can give a man genuine humility, and how, on the other hand, the possession of clear experimental evidence arms him with sure confidence. Critics tell us that Florence, during the Renaissance, shone with a borrowed light—a light reflected from Athens. But I venture to think that those who will take the pains to look over the pages of Galileo will find them self-luminous.

Must Go to Church to Hear It.

(From The Commerce News.)

Up at Gainesville last Sunday I heard one thing we have not heard in years. It was the old-time shout, in the First Methodist church in that city. It had the old-time ring, just like it used to when folks had the old-time religion.

HITCHCOCK FAKED TO SHOW SURPLUS IN POSTAL SERVICE

Official Report to Burleson Charges His Predecessor With Having Demoralized the Mail Service.

HITCHCOCK "ECONOMY" PROVEN A GREAT SHAM

Improper System of Bookkeeping Maintained in Order to Enable the "Surplus" to Be Shown.

Washington, May 31.—(Special.)—Frank Hitchcock, former postmaster general, was today charged in an official report submitted to Postmaster General Burleson with having misrepresented conditions in the postal service, as to the existence of a surplus, with having disrupted the service, made misleading reports as to the department's financial condition, withheld promotions and allowed vacancies to go unfilled in order to bolster up his pretensions to economy.

An improper system of bookkeeping was maintained to enable the surplus showing to be made.

The much-boasted surplus of the Hitchcock administration was accomplished by ways means, while the United States mails were demoralized and business men everywhere subjected to inconvenience and loss.

Such are the allegations made in the report of an official investigation covering the workings of the department for the last four years, authorized by the four assistant postmaster generals Daniel C. Roper, Joseph Stewart, A. M. Dockery and James I. Blakeslee, and the chief clerk of the department, Merritt O. Chance.

Hitchcock Caused Defective Service.

The policies of the last administration resulted in defective service and just criticism on the part of the public, according to the committee's report. The all-absorbing idea seemed to be to show that the department was self-supporting, regardless of how much the service might suffer.

One of the foremost claims of Mr. Hitchcock was that the deficiency of approximately $17,500,000 in 1909 has been entirely eliminated, and that a surplus of more than $20,000,000 was attained during the fiscal year of 1911.

The report of the "survey," made at the direction of Mr. Burleson, says that at no time has there been a legitimate surplus in postal revenues since 1883, and that the postoffice department was under a deficit of more than $75,000,000. In that connection, the report says:

It is pointed out by the committee that the published financial reports of the department state the receipts and the cost of the service on dissimilar, and, therefore, incomparable bases. Revenues of the postal service are almost entirely collected in cash, and consequently relate properly to the fiscal year for which the report is made. But the committee finds it has been the practice to compare these only with payments actually made during the fiscal year, regardless of obligations incurred in that year but not to be paid until succeeding years.

Passed It on to Democrats.

Just before President Wilson took office, the report says, Mr. Hitchcock filled long-standing vacancies, made postponed promotions and assumed commitments to fixed charges for long terms in such a way as to saddle the new administration with the greatly increased expense, during months, if not years, to come. More than one hundred rural mail rates were authorized in three days.

The fiscal statement of the postal service for 1912 purported to show a deficit of $1,783,852, but that sum, the investigators say, was understated by nearly $100,000.

Delays of promotions and filling of vacancies that lapsed salaries might be returned to the treasury, the report says, caused dissatisfaction among employees and lowered the standard of their efficiency. Employees were transferred from other departments to the postoffice department in an effort to succeed at this plan were overworked and resulted in defective administration and just criticism on the part of the public.

That efficiency and economy should extravagance needs no argument, and the public service needs no argument, but the postal service affects so vitally the interests of the entire population of the country that economy which means the curtailment of postal facilities operates as a check to the social and industrial progress of the country. The people are entitled to the best facilities administered in the most efficient manner; that the facilities furnished during the last four years were not the best is clearly established by the facts."

COTTON SEED CRUSHERS GO TO ATLANTIC BEACH

Association Will Hold Annual Convention There Monday and Tuesday.

Members of the Cotton Seed Crushers' association of Georgia, who have gathered in Atlanta from the northern section of this state, left last night on a special train over the Central of Georgia railway for Atlantic Beach, Florida, where, on Monday and Tuesday, the ninth annual convention of this association will be held. Extra cars will be picked up at Macon, containing the south Georgia members of the association. The party committee met in Atlanta on Tuesday at the call of the chairman, B. L. Bond, of Royston, Ga., and formulated the report on the rules under which the association will work during the season of 1913-14.

Secretary P. D. McCarley, of Atlanta, has announced the program for the two days' sessions which will be held in the Atlantic Beach hotel, formerly the Hotel Continental. Following the invocation, an address of welcome to the association will be made by H. M. Stanford, manager Atlantic Beach hotel, Atlantic Beach, Florida, to which a response will be made by Vice President B. L. Bond, of Royston, Ga.

President F. W. McKee, of Atlanta, who will preside, will deliver his annual address and will be followed by Dr. Andrew M. Soule, president of the state College of Agriculture, at Athens, Ga.

At the afternoon session, Thomas C. Law, the Atlanta chemist, will read a paper on "The Quality of Crude Oil," and will be followed by H. C. Brown, of Augusta, with an address on "Proper Grading of Cotton Seed for Manufacturing Purposes."

E. E. Pomeroy, of Atlanta, will deliver an address on Tuesday morning and will be followed by Joel Hunter, C. P. A., of Atlanta, on "Fallacies in Seed and Crushing Costs." Dr. Peter F. Bahnson, state veterinarian, will make the concluding address before the convention, which will be followed by the reports of the committees and election of officers.

The Georgia association is the second largest in the south, and is always noted for the intense enthusiasm which always marks its gathering.

GERMAN SOLDIERS HALF STARVED

BUT KAISER KEEPS INCREASING ARMY

General Fossas Von Herringen

German Soldiers in their "Hand-Me-Downs." ♦ Cooking their eight cents a day meals.

(Copyright, 1912, by Curtis Brown.)

Berlin, May 17.—Germany is increasing its army at a rapid pace. $200,000,000 above the usual amount spent annually on the kaiser's mailed fist are about to be raised to make it the most perfect instrument of war in the history of the world; infantry, artillery, cavalry, communications, aeronautics, railways—everything, in fact, will be improved out of all recognition, except—the stomachs of the soldiers. Seven times within the past thirteen years has the reichstag passed resolutions asking that something be done for the support and feeding of the nation's defenders. But the imperial government has always pleaded the same excuse—lack of money. The problem of the "hungry legions" is worse today than ever.

During the thirty years in which everything else in Europe has doubled in price, the wages of the German warrior has remained practically unchanged. Time and time again efforts attempted to remedy this grievance, but did not go far. So Germany's soldiers remain worse paid than any others, with perhaps the exception of Russia's.

The full infantry private in a line regiment gets only $1.50 a month; the sergeant gets $8, and the highest paid man in the non-commissioned ranks gets only $12. This is the sergeant-major or "feldwebel." The privileged services and a few privileged guards regiments are a little better off. The guards' infantry private is rich on $2; the guards' cavalryman on $2.50, but the foot artillery, fortress, artillery-man, and the field artillery-man gets only the minimum, $1.50. Men on the railway get $2. The highest wage in the ranks is $12.50 a month, and that can be reached only after serving at least six years. When the state is in a particularly generous mood it gives "rewards." The "reward" for being the best shot in a guards' chasseur regiment is 62 cents a month.

Gets 5 Cents a Day.

Every ten days the German private soldier gets his wage of 50 cents. On this money he has partly to feed and clothe himself, as the thrifty state does not provide what is necessary for health. He has to pay for his washing bill, for hair cutting and shaving, for soap and for sewing materials. The state provides for the washing of his bed clothes, but all washing of his own clothing he must provide out of his monthly $1.50. It is estimated that on these necessary things the soldier spends at least $3 a month, so that his wage of $1.50 pays only for half. And nothing is left for amusement.

The state compels the young German to serve, but does not even provide his preliminary outfit. When he is appointed to a regiment he has to produce a whole stock of relatively expensive things which ought to be part of his outfit, and which he cannot do without. He has to bring warm jackets to wear under his uniform in cold weather, brushes of different kinds, leather cloths for cleaning his rifle, cleaning powders and socks. The least he can buy these things for is $5. This is equal to three months' wages. As a rule the young working man of 17 or 18 has to save money in order to be able to enter the army respectably. If not, his parents have to supply him. Often the money is borrowed, and thousands of soldiers enter the army in debt to money lenders who demand usurious interest. The young soldier is in trouble during all his two years' service.

The state shows a particular and ingenious meanness in the way it deals with the soldiers' canteens. The rich officers are given free use of state buildings for their clubs and casinos, and the hungry soldiers have to pay the state a rent for the use of government buildings as canteens. The state lays a niggardly hand on the surpluses of canteens, which are entirely derived from the men's money. It compels the canteens to buy large stocks of tedious political and religious journals which the men do not read. When—in a rare generous mood—it resolves to give a reward to a man for good shooting or for otherwise serving with distinction, it does not always do this out of its own pocket. It takes the money out of the profits of the canteen, which ought to go for the benefit of the soldiers. Many essentials of military equipment are supplied in this way at the men's expense. The government does not even supply the army with waste buckets, which are indispensable. It lets the regiments buy the buckets out of the profits of the canteen.

Worst Clothed in Europe.

Germany's soldiers, thanks to the state's incredible thrift, are the worst clothed in Europe. Both boots and overcoats are cheap and bad. For parade purposes the soldiers have good and new uniforms; but for ordinary drill and daily life they wear patched and ancient garments. The reason of this is the queer system of allotting money. Once a year every army corps is credited with a fixed sum for uniforms, which it is told it must not exceed. It is instructed at the same time to save as much of this money as possible. Thus every regiment understands that Berlin recoils it to be as cheaply and as badly clothed as possible. The unfortunate soldiers have to pay for all their clothes. The ordinary private's uniform suit goes through miscellaneous adventures, lasting on an average for nine years before it is finally cast away. Sometimes it lies for years in the magazine of a landwehr battalion before being first worn. Then for years it is worn only on parade and special occasions for the temporary owner on ordinary occasions wears old and patched uniforms. The uniform passes from soldier to soldier and as it grows its newness is worn more and more for ordinary everyday use. When it has got to its sixth owner it is worn every day; and when reduced to a rag more patches than original, it is still handed on to some unlucky conscript for wearing in times of rough work.

The German infantry equipment has been repeatedly condemned. The articles composing it are too light, and many of them fall to pieces. This is a result of state thrift. The infantry boot in particular was condemned. Similar boots were worn by the Russians in the far east, and was one of many causes of their defeat by the Japanese. Whether worn with socks, or as Germans mostly wear it, with "Fusslappen" wound round the foot, it causes soreness. The superior marching of French infantry is ascribed to their wearing a smaller and lighter boot.

Germany's warriors are probably the worst fed in Europe. Certainly they are the cheapest fed, although food in Germany is dearer than anywhere else. Thirty pfennigs a day, or about eight cents, is allowed for morning, midday and evening meals. Until three years ago the amount allowed was only 6 cents. The morning meal is merely coffee, costing less than a cent, the evening meal coffee and a fragment of sausage. The midday meal is the only real meal supplied, and it is prepared by the men themselves, with the result of waste. The generals and other non-commissioned officers are little better off than the privates. The corporal's board costs one cent a day extra and the sergeant-major's costs three cents extra. The 5 cents a day is for board on what is known as "lower scale." This is allowed when the men are in garrison. When they are on active service during manoeuvers they are put on "higher scale" and get 4 1-2 cents extra. For the lower scale allowance the soldier gets about one and one-half pounds of bread, a little coffee, five ounces of raw meat, including 10 per cent of bone; one-half pound of vegetables and some salt. The "higher scale" allowance contains about two ounces more meat. Whatever more the German soldier eats, whether of necessaries or luxuries, comes out of his own pocket, or the pockets of relatives or adding cooks.

Out of Date System.

Germany's feeding system dates back to the eighteenth century—to the glorious days of Frederick the Great, when Prussia was a poor state, and when the standard of living was very much lower than it is today. It is estimated that since then Germany has multiplied her wealth more than twenty fold. But she persists in feeding her soldiers practically in the same way as she did a hundred and fifty years ago. The food is rough in quality and insufficient in quantity. At an age when they have not ceased growing, young Germans are thus taken from relatively prosperous working class and peasant families and kept for two years in a state of under feeding. And with this go under-housing and inferior clothing. Although the army has increased by fifty thousand men in the last ten years, the barrack accommodation remains unchanged, and many men are put up in temporary iron shelters. The barracks are always under-heated, and as in summer time no oil is allowed for lighting, men have to go to bed in the dark.

That is the way in which thrifty Germany treats her defenders. No wonder her army costs less per head than the French, Austrian and Italian armies. The weak side of the system is its reaction on the men. The discipline is far too good to allow of hunger revolts, but the men show their discontent by obstinately refusing to serve as non-commissioned officers after their two years' term has expired. Under the two years' service law all non-commissioned officers are got by inducing men to stay on, but no compulsion can be used. The inducement given is a promise of a post in the police and on the railroads after retirement to civilian life. These posts are much coveted. But such is the dislike of remaining in the army, that the best men usually refuse, second best men must be taken for training as non-coms, and this operates injuriously upon the discipline and morals of the whole army.

The new army bill, as far as is known, will not do anything to remedy these evils. A few military journals are clamoring that something be done, at least towards improving the infantry private's food. But the usual objection will be made that the state has got no money and Germany's hungry legions will remain as hungry as ever.

ALL THE NEWS OF REAL ESTATE AND BUILDING

Montefiore Selig has leased the corner of Mitchell and Forsyth streets for S. Samuels to the United Cigar stores, who will open a store there July 1. The terms and consideration of the lease are withheld.

Mr. Selig has sold for E. Bigham to a client No. 3 McMillan street for $2,100.

Mrs. Fraser to Erect Factory.

Ground has been broken for the erection of a two-story and basement concrete building, 40x100 feet, on the south side of East Ellis street, between Courtland street and Piedmont avenue, for Jossup & Ellis Ice Cream company, inc., who will move from their present location on Forrest avenue immediately upon completion of their new headquarters.

A ten-year lease has been closed by G. T. R. Fraser and the building is now under way. Bank & Turner have the contract, will push the work to early completion. With the erection of a large laundry building now under way on the corner of East Ellis and Piedmont, the Elks' club and Ivy Printing company, already located on East Ellis between Courtland and Ivy streets, all indications point to the rapid development of this close-in section.

Other Realty Sales.

Mrs. Mattie C. Morris has sold to A. Davidson a parcel on Whitehall street, beginning 200 feet north of Hood street, for $13,000, or $260 a front foot.

SOCIETY

Exercises at Hanna School.

One of the most beautiful and unique entertainments of the past week was the commencement exercises of the Hanna school. A large and appreciative audience greeted the pupils of this well known institution, and from first to last they held the attention of their listeners, both in the graduation exercises proper and in their production of the beautiful classic play "Endymion," adapted from the noted poem of that name by Keats. Especially fine was the rendering of the prologue "A thing of beauty is a joy forever," by Miss Vivian Mathis, who showed a fine appreciation of the beauties of the author.

The spectacular features of the play were fine, and the beautiful voice of Miss Clyburn lent charm to the performance.

The faculty and pupils of the school are much to be congratulated on this successful performance.

Mr. and Mrs. Harris in Italy.

Mr. and Mrs. Julian Harris, who spent the month of April in Italy, will visit Germany and France during the summer. Mrs. Harris has recovered from her recent illness, and they will continue the interesting trip they have planned and about which they will contribute a series of letters to The Constitution.

Senior Class Entertained.

Miss Sara and Frances Noyes entertained the members of the senior class of the Girls' High school Thursday afternoon at their home. They were assisted in entertaining by their mother, Mrs. Noyes, and Misses Catherine Wyly, Misses Margaret Farnsworth, Hilda Castleberry, Mary Frances Bowdon and Catherine Newhanks served punch. Misses Pamile Lee Henry, Lottie Moyer, Charlotte Thompson, Blanche Foster, Dorothy Foster and Willie Ray also assisted in entertaining. Those assisting the Misses Noyes were the guests of honor at a party given in the evening in their honor.

Entertainments Postponed.

The entertainments planned in honor of Miss Henrietta Dull, a bride-elect, have been postponed on account of the serious illness of Miss Dull's aunt, Mrs. John E. Branch, at her home in West End. Mrs. Branch is slightly better.

Annual Banquet.

A beautiful function of the last week was the annual banquet of the Hanna alumnae, given at the Piedmont hotel, Thursday, May 29. A large and enthusiastic gathering of graduates of the Hanna school took place. Among those present were Mrs. Claud Sims, Miss Mary Griffith, Miss Ruth Gable, Mrs. Lamar Ray, Miss Nellie Smith, Mrs. Massenburg, Mrs. G. L. Harper, Mrs. Walter Bedford, Mrs. C. J. Torple, Mrs. J. R. Cothran, Mrs. Mary Butt Griffith, Miss Pearl Boutell, Miss Ruby Miller, Miss Ada Donaldson, Miss Mary Minchinett, Miss Sadie Wolnberg, Miss Sarah Liddell, Miss Annie Donaldson, Miss Louise Donaldson, Miss Louise Thrash, Miss Julia Sperman, Mrs. Eva Doyle, Miss Robena Shaw, Miss Lucile Callahan, Miss Ruby Aenors, Miss Mary Harper, Miss Edna Fowler, Miss Lillian Carter, Mrs. S. J. Hanna, Miss Elizabeth Hanna.

Class Day at Girls' High.

The senior class of the Girls' High school had their class day Tuesday, May 27. The class prophecy was written by Miss Carolyn Chisholm, the "Poem" by Miss Mamie Kirkpatrick and the "Class Will" by Miss Laura Cole. Miss Ruby McGaughey read a "Modern Spider and Fly." After the program, Misses Charlotte Thompson, Hilda Castleberry, Clemie Mayfield, Fannie Lee Henry, Mary Frances Bowden, Eddie Lee Terrell, Ruth Duncan and Betty Foster served punch and ices. Dancing was enjoyed by all. Miss Betty Foster, president of Mallon society, presided over the occasion.

Ice Cream Festival.

An ice cream festival will be given at the residence of Dr. Noble, 360 Peachtree street, Friday, June 6, from 4 to 9 p. m., by St. Mary's Guild of St. Philip's church. There will be all kinds of attractions in the afternoon for the children; also delicious home-made candies. Admission 10 cents.

Griffin-Kelley.

An interesting event of the past week was the wedding of Miss June Griffin, and Mr. V. H. Kelley, of Mobile, which took place Wednesday afternoon at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Lucy Griffin, on Courtland street. The house was beautifully decorated with palms, ferns and flowers. The ceremony took place in the library, the bridal party standing before an altar of palms and ferns. Mr. R. L. Boone, of Mobile, was best man, and Miss Christine Wall was maid of honor, and Dr. A. T. Spalding officiated. The bride wore her going-away gown of brown silk ratine, with brown hat trimmed in plumes. She carried a shower bouquet of bride roses. Miss Wall wore a white lingerie gown, elaborately trimmed in baby Irish lace and she carried pink roses.

An informal reception followed the ceremony. The bride's mother wore a lavender charmeuse satin gown, and assisting in entertaining were Mrs. Berto Lee, of Covington, and Miss Christine White. Mr. and Mrs. Kelley left for Mobile, where they will make their home.

Y. W. C. A. Board Meeting.

There will be a regular meeting of the Y. W. C. A. board Wednesday, June 4, at 3:30 in the Wesley Memorial building, on the fourth floor. This is a very important meeting and all members are urged to be present.

Miller-Massey.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pinckney Miller have issued invitations to the marriage of their sister, Miss Dorothy Mood Miller to Mr. Arthur Ballard Massey, on Thursday evening, June 12, at 6 o'clock, at St. Paul's church, Pendleton, S. C.

Miss Cobb Will Read.

Miss Caroline Cobb, of Athens, Ga., organizer in Georgia of the Drama League of America, and one of the most gifted dramatic interpreters in the south, will give a reading before the Atlanta center of the Drama league at an early date.

Miss Cobb has recently coached the young students of the Athens schools in the presentation of Josephine Peabody's play "The Piper," also in the presentation of a beautiful interpretation of "Joan of Arc," and her work is thorough and finished.

The members of the league have planned for a series of readings by talented people, the first of these being the reading last week by Mr. W. W. Memminger, of Galsworthys "The Five-ch," when seventy-five of the Atlanta membership of the league were present.

It is probably that one of the readings will be in the formal garden of one of Atlanta's hostesses, who is a member of the Drama league.

Henderson-Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Henderson announce the marriage of their daughter, Cathleen Lee, to George Willard Smith, Saturday, May 24.

To Methodist Ministers.

It has been suggested that all the ministers throughout the state preach on the life of John Wesley before June 28, and urge a liberal donation for the annual shower on that date for Wesley Memorial hospital. Those preferring to give cash rather than linen, send same to the financial secretary, Mrs. J. H. Bradfield, 801 South Pryor street, Atlanta, and goods forwarded to Wesley Memorial hospital, Auburn avenue.

Is not this a beautiful sentiment to commemorate a life given for our righteous living? Can we not give generously to the sick and suffering by our donations?

Closing Exercises of G. N. S.

On the evening of Tuesday, June 3, at 8 o'clock, the closing exercises of the Girls' Night school will be given in the Sunday school room of the Central Congregational church, corner Ellis street and Carnegie Way. An attractive program has been arranged and all the friends of the school are cordially invited to be present and see what this institution has accomplished.

Ice Cream Festival.

An ice cream festival and concert will be given next Sunday, June 1 at 5 p. m., by the Daughters of Zion society at the club rooms of the Ahayat Zion Sunday school, corner Piedmont avenue and Gilmer street. After the concert refreshments will be served to the children. The children of the Alliance Sunday school are cordially invited.

Evening Reception.

A social event of Monday evening was the reception tendered Miss Annie Ricketson by the Philathea class of the Baptist tabernacle, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P R Byrd, on Washington street.

The home was prettily decorated in old field daisies and the words "Welcome, welcome," were suspended across the hallway. Forty guests were invited to meet Miss Ricketson, who left Wednesday for a visit of several weeks in Warrenton.

For Miss Mobley.

Among those who will entertain for Miss Pearl Mobley before her marriage to Mr. Isaac Redding, on June 25, will be Mrs. W. L. Scott, Mrs. Ed Humphries, Mrs. Max Epstein, Misses Hiers, Mrs. E. Radwine, Miss Lillian Brooks and Mrs. Bailey.

At the Dinner-Dance.

One hundred and fifty people formed a gay summer assemblage at the Piedmont Driving club last night for a delightful dinner dance.

One party was a "welcome home" to Mr. and Mrs. John Wheatley, after their year's residence in Syracuse. Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Munnally were the hosts, and the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Wheatley, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Hughes Spalding, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hopkins, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Albert Thornton, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Haverty, Dr. and Mrs. LeRoy Childs.

In another party were Mr. and Mrs. William Schroeder, Miss Annie Lyle, Miss Martha Francis, Mr. and Mrs. Phillips McDuffie, Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell King, Mr. Marion Harper, Mr. Claud Douthit.

Miss Carolyn King and her guest, Miss Elizabeth Boyd, of Nashville, were guests of another party, and others entertaining were Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Richardson, Colonel and Mrs. W. L. Peel, Mr. Brooks Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. John Grant, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Manley, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Smythe, Dr. and Mrs. Somerville, Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Felder, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. A. Hobson, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Dickey, Jr., Mr and Mrs. J. D. Rhodes, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin F. Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. Sam N. Evins, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Barnett, Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Jackson, Mr. Knight, Dr. and Mrs. Bates Block, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Prescott, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Austin, Colonel Barth, Judge Reid, Mr. Inman Gray, Mr. and Mrs. George C. Walters, Mr. and Mrs. Ulrie Atkinson, Mr. and Mrs. Wickliffe Goldsmith.

Pioneer Picnic.

The picnic to be given on Wednesday afternoon by the Pioneer women's society at the home of Mrs. V. P. Sisson will be a unique and delightful occasion, and the belles of the sixties who compose a large part of the society are looking forward to it as the event of the year.

They will gather on Mrs. Sisson's porch and spacious lawn and spread a typical picnic luncheon, and afterwards, until 6 o'clock, there will be music and dancing of the Virginia reel and "Tucker," which in their grace and gayety will "put it all over" the dances of today.

Other features of entertainment will be songs by Miss Edith McCool, with piano and violin by Mrs. George D. Snow and Mr. Elliott Johnston. Miss Harris and Mr. F. O. Foster will give readings. Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Logue will sing "Reuben and Rachel." Mrs. W. D. Grant will play piano selections.

A quilt given by Mrs. Martha Compton, of Decatur, who was Mrs. Martha Lumpkin of Marthasville, will be on exhibition, and Mrs. Compton herself will be present.

Among the guests will be Governor and Mrs. Brown, Governor-elect and Mrs. Slaton, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Howell, Mr. and Mrs. James R. Gray, Mr. and Mrs. Foster Coates and the heads of Atlanta's largest organizations of women.

Miss West Entertains.

Miss Emily West entertained delightfully yesterday in compliment to Miss Louise Bloodworth, of Forsyth, whose visit with Miss Marion Dean is being marked by a series of parties.

Heart-dice was played and the prizes were monogram correspondence cards, a fan and hair ribbons, and the game was followed by dainty refreshments. The house was attractively decorated with garden flowers.

Miss West wore a dainty net gown over pink silk. She was assisted in entertaining by her mother, Mrs. William Eckford.

Miss Robinson at Annapolis.

Miss Isabel Robinson left Thursday for Annapolis to be present at the hop last night and to enjoy the festivities of "June week," which culminate in the "June ball" on Friday night, June 6.

Miss Robinson is visiting at the home of her father's old friend and classmate, Professor Harry E. Smith, who is head of the mathematics department of the Naval academy. Mrs. Smith is the daughter of the late President Rutherford B. Hayes, and a lovely member of the social life at Annapolis. As their guest, some charming courtesies have been planned for Miss Robinson.

Mr. Roby Robinson left at the same time with his daughter to attend a class reunion at Washington.

Taylor-Bagley Wedding.

At the Baptist church in Avondale Wednesday evening, Miss Audrey Bagley and Mr. Vincent Taylor were married in the presence of a large number of their friends.

The altar was banked with ferns and palms and at 9 o'clock the two ushers, Mr. Upshaw Bentley and Mr. Gus Taylor, led the processional. Mrs. Bennett, of East Lake, was the matron of honor. She entered alone wearing a becoming toilette of white chiffon over khmite messaline and carried white roses. She was followed by the two bridesmaids, Miss Grace Bentley and Miss Ethel McCool. The groomsmen, Mr. Cary Bentley and Mr. Andrews proceeded down the aisle in advance of the maid of honor, Miss Vivian Bagley, the bride's sister. The bridesmaids and maid of honor were gowned alike in pink chiffon over pink messaline and carried baskets of pink roses.

Inas Mae Snowden, cousin of the bride, carried the ring on a silver platter, and was a dainty little miss in lingerie and lace.

The bride entered with her uncle, Mr. Joseph Price, by whom she was given in marriage. She wore a white chiffon over messaline entraine with a veil in cap effect of bride's roses and ferns. The groom's best man was Mr. Walter Jones, and the ceremony was performed by Rev. O. J. Bentley.

An informal reception was held at the home of the bride's two aunts, Mrs. Snowden and Mrs. Lemons, in Avondale.—Birmingham Ledger.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor left for a brief trip to Atlanta, and upon their return will be at home, temporarily, with the bride's mother, Mrs. Jack Hammes, in Avondale.

Charming Girl Returns

MISS LOUISE HORSEY,

A charming Atlanta girl who has returned from a visit to Montgomery, where many entertainments were given in her honor.

Artistic Dissipation

The designing of the tea set must be a kind of mental relaxation with the artist whose specialty is designing in Silver. So much of the freedom and originality, both of line and detail, is permissible, that real enthusiasm can have full play. But the end in view must always be an air of elegant conventionality.

If Paderewski is Right, The Apollo is Right

All pianists, great or indifferent, play the piano with a downward stroke on the keys. That is the only way to play a piano. To pound on the strings without the delicately balanced keys is to abuse a delicate instrument.

Yet the Apollo is the only Player Piano that touches down on the keys

All other manufacturers would make inside players with a downward stroke on the keys if they could; but we are protected in the exclusive right to do this by U. S. patent No. 706,811.

Since there is only one correct way to play a piano, and all others are denied the right to make a player that plays that way, and since we charge no more than manufacturers whom use a substitute method, are you not sufficiently interested in the Apollo to come and see for yourself?

Come and learn about the sole device, the self-acting motor, the transposing device, the accompaniment player — all exclusive features of the Apollo.

These things are being demonstrated daily in our salesrooms. We are exclusive agents in this territory for this marvel of music. Melville Clark pianos without the players $500 to $1000.

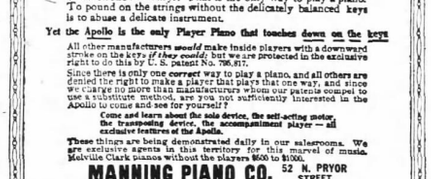
HAIR SAVER AND HAIR GROWER



Price One Dollar at Drug, Hardware and Dep't Stores

Those who have tried the many so-called Hair Tonics, Hair Restorers, Hair Foods, etc., as found in the shops, know they are practically worthless, they don't reach the spot. Prof. Metchnikoff, Europe's greatest Biologist and Scientist, discovered that all Hair and Scalp ailments are due to certain germs or parasites that are propagated in the hair roots, where they feed on the elements that are intended to nourish the hair and supply its color. And he found that these germs could be reached and destroyed only by the Electro-Magnetic-Heat of the ARSENIRON COMB, which also cures Dandruff, stops Hair-fall and Itching, prevents Premature Grayness, and changes a "kink" into a "wave."

SENATORIAL AMENDMENT PROCLAIMED BY BRYAN

Secretary Used Four Pens in Signing the Proclamation.

Washington, May 31.—In the presence of a notable company, including many legislators who had to do with its adoption, Secretary Bryan today signed the formal announcement of the seventeenth amendment to the constitution, providing for the direct election of United State senators.

Former Representative Harry St. George Tucker, of Virginia, chairman of the committee of the Fifty-second congress, having charge of the first direct election of senators' resolution that passed the house; Representative Rucker, of Missouri, chairman of the committee in the Sixty-second congress which had charge of the resolution which finally was adopted, and Senator Borah, who championed the change in the senate, were present as was Mrs. Bryan.

Secretary Bryan used four pens to sign the proclamation. The first which he used to write "William" went to Mr. Tucker; the second with which he wrote "Jennings" went to Mr. Rucker; the third with which he wrote "Bryan" he kept for himself, and the last with which he wrote the date he delivered to Senator Borah.

To those assembled Mr. Bryan expressed his gratification at being the official to proclaim the constitution change.

CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE WILL BE INCREASED

Washington, May 31.—Increase senatorial representation on the democratic congressional committee was discussed today at a conference between Chairman Lloyd and Secretary Page, of the campaign committee, and a committee of five senators. President Wilson favors a plan to have on the reorganized committee a senator from each state where senators are to be elected by direct popular vote in 1914. According to the committee's information, these states are Kentucky, Kansas, Ohio, Oregon, Arkansas, Florida, New Hampshire, Oklahoma, Alabama, Nevada, North Carolina, New York, Illinois, Indiana, South Carolina, Georgia, Maryland, Arizona, Missouri, Colorado and Louisiana.

COMMISSION TO STUDY VOCATIONAL EDUCATION

Washington, May 31.—Appointment of a commission of nine to study plans for a federal system of aid to vocational education was endorsed today by the senate committee on education and labor. The committee recommended passage of the resolution introduced by Senator Hoke Smith, of Georgia, under which a commission appointed by the president would report to congress in December. It is intended that the report shall form the basis for a bill similar to the Smith Page, Lever and other bills before the last congress.

M'REYNOLDS CONSIDERS NEW DISSOLUTION PLAN

Washington, May 31.—Attorney General McReynolds today said he had not reached a conclusion as to the adequacy of the proposed plan for dissolution of the Union Pacific merger by which $126,600,000 in Southern Pacific stock held by the Union Pacific would be sold to the highest bidder like city bonds. He declared, however, that he was opposed to the alternative plan by which the stock would be placed in the hands of trustees.

The alternative plan is practically the same as one submitted to the attorney general some time ago. He objects on the ground that it would place the Southern Pacific stock under the control of Union Pacific interests for an indefinite period.

HANSEN IS DRIVEN FROM GREAT BRITAIN

London, May 31.—Salter Hanson, the American theatrical manager, was brought up at Bow street police court today on a charge of having threatened with violence Lewis Dutchfield, an English actor-manager. He was unable to find sureties for his future behavior, but the magistrate released him on his statement that he would leaves the British Isles today.

Things to Worry About.

The Reichsheerstrungsliefergungpruefungskommission has just been established in Germany.

Oil Mill Superintendents Will Gather Here This Week Four Hundred Strong

The growth of the cotton seed oil business has developed to nine millions a year. The men directly responsible for this development are the men engaged in operating the plants and the high efficiency they have attained in handling the machinery provided for the work. The designers and builders of the machinery are also responsible for a large part of this growth and the purity of the product obtained from the seed.

It is noteworthy that Atlanta has been selected for the second consecutive year for the joint convention of these interests, the 4-5-6 are the dates selected for this convention, which will be held in the Auditorium-Armory, with the entire main floor and the stage for the placing of the exhibits, and a meeting place for the delegates. To the evidence of the unity of interests in these conventions: Two years ago the meeting was held in Macon, with an attendance of thirty superintendents and twelve machinery men. Last year, in Atlanta, there were 125 superintendents and forty-four machinery men. This year 400 superintendents are expected, and already sixty machinery companies have joined the machinery men's auxiliary, and these are ten more expected by the opening day.

Educational Program.

A highly instructive educational program has been prepared for the superintendents, and those not attending will miss much that will be useful to them in improving the efficiency of their plants for the next year. Good fellowship has been a noticeable feature of past conventions, and many pleasant and lasting acquaintances have been formed.

The machinery exhibits this year will be the largest, without exception, that has ever been held, and include Corliss engines, pressing machinery, pumps, baling, packing, valves, pipes, insulating materials, scales, special appliances for oil mill machinery, etc. An oil mill man recently stated that every machine and device required for the installation and operation of a mill will be shown. The assemblage of machinery will enable every superintendent to practically visit the plants of fifty or sixty manufacturers for the price of a ticket to Atlanta and to thoroughly inspect the different products of these plants.

Entertainment Feature.

The entertainment feature planned by the auxiliary for the superintendents' meeting will be very busy during the evenings, and there will not be a dull moment in the three days' visit on the first evening a smoker buffet will be given to the men in order that they may become better acquainted and enjoy some of the good things to eat and stories that are circulating amongst their craft. The second night will be filled with a theater party at the Forsyth, for which tickets will be provided by the auxiliary. The visiting ladies will partake of this entertainment, and everyone is assured of a good time. On the last afternoon an old-fashioned barbecue will be served at the plant of the Atlanta Manufacturing and Supply company at East Point for both ladies and gentlemen. During the day visiting ladies will be shown about town, the large department stores and other places of interest.

The Way to Open a Drug Store.

The opportunities offered the young man and young woman in the drug business have been looked upon from various angles by many successful men in the drug trade, and their views on the subject have been reflected in a series of articles which have appeared in The Pharmaceutical Era. In a recent interview presented in that Journal James W. Morrison, president of a well-known wholesale drug firm of Chicago, gives some pertinent advice on the way to open a drug store. He says:

"The question of general advice to the young man who desires to open his own retail store bears a strong family resemblance to advice on marriage in general. Until your young man has decided he has the right to advise him would be wasted energy, for there are about as many kinds of drug stores as there are marriageable young women, and about as many varieties of desirable ones. What might be words of wisdom to the man who starts a pharmacy with a bacteriological laboratory would be rankest folly for him who is to run a thinly disguised sandwich emporium.

"If the young man has turned his thoughts to establish himself in his own store in a small town, the best word I can give him would be to earnestly advise him to wait. I would tell him to be cautious in the extreme and not to take the first alluring offer that presents itself. Most of us are born impatient, and were too prone to accept chance for opportunity. As a consequence the majority of us are not always satisfied with what we succeed in getting. Not until we can ever could compute the valuable time a great many of us have spent in the pursuit of fortune, the same time made who has been thrifty and saved his money should first determine just where he desires to open his store. If the first would seek employment as a clerk in a desirable store in a pleasant location, such time would be advantageously spent. Having become acquainted with the residents of the town and having acquired a knowledge of the proper conduct of a drug store through personal application, he then would be qualified to seek to become the proprietor of his own establishment. In short, the experience will be worth even more than money—and he is apt to need both.

"He ought to have money enough to buy his store when he finally finds it. He possibly might find some one who is willing to assist him by staking his own business providing he has two-thirds or three-fourths of the capital essential to open a new or take over an established store. But speaking from the standpoint of intimate knowledge of such affairs, he ought to thank anyone who has judgment enough to refuse to permit him to commit commercial suicide by trying to start on less than the amount I have stated.

"The site chosen, the young man should study his town and location as he never before had studied anything. He should ascertain beyond peradventure whether the trade in the town he has selected is transient or residential. Another important question he should seriously consider is whether he expects to count on employees of a large factory that may shut down, or those of railroad shops that may be moved to other towns or that may find it necessary to lay off some of their skilled labor.

"And there are innumerable other features into which he should probe before investing his money in his own store.

"Is the town growing towards him or away from him?

"Can he count on the physicians, and do these doctors prescribe or dispense?

"His expense account, his operating expenses, aside from replenishing his stock, should not exceed 20 per cent of the sales, and that percentage should include a liberal allowance for the unexpected. Contrary to the general idea, the drug business is done on a comparatively small margin of profit.

"The amount of credit we could conscientiously extend this young man would be based rather more on the mental basis upon which he has spent of money he possesses. We would, of course, demand a letter from his bankers showing that he had on deposit a sufficient amount to warrant the extending of credit. He would be advised to buy on similar terms of all bills payable in thirty days. It doesn't take a student of character to determine satisfactorily whether or not the young man is going to make good. I would feel safe in opening accounts with some men for almost unlimited credits, to some others I would give little leeway. I base my judgment on the moral hazard.

"The young man will not be in business long before he discovers that proprietorship brings with it responsibilities that the mere clerk rarely dreams of. A man may be an accomplished pharmacist and fail as a druggist. He may know his profession but not his business. There is a distinction which experience alone will teach him to draw.

"The profession of pharmacy is properly controlled by state and national laws. Every druggist should know them so as to be able to refer to them from the standpoint of a citizen if he hasn't a proper sense of his obligations to the public whom he serves."

Making Snub a Pleasant Affair.

That snub was a complete success. It was meant for just what it accomplished.

The audience—or rather the spectators, for there were no auditors—saw a girl of glowing beauty strolling idly about a front yard and reaching the purple flamed lilac bushes at the corner just as a young man came along and lifted his hat. They saw the girl stare at him, whirl on her heel and stand with her back to him till he passed. They saw him droop his hat in evident chagrin, stoop and fumble for a cut on his middle foot, most and hurry past the house without daring to look toward the mother who stood watching from the porch.

The lilacs were never so glorious as the day of the snub. The day was so warm that Audrey had sat at an open window reading a book. It could not have been a very fascinating book, because she looked up from it so much, looked up from the book and looked down the street.

Her mother sat crocheting and watching her. After a while Audrey put aside the book, rose and yawned; it was a very soulless yawn, for she was strolling with sweet hypocrisy. She murmured:

"I'll go with you."

"No, no; the ground is damp—your rheumatism," Audrey made needless haste, it seemed to her mother, who followed to the porch, her suspicions aroused by the tedious yawns and the intense tone of indifference. She watched Audrey move lazily from the oleanders to the geraniums, to the little cluster of upward pleading tulips.

She saw her reach the lilac bush, and then Mrs. Moulton quivered with rage, for she saw Harley Teele coming up the street. And next the mother was relieved to see the snub.

And such a snub!

The treacherous girl had plucked a little spray of lilacs and flicked it over the fence at Harley's feet before she turned her back on him. Before she turned her back on him she had seen him take a look like a shaft of sunset sunbeams breaking through a cloud. He had lifted his hat and received the snub in the form of a softly murmured phrase:

"I love you, Harley, honey!"

It was then that he dropped his hat—as he was so afflicted pretty he could hardly keep his foothold on this swirling planet. He stooped for his hat and the lilac spray that he valued more, and he sent a shrill whisper through the pickets of the fence:

"I love you, too. And I've got a client!"

"No!"

"Yes! A client at last."

By now he [illegible] the lilacs in his hat and he must march on, not daring to risk another word, for he saw Mrs. Moulton glaring from the porch. He did not lift his hat to her. She would have given him a real snub, and the lilacs would have fallen out.

GEORGE PEABODY HALL TO BE OPENED JUNE 12

New Building at "Georgia" to House Education and Business Departments.

Athens, Ga., May 31.—(Special.)—The annual commencement day at the University of Georgia falls on Wednesday, June 18, this year.

Prior to the date of commencement there will be an event of unusual importance—marking the first of the series of programs and exercises, social and literary affairs.

Thursday, June 12, "George Peabody Hall," the handsome new building which will house the school of education and the department of business administration also, perhaps, for awhile, will be formally opened. Concerning this event the following announcement, with cordial invitation, has been prepared by Dr. T. J. Woofter, the dean of the school of education:

Reception, June 12.

The first program of the university commencement this year will be the opening reception in George Peabody hall, the new home of the Peabody School of education. There will be an address in the chapel by a distinguished educator, and this followed with a brilliant reception in honor of the occasion. The program will be as follows:

4:45 p. m., in University Chapel.

Historical Introduction—T. J. Woofter, dean of the school.

Address—Dr. H. H. Horne, New York university.

Delivery to the Trustees—David C. Barrow, chancellor.

Acceptance—Ex-Governor Henry D. McDaniel, president of the board.

Reception in George Peabody hall, Harmony's orchestra.

The invitation is general to all friends of the university. No individual invitations will be mailed out. The first program will be offered to one hour and a half, and the reception follow. The cultured people of Athens are invited to attend both occasions, and they are requested to reserve the date of June 12 solely for these.

Dr. Horne, who is to deliver the principal address of the occasion, is at the head of the department of education and of allied lines of teaching and research in the University of New York. He is the author of a score or more books on his particular line—books familiar to every teacher and normal school. He is a native of North Carolina and liver there till he was a mature man of the south—knowing the conditions of the south in educational matters. He had attained high position in his profession—the technical, leading teacher. He is a speaker of unusual power and attractiveness of style, and his address will not only be of great alue in matter, but is sure to be delightful in manner.

WOODMEN OF WORLD TO HONOR THE DEAD

J. C. Root Camp, Railway Camp and Atlanta Camp, Woodmen of the World, will observe their annual Memorial day today. A delegation from all three camps will decorate the graves in the morning at the various cemeteries. At 4 o'clock members will meet at the McKenzie building, where a line will be formed and with the Fifth Infantry band acting as escort, the camps will march to Oakland cemetery, where a monument will be unveiled. Judge Roan making the principal address. Barnes' Fifth Regiment band will render an attractive program.

Wins Oratory Medal.

Waycross, Ga., May 31.—(Special.)—In Miss Anna Morrison, the beautiful and accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Morrison, of Waycross, United States Senator J. Hamilton Lewis, of Illinois, has a medal-winning niece with a record in Georgia and Virginia. News has been received here telling of Miss Morrison's success in the elocution contest at Mary Baldwin seminary at Staunton, Va. She won the medal offered in this contest, taking one of the highest honors of the school.

No Organ Concert Today.

There will be no free organ concert in the Auditorium-Armory this afternoon, according to the announcement of the Atlanta Music Festival association. The Auditorium is occupied by a hardware exhibit.

It is expected, however, that the free concerts will be regularly resumed with the following Sunday. The Wagnerian centennial concert, held last Sunday, was one of the most successful the association has ever given.

Ambassador Page Received.

London, May 31.—The Duke of Connaught, governor general of Canada, received the American ambassador, Walter H. Page, this afternoon.

First Coal Mine Owner—Isn't it about time to advance the price of coal 25 cents a ton?

Second Coal Mine Owner—Just about.

"Then make arrangements to bring on another strike."

DR. BARTON TO ACCEPT JACKSON HILL CALL

He Is Said to Be One of South's Most Eloquent Young Preachers.

While no formal acceptance has been received by officers of the Jackson Hill Baptist church, information has been received by individual members from Dr. L. E. Barton, of West Point, Miss., indicating that it is his purpose to accept the call of that church made him about ten days ago, and that his formal acceptance is being prepared.

Dr. Barton visited Atlanta and preached at the Jackson Hill church a few weeks ago, and the impression made on the congregation by his personality and power as a preacher, resulted in a unanimous call being extended just a week later.

Dr. Barton was born in Arkansas, educated at Union university, Jackson, Tenn., and was graduated in 1898 with the A. M. degree. He then attended the Southern Baptist Theological seminary. He has held pastorates in Tennessee, Arkansas, Virginia, Georgia and Mississippi, having for the past four years been pastor of the West Point Baptist church of West Point, Miss., which pastorate he will resign to come to Atlanta. He has had many calls extended to him since being located at West Point, but the Jackson Hill call is the only one that has appealed to him.

About two years ago the degree of doctor of divinity was conferred upon Dr. Barton by Union university. He is said to be probably the most eloquent of the younger preachers of the Southern Baptist convention, and is a member of almost every important advisory body of the Mississippi state convention. To him, it is said, is due a large share of the credit for the establishment of the educational commission, the most important step forward in the denomination work of Mississippi Baptists for many years.

Jackson Hill church is one of the leading Baptist churches of Atlanta, and the state, its late pastor being Dr. Junius W. Millard, whose death occurred a few months ago. The church will count itself very fortunate in being able to have the aggressive leadership of Dr. Barton, as former pastorates held by him have prospered greatly under his direction.

It is expected that Dr. Barton will reach Atlanta to take charge of his new work about July 1.

THREE BOY BANDITS ROBBED FIFTEEN MEN

New York, May 31.—Three boys, each les sthan 17 years of age, are under arrest today as bandits, who, with pistols in hand, invaded the Trojan Athletic club last night and lined up fifteen young men for robbery. Several of the victims who refused to hold up their hands were punched in the face. The menacing pistols kept them from punching back.

In all, the young bandits got nearly $300 worth of jewelry and money.

They had barely backed out of the club rooms to dart away when an alarm was sounded, and the police fell upon them.

Russian Birdman Killed.

Wheat Badly Damaged.

Wichita, Kan., May 31.—Wheat growers in southern Kansas and grain buyers in this city estimate that the growing wheat has been set back already 25 per cent by the heat and dry weather of this week. Each succeeding day is proving disastrous. Estimates from these same sources are to the effect that unless a general rain comes within a few days the 1913 crop will be 50 per cent short of predictions made ten days ago.

A Splendid Exhibition of English Minton China Will Be Held in Our China Room Tuesday and Wednesday.

You Are Invited to Come.

The American representative of the famous Minton factory will have his new samples—direct from England—on display in our China Room next Tuesday and Wednesday, June 3 and 4.

This is the first time the public has had an opportunity to see a display of the full line of this celebrated china.

Service Plates costing from $50 to $500 a dozen will be shown. In addition to cups and saucers and other table pieces in the finest qualities ever brought to America, you will see many new and handsome patterns at prices attractive to all.

We are the exclusive agents here for Minton. This kind of china is almost as elastic as metal—it doesn't easily break, chip or crack. In the long run it is the most economical quality to buy.

This exhibition is well worth a special visit to the store for anyone interested in choice china.

Make a special effort to call Tuesday.

CUTTING OUT WORK FOR REPUBLICANS

Senate Democrats Propose to Keep Tariff Bill Constantly to the Fore—Vote Predicted by Latter Part of July.

Washington, May 31.—"Make the republicans work" is the slogan adopted by the democratic leaders of the senate in charge of the tariff legislation, who today predicted that the senate would vote on the bill by August 1. Members of the finance committee declared that the bill would be out of sub-committees on June 3, that the full committee's report should be ready for the caucus by the following week, and that the revised measure would be reported to the senate June 23.

Hoke Smith Predicts Early Vote.

Senator Hoke Smith, of Georgia, said that the senate should vote on the bill in the latter part of July.

"We will keep the republicans who want to discuss the bill working, and we will keep at work ourselves from the very beginning," said the senator. "We will meet in the senate every day at 10 o'clock in the morning and keep at work until 6 o'clock at night. That will prevent the opposition from delaying the bill by playing with it. We will tire the republicans out of playing."

It was made evident today that the fight among the democrats on the wool and sugar schedules would be concluded in the caucus, and that this would leave Senator Ransdell and Johnston, of Louisiana, and Senator Walsh to oppose the bill.

One positive than they have ever been before were the administration leaders today that the bill would come from committees and through party caucus with free raw wool and free sugar in three years unscathed. Amendments to these schedules will, of course, be offered on the floor of the senate and democrats who will remain staunchly against the bill as it is reported will be expected to vote for them. Even then, the leaders assert, the bill can be passed as President Wilson approves it, though it probably will require the vote of Vice President Marshall unless Senator Poindexter, the only avowed progressive in the senate, votes for the measure.

Increases in Cotton Schedule.

Increases in all articles in the cotton schedule that may be classed as luxuries are to be made by the senate finance sub-committee. Members of the committee admitted this today, asserting that expensive cotton table covers, table cloths of the finer grades and tapestries all would be raised. One reduction in the cotton schedule will be made, the rate on cotton card laps, roping, silver or roving being reduced from 0.5 to 5 cents per pound. On cotton yarns the duties are to be increased 10 per cent to be taken as the lowest rate, instead of five, and, the rates of the Underwood bill are to be increased from that basis upward.

The citrus fruit rate fight was said today to have been practically settled today, practically as the rates proposed by the house senator Johnston's sub-committee has not reached a decision on the advisability of putting a retaliatory duty on print paper from Canada, owing to Canada's restrictions on wood and wood pulp.

The agricultural schedule still is under debate. Some senators favor a duty on meats, flour and oatmeal instead of placing cattle, sheep, hogs and grains on the free list. Members of the sub-committee are inclined to free list the raw materials, but they said today that the sentiment of the senate would be sounded further before final report on this schedule is made. President Wilson has been consulted, but his views of the matter have not been disclosed.

HE SAVED COMPANION BUT LOST HIS OWN LIFE

J. D. Artley, Recently of Savannah, Dies Like Hero in the Wrightsville Surf.

Wilmington, N. C., May 31.—Battling against a heavy sea in the heroic rescue of a surf bathing companion, Pharmacist Knouz, of the United States Marine hospital, J. D. Artley, 32 years old, recently of Savannah, Ga., now employed in the general offices of the Atlantic Coast Line here, disappeared in the surf opposite a hotel at Wrightsville beach, upon the opening of the season there today, and was drowned just after he had given over his companion to the hotel lifesavers, who had gone to the assistance of both. Knouz was saved. Artley's body was recovered, and physicians attending decided heart failure caused his drowning.

ARBITRATION TREATY HAS BEEN RENEWED

Washington, May 31.—Secretary Bryan and Sir Cecil Spring Rice, the British ambassador, late today signed a renewal for five years of the general arbitration treaty between the United States and Great Britain, which expires by limitation on June 4.

The treaty provides for the arbitration by The Hague court of any differences of a legal nature not affecting the vital interests, the independence or the honor of the two contracting states," and which do not concern interests of third parties. A form of special agreement covering the subject to be arbitrated, subject to the senate's approval is prescribed.

The British treaty is the fourth of the arbitration conventions to be renewed this year, the others being those with France, Italy and Spain. Diplomats here are awaiting with much interest the explation of the similar treaties with Japan and Switzerland, which expire by limitation on August 24. President Wilson has announced his willingness to renew it, but Japan has given no intimation of its purpose.

The renewal of the treaty with Mexico, which expires June 27, would involve the important questions of recognition of the Huerta government, thus far withheld. No hint has been given that the Huerta government will be recognized, and in announcing recently the names of the nations with which this government was willing to renew arbitration treaties, President Wilson omitted Mexico.

Other special treaties, all of which the president has expressed willingness to renew, expire in the following order:

Norway, June 24; Sweden, August 18; Portugal, November 14, and Switzerland, December 23.

WILSON INVESTIGATING BEECHER RAY SCANDAL

"Political Paymaster" Won't Be Promoted if the President Can Legally Avoid It.

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, D. C., May 31.—(Special.)—Major Beecher B. Ray, known as the "Political Paymaster" of the army, who is alleged to have secured his last promotion through political activity, is up again for promotion. President Wilson is investigating the charges of Major Ray's intimacy with the wife of a civilian clerk while he was acting as paymaster of the Department of the Gulf in Atlanta, and it is intimated that Major Ray will not secure advancement unless it is unavoidable under existing law.

Major Ray is now stationed at the headquarters of the central division at Chicago, and is the senior officer of that rank in the quartermaster's corps. As there is a vacancy in the next higher grade, he is due for promotion. Before sending his name to the senate, President Wilson has directed Mr. Garrison, the secretary of war, to obtain an opinion from the attorney general as to whether the war department has the legal right of jumping anyone over Major Ray's head, or whether he must be nominated as a lieutenant colonel as a matter of right in view of his position as the senior major. His promotion will be held up pending the receipt of the attorney general's opinion.

The reference of this question to the department of justice is interpreted by officials of the war department as indicating that the president and Secretary Garrison have decided not to promote unless they are obliged to do so by existing law. Major Ray was nominated during the Taft administration for promotion and the senate declined to act upon his nomination.

Before entering the army Major Ray was an official of the Railways' Conductors' union, and during the campaign of 1904 did much political work in Chicago in behalf of the republican ticket. Later he became involved in financial troubles in Manila, but he was never courtmartialed. These charges were investigated by the house committee on war department expenditures about a year ago, which recommended his dismissal from the service.

RAILWAY MAIL CLERKS GRANTED AN INCREASE

Postal Employees on the Atlanta and West Point Road Again Placed in Class C.

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, May 31.—(Special.)—Railway mail clerks on the Atlanta and West Point railway will receive an increase of salary to date from October 1, 1912, because of a ruling made today by the postoffice department.

Under the Hitchcock administration this road was put out of class C and into class B, which carried a reduction of salaries for the mail clerks.

The road was the only trunk line between the Atlantic and the Pacific which was put in this classification.

Representative William Schley Howard, of the fifth district, has been in conference with John Hogan and H. S. Swanson, representing the mail clerks, in regard to the matter. They were assured that the improper classification would be corrected and would go into effect as of October 1, last.

MANCHESTER

GEOGRAPHICALLY

Manchester—the junction of the three lines of the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic Railroad system—occupies a commanding position.

Practically equi-distant from Birmingham, the iron and coal center; Brunswick, the shipping port of the Atlantic seaboard, and Atlanta, the trade center of the east and middle west, Manchester is the logical point of distribution. It is practically the same distance from Macon, LaGrange and Columbus, which gives it an advantage of being in close touch with these centers without being sufficiently close to cause municipal competition.

To the natural advantages of topography and climate, the progressive advantage of railroad construction, there have been added man-made opportunities which are at your disposal.

SENATOR O'GORMAN'S DAUGHTER A BRIDE

One of the late spring brides whose wedding announcement created wide interest was Miss Dolorita O'Gorman, daughter of United States Senator James A. O'Gorman. Hundreds of invitations were sent out for her marriage to John Anthony Maher at the chapel of the Loyola school in New York. Among those invited was President Wilson and his family, with whom the O'Gormans are very friendly. Miss Alice O'Gorman was selected as her sister's only attendant. Daniel M. McMahon was chosen as best man. Mr. Maher is the youngest son of Edward A. Maher, one time mayor of Albany, N. Y.

List of Chautauqua Events For Georgia Summer School

Athens, Ga., May 31.—(Special.)—Dr. T. J. Woofter, superintendent of the Georgia Summer school, announced the following list of chautauqua events for the summer school five-weeks term, in addition to the high school and secondary school conferences, the high school contests on July 4, for the state prizes, and the county superintendents' conference:

First Week.

The summer school opens with President Woofter and the Emerson School of Oratory, Monday evening, June 30. He is the most distinguished and gifted Lincoln teacher, orator and artist in America. His programs will probably be as follows:

June 30—Sheridan's "The Rivals," a delightful comedy.

July 1—"The Cardinal King," Bulwer Lytton's romantic drama, Richelieu.

July 2—"A Splendid Rebel; or Life and Times of Patrick Henry."

July 3—A Shakespearean recital.

He will also give three morning talks on reading and the teaching of reading.

Friday evening, July 4, will be given over to the High school contest.

Second Week.

July 7 and 8, the Chicago Ladies' orchestra, composed of eight musicians with a reader, a company which ranks foremost among lyceum attractions. This splendid musical organization of this country. There will be full orchestra selections, also violin, flute and vocal solos, readings and the horn quartet, two evening programs.

July 9 and 10, Mr. W. K. Tate, of Columbia, S. C., will give two illustrated lectures of great interest and value.

July 9—The Schools of Switzerland and their Lessons to the South. Mr. Tate was sent by the United States government to study and make report on these schools.

July 10—The Country School of the Future, Illustrated from Pictures of the Present.

July 11—Annual excursion to Tallulah Falls.

Third Week.

July 14 and 15—Milton Packard, the leading Cartoonist of the day.

His cartoon drawing is unique and will fill two evenings with rare fun and profit.

July 17 and 18—Frederick B. Wright, a distinguished traveler, editor and lecturer. He will give two illustrated lectures.

17th—Children I Have Seen in Many Lands.

18th—By Unfrequented Routes Across Russia, Manchuria and China.

He will give a morning talk on Weather Forecasting.

Fourth Week.

July 21 and 22—The Riholdoffer-Galley company, composed of one of the greatest American sopranos, a violinist of conspicuous ability and a brilliant piano soloist. These three great artists will give two charming evenings for music lovers.

July 24 and 25—Miss Mildred Rutherford in two of her unique and distinctive lectures.

24th—Southern Life During Antebellum Days. This will be illustrated with quaint costumes of that day.

25th—Southern History, Its Value and Place in Education.

Fifth Week.

July 28—Edwin Alding Pound, our other gifted Georgian, will give us a lecture on the "Passion Play at Oberammergau."

July 30-August 1—W. Powell Hale, the impersonator, will give two evenings of rich humor and entertainment.

Anglers of Atlanta, Attention; Dan Carey Has Come to Your Aid

Hark, ye anglers!

Dan Carey, Atlanta's purveyor of plentiful pastime, shouted the city hall reporters to his office on the third floor of the city hall, Saturday morning, and uncorked this bundle of joy.

"Fellows," he said, in all seriousness, "I am going to open Piedmont park lake to fishermen from June 1 that's today until June 30. Now, that's straight, and I want you newspaper boys to spread the news."

So it's up to Atlanta's anglers to get busy and go out and clean up Piedmont lake. The chances are that you won't catch many whales or bull-head sharks, but Manager Carey throws out the assurance that there are thousands are large, juicy bream in the lake just begging to be hooked.

And, judging from the complaint heard from one of the mermaids, last summer, the lake is stocked with crabs and lobsters, for one of the crustacians pinched her foot. Park President J. O. Cochran does not believe there are any crabs in the lake, but he is sure there are some lobsters there.

"But you can catch a lobster almost anywhere," he says.

"The only rules we are going to enforce will be to prevent anyone from leaving the park with more than six fish," Manager Carey says. "We are not going to limit the hours. Anyone can go out in the morning, make his catch of six and return in the afternoon."

Manager Carey believes that by enforcing the rules of fishing in the parks he can conserve the supply. Three years ago the United States government stocked the lake with bream brought here from Warm Springs. The fish have thrived in the lake, and there are enough to supply breakfast to every home in Atlanta.

Manager Carey asks that fishermen throw back small fish, and not violate the rules. In other words, he wants to conserve the supply so as to permit the public to fish every year.

Monday Is Donation Day At Home for Old Women

The board of lady managers of the Home for Old Women have designated Monday, June 2, as the special Donation day at the home for the month of June. On that day the reception committee, composed of Mrs. William E. Cantrell, Mrs. Robert V. Haslett and Mrs. Edward P. Wood, will be in attendance at the home to receive visitors and donations. A cordial welcome will be given to all visitors by the committee, and they will be shown over the home. All friends who may desire to contribute articles of any kind to the home are requested to send them on that day, and especially to come themselves to the home. If it is not convenient to bring or send donations, the members of the comittee may be readily reached by telephone, and a messenger will be sent for such articles as may be contributed.

Club Women Meet Wednesday To Celebrate Woman's Edition

The executive board of The Woman's Edition, which will be published by the Federated Club women Wednesday, June 4, will receive at the office of The Woman's Edition at The Constitution Wednesday and talk over the work of the enterprise. The editors, business managers, solicitors, reporters, feature writers, and all others who have been interested in or in any way identified with the edition are expected. There will be decorations in white and green, the club colors, and refreshments served.

The executive board receiving committee is composed of: Mesdames J. Lindsay Johnson, J. K. Ottley, Hugh Willet, Ben Phillips, F. J. Spratling, F. J. McGovern, John Marshall Slaton, A. P. Coles, Charles Haden, Edward Brown, St. Elmo Massengale, E. B. Parker, Harvie Jordan, Samuel Bowman, Frank Neely, Albert Akers and W. B. Pritchett.

The central committee chairman, who will compose the office force for the day, are: Mesdames G. C. Lyle, Arthur Hutchings, Max Samuels, Leo Grossman, W. L. Percy, Lott Warren, R. C. Patterson, Samuel Bowman, Ben Elsas, H. H. Tucker, J. N. McEachern, A. G. Powell, Woods White, A. O. Woodward, L. M. Frank, W. H. Wiggs, T. Jo Elsas, H. H. Dalton, John E. Murphy, J. L. ## SUM OF $4,000 RAISED FOR BOARD IN GRIFFIN

Griffin, Ga., May 31.—(Special.)—The whirlwind campaign to raise $5,000 for the purpose of organizing a board of trade here is coming to a triumphant close. For three days the soliciting committee has been at work, and over $4,000 of the amount needed is in hand, with the large manufacturing concerns and wholesale houses yet to be heard from. The raising of so large a sum in so short a time is a matter of congratulation, as Griffinites consider it.

A rousing mass meeting was held in the courthouse last night, at which time A. W. McKeand, secretary of the Southern Commercial Secretaries' association, made a detailed address, giving all information necessary for launching upon the work of organization at once.

The work of soliciting has been under the direction of four chairmen of committees appointed for that work—Messrs. J. H. Smith, C. A. Jones, T. H. Wynne and J. P. Persons. At the mass meeting last night, by unanimous vote, it was determined to begin organizing at once. A committee of four citizens was appointed to make nominations and report at another meeting to be held next week. The nominating committee is as follows: J. H. Smith, R. J. Bickely, R. H. Drake and C. A. Jones.

Shortage of 7,000 Bales

Griffin, Ga., May 31.—(Special.)—The cotton season for this market is drawing rapidly to a close, and figures show that this season is away below what that of a year ago was. So far a shortage of over 7,000 bales is evident. To date the total receipts for this season are 20,472, as against 27,487, last year. The receipts for the week ending yesterday are 27 bales, against 30 bales, for the same week of last year.

In this county the cotton acreage is not being increased this year. The new crop, however, is in a very bad way, as to stand and condition of the plant, considering the lateness of the season.

Teachers Are Elected.

Griffin, Ga., May 31.—(Special.)—The city board of education announced today the election of teachers for the public schools for another year. The complete list is as follows:

Superintendent—J. A. Jones.

For High School—L. L. Eakes, principal; W. H. Irvine, Misses Carrie Eakes and Maud Cumming.

For Sam Bailey School—J. H. Riser, principal; Mrs. W. W. Bankston, Miss Maud Green, Miss Corinne Walker, Miss Alice Kincaid, Miss Susie Matthews, Mrs. A. B. Johnson and Miss Mittice Bailey.

For Fourth Ward School—J. R. Berry, principal; Miss Rebecca Hall, Miss Jane Duggan, Miss Annette Stillwell, Miss Emma Worsham and Mrs. E. E. Watt.

For West Griffin School—Miss Mattie Corbin, principal; Miss Nellie Corbin, Mrs. J. T. Tillman, Miss Ruth Wynne, Miss Minnie O'Hara, Miss Gertrude McDowell.

Supervisor of Music—Miss Aline Cumming; teacher of drawing and manual art to be supplied.

Turners Will Give Dance.

The Atlanta Turnverein will give a dance to its members and their families at the Turner hall, 264 Pryor street, Wednesday evening, beginning at 8:30 o'clock. Newman Lasser, chairman of the entertainment committee, and Charley Gluett, secretary, have arranged an excellent program for the evening.

SOCIETY

To Mrs. Keenan.

Mrs. Keenan, of Columbia, S. C., who is being delightfully entertained as the guest of Mrs. J. T. Daniel, was guest of honor at a luncheon and matinee party of four yesterday, Mrs. J. C. Maisby the hostess.

Distinguished Visitor.

Miss L. E. Stearns, library expert and lecturer, and member of the state library commission of Wisconsin, was the guest of honor at an informal luncheon given yesterday at the Georgian Terrace by Mrs. Percival Sneed, the party including Miss Wootten, Miss Alexander, Miss Bradley and Miss Barker, of the Carnegie library staff.

Miss Stearns is in Atlanta to deliver her annual course of lectures to the students of the Library Training school, this course conceded by faculty and students to be one of the most valuable and delightful features of their school year. Its interest lies not merely in the actual library information conveyed in each lecture, but in the speaker's breadth of viewpoint, which takes in the whole of library activity and considers library study in its proper position with regard to educational and civic progress.

Miss Stearns is herself recognized not only as the library expert, but as a "first citizen" of Milwaukee, alert to all that concerns the welfare of her very progressive state, and familiar with all its cosmopolitan population, their educational ambitions and the best methods to advance them.

She is at the Georgian Terrace.

Miss Connally's Luncheon.

"The Homestead" was the scene of a beautiful luncheon given yesterday by Miss Frances Connally, in compliment to two pretty brides-elect, Miss Courtenay Harrison and Miss Charles Owens.

The seventy guests included young ladies and young men, and a delightful hospitality was extended them.

The home was decorated throughout with sweet peas in all their colors from the home garden, and the table in the dining room, from which sweets were served, was a summer-like picture in pink and lavender, its centerpiece of sweet peas.

Miss Connally wore a smart white gown of Chinese linen, trimmed with blue Chinese embroidery. Miss Harrison wore a blue striped ratine and a Panama hat, trimmed with blue. Miss Owens' gown was of white batiste, embroidered in dresden design in pink and blue, and her dresden curdle was in the same colors. Her hat was a becoming lingerie model, its trimming in pink and blue.

To Miss Ripley.

A bright event among the series of parties to be given in honor of Miss Louise Ripley, whose marriage to Mr. D. I. McIntyre, Jr., will be an interesting event of June, will be Mrs. T. S. Wilkins' bridge on Tuesday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Owens will entertain at dinner next Thursday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Karl Britton will give a bridge party Friday night.

Mrs. O. D. Gorman will entertain at bridge Friday afternoon.

Mrs. E. D. Kennedy will entertain at luncheon Saturday, with bridge afterwards.

Mr. E. V. Carter, Jr., and Mrs. Marion Swanson will give a theater party Monday evening, the 9th.

Mrs. Asa Candler, Jr., will give an afternoon reception Tuesday, the 10th, at Briarcliff Farm.

Misses Marion and Tommie Perdue will entertain at bridge-luncheon Tuesday, the 10th, and that same evening Mr. and Mrs. Ripley will entertain the bridal party.

Last night Mr. William Yeates entertained at dinner at the East Lake club for Miss Ripley and Mr. MacIntyre.

Cocolo-Hansen.

Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Cocolo announce the engagement of their daughter, Rosalie Augustine, to Mr. Hugo L. Hansen, the wedding to take place at the home, of the bride's parents, on the night of June 12. No cards.

Miss Carter's Recital.

Miss Earle Carter's recital at Stone Mountain Monday evening was much enjoyed by a large and appreciative audience. Miss Carter's interpretation, ease and fine enunciation make her readings of a high order. Her pupils showed the same careful training.

To Miss Boyd.

Mrs. James H. Gilbert will entertain informally at her home Wednesday, in compliment to Miss Carolyn King's guest, Miss Elizabeth Boyd, of Nashville.

Lyle-Harper.

The marriage of Miss Anne Lyle and Mr. Marion Harper will be solemnized on Wednesday evening, June 1, at St. Mark's Methodist church.

A reception will be held afterwards at the home of the bride's brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Lyle, on West Peachtree street.

MEETINGS.

The Industrial Arts club of Inman Park will meet with Mrs. T. B. Moncrief, 23 Alta avenue, Tuesday, June 3, at 5 o'clock.

The regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Missionary and Benevolent Society of the Second Baptist church will be held on Monday afternoon, June 2, at 4 o'clock in the Sunday school auditorium at which time it is expected Mrs. W. J. Neel, of Cartersville, president of the Georgia W. B. M. U., will speak of the recent meeting in St. Louis.

The ex-board of W. B. M. U. of Ga. will meet on Tuesday morning, June 3, at 11 o'clock, in room 1007 Candler building.

The Dean Guild of the First Universalist church hold their monthly meeting Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. C. Felkner, 119 St. Clair. Take any Inman Park car, get off at Colquitt.

The regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary to Atlanta No. 20, Knights of Pythias, will be held at the Burns Club Thursday, June 5, at 3 o'clock. Take Soldiers' Home car, corner Decatur and Marietta streets, at 2 o'clock and get off at Soldiers' Home.

SOCIAL ITEMS.

Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Freeman have returned to Cave Springs accompanied by their daughter, Mrs. W. M. Simmons, and little grand-daughter, Frances, who will be their guests for some time.

Winner of U. D. C. Medal

STATE STREET FAVORS VACATION SCHOOLS

Correspondent Believes Nearly Every Pupil Would Be Enrolled During Summer.

The schools close this week, and now for the long, tiresome vacation of three months. What landlord would shut up a valuable piece of property for three whole months every year? Yet here in Atlanta the school buildings, which cost thousands and thousands of dollars lie idle for this length of time. Why can we not have vacation schools for all who want to go? I believe nearly every pupil in our big school would be enrolled. Other cities have vacation schools. Why do not our city authorities appropriate a fund for this purpose? State street school has an admirable site for such a movement. Here delicious breezes blow 365 days in the year. Through all the long summer days we could study without discomfort, and when September came, instead of being rusted out, many of us could skip a grade and all of us would be made stronger intellectually.

Last week we had a "peace day" celebration. The origin of the day, the cost of war, and the progress toward a world peace were each discussed. Miss Pitts gave us a description of the "House in the Woods," where the first international peace congress was held, in 1899. She visited there three years ago. It is about a mile from The Hague. A broad driveway through a densely wooded park leads to this historic house. Such beautiful woods! Enormous trees of linden and elm and beech, with the sunlight filtering through their spreading, leafy boughs and casting a twilight shadow over all. One might expect the road through such a forest to lead straight to the gates of Paradise, where perpetual peace prevails.

The G. Y. Pierce society of the eighth grade held its final meeting for the year last Friday. Our guests were the children who have been perfect in attendance for the term. We stress attendance here, for without it no good work can be accomplished. The pupil who is in one day and out the next can never be properly taught. His knowledge is honeycombed, to say the least.

That our pupils and patrons realize the prime importance of regularity is broadly attested by our high weekly per cent of attendance. I am sending the names of all our children who have had 100 in attendance during each month of the term just closing. We hope you will not think the list too long to publish. These children will be the guests of our faculty on Wednesday afternoon at a monster ice cream party. This is the yearly custom, our teachers wishing to give some expression of appreciation to the pupils who have not lost a day.

Those present will be: Eighth grade, Helen Meckel, Clyde Tucker, Ruth Walker, Alfred Martin, Lucius Rogers, John Edgar, Carroll Cross; seventh grade, Mary Williams, Lucile Bradberry, Davis Garner, Sarah Greenberg, Sadie Milford, Pearl Mitchell, Lottie Sasseen, Stella Vandegriff, Bernice Wallace, Vera Browning, Catherine Hicks, Mary Kelley, Emory Jenks, Marie Tribbitte, James Pratt; sixth grade, Clara Reneau, Corrie Ham, Edwin Rogers, Mary Lou McKenney, William Childress, Bessie Wallace, Clara Vaughn, Audrey Staton, Hubert Vaughn, Bennie Lyons; fifth grade, Lois McGaskey, Horace Hull, Clyde Brannon, David Oliver; B, Sammie Nellie Randall, Virginia Vawter, DeWitt Vawter, Emma Bell Hartley, Fuller Daniel, Hardy Hobbs, Roy Turner; fourth grade A, grammar, Louise Maxwell, Loy Holcombe, J. C. Williams, Leon Bell, Claud Oliver, Eva Burdett, Emma May Hobbs, Levi King, Hiram Gilstrap, Foster Wallace, Teressa Martin, Mandelyn Payne, Clarence Turner, Mamie Shannon; fourth grade B, grammar, Claude Peacock, Pauline McGaskey, Ruby Murdock, Agnes Scott, Hattie Jones, Ralph Dobbins; third grade A, grammar, Stella Kennedy, Bessie Ham, Dolly Shannon, Bernice Dula, Lubie Stovall, Lena Tant, Early Tant, Eva Wallace; third grade B, Vera Baker, Clara Bryant, Mary Griffith, Ethel Lindsey, Della M. Murdock, Agnes Sorrough, Myrtice Waddell, Charlie Coggins, Sanford Penton, Tom Ray, William Rhew, Earl Turner, Clarence Young; second grade A, Marie Watson, Reed Kirk, Lym York, Wilbur Pierce, Bonnie Lee Brannon, Minnie Lou Butler, Jeanette Pierce, J. D. Browning, Ernest Lunsford, Cholos Sorrough, Marius Turner, Simpson Thompson; second B grade, Eva Adams, Bessie Gaines, Nellie Mae Scott, Eunice Wheeler, Stella Wood, Forest Baswell, J. H. Harbuck, Charlie Ritch, Forest Vandegriff, Troy Vaughn, Ralph Irby; first A grade, Dyer Burdine, Harry Whitley, Mildred Gentle, Lillian Loughlin, Fannie May Shannon, Pearl Bridwell, Gladys Dickson, Rena Bryant, Eulene Holmes, Pauline Vinson, Ollie May Rickerson, Vance Thompson, Ruth Dean, Calvin Vaughn, Violet Silas; first B grade, Elizabeth Rhew, Gladys Austin, Nellie Turner, Flora Lee Gossage, Clara Landsford, Gladys Butler, Frank Turner, Lester Waddell.

We wish for The Constitution and its editor all the pleasures that the summer season can bring.

LEE STREET SCHOOL TO ENTERTAIN FRIENDS

On next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights at 8 o'clock the pupils of Lee Street school will entertain their parents and friends. Those who witnessed the excellent affair given by these children last year will find the program full of new numbers equally as enjoyable as the ones so well rendered last June.

We will present to you our little Dutch friends from "just across the water," and will treat you to "The Merry-making Minstrels," who have come all the way from New York to be at our commencement. All this—and much more, for only 15 cents.

All friends of the school are invited, and special invitation is extended to those who graduated from Lee Street school last year. A glad welcome awaits you "for auld lang syne."

LETTERS FROM THE SCHOOLS

Oakland City School.

My! but we are having good times out here at Oakland City! Our school was awarded a volley ball set for good work in athletics, and now we have games at every recess and enjoy them thoroughly. We are also quite proud of our seventh grade boy, Ben Montgomery, who came in for third place on field day. His button came a few days ago, and we thought it very pretty.

Mrs. Osgood and Miss Smith made their last visit to us a few days ago. They said they spent a pleasant day and found good work in drawing everywhere. We are always glad to see them and hope they will have a very pleasant vacation.

We can hardly realize that our school work is so nearly over, and that in a few days our school house will be lonely and deserted. Of course, we will be glad when vacation comes—both teacher adn pupils will enjoy the rest and freedom—yet there is always an element of sadness in the thought of the last day. We have had a happy profitable year. Our teachers have been patient and painstaking in their effort to help us help ourselves. We have made many strong friendships among our schoolmates. We know that perhaps some of our teachers may be sent to other schools; and that our fellow pupils may move out of our district and not be with us any more. So when that last day comes and we think of the probable "parting of the ways," some of the eyes will be filled with tears, and the little soft quivering lips will speak very faltering goodbyes.

MAMIE TABLER.

Lee Street School.

We are all practicing very hard for a fine entertainment which is to be held at our school on June 2, 3 and 4, at 8 p. m. The admission will be 15 cents. We are looking for a house full of people all three nights. Our entertainment this year will be as big a success as was that year, we hope. We are also studying very hard, because we are taking our final examinations and we want to get as high marks as we can.

The ones in the eighth grade who received 100 in arithmetic and a special compliment from their principal for this month are: Harold Jordan, Howard Perrin, James Wilkinson and Jim Hood.

HAROLD JORDAN

Peoples Street School.

We have nothing much in the way of news this week. We are all studying hard to finish this year's work by the end of school. Jean Cantrell, Conn Bryan, Katherine Rodehaver, L. S. Baukknight, Mildred Smith and Jack Simonton received headmarks in reading in second grade A last week. In second grade B, Alobrt Ormie Day, Lola Dalles, Lulu Barton and Sarah Harwell received headmarks in spelling.

The picture in the third grade was won by Catherine Culberson last week.

Several of the grades are rehearsing entertainments to be given near the last of school. The seventh and eighth are going to have some very good dialogues.

Our baseball team finished fairly well, being second in the southside. We played Boulevard school three games to see who could beat since they were the northside second, and they beat us two out of the three. This is the first year that our school has been represented by a baseball team, and if we can end second the first year we ought to end first next year.

Dr. Toepel visited us Tuesday and we enjoyed his visit very much, especially as he let us play athletic games which we always like.

WARREN R. POLLARD.

George W. Adair School.

Our principal offered a picture to the grade selling the most tickets to the candy-pulling, and the contest was very exciting. The second grade worked hard and ran the sixth grade a close race, but again the sixth grade came out victorious. It looks as though the sixth grade wants all the pictures.

Leslie White and Ivy Dodson, of the first grade B, have 100 in spelling and attendance for the entire year.

Parks Baker, of the second grade, has 100 in spelling for the entire year.

We are planning an interesting entertainment for the last day of school and each grade is working hard to make it a success.

We are looking forward with pleasure to a lecture on tuberculosis by Dr. Bunce.

ERNEST BREWER.

Ira Street School.

All are interested in the annual spelling match. It has been carried through the fifth grades so far. In the first grade ten children stood up; second, twenty; third, eight; fourth, eight, and fifth, seven.

First Grade—Virginia Morse, Bertha Pollock, Rose Calloway, Lamar Bloodworth, Robert Turner, Roy Aiken, William Connel, Wilbur Nabors, Joe Chandler, Adial Florence.

Second Grade—Carrie Morris, Annie Stanford, Nellie Calder, Emma Bell Hill, Mamie Medlin, Nelle Middlebrooks, Juanita Greer, Jennie Maud Scogin, Frances Smith, Margaret Wisbey, Hurley Culver, Louis Cole, Charlie Drake, Roscoe Ginn, Edward Henning, Charles Lewis, Edwin Pettus, Ben Stockwell, Ruth Eggart, Ella Clark.

Third Grade—Pearce Bigger, J. P. Flynn, Margaret Moss, Edith Haynes, Frank Headington, Jay Windsor Pickett, Margaret Dunwoody, Margaret Buchanan.

Fourth Grade—Laura Bivens, Ross Greer, Katie Hilburn, Frances Alston, Thad Blackmarr, Lucile Carter, Mary Arbell, Herbert McNinch.

Fifth Grade—Queen Blackstock, Lola Stephens, Bryan Stephens, Maggie Stanford, Clarence Wethington, Willie Bell Plummer, Sam Heiman.

Carrie Morris and Annie Stanford, of the second grade, spelled through the third grade. Pierce Biggers, Frank Headington and Jay W. Pickett, of the third grade, spelled through the fourth grade; Margaret Moss and Edith Haynes, third grade, went through the fourth and fifth, and will go with the following children of the fifth grade to the sixth grade.

Queen Blackstock, Lola Stephens, Bryan Stephens, Maggie Stanford, Clarence Wethington, Willie Bell Plummer and Sam Heiman.

HERMAN MILLER.

Pryor Street School.

Sorrow reigned throughout our school on Wednesday when we received the sad news that Mrs. Edwin Winn had passed away. Mrs. Winn came to our school when it was built and taught most efficiently here for six years. She was Miss Viola Montsalvatge while she was teaching, but last year she married Dr. Edwin Winn and resigned her position. When she resigned Pryor lost one of the best teachers it had ever had or ever will have.

Many of the children in our school now were taught by Mrs. Winn, and they are some of the best children we have. We know that some of this is due to her faithful teaching and training.

When we heard of Mrs. Winn's death the different grades liberally donated money to buy flowers. The way they gave their money showed how they loved and adored her.

It was announced that we would have our entertainment on Thursday, the 29th, and Friday, the 30th, but on account of Mrs. Winn's death, we have postponed it until Monday, June 2, at 8 p. m., and Tuesday, the 3d, at 8 p. m.

CLOSE PRIZE CONTEST AT FORMWALT STREET

William Johnson and Frank Ruskin in Tight Race for Mrs. Sams' Medal.

In the race for the picture in attendance, the seventh and second grades are tied so far. This will be the decisive week and both are anxious to see which will get the beautiful picture.

We are also giving forward with pleasure to a lecture on tuberculosis by Dr. Bunce.

There is also a pretty picture offered to the class leading in spelling for the term. The fifth grade will win this prize.

When Miss Graves visited the fourth grade last week she told them that they had worked so hard on the exercises for field day that she would not have the regular lesson, but would let them have a game of basketball. They enjoyed the game very much.

We are very proud of our little folks in the first grade A. They have received excellent in music from Miss Milleps every time she has paid them a visit except once, and then they received very good. We think that is fine work for such little people.

Miss Graves also let them have a game of basketball. As this was the first time they had ever played this game, you may know they enjoyed it immensely.

We want to thank Dr. Toepel for our nice new basketball.

There is a close race between William Johnson and Frank Ruskin, of the eighth grade, for Mrs. Sams' medal. So far there is only a fractional difference in their averages. This month's work will decide which will take off the honors. William Johnson has been in Formwalt eight years, and Frank Ruskin seven. We feel very proud of both.

On last Thursday our baseball team held a regular reception and received the congratulations of the entire school. Every boy on the team did his duty, and each one separately is to be congratulated on our victory, for it was largely due to their team work that Formwalt still holds the championship.

We feel also that the efficient help and coaching that they received also helped them to win the pennant, and we wish to thank by name those who were so interested in our success. It was very fortunate for us that three boys on the high school team were old Formwalt boys, and they were still loyal enough and anxious enough for us to succeed to give us valuable help. We wish to thank Sam Armstead, Lawrence Fox, Conner Weaver, our own Formwalt boys, for their help and loyalty to their alma mater. Besides this, Dick Wallace and Jack Baldwin, two other high school boys and players on our 1911 and 1912 pennant winning teams, stood by us through our entire 1913 season, and gave the boys so much help and encouragement that we can never thank them enough.

We are sending four boys who are on the team this year to the high school, and while we hate to give them up, we know that they will not forget us and that they will always be ready to help us when we need them.

Our boys played Marist on Thursday and were beaten by the score of 7 to 5. The game had to be called on account of the rain in the seventh inning. If they could have finished the game, of course we would have won, for we have the reputation of always winning just when everybody is giving up in despair. Besides the boys did not think it wise to use our regular pitcher after his hard work of the day before, and this necessitated several other changes. If Marist wants to play again we are ready to beat them now, and just look out for the 1913 Formwalt team. We will show you what we can do again.

TENTH STREET SCHOOL HAS ARDENT DEBATE

Rival Advocates of Horse and Cow in Lively Tilt—Dunbar Ogden's Speech.

By Eastman Hunter.

The fourth grade had a very lively debate on Friday, May 23. "Resolved, That the cow is of more use to man than the horse," was the question. It was decided in favor of the affirmative. The rebuttal was most enjoyed by the visitors. Although the negative lost, two speeches deserve special mention—Dodson Choate and Dunbar Ogden.

Instead of a regular letter this week, we ask you to publish the speech of Dunbar Ogden.

Speech of Dunbar Ogden.

"And now, in taking up the negative side, we are quite willing to recognize the good points of the cow, perfectly sure that the judges and the audience will be convinced that there is no animal so indispensable as the horse.

"In parades, what could be more beautiful than the splendid horses used in public processions? Imagine a royal pageant where the nobility, bodyguard and soldiers all appeared moseying along on cows, to the tune of 'God Save the King.'

"What boy would give up the happy frolics on some good horse in vacation time, or the visits to the pony show?

"What would hunters do without horses? No machine could follow the hounds. Many a life has been saved by the intelligence of a horse whose rider, having lost his bearings, trusted animal instinct and affection to save him.

"What of the doctors whose country patients require many weary miles of riding, over field and fallow, fording streams and climbing cliffs, where no machine could go?

"The surveyors, who must preside all bridges, all new towns, all railroads, could use only horses over the unbroken country they must traverse.

"The wonderful irrigation that will turn our western desert into a garden demands careful measurements where a machine could pull through the heavy sands.

"For many years life and property have depended on the strength and speed of horses in their use of fire engines and ambulances. We are dealing with the usefulness of the horse now, and what ever the future may bring it will be years before small towns can afford autos to fill this need. If our friend, George, to reach a nearby apple tree, climbed upon the barn and fell off, breaking his bones, I guess he would not care to wait till some gentle 'moo-cow' came bringing the ambulance.

"What would the cavalry of our armies do without horses? Imagine the charge of Napoleon Bonaparte, mounted, not on his famous charger, but on a patient, plodding ox! Picture our own Robert E. Lee leading his dauntless army all on cows instead of horses.

"Fancy the 'Charge of the Light Brigade' on cows. It sounds going this way and some that. Instead of cannon, it would have been.

and some, like the one Mother Goose saw, would have been jumping over the moon.

"The prosperity of the south and, indeed, of our country, depends on our cotton, corn and wheat crops. Without them and their products—bread, cloth, paper, cottoleem, oil, seed, meal, flour, cereal foods, meal, hominy, etc., what would we do? Yet upon the cow and its mother, the horse, must we depend to cultivate these crops or reduce them to the pitiable amount that could be produced with the ox alone to plow. Yet one-fifth of all the people in the world depend, for food, on wheat and its products.

"Thus we see, while we could give up the cow, valuable as it is, nothing could take the place of the horse, in parades, in hunting, in surveying, in accident, in war or in peace.

Rejoinder.

"What is claimed for the value of hoofs, hair, bone and hide of the cow is equally true of the horse.

"The butter and milk can be replaced by goats' milk, which in many sections has been found a cheap and good substitute. Peanut butter, cocoanut butter and other products of cotton seed more than take the place of the butter. For babies, food preparations of barley, etc., are now approved.

"Beef and veal would not be missed, with plenty of pork, mutton, game, fish and fowls. These lighter meats are more and more preferred by those who study health."

STORIES OF WALL STREET

By JAMES H. GANNON, JR. — Drawing by D. RUSSOM

THE LADY OR THE DIVIDENDS

THE stock market had been for weeks in the listless grip of the doldrums. Like a great ship abandoned by the winds, it had swung idly here and there, pointing lazily now up, now down, the mammoth, helpless sport of toying, many-minded zephyrs.

And so it might have rested, inert and unheeded, for other weeks uncounted had not Mrs. J. Grant Wells, in the seclusion of her boudoir, become possessed of the desire of a parterre box for the approaching opera season.

Nothing, it would seem, could be more remotely involved with the ponderous machinery of the Street than this altogether natural desire. The lady herself would certainly have been the last to have associated them, and, it is but simple justice to add, from the prologue on through the subsequent chapters of the opera box epic—in which at times it may be seen how perilously dear a parterre box may be—unto the very end, which was the "first night," the Street to her was like the primrose to another, the Street—and nothing more.

It was inconceivably more, in the interim, to President Wells, of the Twelfth National bank; it was unquestionably more to two of his intimate friends, directors with him in a score of enterprises, To Joseph W. Garr, who dictated certain not unimportant parts of the epic, it was, by his proper voice, a joke—and something substantial on the side.

From boudoir time to dinner time Mrs. Wells bore alone the weight of the now well-matured desire. With the coffee, however, came the strategic moment for the economical division of labor.

With a careless display of the slender hand and well-rounded arm, of which Mr. Wells was justly proud, she moved a bit one of the soft-shaded silver candlesticks. The maneuver opened a white-paved little alley across the board—a cozy invitation to confidences. Mr. Wells smiled understandingly down it, meeting the lady's smile just his side of halfway.

"I've been thinking, Grant," said the lady, with pretty hesitation.

"You have?" said Mr. Wells, balancing the fragile cup to enjoy the aroma of the mocha. He smiled his disbelief.

"Why shouldn't we—just you and I—have a box at the opera this season?"

"Ah," said Mr. Wells, with no particular inflection, "why shouldn't we?" The cup tinkled as it touched the saucer.

"I am so glad you're nice about it, Grant." There was the least trace of haste in this. "You always are so nice about these things; I am sure I know no one who is so thoughtful. We'll make it my Christmas gift, won't we? Nothing could give me more pleasure, and, best of all, I can share it with you. Of course, we couldn't use the box on Saturdays—the popular performances, you know—and that makes it cost ever so little. And then we can entertain so nicely. It is really economy; fewer dinners and receptions, you know. I am so glad to have thought of it—and so proud you approve; I knew you would, Grant—dear."

Confusing—blinding—smiles and intonations tumbled tumultuously down the white-paved alley, and, gripping Mr. Wells, bound him, hand and foot, Lilliput like, and returned him captive to the lady.

"Of course," he capitulated, unconditionally.

President Wells, of the Twelfth National bank, never speculated. It was a matter of much pride to him that the Twelfth National and its president should enjoy in common a substantial reputation for conservatism which was at once the envy and despair of competitors.

Nor did Mr. Wells speculate in the accepted sense of that much-abused word. Even in the old days, when his neighbors "up state," ignorant of the heights to which he should later attain, hailed him as "Josh," it was generally conceded that his local operations partook very little of the nature of speculation.

Did he but buy the apple crop of a hard-pressed farmer, even while the June breezes were still scattering the sweet-scented blossoms through the orchard, with the fall there were groaning trees which must be propped, lest their burthen of fruit crush them. Hay, oats, corn, wheat, cattle, the very bees of his native county, all throve if Joshua Wells committed his fortunes to their wellbeing. Let him be pessimistic and venture not his gold abroad, and the elements hastered to range themselves on his side; the crops withered, kine died, and the bees abandoned their hives. It was never speculation.

To the larger school of finance he carried his gains and formulae and as the latter were exact the former found increase. Mr. Wells found recognition and, with the coming of Mrs. J. Grant Wells, a real liking for the many finer manifestations of living.

The matter of the opera box was, therefore, rather much in Mr. Wells' mind when he reached his bank the following morning. It would have been a simple thing to have drawn his personal check for the few thousands needed and forwarded this with his application for the box to the management which weighs applications so scrupulously.

There were two objections, however, to this course. The first, that President Wells ever made haste slowly, and the second, that Mr. Wells had an invariable rule that current expenses should be met from current income—not from reserves. And, as Mrs. Wells had said, an opera box might well be reckoned as a matter of current expense.

In the foyer of the Lowyers' Club, where he always took his noon lunch, Mr Wells met Ledyard Newton and John R. Austin, fellow directors with him on several boards, and the three men sought a table that they might lunch together. Austin was the senior member of a firm of big corporation lawyers and counsel to many railroads, including the Colorado Central, of which Newton, who was a man of wealth, performed the official functions of vice-president from the pleasant distance separating New York from Denver. The three men were among the heaviest stockholders of the road, and all were on the board of directors.

From the market and its aimless gyrations the talk turned at last to the various properties in which all were interested.

"How is Colorado Central coming on?" Austin asked of Newton. "I haven't heard much of it of late."

"You keep your eye on our little Central, Austin," said Newton, who was a crisp little man, fond of the good things in life. "You might have to pay a pretty penny to get it back."

Mr. Wells, whose attention up to this time had been about equally divided between the conversation and the opera box, sat up.

"Finding nuggets mixed in with the ballast along the line?" Austin demanded, laughing.

"Not yet. That'll come later," retorted Newton, cheerfully. "Too busy catching up to our traffic now to stop for gold."

"Traffic got a long start on you, I suppose," said Austin. "I wish you'd catch it or run over it. I'd get either dividends or legal fees then."

"You'll get the dividends first."

"That doesn't sound speculative," Mr. Wells, interrupted the banker.

Isn't that like Wells, now?" asked Newton, nodding to Austin. "No speculation for him or the Twelfth National. But, really," he added, "I'm serious in all this. Here, I'll send over to my office for the estimate of earnings they've just sent on from Denver."

"It's just as I told you about the traffic," Newton went on, as the three lighted their cigars and settled back to await the messenger's return. "Two big smelters have just been put in operation on the Midvale branch; our extension to the Central Steel Company's plant is returning us our share of business, and, best of all, the new link of the Western Colorado—it meets us at Silver City—is turning over a big volume of paying traffic. If our operating men can hold down expenses according to estimate we ought to declare a two-per cent. dividend at the meeting next month. It will be the first, but it oughtn't to be the last, with our small capitalization of $20,000,000. A two-per cent. dividend will call for only $400,000, and the net earnings for the first three months and estimates for this and next month run away over that. Here are the estimates. You can see for yourself." Newton took the papers from the messenger and passed them to Mr. Wells and Austin.

The three men scanned the figures for some minutes. Mr. Wells found the stub of a pencil in a pocket and covered the menu card with a jumble of cipherings. They probably conformed to his formula, for he smiled softly. He passed the menu card to Austin.

"What do you thing of that?" he asked.

The lawyer glanced at the last characters on the card.

"Why, '40+15 on 2 per cent. div.,'" he read aloud, slowly. "Ah, I see. Colorado's at 40 now. You think it ought to go up fifteen points on the dividend?"

"And some judicious assistance," added Mr. Wells. "It would be justified in this instance, since there are really to be dividends."

"And the assistance to come from a little pool of three, eh?" commented Newton, nudging Mr. Wells gently. "But it's justifiable in this instance—and it's not a speculation."

"Eh, what's this?" added Newton, who had picked up the menu card. "Something you overlooked, Austin. O-P-E-R-A B-O-X—$25,000; Opera box—"

"Yes," confessed Mr. Wells, laughing. "An opera box for the season and a few accessories—gowns, etc."

"There go your profits," said Newton. "Mine will go this"—and he wrote, "Little Old New York," and dittoed the $25,000.

"Now, Austin?" Newton pushed the card to the lawyer, who scribbled: First catch your—ditto."

"Bird of ill-omen!" stormed Newton. "I'll keep the card to shame you later."

But the stiff card missed the pocket and fluttered quietly to the floor, where it lay unseen.

The pool was formed, and the check, which Mr. Wells might have sent quite simply to the opera house management, went to the pool's manager, Austin, who seemed less likely to appear involved in the marked movements of Colorado Central than Newton, its vice-president. Mr. Wells, of course, never managed pools.

The campaign as planned contained no complex details. The intention was to accumulate Colorado Central stock and then move it up, trading in and out on the way up, so that the entire line might be disposed of at an average advance over 40, the ruling price, sufficient to give the three members profits of $25,000 each. An average advance of five points on 20,000 shares would allow this point after expenses.

The operations in the market, including the necessary buying and selling of Colorado Central, were intrusted to Warren Hazlitt, of the Stock Exchange House of Hazlitt & Greene, through whom Austin usually traded.

Hazlitt's first move, with the full approval of the little pool, was to put Colorado Central down a few points by apparent free selling, in order that his line of stock might be accumulated as near 40 as possible. The decline attracted little attention in the dull market, and it was not until it touched 44 on the upward swing that the trading in it became at all animated. Here Hazlitt encountered such free selling of the stock that in order to keep it from breaking he was compelled to buy largely.

This selling was reported to the pool as perfectly natural profit taking, and a request made for more funds to offset the calls on the broker.

Mr. Wells drew another personal check, and another stub in the little leather-bound check book declared, "account op. box—current exp.," although there was, as yet, no corresponding credit entry on the books of the opera house management.

"Mr. Barr down yet, William?"

"Yes, sir," said the attendant of Willis, Barr & Co., taking the suit case and bag of golf sticks which Marshall, the office manager, handed over to him. "He's here and whistlin' these fifteen minutes."

Marshall found the little man buried in a tangle of morning newspapers. He looked up.

"Hullo, John," he said, cheerfully. "I'm trying to get the news of the world in fifteen minutes. Any news with you?" he added, as his glance rested on the young man's face.

"If it were anyone but you," answered Marshall, "I should say 'yes.'"

"Let's try it, anyway," said Barr, with pretended condescension.

"You've noticed how Colorado Central's been acting?"

"Yes," assented Barr, shortly.

"I played golf at Shinnecock Hills yesterday with young Van Dusen, of Hartringe & Co., and the pair ahead of us in the morning round was John R. Austin and Hazlitt, of Hazlitt & Greene. Hazlitt's an awful duffer at the game. I thought you might like to know," added Marshall, as Barr smiled.

"Which game?" asked the little man.

"Either. Colorado Central or golf."

"Good," laughed Barr. "That's what I thought last week when I sold 4,000 shares of Central at 42."

"There it is," said Marshall, with mock disgust. "I said it wouldn't be news to you, anyway."

"All I had was suspicions, John. You've confirmed them now. I've been looking Central up a bit, and I guess I'm onto the game. They tell me from Chicago that the road's earnings may justify dividends next month—if nothing happens—and I guess Austin and some of the other directors are moving the stock up on that. But so many things may happen, John," added the little man, plaintively. "It is sad to think of it, but here below we must. Remember how unexpectedly Bowman lost the St. Louis Southern? How unexpectedly Mr. Morton Rogers lost his daughter? You ought to remember that, since you found her.

"ALL I HAD WAS SUSPICIONS, JOHN!"

"Yes," he went on, speculatively, "think what a strike on the lines of the Central would mean to earnings, with other strikes in the Central Steel Company and other industries along the road. Think of a loss of traffic exchange with the Western Colorado at Gold City; how earnings would dwindle and dividends move down the block? I'm a director of the Western, and we couldn't let it become involved in a strike through interchange of non-union handled freight with the Central—oh, no. I have met many walking delegates of the railroad unions—some of them are my good friends, John—and most of them were on the run to make trouble somewhere. For all I know, one of them is hustling toward Denver now to spoil the fair prospects of the Central. All these things have convinced me that there are elements of uncertainty in everything—even Colorado Central dividends—and, pessimist that I am, I have sold 4,000 of its stock and shall continue to sell it so long as the complaisant pool managed by Hazlitt—a duffer, you say—will buy it.

"If I make money out of it," he concluded, fetching a tremendous sigh, "I shall probably use it to establish a new library belt—if Mr. Carnegie leaves me room."

The market, which had been so long inert, took unto itself life. Slowly and cautiously Hazlitt moved Colorado Central toward higher levels, and, encouraged by the apparent strength of this movement, other pools, long dormant, lifted their heads and their favorite stocks. Stimulated by this false activity, the public trooped into the market and lifted a share of the pool's burdens.

Even more slowly and cautiously toiled the little man, spinning his web from his littered room in the offices of Willis, Barr & Co. Each day Colorado Central touched a higher figure, and each day Barr sold a little more of its stock to the unwitting Hazlitt. It came softly and melted into the pool's operations like hesitating snowflakes.

A week passed. It was Monday again, and on the floor of the Exchange the clang of the big gong, which marked the day's end, was sweet music to Hazlitt. All day he had followed the movements of Central, and he had seen a quiet and persistent selling of the stock which puzzled him. He finished a hurried lunch in the Luncheon club of the Exchange and passed quickly to his office.

As the statements from the brokers who had handled his orders in Colorado Central came in he began to realize the extent of the day's selling. This meant profit of an open challenge to battle by some unknown power which meant to combat the rise in Central.

Before noon on Tuesday the question was answered. The mysterious selling was under way again. The most persistent buying by Hazlitt's brokers could not stop Central from breaking badly under the impact of the sales. It closed at 47 under the drive.

It was a thoroughly worried broker who met Austin that night at an uptown club.

"Some one is fighting this advance, Mr. Austin," declared Hazlitt, earnestly. "It is no one of small caliber, either. The selling today has been amazing. Are you sure of your position? Are those dividends really in sight? It seems impossible that anyone knowing the road's prospects, as you have detailed them to me, would dare to fight us so openly."

"You know Mr. Newton. You saw the estimates he received?" Austin was plainly irritated. "I think they count for more than the swashbuckling play of some stock jobber. If one of that ilk chooses to set himself against us, well and good. He'll deserve his unpitied end."

"Yes," said the broker, "of course, you're right. But under the conditions we'll need more funds. We just about used up our past profits today keeping Central up."

"Don't worry about funds, Hazlitt." Austin said, rather sharply. "You'll get all you need. I know I can count on Newton, and—well, our little pool isn't to be derailed by any market gambler. You ought to make him pay dearly for his meddling when that dividend is declared."

Hazlitt laughed. "Depend on me. If you take care of the dividends I'll take care of the enemy."

And so the little pebble which a woman's hand had tossed, blindly, into the quiet water of the market was sending its waves in an ever-widening circle to an unknown shore. The "little" Opera Box Pool had outstripped its diminutive. The untruthful stubs in Mr. Wells' little leather-bound checkbook multiplied monotonously.

The struggle began again on Wednesday. For the first time there began to circulate timid rumors that bad news, in the shape of strikes and loss of earnings, was soon to come out on Colorado Central.

On Thursday the lines of battle were so distinctly drawn that the Street held aloof from Central and watched the conflict from safe distances. The floor of the Exchange was a veritable battle ground, where back and forth Hazlitt's brokers and those acting for the adversary waged the contest.

The strike rumors regarding Central became more aggressive, and late in the day a dispatch came over a private wire from Denver saying that the Brotherhood of Trainmen would meet there on Saturday to discuss hour and wage grievances against the road. The stock fell sharply two points, to 45.

Newton had received a similar dispatch from the road's headquarters, which contained more details. It was something of a shock to Austin and Mr. Wells, who, with Hazlitt, had foregathered to take measures to protect the pool's interest.

"You can rely on Meneely's statements," declared Newton, taking the dispatch from Mr. Wells. "He's been the road's manager for years. He knows his men as a father knows his children, and when he says this trouble has been promoted from New York, he's right. You see, he says the president of the trainmen's association came on from Chicago on Tuesday and met the men's representatives last night. One of the men who attended that meeting said he heard that Chicago and New York stock operators would put up big money if the strike were brought about.

"But, even worse than that, Meneely reports that Western Colorado intimates that if the strike is declared it cannot afford to anger its men by interchanging traffic with us at Gold City. You can easily imagine what that means to our earnings."

"I should say the Western was almost suspiciously prompt in their ultimatum," said Mr. Wells, who had followed Newton's words closely. "When did they inform Meneely of their intended course?"

"That's a fact—let's see." Newton scanned the telegram. "This was sent at ten this morning; the men met last night. Why, these Western people must have had an inspiration."

Newton drew the telegram through his fingers in abstraction. The others watched him silently.

"I've got it," he broke out. "I've got it. It's an insult to your combined intelligence to tell you the truth. That Western has always been a stock-jobbing game, and one of its directors and big owners is the biggest stock jobber and the biggest 'gentleman of the road' in all the world—or Chicago."

"Barr," came three voices, in surprising unison.

"Barr—none," declared Newton.

Austin and Hazlitt laughed—a little. Mr. Wells smiled seriously.

"Well?" he queried, and there was a wealth of meaning in the intonation.

"That's it," assented Newton, grave again. "This little pool of ours is spreading nicely, isn't it? And such a harmless little pool, too, it was. Just an opera box, a trip to Europe and a cozy joy-time in New York—that's all it came into the world for, and now look at it—a young ocean, with the low, black, rakish craft of Barr afloat on its bosom."

"How much stock do you suppose Barr has sold, Hazlitt?" asked Newton, abruptly, of the broker.

"Hard to tell. Perhaps 30,000 shares. The selling has been heavy. Probably all for his account. We had to take 20,000 shares more than we sold."

"Now, isn't that pleasant?" Newton nodded mockingly to Mr. Wells and Austin. "If a strike is declared, the stock will drop at least five points—$150,000 presented with our compliments to Barr.

"How much did the 20,000 precious shares cost us, Hazlitt?" asked Newton again, very softly.

"They'll average 46⅝."

"There we are. Our profits are tied up in 20,000 shares of stock bought at 46⅝. Central closed tonight at 45, so we're out exactly $30,000 as it stands. If we tried to sell ten shares it would break to 40, probably. It seems to me that we had better turn a little more money in to Hazlitt so he can support Barr's selling tomorrow. I'll telegraph Meneely tonight for a full report on the situation. When we get that we can decide whether we should abandon the movement at a loss or continue it at a possible—remotely possible—gain."

The others assented to this arrangement.

"You'll get my check in the morning, Hazlitt." There was a touch of weariness in Mr. Wells' voice.

---

"Mr. Barr, sir?" said the waiter. It was noon of Friday, and in the Lawyers' club.

Mr. Barr kept his eyes on the newspaper propped up against a carafe, but made a half circle with his busy fork in the waiter's direction.

"Thank you, sir," said the waiter, reading permission in the maneuver. "I thought you might like to know, sir, that President Wells of the Twelfth National bank, has had this table every noon for five years, rain or shine, sir."

Mr. Barr's glance flitted quickly from the print to the waiter's eyes. It came back as quickly, however, and the little man nodded his acknowledgment of the information.

"A curious man, sir, Mr. Wells. Always spoiling menu cards—with his figures, sir"—explained the unsmiling waiter as the little man looked up again.

"Worse than usual, sir, a few days ago, when he lunched here with some friends. He quite used up the back, sir, and ran down the front to the dessert—that might be owing some to his friends, sir, though; they figured a bit, too.

"I kept it for a meemento—I've a weakness for mementos, sir. Would you care to see it? It is odd."

Perhaps, the little man nodded. The figure-bespattered card came out of the pocket of the waiter's jacket and rested beside Mr. Barr's plate. He glanced at it, perfunctorily, and went on with his paper.

He finished at last. He put the card in his coat pocket, negligently, and arose. The still unsmiling waiter pulled down the tails of the little man's coat with his left hand and received a yellow-backed certificate with his right—graciously.

"Thank you, sir," he said, with the perfect composure of a well-bred waiter.

Entering his private office, Barr crossed over to the busy ticker. The tape carried to him the news of the battle on the floor of the Exchange. Big blocks of Colorado Central were coming out. Resistlessly their impact was beating down the defenses of Hazlitt. Fraction by fraction the struggle was going against him. The stock, which had opened at 45, had been borne back to 43½ by the incessant assaults. The cold figures told Barr of the stormy scenes under way on the floor.

He turned from the ticker with a smile. He swung himself up on the flat-topped desk and took from the pocket of his ulster the menu card. The silence of the room as he read the mute record of three men's and one woman's hopes, was broken only by the clicking of the ticker, telling its epic of battle in this quiet place.

Five minutes passed. The little man turned half about and, still holding the card, picked up the desk 'phone.

"The floor," he said, tersely, as the office central queried.

"Willis," he said, again, as the telephone boy on the floor of the Exchange queried.

"You, John?" he asked, as his partner's voice came to him. "Stop selling Central. Tell Hazlitt to meet me at once up in the Luncheon club of the Exchange. I'm telegraphing Denver.

"Correct. Good-bye."

---

"Who is that funny little man, Grant, dear?" Mrs. Wells rested a shapely arm on the edge of the parterre box and pointed, discreetly, the lorgnette tip toward the orchestra seats.

"He's in the—one, two, three, four—fourth row—one, two, three, four, five—sixth seat from the center aisle."

Mr. Wells followed an imaginary line from the lorgnette tip. The line touched its goal.

"Oh," said Mr. Wells. "His name is Barr. He sometimes traffics in opera boxes, I believe."

"Ah," said the lady, negligently, "I thought you knew him. He looked up here and smiled a moment ago."

"Did he?" said Mr. Wells. "Ah, there's De Reszke."

DEFINITIONS.

Vocals are also called "tonics," because they are made with the vocal organs wide open, thereby enabling easy passage for the tonics.

Divisions—There are forty-two divisions of elementary sounds. They are first divided into three classes—vocals or tonics, subvocals or subtonics and aspirates or atonics.

Prosaicidy teaches us of the meanness of syllables when it comes to attempting to convince one's wife one has not had a drink. To say: "Three tall, slim, slick saplings" after a night at the club is a test that tries men's souls.

* * *

Elementary Sounds—Something that cannot be divided into more than one sound. For instance, your friend asks: "What will you have?" Instead of wasting a lot of words by replying: "I will take whatever you take," you use an elementary sound by replying promptly: "Same." This shows the great value of grammar. With a mere knowledge of elementary sounds you say one word "Same" and therefore, save sufficient time during an evening for half a dozen extra replies of the same sort.

SOCIAL LIFE IN MACON

Macon, Ga., May 31.—(Special Correspondence.)—The wedding of Miss Daisy Wimberly and Mr. Virgil Thorpe, which is to take place on Wednesday evening, June 25, is an event eagerly anticipated by hosts of friends throughout the state. The ceremony will be performed by Rev. Charles H. Lee, at St. Paul's Episcopal church, and the interesting forecaste is as follows: Mrs. Herbert Haley, matron of honor; Mr. Harris Thorpe will be his brother's best man; the bridesmaids will be Misses Lillian Battle, Anne Shaw, Leila Rogers, Winnie May Hill, Mary Davis and Marian Thorpe. The groomsmen selected are Messrs. Jim Wimberly, W. A. Dozier, Horace Brannen, Joe Wheeler, Guyton Parks, Jim Dowlee and Dr. Howard of New York. The ushers will be Messrs. Northrop Smith, Steve Solomon, John Harris and E. J. Whitehead, Jr. Mrs. Mary Wes Craig will sing before the ceremony, and four little girls will strew flowers in the pathway of the bride, Misses Salome Anderson, Margaret Hasley, Mary Derry and Caroline Hazlehurst.

The doors of "old Wesleyan" are closed until the summer is a thing of the past, and mingled with the cacklings of duties done and obstacles overcome, are heard the most delightful recollections of the town-girls, and Macon hospitality, for this week as well as the last, has been crowded with entertainments in their honor. Monday noon Miss Iola Wise gave a beautiful six-o'clock luncheon in honor of Miss Sarah Lee Coney of Hawkinsville, Miss Mildred McKenzie of Montezuma and Miss Katherine Polhill of Hawkinsville. Covers were laid for twelve, the other guests being Misses Susie Roughton, Anne Townsend Bowdre, Louise Callaway, Eugenia Willingham, Sarah Tinsley, Monica Dempsey, Jeannette Bunkley of Sandersville and Cornelia Adams.

Monday night Mr. and Mrs. Walter Beeks and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sparks chaperoned a dance at the Country club complimentary to the visiting girls and their hostesses, about twenty-five couples being present.

Tuesday afternoon the spacious lawn of the Baker home in Vineville was the scene of a large garden party given by Miss Elizabeth Baker to her house guests, Misses Minnie McMichael of Buena Vista, Annie Lou Hardy of Senoia, Laurian Johnston of Atlanta, and Lamar Ryals of Cordele. Besides the hostess and honorees, Misses Cornelia Adams and Annie Gautt assisted in receiving the guests, and the young girls who assisted in serving were Misses Elizabeth Felton, Georgia Baker, Mary Jones and Martha Tolston. Misses Mattie Chappell, Nella Damour and her guest, Miss Theodora Atkinson of Newnan, presided at the punch bowl. Miss Baker's dress was of pink silk draped in shadow lace; Miss Johnson wore white marquisette embroidered in lilac; Miss McMichael, white lace over silk, and Miss Hardy wore a becoming dress of yellow silk mull, with touches of black.

The five affairs given on Wednesday for the college girls and their attractive visitors were a sewing party in the morning by Miss Evelyn Estes; a luncheon at noon at the Mercer dormitory by a number of university students; a large afternoon reception by Miss Cornelia Adams; a box party at the Grand by a number of young men, followed by a late supper at the home of Miss Annie Gantt.

Miss Adams' reception was a pretty compliment to her house guests, Misses Sarah Coney of Hawkinsville, Mary Fort of Americus, Lucy Benton of Monticello, Emily Heath of Elberton and Gladys Sheppard of Abbotton. They were assisted in entertaining the callers by Misses Annie Gautt, Rebecca Branham, Anne Cunningham, Emily Morton, Elizabeth Baker Lawton, Johnson, Lamar Ryals, Minnie McMichael and Annie Lou Hardy of Senoia. Miss Sheppard wore Misses Evelyn Jones and Estelle Cafnes. The girls of the younger set who served were Misses Elise Lee, Elizabeth Riley, Lenora Neel and Martha Anderson. Miss Adams' becoming dress was of pale green charmeuse, trimmed in cream lace; Miss Sheppard wore a yellow silk, with ruffle of Chantilly lace; Miss Fort's gown was of pink messaline embroidered in pearls; Miss Benton wore a white crepe de chine trimmed in princess lace. Miss Coney's becoming gown was of corn-colored charmeuse, and Miss Heath wore pink crepe meteor trimmed in brilliants.

Thursday Miss Nella Damour was hostess at a pretty afternoon party for her guest, Miss Theodora Atkinson, of Newnan, and later in the evening a number of young men complimented the same girls in the college set with a hand-wagon ride to Lakeside park and a picnic supper on the lake. Friday Mrs. George Gautt, Jr., gave a pretty morning party for Miss Annie Gautt and her trio of charming visitors, Misses Emily Melton and Rebecca Branham, of Oxford, and Anne Cunningham, of Cordele, Ala. Another pleasant affair of Friday was Miss Mary Steele's morning sewing party to Miss Adams, and her guests. Saturday morning Miss Mamie Adams entertained in honor of Miss Cornelia Adams and Miss Elizabeth Baker's attractive visitors. Saturday evening, at the regular Cabin dance, the college girls and their charming guests were largely in evidence.

Besides the Wesleyan girls, a number of popular out-of-town girls from other colleges are being delightfully entertained. Misses Frances and Eugenia Turpin have as guests Misses Lucile Barrett and Miss McGill, of Waco, Texas; Miss Marjorie Lister, of Gulfport, Miss., and Miss Lydia Moore, of San Antonio, Texas. Friday the Misses Turpin gave a spend-the-day party at Lakeside park for their guests. Thursday morning Miss Mary Cooke was hostess at a heart-dice party in honor of Miss Lister.

Miss Richard Donovan has returned from Bremen, accompanied by Misses Mary Lou Hicks, of Douglas, Ga., Miss Hicks, of Savannah; Maud Carter, of Jasper, Ala., and Louise Liddon, of San Antonio, Texas. Friday the Misses Turpin gave a number of pleasant affairs will be given for these young ladies.

Miss Marion Thorpe has as guests Misses Ludwika LeVin, of New Jersey, and Elizabeth McMasters, of Waynesboro, N. C. Thursday evening a delightful reservations was given in honor of these two visitors at the home of Miss Martha Andrew, in Vineville. Friday afternoon Miss Daisy Wimberly entertained a number of young girls complimentary to them.

Miss Martina Burke was hostess Wednesday afternon at a bridge tea given in honor of Mrs. Marshall Ellis, one of the spring brides. The drawing-room was beautifully decorated with pink and white sweet peas. Mrs. Ellis wore a shee rwhite marquisette, hand-embroidered with a pink flowered hat, poke-bonnet effect; Miss Burke's brunette beauty was heightened by a gown of primrose silk.

Mrs. Richard W. Johnston and Mrs. W. M. Thomas returned Saturday to their home in Atlanta after a visit of several weeks to Mrs. J. Marshall Johnston. The last of a long list of pleasant affairs given for Mrs. Johnston was a dinner party at the Dunlap Wednesday evening, when Mr. S. J. Dunlap was host.

Mr. and Mrs. Carson S. Dure entertained about a hundred guests at a dance at the Countryclub on Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Campbell Jones and Miss May Burke return today from a delightful visit to Mrs. D. Griffith Dodson in Norfolk.

Miss Helen Barnes returned Wednesday from a pleasant vist to Fort Valley and Dawson.

Mrs. W. D Hereford entertained entertained a congenial party of matrons at a bridge party Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Guyler King entertained at "family party" Thursday afternoon in honor of her sister, Mrs. Charles R. Nisbet, of Atlanta.

REUNION OF KU-KLUX.

Macon, Ga., May 31.—(Special.)—One of the most unique class reunions in the history of Wesleyan college was the reunion of the Ku Klux Klan of 1909. Nine members of this red and white band returned to participate with the klan of 1913 in the initiation of the klan of 1913 in the initiation of the famous Ku Klux. Those present were Miss Charlie Mae Carter, Richland, Ga., president of the klan; Miss Ollie Belle Holt, Sandersville, Ga.; Miss Carrie Stubbs, Savannah, Ga.; Miss Lucile Smith, Palmetto, Ga.; Miss Estelle Manning, Smyrna, Ga.; Miss Martha Hays, Montezuma, Ga.; Miss Annie Mae Strickland, Dublin, Ga.; Mrs. Pearl Willingham, Macon, Ga.; Mrs. Charles B. Lewis, Macon, Ga.

The Ku Klux Klan of 1913 were hostesses at a most delightful breakfast party at the Hotel Dempsey Monday in honor of the klan of 1913. Covers were laid for twenty-five and the color scheme of red and white was effectively carried out in every detail. Corsage bouquets of red sweet peas were presented the guests of honor. The guests were Miss Charlie Mae Carter, Miss Lucile Smith, Miss Annie Mae Strickland, Miss Ollie Belle Holt, Miss Estelle Manning, Mrs. Weaver, Mrs. McMichael.

GREENVILLE, GA.

Mr. and Mrs. Denton, of Columbus, were called to Greenville last week on account of the serious illness of their sister, Mrs. T. J. McMahan.

Mrs. O. D. Hucker, of Chipley, spent last week in Greenville, the guest of Mrs. John W. Park, on LaGrange street.

Mrs. T. A. Latham, of Atlanta, is spending some time with Mrs. John W. Park.

Mrs. Sarah Ellis is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Welch, at Newnan.

The members of the Methodist Sunday school will picnic at Warm Springs Thursday.

Mrs. F. P. Norman charmingly entertained Tuesday afternoon at the home of her father, Dr. John W. Pinkston, on LaGrange street, in honor of Miss Benjamin, of Montgomery, Ala., the guest of Miss Mary Hill. "Forty-two" was the main feature of the afternoon's entertainment. Two dainty courses—salad and ices—were served at the small tables.

Miss Jeanette Wilbur, in company with Mrs. Joseph M. Terrell, of Atlanta, and a small party of friends, will sail next week for Europe. The party will spend several months abroad.

Miss Greene, an accomplished young lady from West Point, is visiting her sister, Mrs. J. C. Loyd.

A delightful occasion of Thursday afternoon was a party given by Miss Jane Hill. A profusion of roses and ferns decorated the reception rooms, and the guests was followed by elegant refreshments.

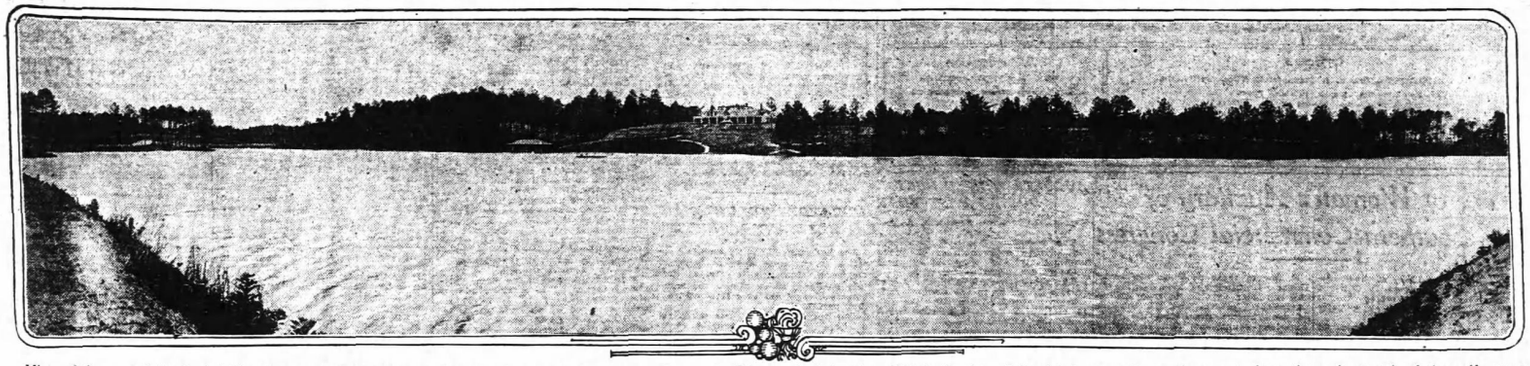
Miss Caroline Deas is in Knoxville.

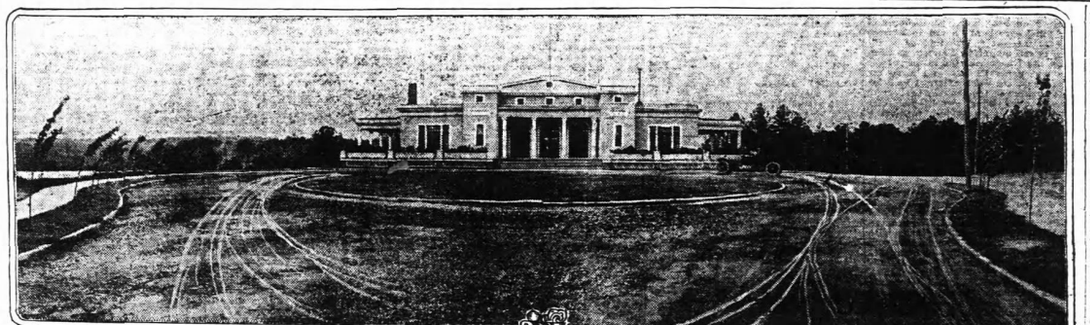
Rev. Benjamin Cone, of Virginia, has been called to the pastorate of St. James' Episcopal church here. Mr. and Mrs. Cone, Miss Judge

CAPITAL CITY CLUB TAKES OVER BROOKHAVEN ESTATES; WHAT IT MEANS TO THE TIRED BUSINESS MAN NOW



View of the rear of the Capital City Country club from the opposite side of the half-mile lake, showing a splendid stretch of the lake. This is the view of the club house and grounds as seen from the main stretch of the golf course, which leads around the lake and up to the club house.

View of the lake and the golf course beyond as seen from the rear veranda of the Capital City Country club. The main stretch of the golf course is shown plainly on the undulating hills over the lake.



Capital City Country club, formerly the Brookhaven club, as viewed from the approach. A point of the lake is shown at the extreme left of the picture—the lake extending for about a half mile through the valley back of and to the right of the club building.

What was yesterday the Brookhaven club becomes today the Capital City Country club, by virtue of the lease which the Capital City club recently closed with the Brookhaven estates, owners of the Brookhaven property on Peachtree road.

The addition of this attractive feature makes of the Capital City club an institution without peer in the southern states.

The acquisition of the control of the Brookhaven club property is in the nature of something more than a mere added attraction to the Capital City club's attractive features, however. It represents another step in the progressive program which the club has been following ever since the ground was broken for its present handsome quarters at Peachtree and Harris street, two years ago.

This building, in the heart of the business district of the city, cost the club in the neighborhood of $300,000. The single year during which the club has occupied its new home, declares Robert F. Maddox, president of the club, has been the most prosperous in the history of the club.

With this presage of further prosperity, the club has taken a one-year lease on the Brookhaven club, with the option of renewal for two more years if the venture proves successful, as there is every reason to believe will be the case. At the end of three years, in case of renewal of the lease, the Capital City club has the right to buy the entire property, paying for the same in $100,000 of 5 per cent bonds.

Organized In 1910.

The Brookhaven Country club was organized in 1910 by Charles P. Glover and others interested in the development of the Brookhaven estates, a well-known residence subdivision. The club, which originally began as one of the attractive features of the subdivision, soon became one of the most popular clubs in the city, especially among the younger set.

About a year ago, however, the club went into the hands of a receiver, and was bought in at public auction several months ago by the Brookhaven estates, who made the lease of the property to the Capital City club.

Coincident with the agreement of the members of the Capital City club to lease the Brookhaven club they agreed to increase their membership from 700 to 900 members.

The membership of the Capital City club has in the past consisted largely of staid, middle-aged business men, but it is the plan of the club to include in the new membership a large percentage of younger men.

There are approximately 100 applications for membership in the Capital City club before the board of governors now, and the indications are that at the expiration of the ninety days in which applications are receivable the club will not only have its limit of 800 members, but will have a long waiting list.

The Need Of Exercise.

The Capital City club's reinvigoration, however, is not to be taken to apply solely to the addition of younger members to its family. The real significance, says Mr. Maddox, is, perhaps, even larger than that, and consists of the encouragement to the older members to get out of doors and get plenty of good healthy exercise and fresh air.

"If the county club feature works as I expect it to," says Mr. Maddox, "it is going to work wonders in the rejuvenation of the older members who may feel more or less like the active days of youth are beginning to vanish. There is nothing that will produce that feeling quite so readily and completely as long years of the steady business grind without exercise. The country club is going to do a great deal toward taking twenty years of age off the shoulders of many of us."

The Capital City Country club, as the old Brookhaven club will now be called, nestles in a clumb of green and shaded hills out north of the city, and is one of the prettiest and most attractive spots in the vicinity of Atlanta. And it is, withal, in easy reach of both the residential and business portions of the city.

Beside the comfortable clubhouse, the grounds are greatly improved. There are long rolling stretches of greensward, beautiful shrubbery and graceful winding drives that almost compel one to get out and stir about.

And, no matter how a man's taste may run for out-of-door sports, the new asset of the Capital City club amply provides for his favorite pastime.

The Brookhaven lake, covering a score or more of acres, is not only the largest, but the prettiest and most sheet of water in Fulton county. The northern exposure of the clubhouse overlooks the lake.

Rambling into many quaint little dales and nooks of the Brookhaven hills, the lake forms an ideal place for canoeing, and its long reaches give splendid opportunity for boat racing. It is the best swimming resort in this part of Georgia. An arm of the lake, stretching away to the northward, cuts in half the seventh hole of the golf course, and affords an extra and interesting obstacle to golfers.

The Brookhaven lake is a favorite among Atlanta fishermen. It has been stocked twice, and its waters abound in fine fish.

The nine-hole golf course is soon to be expanded to eighteen holes, making the course unrivaled by any in the southern states.

The golf course, with only its present nine holes, is one of the sportiest in the neighborhood of Atlanta. Beginning on the west side of the clubhouse, it sweeps over an ideal lay of ground, encircling the lake and ending on the east side of the clubhouse. The second hole, while but a bare 130 yards long, is regarded as one of the most difficult holes on any Atlanta course. The fifth hole, lying across a pair of rolling hills, is probably the prettiest stretch in the state.

The club also has fine tennis courts and clay pigeon traps for the use of such members as are fond of shooting.

Trap shooting bids fair to be a great attraction at the Capital City Country club. There is already the nucleus of a club within a club, formed by a number of men who have been shooting on the Brookhaven range and at the traps at Mr Maddox's country home on Pace's Ferry road.

The Capital City club will install a first-class cafe in its country quarters, and the service will be, in the words of Mr. Maddox, "jam up." A good orchestra will furnish music for dancing and other social events.

No superintendent has been selected as yet for the country club, but R. O. Rankin, superintendent of the city quarters of the club, will have charge of the country club and the organization of its service until a superintendent has been placed in charge.

Work Begins At Once.

Work will begin almost immediately upon the improvement of the already beautiful grounds. The lawns and drives will be kept in perfect condition and much additional shrubbery will be set out, and the grounds otherwise beautified. The formulation of extensive plans for improvement may be taken as indicative of the faith that the country club feature will be a success.

In speaking of it, Mr. Maddox says:

"The Capital City Country club, I believe, will be a success from the very beginning.

"It is a feature that is needed by the club, and the time for its introduction is ripe now as it has never been before.

"Healthful exercise and wholesome recreation has become recognized by business men the country over as one of the most valuable assets not only to personal welfare, but, to the success of business. The business man with even ordinary insight recognizes not only his own need for exercise and fresh air to keep his own mind quick and bright, and to keep his productive powers in condition to accomplish their full capacity, but also that for the success of his business it is just as essential that his employees, also, have this advantage. 'All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy.' Dullness is not conducive to business or any other sort of success.

Value of Out of Doors.

"For years the value of being out of doors has been recognized and taken advantage of in the north and east. It has been recognized also in the south, but until comparatively recent years has been utilized to only a limited degree. The reason has been that the south had not yet recovered from the blow of the civil war. Our people's finances were depleted. Men had neither time nor money to indulge in out-of-door exercise, for it was an indulgence then. The day has come, though, when it is an imperative necessity, and the time is ripe for the introduction of facilities for getting this exercise.

"Every city in the country today is providing more playgrounds and parks for its citizens, and where in years gone by these parks were used almost exclusively by the rich, they are today the property of the poor and the working people, as they rightly should be. The country is better off for it. Every park means a better and more wholesome and more efficient citizenship.

"Other clubs and organizations in the city have golf courses, lakes, tennis courts and country club features, but already their membership is crowded. The Capital City club has for a long time felt the need of such a feature as the country club will afford, and I am glad to see them take advantage of this opportunity to add it."

BRITAIN IS SOBERER, BUT DRINK BILL HUGE

Nearly $900,000,000 Spent in a Year for Liquor by People of United Kingdom.

London, May 17.—This country is steadily—or pretty steadily—growing more sober, but the sum that the nation spends on drink still is an astounding one. That is the gist of an uncommonly interesting survey of the situation by George B. Wilson, secretary of the United Kingdom alliance, who also points out how the brewers of Great Britain have passed off on the consumer all the extra taxation which they incurred under Lloyd-George's famous budget, and a huge sum besides.

According to Wilson, the sum spent on intoxicants in the United Kingdom in 1912 was $897,765,590, representing a decrease of $6,219,430, as compared with 1911, and that notwithstanding the abounding prosperity of the country. This might be thought only a "wave" considering that in the preceding two years the nation's drink bill went up, but the figures, going back to 1874, demonstrate clearly that temperance really is on the increase in these islands.

Today, it appears, the consumption, per head, of the population, reduced to terms of gallons in regard to beer and spirits is as follows: Beer, 27.36 gallons; spirits, 0.44 (nine-wine, 2 pints. This is a high enough rate, in all considence, but in 1899 the figures were: Beer, 32.10 gallons; spirits, 0 pints; wine, 3.28 pints, and in 1874: Beer, 33.84 gallons; spirits, 10 pints; wine, 4.24 pints.

The average expenditure per head for liquor in 1910 was $17.50 and per family of five $88.50, as compared with $18 per head, and, roughly, $90 per family in 1911.

The compiler of this astonishing report shows that Great Britain's drink bill of nearly $893,000,000 is half as large again as the receipts of British railways, and a quarter as large again as the annual value of all private dwellings in Great Britain. It makes the sums that the United Kingdom spends on its army and navy seem insignificant, these being, respectively, for land forces, $138,245,000, and for the navy, $214,490,000.

When Lloyd-George put the screws on the members of the British "beerage" by means of increased taxation, there was loud squealing and most folk concluded that the brewers were doomed to the workhouse, but Wilson's report shows with what canniness the men of malt have made the consumer bear their added burdens, and mulcted him of a pretty penny in addition. They have done this by the simple expedient of charging money for water. Says Wilson:

"During the financial year ended March 31, 1908, for every 1,000 barrels on which beer duty was paid the brewers produced 1,098 bulk barrels, but immediately the war tax of 1s per barrel was imposed in 1909 the gravity was lowered, and in that financial year the 1,000 standard barrels represented 1,024 bulk barrels, and the following year 1,015 bulk barrels, and by the year 1912-3 the ratio had risen from 1,000 to 1,045. In the following year when the brewers' license duty, amounting to about 3d a barrel, was imposed, the gravity was again immediately lowered, and the year 1913-14 showed 1,000 standard barrels producing 1,058 bulk barrels. This lowering of gravity during the period has enabled the brewers to produce, free of duty in England and Wales, 13,000,000 more barrels of beer than they could have produced out of the same materials if the gravity of 1850-1909 had been maintained, and the retail price obtained from the public for this quantity was well over £30,000,000. The additional beer duty and brewers' license duty, on the other hand, did not during the twelve years exceed £19,000,000, leaving a large balance to the credit of 'additional taxation account' in the books of the licensed trade. The consumer has, therefore, paid the whole of the extra taxation on beer and a very large sum in addition."

As chance has it, this report is published simultaneously with one of an inquiry into the diet of the workers of Glasgow, and a comparision of the two gives one seriously to think. The Glasgow report shows that the most skilful manager cannot feed a family whose income is under $5 a week; accordingly, economists are asking how can the average family, many of which are not in receipt of more than $5 per week, spends nearly $90 a year on alcohol?

This Attractive And Useful Design For Needleworkers Can Be Transferred Without Recourse To The Old And Obsolete Tracing Paper Method Which Is Unreliable At Best.

DESIGN FOR NIGHT GOWN

One could not choose a more delicate pattern for decorating the night gown than this simple pattern of tiny leaves and delicate flowers. Too, it is something which can be transferred to any undergarment, making the complete outfit in one floral pattern.

Use soft white floss for working the embroidery, using but one strand of floss if you wish to preserve the central line in each leaf. If, however, you prefer the satin all over stitch, use the double floss. It does the work more quickly, but it is less beautiful than the more carefully worked patterns with care in preserving the natural contour of leaf or flower.

Work the flowers in satin stitch. By using the long and short stitch in these miniature flower petals, with single floss, you will be able to work the petals from base to point, giving an almost realistic appearance with the natural "cup" in each petal. If one cares to use a color it could be worked in floral tints, the washable floss which does not fade when carefully laundered, can be used. Here is a splendid pattern for pale blue flowers, delicate green leaves, and blue silken ribbons.

As this pattern will be transferred to sheer material be sure to make the ribbon eyelets very solid. Split them from end to end with sharp scissors, then whip the edges closely and finish the ends to prevent the eyelets ripping with the stress of ribbons.

To make the buttonhole edge quite firm, using double floss for the purpose

TO TRANSFER THIS DESIGN.

Put a cake of soap (laundry will do) in a pint of hot water, stir vigorously and remove the soap. Saturate this Design with the soap and water mixture, then remove the excess moisture by partially drying the saturated Design or by applying a sheet of blotting paper. Place the material or fabric to which the design is to be transferred on a hard, flat surface and lay the Design, face down, upon the material. Cover with a dry sheet of thick paper or two folds of newspaper, and with the bowl of a tablespoon rub, pressing hard, until the Design is entirely transferred, being careful to rub from, rather than toward you. When rubbing, you can see if enough pressure is being applied by lifting a corner of the Design to note how well it's taking. Do not wet the material nor rub the face of the Design with damp fingers. To remove the Design lines after the article is completed, wash in warm water, with soap. The entire process is very simple and with a little care you can easily make perfect transfers to any kind of goods.

PATENT PENDING.

WHEN making "thickening" for sauces, gravies, etc., use half flour and half cornstarch. Much better.

BEFORE cooking a ham take off a thin "shaving," also the rind, and see how much nicer flavored your ham will be.

AN ounce of coarse salt dropped in the trap of the kitchen sink will prevent the drain pipe from freezing over night.

A TABLESPOONFUL of washing soda and a cup of vinegar poured down the sink will clean out the most stubborn of clogged pipes.

TO keep milk sweet put a teaspoonful of horseradish in a pan of milk. This will keep it sweet several hours longer than without it.

PICKLED cauliflower is so good that every housewife ought to have some put away for a rainy day. It is good, too, on bright days, first, last and all the time, as the political cheerers say.

TO clean black chip hats, rubbing with sweet oil is an excellent way; but be careful not to use too much, and then rub with a piece of black velvet till all the oil is removed.

TRY tacking cheesecloth on the pantry window. This admits air that is sifted free of smoke and soot before it comes into the pantry.

TO get best results quickly in making French dressing, put the oil, pepper and salt in a bottle, add the vinegar a little at a time, shaking vigorously, and a fine emulsion is soon obtained.

FOR a cure for squeaking boots and shoes insert an awl carefully between the layers of leather in the sole and, with the machine oil can oil the sole through the little opening thus produced.

A FELT hat may be cleaned by sponging it thoroughly with ammonia and water. A thick cloth wrung out of cold water should then be placed over the hat, which should be ironed with a moderately hot iron until dry.

THE ingenious woman can always discover some new way to serve oysters. Have you ever tried serving them chopped up in the gravy of a particular juicy porterhouse steak? They are as good as mushrooms.

TRY stuffing tomatoes that are to be baked with corn fresh cut from the raw roasting ears. A generous piece of butter should be placed in each tomato. Corn without butter is like a stock company without the leading man out of the cast.

A HOMEMADE tooth powder is made of seven ounces of precipitated chalk, three ounces of bicarbonate of soda, two ounces of powdered castile soap and thirty drops each of oils of wintergreen and sassafras. Sift all together and keep in a glass preserve jar. The powder is both cleansing and h[illegible] to the enamel of the teeth.

A POLISH for stained wood floors is made of eight ounces of yellow beeswax, two quarts of spirits of turpentine and one quart of Venetian turpentine. Cut the wax in small bits and pour the spirits over it. When dissolved, as will soon happen, bottle. Dust the floors well before using the polish and apply it with a soft cloth.

INDIAN meal is very good for cleaning matting. Sprinkle the meal over the floor and then have it thoroughly swept out. Benzine and French chalk will remove grease from matting. Cover the spot thickly with chalk and moisten by sprinkling the benzine on it. When the benzine has evaporated brush off the chalk and the spot will have disappeared.

GARDEN POINTERS

For The Early Planters.

BY J. McLAGEN.

THE gardener cannot accomplish much in the actual growing of plants during this month, in fact, out-of-door work is almost at a standstill, though when the snow is not troublesome a great deal of progress can be made early in the month with pruning that was not done in the fall. Grapes, currants, gooseberries and shrubs should receive attention. But, remember not to prune during hard frosts.

If the snow lies heavy on the ground do not worry about your garden, for it provides a useful and welcome mantle. In fact, it is the best kind of a mulch and helps the bulbs and everything else that is living over the winter. Do not bother about removing the snow from beds and do not worry if you have to throw the snow over them when clearing the walks.

It is much better to have the snow there than the bare ground. Bare ground lets off the moisture in the sunshine and in the wind. It is an entirely different matter when the evergreens and fine shrubs which hold the snow in their branches are considered.

The weight of the snow will cause the branches to bend over and if it remains any time the original upright position is never regained. Therefore the wise gardener will brush the snow off all evergreens after a heavy storm.

Most work can be done in the window garden during March. The Christmas azalea and poinsettia will respond to careful treatment and reward you with blossoms next year. Never allow the plants to become dried out even after the blossoms have faded. In the spring they can be repotted in rich soil and carefully watered during the summer.

The Christmas bulbs, too, will repay any attention given them at this season. Keep the plants in a light, cool place, not only till the spent flower stems wither, but so long as they have leaves. Then light and water, the leaves will rebuild the bulbs. By the first of April they can be removed from the pots and without breaking the earth ball be placed in the garden. In June take them up and with the earth cleaned from them they may be stored up till October or November, when they can be again put into the garden to make a fine outdoor showing for the following spring.

Old fuchsias may be brought out of the cellar where they were stored last fall and put into the light. When they put on new growth they can be repotted.

The home gardener can now make cuttings for the outdoor flower garden, geraniums and heliotrope as well as fuchsias will bloom early in the summer if started right. In geraniums select the half ripe wood for slips; this is neither too tough for the tiny rootlets nor is it so full of sap that it will rot when put into the ground. Fuchsias send forth many new shoots when brought again into the light, and these make the most satisfactory cuttings.

They will thrive best if planted in a six-inch pot which has been specially prepared for them. Fill it half full of small bits of charcoal, on top lay some moss, and over this put the sand mixed with charcoal dust. Plant the cuttings close together and keep them moist and warm, make the earth firm around them and never allow the plants to dry out. This is the secret of successfully growing plants from slips.

The seedsmen's catalogues are ready this month and it is well to send for as many as possible, for you have time now to study them carefully, making selections for spring sowing, and can become acquainted with the season's novelties. It is well to try a few of these, both in flowers and vegetables, but do not trust your entire garden to them.

Place your reliance upon the old-time favorites or such recent species as have proven themselves worthy under your special conditions. Every gardener, though, should try some novelties each year, and once in a while a variety that surpasses everything grown before will be found. All the standard varieties of today were once novelties themselves.

Now is the time to make the plan of your garden. A plot which is planned before planting is more nearly complete than one which has been planted hit or miss. Planning enables one to arrange for much better succession now than there will be later on, and the ultimate result of work done now is economy of time, money and effort. Draw the plan on a rather large scale, so that each row in the vegetable garden can be marked and a full space left for writing the names of the various flowers. In planning for vegetables it is best to have the space to be cultivated longer than it is wide. This saves time in turning at the ends of rows.

In arranging the flower garden remember that the trees about the house have no leaves now and the foliage may not be thick when the seeds are put in, but before the flowers have grown and blossomed the trees will be in full leaf, preventing the flowers from reaching maturity.

Almost all flowers require full sunlight at least part of the day, the morning sun being more advantageous than the afternoon.

Two New Soups

CREAM of Rice—Having cut about a pound of loin of veal into small pieces put the meat into a stew pan with three pints of milk, together with three-quarters of a cupful of well washed rice. Add a small onion and season with pepper and salt. Let this simmer gently until the meat is very tender and the rice is a pulp. Then strain the whole through a fine sieve, return it to the saucepan, place it on the front of the fire until it comes to a boil, then move to the side of the fire again and stir in the yolks of two eggs that have been beaten up in lemon juice (of one lemon) and strained. The soup is now ready for the table and should be served at once with small croutons of bread that have been fried to a delicate brown in butter.

Soup Espanol—Parisian.—This delightful soup owes its designation to the fact that it was at one time and perhaps is still a great favorite in the Spanish colony of Paris. To make it begin by chopping up four large onions and frying them in a little butter. Add to them while frying a small quantity of sugar, and when the onions are quite brown put them into a saucepan with two quarts of broth that has been gently warmed. Put in also a little parsley and a bay leaf and boil for eight minutes. Butter very lightly some thin slices of toast and sprinkle them with pepper. Place them in a tureen, arranging them in layers and pour the soup over them, serving immediately.

THINGS TO MAKE

BY EDNA EGAN.

THE latest idea in neckwear is the side frill, wide at the top and graduated to a point at the bottom, just as we have been wearing for some time past, with the addition of a colored rever embroidered in white, or vice versa—the background white and the decorations worked out in delicate colors. I saw an exquisite little accessory in this model carried out in pale coral pink and white. The frill of fine lawn was edged with Irish crochet lace about one and one-half inches wide and the rever was pink scalloped on the edge and embroidered in white.

Eight dollars and fifty cents would buy this pretty article, but it was so simple any girl could fashion it for herself at less than $2.

The bit of lawn costs next to nothing, and a yard of edging at a dollar will be sufficient for trimming. The dainty embroidery on the rever would be out of the question unless one were skilled in such stitching, but an embroidered handkerchief, say at $1.50, if cut diagonally, would provide revers for two frills. There you are, all ready for adding, and without the least bit of trouble.

No wonder the girl with ideas and deft fingers can dress on next to nothing at all.

The frill is gathered, of course, and the rever laid on plain. Half a yard of baby Irish insertion will come to about 60 cents, and this holds the frill.

Another exquisite novelty suitable for the elderly woman is a scarf of finest lawn, pure white buttonhole scalloped on the edges. At first sight the scarf looks like a bureau cover, but not after one has seen the ends. These are appliqued with lawn in a delicate color embroidered in white, the background also embroidered in satin stitch and English eyelet, with here and there motifs of fine lace.

I can imagine how much this lovely scarf would be appreciated as a gift, and $25 is really only a reasonable price for it, but it could be made for much less if one can sew nicely and is willing to be patient.

The scalloping is simple, while for decorating the ends the handkerchief before mentioned (also the bought lace and embroidery motifs) could be brought into service with extremely good effects. All these are hand wrought, therefore worthy of their place in the beautiful whole.

To go back to the first jabot, if this is made at home it will then be possible to have handkerchief and frill to match both in color and decoration, an impossibility when the jabot is bought ready to wear.

The Robespierre collar is the popular shape just now, the collar stiff and starched, ending under a jabot of net plaited and rather square at the ends.

The collar comes separately as well, and the handkerchief idea would seem to hold good here also. With two or three handkerchiefs in different colors and designs one could make changes to harmonize with the dress or suit worn, using a white or newer, still, a pale tan collar for every jabot, and, of course, a handkerchief to match should peep from the coat pocket.

FASHIONDOM

CRYSTAL buttons are great favorites and are used lavishly on evening gowns.

Ribbons with hemstitched edges and others with splashing coin dots are among the new offerings.

Nothing is smarter for the tailored suit than a black material with a distinct line of white woven through it.

The collar will be a highly important item of dress during this season. Coats, gowns and mantles all have large collars.

Plaited girdles of handsome messaline or fancy ribbons are used to cover the waist lines of the new frocks, while fancy suede and patent leather belts promise to be in strong evidence.

Ratine or sponge is very likely to be modish again, either in itself or a combination, and to the woman who plaed for a suit or frock of this fabric last year this will no doubt be welcome news.

Sleeves continue to be of a long and narrow description, in some cases cut in a bell shape over the hands; nevertheless, one occasionally meets with the sleeves reaching only halfway down the arm, in which case they are more ample, and have gauntlet cuffs in proportion.

AUGUSTA WILL VOTE ON COMMISSION FORM

Now Decided to Hold a White Primary Election at Early Date in June.

Augusta, Ga., May 31.—(Special.)—A white primary election on a commission government for Augusta will be held at an early date in June, according to the decision reached at a meeting of the advocates of the movement last night. A committee of three was appointed by Weems Smith, its chairman, to confer with the white primary committee as to setting the date for holding the election. The commission government club will guarantee all expenses incident to holding the election, it was decided.

The same charter will be submitted to the voters which was defeated by a small majority in a similar election held about fourteen months ago, the only change of importance being the incorporation of the water board. Minor changes necessary may be made in the direction of the charter by the three appointed to examine the matter.

No ward clubs will be formed after a meeting of the voters next Tuesday night. Instead, voters will be invited to become members of the city commission government club already formed.

A bomb was thrown in the midst of the assembled advocates of commission rule at the meeting on the 16 of the 18 men appointed to the general committee. The bomb was in the shape of a letter addressed to Randolph Walker, chairman of the executive committee, in which the writer charged the rates in the Underwood tariff bill and asserted that the rates on cotton goods were reduced from 2½ cents to 1¼ cents per yard, which is a reduction of 50 per cent.

Speaking of competition from New England, as well as from Belgium and Austria-Hungary, he said the American manufacturers cannot compete in the foreign market, but that the question of protection is a question of protection, whether the policy of government will be conservative or not. The American manufacturer when forced to compete in foreign countries has made it impossible for him to compete in America are from one-half to one cent less than abroad."

DENTISTS OF GEORGIA TO MEET IN COLUMBUS

Attendance of 150 Expected at Annual Convention Which Starts on June 10.

Columbus, Ga., May 31.—(Special.)—The Georgia dentists will meet in annual convention in Columbus on June 10-12. It has been several years since the state dental society has held its session here and extended preparations are being made for the occasion by the Columbus society of dental surgeons. An attendance of about 150 is expected. A banquet at the Rankin house will be among the features of entertainment.

Automobilists Indicted.

Columbus, Ga., May 31.—(Special.)—The Muscogee grand jury yesterday indicted quite a number of automobilists on the charge of speeding. The grand jury in its general indictments denounced in severe terms the habit of exceeding the speed limit on the county roads.

Alexander Is Commissioner

Columbus, Ga., May 31.—(Special.)—J. C. Alexander has been elected a member of the board of commissioners of Muscogee county, succeeding B. H. Hardaway, who did not stand for re-election.

Municipal Ownership Club.

Columbus, Ga., May 31.—(Special.)—A Municipal Ownership club was formed at a meeting of about 200 citizens at the courthouse. Committeemen were appointed from the various wards, and the club will go in for organized work. The club is organized with special reference to the municipal ownership of waterworks. The city is having supplied with water at present by a private company, which recently bought the local system and is improving it. The ownership of the waterworks system by the city has been a mooted political and civic question here for years.

Poultrymen Organize.

Columbus Ga., May 31.—(Special.)—At the annual meeting of the Columbus Poultry association Clarence R. Medley was elected president; J. B. Banks and George S. Hamburger vice presidents; Mrs. P. P. Butts honorary vice president, and John S. Jenkins secretary. The association is planning for another large poultry show this fall.

400 CONVERTS MADE IN A JOINT REVIVAL HELD IN GAINESVILLE

Gainesville, Ga., May 31.—(Special.)—More than 400 converts have been received into the First Baptist and First Methodist churches of this city as a result of the joint revival which has been in progress for the past month. The meeting of the former church is now in progress, and will end Sunday night.

Evangelists throughout the state declare the joint meetings were the most successful in Georgia's history. Although the services closed in the Baptist church two weeks ago, that church has been assisting the Methodist congregation in their efforts.

The pastor of the Methodist church, Rev. T. R. Kendall, formerly of Trinity church, Atlanta, is being assisted by Rev. Luther B. Bridges and Charlie D. Tillman, well-known evangelists.

COST OF COTTON MILLS OVER $20 PER SPINDLE

President Kramer Presents Some Figures to Senate Finance Committee.

Washington, May 31.—(Special.)—Stuart W. Cramer, president of the American Cotton Manufacturers' association, has filed a supplemental brief with the finance committee correcting a statement that American mills could be reproduced at an average cost of $20 per spindle.

"I beg most emphatically to say that the mills in the south are capitalized at probably $40 per spindle," he says. "I understand that G. Gunby Jordan of the Eagle and Phoenix mills, Columbus, Ga. has addressed a letter to the committee substantiating my statement.

"Regardless of statements that Massachusetts mills are capitalized at less than $12 per spindle, and regardless of how low their plants now are carried on the books, this does not represent the value of those plants on today's exchange prices of the past few years during which they were built. Contrary to older New England mills have had time to depreciate and surplus that they can, from earnings, reduce their capitalization, thus enhancing their mills' value. As a rule this is not done in the south. Our mills are capitalized at approximately their present value. There are exceptions, but as a rule they are not.

"Mr. Randolph of Atlanta filed with the finance committee a brief showing the rates in the Underwood bill and asserting that the rates on these goods were reduced from 2½ cents to 1¼ cents per yard, which is a reduction of 50 per cent.

"Speaking of competition from New England, as well as from Belgium and Austria-Hungary, he says the American manufacturers cannot compete in the foreign market, but that the question of protection is a question of protection, whether the policy of government will be conservative or not. The American manufacturer when forced to compete in foreign countries has made it impossible for him to compete in America are from one-half to one cent less than abroad."

NO DEMORALIZATION IN NAVAL STORES BELT

Reports Published in New York and Philadelphia Denounced by Savannah Trade Board.

Savannah, Ga., May 31.—The directors of the Savannah Board of Trade at a meeting here today condemned as untrue the reports recently published in New York and Philadelphia newspapers, which indicated that a condition of destitution and financial demoralization prevailed throughout the naval stores belt of the south.

The reports seemed calculated to create the impression that the entire turpentine and rosin industry in the south is practically in a state of paralysis, with producers of those commodities and their employes in a destitute condition and merchants refusing them credits.

A statement issued by the board of trade directors denounces these reports as "highly pessimistic and wholly unfounded in fact."

"To those living in the long leaf pine belt of the south," the statement recites, "the absurd and misleading character of such reports is manifest, but to business men of other sections their publication carries an impression entirely false and erroneous and calculated to do widespread injury."

TWO BADLY WOUNDED IN DUEL OVER WOMAN

Dr. L. C. Furr and Whack Riordan May Die as Result of Shooting in Murray.

Dalton, Ga., May 31.—In a pistol duel between Dr. L. C. Furr and Whack Riordan, near Crandall, Murray county, both men were seriously wounded from which they may die, according to information received here.

Dr. Furr was shot in the abdomen, seriously wounded, and Riordan received four wounds, two of which are serious. He was shot in the head, neck and arm. Riordan, although seriously injured, will probably recover.

It is said that the trouble was over a woman and both men were prepared when they met.

DR. E. E. BRAGG HEADS GEORGIA OSTEOPATHS

Association Welcomed by Dr. John Hale and Response Made by Dr. Richards.

Dr. E. E. Bragg was elected president of the Georgia Osteopathic association at the meeting yesterday at the Imperial hotel. The other officers chosen were Dr. J. W. Elliott, of Cordele, vice president; Dr. W. W. Blackmon, secretary and treasurer, and Drs. F. L. Harris of Marietta, A. C. Lane of Griffin and Nannie B. Riley of Rome, executive committee.

Dr. Blackman was also elected to serve as the state delegate to the national convention which meets in August at Kirksville, Mo., on the 85th birthday of Dr. A. T. Still, founder of osteopathy. Kirksville is the home of the old physician and also of the American School of Osteopathy.

The one-day session of the association was presided over by Dr. W. H. Bowdoin, the retiring president, and the greater part of the time was devoted to demonstrating the technique of the work. A part of the morning and the greater part of the afternoon was spent in this manner. Ellis Whitman, whose loose ligaments have been the subject of comment among Atlanta physicians, was before the association for over an hour.

A pleasant feature of the meeting was the luncheon given at noon to about thirty of the delegates by Dr. F. P. Jones, of Macon. This was at the Imperial hotel where the sessions were held, and was greatly enjoyed.

When the association convened Saturday morning it was welcomed to Atlanta by Dr. John Hale and a response to his speech was made by Dr. S. D. Richards, of Savannah.

THIEVES AT WILLIAMSON STEAL $240 IN STAMPS

Williamson, Ga., May 31.—(Special.)—It was discovered this morning that thieves entered the store of Allen & Co. during the night and had taken $240 in stamps from the postoffice there. Government authorities have been notified. As yet no clues to the thieves have been discovered.

When a New Queen of May Was Crowned

One of the biggest events of the season to the children of Atlanta was the annual May Festival at the Snap Bean Farm, the home of Uncle Remus, Friday afternoon. Hundreds of little people, in festive attire, gathered on the lawn and danced around the pole, winding about it yards and yards of white ribbon. It was a picture that would have delighted the heart of such a lover of children as Mr. Harris if he could have been there. The capital event of the day was the crowning of the May queen, Katherine Vickers. Fathers and mothers were there too, but the children were in charge. Nothing was allowed to hamper their unrestrained enjoyment. The festival was under the auspices of the Uncle Remus Memorial association.

NEWNAN, GA.

The Civic league had an interesting business and enjoyable sociable meeting Thursday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. E. J. Simmons, on Greenville street. Important reports of the different committees were read and discussed, with Mrs. W. A. Turner presiding. At the close of the afternoon, delicious teas and cakes were served. The hostesses for the occasion were Mesdames Will Spence, T. J. Fisher and G. E. Parks.

Frank Rawls was a charming hostess for the Reading circle Thursday afternoon. In the absence of the president, Mrs. T. E. Atkinson, Mrs. Steve Powell presided. No special program was arranged for the afternoon, as it was the last meeting before fall. The election of officers and current events were informally discussed. The hostess had prepared delicious refreshments and was assisted in serving by Mrs. Austin Smith.

Mrs. Irvin Walker entertained her bridge club Wednesday afternoon. The card tables were placed on the spacious veranda, which was decorated with sweet peas. The top score was won by Mrs. Dewitt Poole. At the close of the game an elaborate luncheon was served, with teas and cakes.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Pringle entertained in honor of Mrs. Gordon Leigh, the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Wright, with a 6 o'clock dinner Wednesday.

Mrs. Amelia Clewis, of Tampa, Fla., is the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Freeman.

Mrs. William Seabrook, of Atlanta, is the guest of Miss Louise Peddy.

Mrs. T. L. Brice spent last week-end with her daughter, Miss Brice, at the home of Mrs. Z. Green, on Greenville street.

Miss Belle Morris, of Atlanta, is the house guest of Mrs. Joe Featherston.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Banks are visiting Attalla, Ala.

Miss Nan Simms, of Senoia, is the attractive guest of Miss Augusta Mann.

Mrs. T. M. Goodrum, Mrs. Garland Jones, Mrs. B. T. Thompson were with Mrs. A. J. Smith, of Atlanta, Wednesday and Thursday.

Mrs. Gordon Lee, from Washington, D. C., is visiting Mrs. W. C. Wright.

Misses Elizabeth Pringle Walker, Eleanor Barrett and Ruth Thompson are among the many young ladies that returned home from college this week for the vacation.

CANTON, GA.

An artistic event in music circles this week was the program given Thursday evening at the lovely home of Mrs. George Earnshaw. Those taking part were Mrs. Earnshaw, Miss Martin, little Misses Anna Walker, Annie Maude Whitehead, Lucile Mills and Mr. Henry Ogborn and Mr. James Garrison. Each number on the program being played with ease and brilliancy which marked their renditions, giving evidence of the splendid instruction they have received.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. William Galt are congratulating them on the success of their gifted young daughter, Miss Martha, who leave a brilliant musicale last week at Shorter college.

The young ladies returning this week from the different colleges over the state were Misses Francis, Martha and Janie Galt, Fannie Cade and Agnes Coggins, Francis Bethel, Estelle Mills, Edwina Teasley, Mary Lowe Bates, Mary Glynn and Malinda Roberts, Dorothy White, Roenelle McClure and Rhoda Scott.

The wedding of interest to Canton friends is that of Miss Carrie Mae Richardelle and Mr. Jesse Perkinson, and Miss Agnes Dupree and Thomas Thompson, both taking place the latter part of June.

Mrs. George Earnshaw and sons leave in a few days for a visit to Illinois and Indiana; afterwards they will join Mr. Earnshaw in Missouri, where they will reside. It is with sincere regret that the Canton people will witness the removal of this charming family.

Captain and Mrs. J. M. McAfee have as their guest Mrs. Hamilton Cox, of Duckport, La.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Mills returned to Atlanta Thursday from a visit to Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Mills.

ALUMNI-AE CONVENTION.

Carrollton, Ga., May 31.—(Special.)—The alumni-ae reception of the Carrollton high school was held Thursday afternoon from 4:30 to 7 o'clock at the Halcyon club rooms.

At the business meeting forty-one members were present. The president, Mr. J. Appleton Mandeville, being delayed on account of business, J. G. Cheney, the vice president, presided. Miss Janet Slade, assistant secretary-treasurer, read the minutes of the last meeting.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Mrs. C. B. Simonton, president; Mrs. W. L. Robinson, vice president; Mrs. L. L. Newell, secretary-treasurer, and Miss Mary Lou New, assistant secretary-treasurer.

Punch was served, after which the class of 1913—seventeen in number—formed a receiving line and received congratulations. There were about forty invited guests.

Miss Threadgill, with her orchestra, consisting of Miss Clare Holderness, Miss Lelia Adamson, Mr. William Adamson and Mr. Selby Kramer, furnished music throughout the reception. Miss Mary Lou New sang a solo.

Refreshments were served, consisting of cake and ice cream in which the color scheme of gold and white was carried out.

WASHINGTON, GA.

Miss Fannieiu Cozart, who is one of the bridesmaids to attend Miss Marcia Holden, on the occasion of her marriage next week to Mr. Thomas, of Atlanta, leaves Monday for Crawfordville, to be present at several delightful social functions with which friends of Miss Holden will entertain in her honor.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Lindsey, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Portson, motored to Athens Sunday and were guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Edwards. Colonel N. D. Arnold and Miss Kate Mae Arnold gave a party at Lexington for the Athens trio.

Complimentary to Mrs. Harry Fisher and Mrs. Arnold Broyles, of Atlanta, who were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Callaway, Mrs. W. R. Latimer entertained the Matrons' Bridge club on Thursday afternoon.

Miss Hardy, of Savannah, is the guest of Miss Marguerite Hynes.

Work of Woman's Auxilary of Southern Commercial Congress

The Woman's auxiliary of the Southern Commercial congress is destined to become a potent factor "for a Greater Nation through a Greater South."

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, mistress of the white house, is honorary president of this auxiliary, with a full cabinet of national officers.

Senator Duncan Fletcher, president of the Southern Commercial congress, has appointed state presidents for the sixteen states included in the territory of the congress. The state presidents are in turn appointing their cabinets and county presidents. The county presidents will organize clubs of fifty, one club to each county.

Studying European Conditions.

Dr. Lillian W. Johnson, national vice president, and Miss Barnesline, general secretary, have devoted their valuable servies to organizing this auxiliary, and are now traveling in Europe with the representatives to the congress, studying conditions in other countries for future activities here.

The aims of the Woman's auxiliary are the same as the Southern Commercial congress. The power of the organized effort of the women of the south will be brought to bear upon the questions the congress is now engeavoring to solve.

A few of these problems are vocational education; the investigation of the European systems of co-operative agricultural credits, and the relation of the Panama canal and the latin American countries. With respect to all these questions the Southern Commercial congress is recognized by the government as holding a position of national leadership.

Fifth Annual Convention.

During the fifth annual convention of the congress, which will be held in Mobile, Ala., in the fall, the first annual convention of the Woman's auxiliary will convene. The time will be coincident with the opening of the Panama canal. Delegates attending this convention will be detailed to go to Panama, and, by that time, the Woman's auxiliary hopes to have the honor of laying the corner stone of the memorial to the late Senator John T. Morgan, the "Father of the Canal."

Mrs. Thomas Owen, state president of Alabama, has been very active in the work in Alabama and several other states is quite far advanced.

Among those who have already cooperated in the development of the auxiliary work the American Red Cross believe that the earnest questions of today must be solved by the whole country—men and women alike.

stairs. Stirring words in behalf of the protection of our national emblem were listened to and heartily indorsed. Then the president general introduced to the house the most unique figure of the congress. I wish I had the time and talent, and you could accord me the space to describe the wonderful factor in mountain work. Mrs. Ida Woodbury is an American woman from Cork. Short, square, erect, and attractive in unfashionable black, she stepped to the front of the stage and poured forth such a Niagara of eloquence, fun, logic, philosophy and philanthropy as I never dreamed could be compressed in one address. She kept her audience in roars of laughter, while gentle tears of pity filled and lent on the speaker in keenest interest as she told of conditions in the mountain districts of Kentucky. I looked over the heads of the president general's box, and made my two ears do the work of ten, I took infinite comfort in the thought that some people were at work for our mountaineers, even though to such a limited degree.

Mrs. Woodbury's ten minutes lengthened into an hour and still the audience, like the Leech's daughter, cried "More, more!" She was the most supremely "funny" person I ever saw or listened to, and, while she did no begging stealthily and admirably made a way for her appealing cause particularized in her rich, Irish brogue, to the "financial conveniences" of her hearers, and hobbled her way off the stage with $600 and the promises of enough furniture to fill the "Scott Room"—a name demanded by the congress for the dormitory for women. Mrs. Woodbury spoke.

All through the congress we heard reports of noble work done by our northern and western sisters for the uplifting of the dwellers in our mountain districts.

The Federation Council.

Now, Dear Madam Editor, how in the world am I to crowd in all I want to say about the council?

Mrs. Pennybacker was an ideal presiding officer, according to Roberts and other parliamentary authorities. She is systematic able, just and in "dead earnest." But in her desire to live up to rules and regulations I think she was a little rigid—a little expressionless in her face and rulings.

Her gavel went down with a resounding emphasis at the termination of the time allotted Mrs. William J. Bryan, with her address unfinished, which was, of course, businessike, if not sympathetic. She handled her meetings admirably.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson speaks clearly, composedly and she knows when she starts how and where she will arrive.

I was glad to see at close range Miss Wood, of the general bureau of industrial education is the right woman in the right place.

How our hearts were stirred as we heard Mrs. Jean Brooks Severance. It is hard to believe such misery is in the world as described by her as existing in tenement houses. And the babies, the babies, the wretched babies of these death traps! If the would be reformer could put aside politics and "get busy" with a will to the world to take care of the babies already born, instead of howling about race suicide, he would be doing a truly great work!

Miss Boswell's talk on the necessity of women's studying political economy was fine in rate and timely.

The congress of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution was a brilliant event. The council of the federation was a meeting of business women. Both did infinite credit to the sex.

Now, I am back at home and profoundly impressed with two convictions: That the first business of the woman in public life is to learn how to cook, and the first business of the woman in public life is to cultivate a good, carrying, speaking voice.

S. B. C. MORGAN.

Anna Shaw's Garden.

Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, while still very active in her rage work, has for her diversion a beautiful flower garden at Moreland, Pa. On a card containing her picture, taken among her flowers, she sends this message to her friends:

"A garden is a lovesome thing, God wot!
Rose plot,
Fringed pool
Fern grot,
The veriest school
Of Peace; and yet the fool
Contends that God is not—
Not God! In gardens, when the eve is cool?
Nay, but I have a sign,
'Tis very sure God walks in mine."

COUNCIL SIDELIGHTS BY MRS. S. B. C. MORGAN

Talented Georgia Club Woman Gives Interesting Observations of Washington Meeting.

My Dear Madam Editor: How earnestly I wish I could give you in detail a tithe of the interesting matter which I gathered in each rich profusion when I attended the twenty-second meeting of the National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution, and on the adjournment of that body, was privileged to be present at the council of the General Federation of Women's clubs, but indeed, indeed, I listened, and listened, first in wonder, then in rapt interest, until excess of rich food gave me mental indigestion. I am almost lost the power of assimilation on such a diet.

I most distinctly retain the impression made by our president, Woodrow Wilson, as he welcomed the D. A. R.'s to Washington. I studied him with the intense interest of a desperate and a Georgian. He is fine, absolutely satisfactory, it seemed to me, to the most exacting critic—he is splendidly looking with a homeliness that fascinates you far more than good looks would have done. His high brow, the strength that would be only were it not for the slow, finely tempered smile, the steadiness of the straight-gazing eyes, the decisive reunciation that sent each word-messenger straight to your comprehension—made him an ideal figure. He is not only a man in every sense of the word, but he is the president of all the people.

Distinguished Men and Women.

Our honored president general, Mrs. Matthew T. Scott, assembled on that occasion such a rare number of distinguished men and women that I fear the exquisite stage setting of the white marble palace, made a scene never equaled in this country and has seldom surpassed in other countries.

And the splendidly gowned and hatted women in the audience made one understand that no matter how absorbed women may become in political science, they will never lose their love of clothes. And this love is a passionate devotion to the beautiful and artistic, and with no desire to "allure," as charged recently, by some writer who desired to fill space with the sensational.

William J. Bryan spoke brilliantly to us, and my subconscious self kept saying, "Yes, that is our next president!"

Well, Mrs. Scott has lifted the crown of authority from her well-shaped head and dropped the mantle of control from shoulders unnerved by Time. She had a splendid grasp on affairs, an unusual knowledge of men, women and events, and with a quality of achievement to match her knowledge.

If at times her rulings were somewhat masterful, from the viewpoint of the opposition, still her administration was just, useful, brilliant and attractive, and we shall not see her like for many a busy day.

Mrs. William Cummings Story is a pleasing woman, graceful and gracious, wearing her honors as word and smile. I shall give her my support and wish her a most successful administration, and shall earnestly hope she may have or develop the requisite strength for her responsible office and bring added cohesion and unity to our great society.

Society a Constructive One.

that the N.S.D.A.R. is not only a The country has long since realized patriotic order but a constructive one. And, as I listened to the address from our retiring president general, to the reports of national officers, chairmen of committees, speeches from our noted guests, appeals made to us by the secretaries of war and navy for our assistance in work among the records, I saw clearly that the D. A. R. were doing the same work as the Federation of Women's clubs, with the added obligation to preserve colonial and revolutionary memories and teach American history. The evening devoted to the report and adressed on the "Descra*tions of the Flag"* proved the most interesting and "gripping" of the whole session.

Gentle peace and patience had descended upon the great audience, while the counting of ballots went on up-

AUGUSTA WOMEN BUSY DURING PAST YEAR

Mrs. A. H. Brenner, President, Augusta, Ga.

The season of 1912 and 1913, with its opportunities for constructive study and activity, has been one of great pleasure and profit to this club.

The season opened with the report of the meeting of the General Federation biennial, thus putting the club in vital touch with federation work from the beginning, and preparing the way for wide awake interest in the State Federation convention in October.

Through information gathered from the columns of the state official organ, the General Federation Magazine, and other literature the club editor in her report at each meeting, has kept these interests squarely before the members.

The club has also been favored by visits from active club women from the north and west, who were visitors to the city during the year.

A number of most valuable new members have been received, but several are obliged to reslign through removal from the city or inability to do active work. The club having never encouraged members to retain membership unless able to meet all requirements.

The study course, The Development of the Short Novel, has held the interest of all to an unusual degree.

Extension Work Done.

Perhaps the strongest work of the season has been in behalf of federation extension in the district.

On December 4 and 5, a conference to further this work was held. Mrs. Wm. Dunbar, late beloved president, having, on account of invitation to be present, the clubs of Sparta and Sandersville were also urged to send delegates. Mrs. Reynolds, of the Sparta Round Table, came, but the Sandersville Round Table could not be represented, though expressing interest in the work.

The first day was spent in visiting the schools where the kindergarten, domestic science, shop work, art, music, etc., was exhibited, and medical inspection, sanitary conditions, etc., explained to the visitors. Luncheon was enjoyed in the charming cottage of the John Milledge school, the largest and most modern in the state, and daintily filled with flowers and grapes.

Afternoon tea was served and plans for work were discussed.

On the afternoon of the 5th Mrs. White addressed a large and representative company of Augusta women in the club rooms.

Mrs. Dunbar was shown in federation work, but a motion to organize a City Federation was postponed for time to confer with respective organizations.

Officers Are Appointed.

Mrs. White then appointed the president of the club, Mrs. A. H. Brenner, chairman of the committee, and Mrs. L. S. Arrington, a past president, as district secretary.

The reception which followed Mrs. White's address will long remain one of the most beautiful memories of the club's social life.

On December 13 Mrs. White returned to assist the club in completing this work, but was claimed by the angel of death while the same large company was gathering to meet her. The completion of the work necessarily became the work of the district secretary.

In March the club was able to show an act of sisterly courtesy to the state council of D. A. R., which met in Augusta, by providing the rooms and active rest rooms for the convenience and comfort of delegates.

The club has also subscribed and paid to the general endowment fund, and all requests for endorsement of worthy causes were promptly responded to. The traveling library of the club were as usual in great demand, and are reported as having been much enjoyed by the rural schools where they were placed.

The lecture committee has not yet been able to present the lecture on Georgia Lawn Reclining Women, but hopes to do so before the end of the season.

The season will close with the usual contest at which short stories and poems will be judged and prizes be awarded.

This meeting is of a social nature.

Officers of the ensuring year are: President, Miss Ethel Parks; first vice president, Mrs. J. F. Fennell; second vice president, Miss Annie Page; secretary, Mrs. J. E. Arnold; treasurer, Mrs. P. F. McAuliffe; librarian, Miss Mattie Hopkens. Literary committee, Mrs. J. R. Littleton, chairman, Mrs. W. M. Rowland, Mrs. J. D. Hammond.

BULLOCHVILLE CIVIC IMPROVEMENT CLUB

Our club has a membership of about twenty-six, and we have two meetings per month. As there are few other social functions in our little town, we look forward to these meetings as pleasant and interesting as possible. The meetings are held in the homes of our members, and the programs usually consist of business affairs, interspersed with literary and musical features, with refreshments of course, with the usual delightful refreshments.

Since the district meeting of 1911 we have given our attention to the improvement of our school building. The club women have donated $60 toward seating the auditorium, and the citizens and trustees furnished the balance necessary to buy substantial opera chairs, and the plan resulted in one hundred improvements in the appearance and comfort of our school building.

We have observed the "clean-up day" last year and this year, and have succeeded in removing a great surplus of tin cans and other objectionable trash from the str ets and rear doors of the stores. The majority of our citizens own their homes and keep around them unusually clean. We urge gently that the sidewalks be swept, and suggest to the storekeepers the wisdom of asking customers to refrain from the habit of spitting in front of their doors. In small towns the city officials usually do not consider it necessary to pass ordinances prohibiting this insanitary habit, but the good women can always accomplish fair results by using tact and perseverance in this way and by personal work along all lines we try to do something all the time for the betterment of our community.

We made $2.50 contribution to the national endowment fund, and have agreed to give $2.50 per month to our Tallulah Falls school. A committee has been appointed to see in person the representatives from this county and hope to be able to exercise their influence and votes for the establishment of an industrial home for wayward girls.

In April we had a pleasant visit from our district president, Mrs. W. Tom Hankerson, who encouraged us with an earnest and insinctive talk about the federation work. She made a strong plea for the support of the Tallulah Falls school, and urged us to work for the Woman's Edition of The Constitution.

In our club we have nothing but optimism, and we hope to do a good work in 1913. MRS. NEAL KITCHENS, Corresponding Secretary.

L'GRANGE WOMAN'S CLUB HAS MANY INTERESTS

The LaGrange Woman's club has enrolled 110 active and 8 honorary members. The club is divided into four sections, which allows the members to choose whatever form of work they prefer.

The literature section has taken the program arranged for the current Chautauqua year. "Through Spain and Portugal," "Through Paris and European Rulers," and has found it a most interesting course of study. The members have taken especial enthusiastic, particularly over Dr. Power's "Mornings With Masters of Art." A microscope has been used to throw the pictures on the wall, so that they may be studied at the same time the description and analysis is being given.

The domestic science section had charge of the Woman's club room at county fair held at the courthouse last November. This room was filled with beautiful and useful specimens of every kind of work, from enormous pumpkins and potatoes to the most delicate embroidery and lace and beautiful chinaThe display of preserves, jellies, pickles, cake, breads, salads, etc., was splendid. Each evening tea were sold and the proceeds added to the club's treasury. Instead of this fair proving an expense to us, we closed with $2 in the bank.

Twenty-five Prizes Given.

The club members won twenty-five prizes during the fair. We expect to make an even better display this fall as we will have a fair building, and we extend a cordial invitation to all the clubs represented here to make an exhibit.

In civics we have laid out the grounds of the high school and have sodded the grass plants and have planted flowers and shrubs around the building.

We gave an entertainment, at which we made $90, which is being used to thoroughly overhaul and refurnish the rest room. We expect to make it as pretty as it has always been comfortable. This room justifies us constantly in our efforts in behalf of it in operation, by the numbers of country women and city employees who use it, and who express their appreciation so earnestly. This section is raising money to put the grave of Mrs. Hill, the author of the celebrated cook book, in better shape. She is buried in our cemetery and her grave has been neglected and it was felt that it must no longer be neglected. We began this sisterhood, so a neat headstone will be placed over it and a wall around it.

We gave a Rip-Van-Winkle day, April 10 and 11. In this work we were very materially assisted by the mayor and health inspector, who ordered the citizens to clean up their premises, wagons to remove all extra trash and refuse.

More interest than usual seems to be manifested in the care of lawns and the planting of shrubbery and flowers. We are working in conjunction with the chamber of commerce to get a wagon yard for farmers in the city, and already the campaign is on against the fly and mosquito. The civic section is interesting in having the hearty cooperation of the secretary of the chamber of commerce and the health inspector.

Club Room Fund Started.

The club made $75 at the entertainment by the Bank company in November, this money has been set aside and is the beginning for a club room. We have assurance of generous contributions from the members and others, and when we fell that we are able to build. We have no immediate need of a room, as we have the use of the Masonic hall at present. We have paid our federation dues, $2.80 to the Sarah Platt Decker memorial fund, $2.00 to the tuberculosis fund, and are ready to pay our apportionment of the Tallulah Falls school fund.

During the teachers' institute in December, we furnished lunches for the county teachers at High School building, the two days it was in session. The club members have been entertained at several very delightful social affairs this year. One of these was an informal reception given by the president of the club, at which our beloved district president, Mrs. Bankston, spoke on federation work and at which she was the honor guest. Another very charming entertainment was given by the Chautauqua circle to Miss Hamilton, the circle's Chautauqua lecturer.

MRS. C. W. TRUITT, Chairman Civic Improvement.

MRS. J. L. BRADFIELD, Secretary.

3. What about religion?
4. What about education?
5. What part of the world's work are you going to do?

CLUB MOVEMENT IN WATKINSVILLE HAS AIDED MUCH

The club movement in Watkinsville dates back to February, 1904, when 12 women met and organized the Improvement club, driven to this step by unshaded streets and school grounds, littered with waste paper and tin cans and a neglected cemetery over which stray cattle roamed.

For three years they toiled, as women must, to raise money for inclosing the cemetery, but perseverance conquered, and as a result, a substantial iron fence costing nearly $400 remains as a monument to their effort as well as an avenue of beautiful young trees and a mantle of ivy, shining green upon the school building.

This organization gave place a few years later to Mothers and Teachers' Co-Operative club. Finding that they could make no progress without books, the members concentrated their efforts on securing these. A committee was appointed to confer with the principal business men, and as a result a public library association was formed. Through Paris and European Rulers,' and has found it a most interesting course of study. The members have taken especial enthusiastic, particularly over Dr. Power's "Mornings With Masters of Art." ## KING GEORGE WORRIED BY WIFE AND MOTHER

English Monarch Finds Difficulty in Pleasing His Womankind.

London, May 31.—Poor King George finds the task of being a dutiful son and loving husband "all in one" more difficult every day. What with Queen Alexandra absolutely refusing to retire gracefully into the background, and Queen Mary as steadily refusing to have her place in the limelight usurped by her mother-in-law, he has his work cut out for him indeed.

The other day the two of them goaded him into losing his temper altogether—a thing he seldom does. It was on the occasion of the memorial service held at St. Paul's cathedral for Captain Scott and his brave companions who were lost in the Antarctic disaster. As soon as Queen Alexandra heard that the king and queen were going to attend the service she announced that she would go. The king then advised his wife not to accompany him, thinking that perhaps his mother-in-law might give it up, but not a bit of it. Then it was that the king lost his temper and issued a request to the papers that no mention should be made of Queen Alexandra's attendance, whether she went or not. Of course it wasn't put quite like that. When the king wants to communicate his wishes to the press a note is sent to the Press association and the word on the "highest authority" are used in the message.

One of King George's enquiries confided to me afterwards that he had never seen his master in such a "bait."

"It wasn't that he minded his mother going to the service so much, but he just hates the kind of gilt-edged 'comforter of all widows' attitude that she adopts on such occasions. He knew quite well that she would drape herself in her most funereal trappings, occupy a most conspicuous place in the cathedral and sit and drip through the service."

Well, she went to the service after all; she rarely gives up a thing on which she has made up her mind, but she went quite unostentatiously and occupied a—comparatively—back seat. All the papers next day that "Queen Alexandra was represented by General Sir Dighton Probyn."

Of course, episodes like these—and they grow more instead of less frequent—serve to widen the breach between Marlborough House and Buckingham palace. This season is likely to clear up a point, too, on which there is a good deal of feeling amongst society folks in London, and this is, are two royal sets likely to grow up? Queen Alexandra has been going out already this year; she has been twice to the opera and has discarded her "weeds" some time, though she still wears black, and it is said that she means to entertain quite a lot this year. To begin with, her friends are a different set of folks to those of Queen Mary's, and are more Americans and the more lively members of society.

Druggists Responsible for Their Labels.

An interesting sidelight on the responsibility of pharmacists is brought to view in a recent case reported in The Pharmaceutical Era, the point developed affirming that when a druggist sells a medicine, manufactured by others, but bearing a label indicating that it is a hair preparation, he may be held liable for injuries sustained by a customer through the use of such medicine. Such is the decision of the New York court of appeals in the case of one Mrs. Wilson against a Buffalo drug firm. The woman's husband purchased a remedy, alleged to contain nothing but vegetable substances; it contained mercury, and Mrs. Wilson's teeth were affected. The druggist's defense was that the preparation was manufactured by someone else—a reliable firm—and that he therefore was absolved from liability. The court held the druggist, by reason of the representation to the plaintiff that he was the manufacturer, "became responsible to the public for the strength and quality of the preparation, notwithstanding its patented or proprietary character, and for the compound contained an injurious substance instead of beingpurely vegetable, as the label declared, the plaintiff was entitled in law to sue for the injuries suffered by the purchaser in consequence of ignorantly taking the concealed poison."

Some Serpent.

(From The Los Angeles Herald.)

We don't exactly know who Henry M. Hyde is, but the editor who discovered him is entitled to the thanks of a world waiting for a new word painter. Mark this striking introduction to his dissertation on Chicago's municipal farm:

"More and more the slimy serpent of socialism is insinuating its way into municipal affairs. With the snake's frequency one finds its footprints; closer and closer sounds the rumble of its devastating tread. Already it may be too late to nip it in the bud."

That is doing mighty well for a slimy snake, and we make bold that makes footprints, rides in chariots and is to be scotched by being nipped in the bud.

Like Baseball.

(Life for May 15.)

The President (during the row of 2012)—But where are all the officers or our army?

The Private—Please, sir, everybody above the rank or private is covering the battle for the New York Times.

If the cures of people published in this paper were really true, then Quaker Herb Extract must indeed be a wonderful remedy. There were cures of rheumatism, catarrh, kidney, liver and stomach troubles reported by people who live in this city. Their names and addresses were given so that it was an easy matter to ascertain whether the published reports were really genuine or not. Everybody was asked to investigate. The proof was therefore overwhelming and undeniable. These people were actually cured by Quaker Herb Extract and Oil of Balm after many other remedies had failed. Now, if you suffer from any of the aforementioned complaints, will not Quaker Herb Extract and Oil of Balm cure you also? Is it not worth a trial? The price is moderate, the remedies cannot harm, results must be quick, and you can call at Coursey & Munn's Drug Store at all hours to tell you anything you wish to know about the remedies. If, therefore, you are still hesitating, come and have all your doubts explained. If the cures already published have not been sufficient, you come to Coursey & Munn's Drug Store, and spend a little time listening to the reports of the people who are taking the remedies.

Mrs. R. H. Nix, of 138 South avenue, said: "I had a case of stomach trouble a long time. I have taken several bottles of Quaker Herb Extract and I can now gladly say that Quaker Herb Extract has completely cured me. I was advised by several to have an operation performed, but this medicine has accomplished the results she desired."

These wonderful Quaker Herb Extracts, $1.00 per bottle, 3 for $2.50, or 6 for $5.00. Oil of Balm 25c, or 5 for $1.00. Call today at Coursey & Munn's Drug Store, 104 Marietta street and obtain these remedies. We prepay express charges on all orders of $4.00 or over.

Byron's Endowed Memorial.

(From The New York Evening Post.)

In the "In Memoriam" column of The London Times for April 19 the following advertisement appeared:

BYRON—George Gordon Noel Lord Byron died nobly for Greece at Missolonghi, April 19, 1824.

"When love who sent forgot to save
The young, the beautiful, the brave."

—"The Bride of Abydos."

Sir Walter Scott, speaking of his death, said: "It is as if the sun had gone out."

This notice annually is paid for under the terms of the will of a lady who greatly admired the poet, and is to appear, we understand, every year in The Times until a memorial of Byron is admitted to Westminster Abbey.

When Your Hair Turns Gray

When a woman's hair turns gray the world expects her to step back from the limelight. Active work and a breast of the times she may be, with a wide experience at—but has grown old and gray-headed. Fortunately there is now a woman whose hair retains its color throughout life.

But what of the woman whose hair begins to fade, maybe as early as 30 or 40, the woman in the middle of active business world? "We don't want old women!" She feels it all around her.

Don't let your hair turn gray. But be careful. Very few hairs stains are absolutely pure and harmless. There is, however, one reliable stain that is Robinnaire Hair Dye and is one. Made here in Atlanta, in our own laboratory, and sold under a guarantee to and positively non-injurious to either hair or scalp. It is a clear, colorless liquid and keeps it in fine condition, and no one can detect that a hair stain has been used. It is not a vulgar bleach or artificial coloring. It is a natural restorative that puts back life and color into the hair. No one need hesitate to use it. Non-sticky and does not stain skin or scalp.

No woman need have gray hair unnecessarily. But don't pull out the white hairs. Use Robinnaire's Hair Dye and watch every one you pull out. Use Robinnaire's Hair Dye and a color restored in people call you old. It is prepared for light, medium and dark brown and black hair. ## WIND STORM

Blows Down Signs At Ponce de Leon Ending Ball Game

Billikens Win Abbreviated Contest 6 to 4—Welchonce, Long and Gribbens Hit Well—Good Crowd Out.

By DICK JEMISON.

A tremendous wind and rain storm swept down on Ponce de Leon ball park Saturday afternoon with a suddenness that could hardly be realized by the large crowd of fans present, and put an end to the pastiming for the afternoon.

When the storm arrived the score stood 6 to 4, with the Billikens leading, and the first of the seventh inning played. Reverting to even innings, the count stood. The second game was out of the question.

From the press box on top of the stand the storm could be seen approaching at a mile a minute gate and it struck with all its fury. It came over the left field fence assuming the proportions of a cyclone, and swept the playing field in briefer time than it takes to tell it.

Signs Blown Down.

The big sign alongside of the score board was crumpled as if it had been so much tissue paper, and the newly erected sign on top of the right field bank, just back of the "bull" sign, was demolished completely.

Sweeping on to the stands, the one humorous incident in all the reign of terror occurred. For several minutes it rained straw hats and derbies, and even the terrorized fans were forced to laugh.

Dust and pebbles were imbedded in the faces of the fans, causing a wild rush for shelter. Nine-tenths of the house crowd chose the walk under the stands as their place of refuge.

But the vibrations in the stand caused some to rise, getting drenched rather than have the massive structure crumble up on top of them, many standing right out in the open on the infield and outfield in the pouring rain.

A driving hail followed the wind and dust and a violent thunderstorm then broke in all its fury. The lightning flashes were vivid and the sharp peals of thunder in close proximity causing the fans to huddle closer.

To add to the discomfort the car service was crippled for nearly an hour, and [illegible] every fan, man, woman and child was drenched [illegible] to return to their homes.

Old-time fans who have witnessed every ball game played in Atlanta are at a unit in declaring that Saturday's experience was the worst they have ever witnessed.

To get back to the game, the Billikens were winners, the score reverting to even innings when the storm suspended all further pastime for the day.

The second game, which was postponed, will be played on the Billies next trip here.

Wright Is Incompetent.

Far be it from us to lay blame on an umpire, but to Umpire Wright's door can be laid the defeat of the locals.

Southpaw Price was given all the worst of it on balls and strikes. He fanned four men, who subsequently either hit safe or were given their base on balls by the "Blind Tom" behind the plate.

If Saturday had been the only off day of Wright's we would have passed it by, but, in the six games he has officiated in here, he has proven himself to be so incompetent that we have never seen the misfortune to see subtracted in this league in our five years of experience.

The New Orleans Item's claims of incompetency made a couple of weeks ago, were fully sustained during the past week on the local grounds. Wright has yet to guess one correctly. He also has a habit of giving a decision before the play is completed.

Good Hitting.

The hitting of Gribbens, Welchonce and Long, and the fielding of Knaupp, Walker and Dunn were the features.

Due to poor umpiring none of the pitchers showed any form.

The Crackers grabbed off a one-run lead in the opener. Long poled one to right for a single and went to second on Sloan's error. Welchonce got an infield hit and Rabbit counted on a wild pitch.

The Billies took the lead in the second. Kutina got a free ticket and was sacrificed to second by Jantzen. Knaupp was walked. Donahue poled a long single to center, Kutina scoring and Knaupp going to third. Cotton counted on an infield roller.

The Crackers tied it up in their half. Bisland got a life on Kutina's error. Acler sacrificed. Price counted Bisland with a three cushion poke to the score board.

Billies Take Lead.

The Billies grabbed the lead again in the third. Wares got a free ticket. On the hit and run Gribbens smashed one through short, Wares going to third. Sloan filed to left, and when Acler messed up Long's throw to the plate, Wares counted and Gribbens went to third. He counted on Kutinas' sacrifice fly. Long never ought to have made the play at all, but held the ball.

Chappelle relieved Price at the start of the fourth, and walked Donahue. Darby attempted to sacrifice, but Donahue was forced at second. Walker hit through short. Wares singled to right and Darby was caught in a chase, but finally run down. Gribbens' single to right scored Walker and Wares, who had advanced to third and scored respectively on the run down.

With one gone in the fifth, Long smashed one through Kutina for a single and scored on Welchonce's triple to deep right. Harry scored on Alpermann's infield out.

The Billies were retired in one, two and three order in the seventh when the storm broke it up.

WARES IS LEADING BASE PURLOINERS

By Dick Jemison.

Wares, the Montgomery second baseman, is the leading base stealer of the Southern league, with an average of .42. Robertson, of Mobile, is second, and Starr, of the same club, third.

Mobile and Montgomery have three players each in the first ten base stealers.

Captain Charlie Starr, of Mobile, has stolen the most bases, but Wares is the real leader by reason of his having stolen but one less base in three less games.

Here are the ten leading base stealers, including the games played Monday, May 26:

| Players and Teams. | G. | SB. | P.C. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Wares, Montgomery | 43 | 19 | .442 |
| Robertson, Mobile | 41 | 18 | .439 |
| Starr, Mobile | 46 | 20 | .435 |

Jack Prince Has Corralled Best Motorcycle Riders in World For Atlanta Motordrome

"Why do you risk your neck riding ninety miles an hour on a board track, when you might be earning a safer living?"

This question a reporter for The Constitution asked in turn of nine motorcycle riders gathered in Atlanta for the opening races over the Atlanta Motordrome next Friday night.

Here are the nine answers:

1. "Couldn't say. I'm sure."
2. "It's the only thing I know how to do."
3. "I don't risk it. I let the other fellow do that."
4. "Dunno."
5. "What's the odds?"
6. "I need the money?"
7. "I never stopped to think."
8. "Because it's fun."
9. "Ditto."

Richards Queried.

The reporter's curiosity was unsatisfied. So he asked more questions. Here is a sample of a conversation with "Tex" Richards, one of the most daring of the riders here:

Q—How did you get in the racing game?

A—Just happened to. Fellow asked me to ride in a dirt track race. So I went in. I haven't been out since.

Q—Isn't it awfully dangerous?

A—I guess so.

Q—Any of your friends ever killed?

A—Yes, plenty. I rode all over Texas with Eddie Hasha, and you know what happened to him. (Hasha was killed at Newark in an accident that cost seventeen lives—an accident that could not be duplicated here, owing to the use of guard rails at the top of the track, through which a railroad engine couldn't make progress).

Q—How many men have been killed in the racing game?

A—A couple of dozen, I guess.

Q—Ever seen any of them killed?

A—Yes, four or five.

Q—Ever get scared?

A—No.

Q—Ever think about accidents?

A—No; if I did it'd have one sure.

Q—Ever going to give up the game?

A—Hadn't thought of it.

And there you are.

Not a man of the lot, and they are the wisest, bravest, cleverest motorcycle riders in all America, can give you any valid reason for risking his neck. Yet they do it every day in practice, and they do it every night they race. Beginning Friday they will be doing it two nights a week in Atlanta, and later on they will be riding and tumbling and taking chances around the southern circuit four nights a week.

They aren't any of them getting rich out of it. They earn good money, but like all men who risk their necks, they live well, their machines cost them a lot of money and they are spenders. They are in the game because they are fascinated with it.

"Tex" Richards.

Look over the bunch of them out at the motordome. Take Wilmer Richards, the lad they call 'Tex." A year or two ago he went down in a spill and smeared all over the track. "Tex," as his name might hint, was born in Texas, at the city of Waco April 5, 1892.

He is five feet, ten inches tall, and weighs 150 pounds.

Richards rode his first race six years ago at Waco, on a dirt track, and has been at it ever since. His first race was on the board track at Denver, Col. On that track he rode a mile in 38 2-5 seconds, which is at a rate of 93 miles an hour.

Mile High Harry.

Harry Swartz, "Mile High Harry" they call him, because he hails from Denver, is another victim of the racing bug. He was born at Rosedale, Kans., but has lived in Denver for 18 years.

Like all the rest of them, Swartz has had his falls. His worst spill was at Denver. The track there is a 62 degree affair, 4 degrees steeper than the local track. A green rider took him into the fence at the top, he smashed through a 4x4 plank like a buzz saw, rolled down the track through a mess of wheels and brought up at the bottom with nothing the matter but a skinful of slivers, a broken hand and a few assorted dents.

Swartz was married a little over a week ago to Marguerite Merewether, of Dallas, and his bride is with him in Atlanta.

Loop-the-Loop Lewis.

Circus loop-the-loop rider, vaudeville bicycle rider, and captain of motorcycle police are a few of the titles that Henry Lewis is entitled to wear. A marvelous career this man has had. Though only 26 years old he has put seven years of vaudeville to his credit, one year as a loop-the-loop artist and three years as captain of the motorcycle guard at Fort Worth to his credit.

They say Lewis has money—way up in five figures and close to six, regular, genuine "cash money" to his credit in Fort Worth banks. Also, he had a good job.

Lewis is about the calmest sink in the riding business. Sudden death wouldn't startle him—nor would anything else. The other night, his first out on the board track, he nearly went to his death over the top, but he kept coming and whirled into the paddock 50 miles an hour, grinning like a Cheshire cat and was sore as a goat when they waved him off the track.

Kidded Luther.

They kidded Freddie Luther into the racing game. Six years ago, a slim boy in short pants, he was out at the Fort Worth track with a crowd of boys. Some motorcycle races were in progress. Freddie was rubbering around when one of the riders said:

"Say, kid, how'd you like to ride in the next race?"

"Sure," said he; "I'll do it!"

To make the joke stick, they trundled out an ancient motorcycle, renowned as the slowest on the track.

In the first race he went off with the bunch. They left him at the start, but he closed in on the first turn. He did not shut off at the turns. Slowly he closed in, got on even terms, forged ahead and won the race.

He has been a motorcycle racer ever since.

Freddie has never grown up very big. Today, at 21 years of age, he is 5 feet, 5 1-2 inches tall and weighs 118.

Billy Shields.

Billy Shields—his real name is Raymond, but it didn't stick—owes his start in the motor racing game to the fact that he worked in a motor repair shop and that he picked up an old piece of junk that traveled under the alias of a motorcycle and rigged it up into a speedy machine.

Thus equipped, he edged into the racing game. His first real contest was at the Syracuse state fair in 1909. He started "on the boards" at Brighton Beach last August. He and George Lockner, teamed as the Syracuse midgets, won the Brighton Beach 24-hour race, one of the greatest contests of motorcycle history.

"Millionaire Marty."

The man with the least excuse in the lot for being in the racing game is Marty Graves. He is known as "Millionaire Marty" by his racing friends and he comes by the name honestly, for he is the only son of a very wealthy man.

He was born at Chicago but claims Los Angeles as his home. He rode first on dirt tracks and later on the boards. His first experience on a board track was with an eight-lap track, which is one of the finest places in the world to get killed—but Marty escaped. He is a very clever rider, and on a mile track has done a mile in :36 2-5, which is very fast. He has had his share of accidents, but has never been seriously hurt.

French Champion.

Another one of the riders who is in it strictly for the frills is Georges Renel, the French champion. This chap used to be a jockey, and rode for eight years on famous French tracks with good success.

The tameness of the thing irked him so he went in for motorcycle racing, and he has been at it since. His first race was in Paris twelve years ago. He has been in many accidents that he has lost count, but the worst was at Brooklands, in England, when Cissac was killed and in which Renel acquired a broken arm.

The Bonny Scot.

Another man in it strictly because he can't keep out is little Jock McNeil. Born at Edinburgh, Scotland, and an expert of wonderful ability, he could make big money in any gasoline engine factory. But he loves the game and is in it because he does. He is in the south for the first time, and is crazy about it. In fact, he says that never again does he expect to live anywhere else.

These men enumerated here are the veteran motorcycle riders who will take part in the local meets which start next Friday night at the motordrome at Auburn avenue and Jackson street. Not a man in the lot needs to ride if he does not want to. All of them are in it because the game fascinates them. They know as well as men can know that they take their lives in their trembling hands every time they start in a race. But they risk the danger for the sensations.

"Which," as has been remarked, "is fine for them that likes it."

RESERVE ENGLISH POLOIST ARRIVES

New York, May 31.—Lord Wodehouse, one of the two reserve players on the English team in the coming International Polo Cup matches, at Mendewbrook, arrived here today. He thought the English team had an excellent chance of recovering the trophy.

FIVE CRACKERS IN THE FIRST TEN

Tommy Long Leads the Run-Getters With Nearly a Run to the Game Since the Season Opened.

By Dick Jemison.

Tommy Long, the Cracker's left fielder, is the leading run getter of the Southern league, having a run getting average of .907 per cent. Jacobsen, of Mobile, is second, and Alperman, of Atlanta, third.

That the Crackers are good run getters is evidenced by a glance at the figures. Half of the ten leading run-getters are members of the local club.

Here are the ten leading run getters of the league, including the games played Monday, May 26:

| Players and Teams. | R. | P. C. |
|---|---|---|
| Long, Atlanta | 43 | .907 |
| Jacobsen, Mobile | 44 | .750 |

Sunday Game

Crackers to Meet Schwartz's Vols At Sulphur Dell

Wednesday Off Day—Lookouts Come Here Thursday for Three-Game Series at Poncey.

The baseball menu of the Crackers this week will be divided equally between home and abroad, three games being played the first part of the week on hostile soil, and three on the home lot, closing the week.

Bill Smith and his cohorts left here last night for Nashville, where they open up a three-game series with the Vols.

The games were originally scheduled for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, but the return of Sunday ball to the Dell has occasioned the team to move the three games up a day and by so doing allow an off day Wednesday for a postponed game in the event it rains any of the first three games out.

Out For Revenge.

The Crackers are out for revenge. The Vols have won five of the seven games the teams have played, making a clean sweep of the series at Ponce de Leon a couple of weeks ago, while the teams broke even at the Dell.

At the clip the Crackers are now traveling, they are going to do their best to even up the series with the Vols, by handing them a dose of their own medicine.

Both teams have strengthened their line-ups since last they met. The series promises to be one of the hardest fought of the season, with the outcome very much in doubt.

King Brady, who has been the most successful Cracker pitcher against the Vols, will endeavor to score his third straight win against them this season by hurling the pastime this afternoon. Chapman will handle his slants.

Just who will twirl for the Volunteers is a matter of guesswork, pure and simple, but as Earl Fleharty has always been very successful against the locals, Bill Schwartz may decide to use the bean ballist against the locals.

Lookouts Here Thursday.

Kid Elberfeld and his rejuvenated Lookouts will be the attraction at Ponce de Leon Thursday, Friday and Saturday, and the early season walkovers of the Crackers may not materialize this week, as Elberfeld possess the angoras of the Hillmen.

Elberfeld has worked faithfully and carefully, making change after change, until he has rounded up a real ball club for the mountain lads, although it has cost a young mint to get the aggregation together.

In Coveleskie and Sommers he has the best pair of left handers in the league, while in Street he has the best receiver, a peppery, accurate throwing, hard hitting backstop, capable of catching practically every game of the season. Around these three, he has built his team.

But the Crackers are coming back into their own again also. The batting is sure to be fiercely ragged.

After the Chattanooga series the locals jump out for a week or ball, playing in Birmingham and Chattanooga, returning home the following week for a stay of six days with the Barons and Vols as their opponents. Then off on a long jaunt around the circuit again.

Today's Batting Order.

The probable line-up of the game today in which Atlanta is to be engaged:

| NASHVILLE— | ATLANTA— |
|---|---|
| Callahan, cf. | Long, lf. |
| Lindsay, ss. | Welchonce, cf. |
| Nicholson, lf. | Alpermann, 2b. |
| Perry, 3b. | Bailey, rf. |

DAVE ROBERTSON LEADS SLUGGERS

Mobile Outfielder Has Slugging Average of .639—Three Crackers in the First Ten Players.

By Dick Jemison.

Dave Robertson, Mobile's right fielder, is the leading slugger of the Southern league, having a slugging average of .639. Sloan, of Montgomery, is second, and Long, of Atlanta, third.

Hendrix, of New Orleans, has made the most doubles with 14. Jacobsen, of Mobile, has made the most triples, with 6; Robertson, of Mobile, has made the most home runs, with 6, the most extra bases with 33, and the most total bases with 59.

Three of the first ten sluggers in the league are Crackers. Here are the ten leading sluggers of the league, including the games played Monday, May 26:

| Players and Teams. | 2B. | 3B. | HR. | TB. | P.C. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Robertson, Mobile | 9 | 3 | 6 | 53 | .639 |
| Sloan, Montgomery | 4 | 6 | 2 | 56 | .583 |

ON BEAUTIFUL PONCE DE LEON AVENUE

THIS SIDE of Atkins Park and Druid Hills we have an unusually well-built home, being a two-story, nine-room house, with all modern conveniences—four bedrooms, two baths and sleeping porch upstairs. The house has hardwood floors, furnace heat and all modern conveniences. We are authorized by the owner to offer this beautiful home for $11,000, on reasonable terms.

ANOTHER HOME BARGAIN

CLOSE TO the above and Ponce de Leon avenue, we have a two-story, seven-room house, with sleeping porch, hardwood floors, furnace heat and all modern conveniences. House is new, never been occupied. The lot is east front. This house would ordinarily sell for $7,500. However, the owner wishes to leave the city, and has authorized us to sell at the low price of $6,750. If you are looking for a bargain, see this at once.

ON BEAUTIFUL JACKSON STREET

IN ONE of the best residence sections we have an unusually attractive home, being a nine-room house, splendidly arranged and very spacious. Has all conveniences, east front. Convenient to two car lines. The lot is 50 by 160 feet; level, but slightly elevated. On account of change in the owner's plans we are authorized to sell this splendid home for $6,000, on reasonable terms. No loan on this property. Don't fail to let us show you this bargain before selecting a home.

FOR SALE
ON BEAUTIFUL ST. CHARLES AVENUE

WE HAVE just been given a very new and attractive seven-room bungalow, with hardwood floors, furnace and all conveniences. This house is unusually well built, having three bedrooms and a breakfast room, in addition to the regular dining room. The lot is level, and has beautiful shade. The owner is leaving the city, and has authorized us to sell this home at a bargain. Let us show you this at once, as it will not be on the market but a few days.

A ST. CHARLES BARGAIN

ON ACCOUNT of sickness the owner has just authorized us to sell two lots, 100x200 feet, for $4,250. Lots on this street have just been raised as high as $3,500, and the street is now being prepared for bitulithic pavement. These lots have beautiful shade, and in one of the most desirable residential sections of the street. Call early, if you do not wish to miss this bargain.

A MORELAND AVENUE MONEY MAKER

NOT FAR from Euclid avenue we have a corner lot, 78x200 feet, with a nice seven-room house, that we can sell for $5,500. This street is soon to be paved, and it will not be long before this will be a very valuable corner.

A BEAUTIFUL WEST END RESIDENCE

JUST OFF of Gordon street, on one of the best streets in West End, we have for an elegant home, on lot 60x230 feet. The lot is level, and has beautiful shade. The house has 11 rooms, three baths, with all conveniences. It is unusually well arranged inside. There is a two-story servant's room and two-story garage on the lot, if you want it. If you are looking in West End let us show you this, as the owner has authorized us to sell at very close price.

SOME CHOICE RESIDENCE LOTS ST. CHARLES AVENUE.

$2,800—Near Frederika street, 50 by 200 feet, only $600 cash.
$2,750—Good corner, lot 58 by 180 feet.
$3,000—Near Frederika street, choice lot, 50 by 180 feet.

DRUID HILLS

FAIRVIEW ROAD lot, 120x305 feet, $50 per foot.

ANSLEY PARK

$2,250—Near Piedmont avenue, lot 50x190 feet.
$2,000—Jackson street, near Ponce de Leon avenue.

A CLOSE-IN WEST PEACHTREE BARGAIN

WITHIN three blocks of the junction of Peachtree and West Peachtree streets we have a good corner lot, nearly 100 feet front by about 125 feet in depth, that we can sell for $100 per front foot less than anything in this immediate neighborhood. The property is bringing in a rental of $1,320 annually. This is one of the best propositions in this section, and can be sold on reasonable terms. This street is soon to be regraded and repaved, and then there is no telling as to how high prices will go. See us at once if you want to make some money.

A GOOD MARIETTA STREET INVESTMENT

WE HAVE in one of the best sections of Marietta street a comparatively new two-story brick building, all leased, bringing in a good rental. The lot fronts Marietta street and runs back to the railroad. Marietta street will always be one of the best business streets of Atlanta, and property has been steadily enhancing in value for some time. This will make you not only a safe investment, but money besides. Call at the office and let us tell you all about it.

A VERY DESIRABLE HOME

WE HAVE in one of the best residential sections a well-built, ten-room house, having a slate roof, all modern conveniences, and servants' room in the rear of the lot. The lot is 84.5 feet by 244 feet; east front; beautiful shade and on the car line. Owing to change in the owner's plans he has authorized me to offer this fine home for $10,000, on reasonable terms. There is no loan on the property. Let us show you this if you want a good home.

FOR SALE

WE HAVE one of the most complete six-room bungalows in the city, on Piedmont avenue, just built for a home owner who has lived in house for a few months. He is moving to New York, and has authorized us to sell it. The lot has beautiful shade, east front, on the car line, close to school and churches. We cannot sell this place, so let us show it to you. It is one of the most complete bungalows in the city of Atlanta. We can sell this on terms.

WE HAVE a beautiful two-story house, on East North avenue, right near Myrtle street—built for a home. One of the most complete eight-room houses that we have. The owner is selling this because it is too large. She wants a smaller house, and asked us to put this on the market. This is in a section that is coming and advancing in price every day. We will be glad to show you this. We can give terms.

WE HAVE a beautiful two-story, eight-room house on Park avenue that is a corner and a beauty. The owner is anxious to sell. This has always been a home, and has been taken fine care of. Lot is level. Has all city improvements, and is on the car line. Fine shade on the lot. We can sell this home for $4,500, on easy terms. No loan to assume. We can give possession at once. This house will rent today for $40 a month or more. We will be glad to show you this.

WE HAVE a beautiful vacant lot on South Moreland avenue, right at the car line. This lot is 50 by 202 feet deep. It has all city improvements—sewer, gas, electricity, tiled sidewalks and paved street. The owner is a nonresident, and is anxious to sell. We can sell you this lot for $700, on very easy terms. To see it is to buy it.

DUBLIN, GA.

Mrs. E. L. Black was hostess at a pretty porch party which she gave Tuesday morning in honor of Mrs. J. N. McDaniel, of Thomaston.

The Dublin Woman's Study circle held its regular meeting on Wednesday afternoon last at the lovely home of Mrs. J. S. Adams on Belleview avenue. This meeting was well attended, and "Elizabethan Lyrics" was the subject of the afternoon, the program being in charge of Mrs. W. C. Thompson.

A banquet was given by the Baracas of the First Baptist church Friday evening. Mrs. C. H. Williams, the class teacher, was assisted in caring for the guests by Mrs. J. C. Pittman, Mrs. J. S. Almand, Miss Robbie Williams and Miss Ida Camp Berry, of Shelbyville, Tenn.

On Friday evening the closing exercises of the Dublin public schools were held in the high school auditorium. There were twenty-two members of the graduating class, the largest number in the history of the school. An interesting program was rendered. Hon. T. B. Terhune delivering the literary address, and President F. G. Corker, of the city board of education, delivering the diplomas.

On Thursday evening Mrs. W. C. Thompson's music class gave a much-enjoyed musical program.

One of the most interesting and closely contested elections ever held in Dublin was that of the queen for the home-coming festival, which will begin here June 5 next. The race has been run between two of the most popular and charming young ladies—Misses Tessie White and Jean LaFrage. Both of these charming young people have friends by the score, who flocked to their aid. On the last count Miss White was ahead. The queen will be crowned on Thursday morning next, and a decorated automobile parade will take place after the ceremony. There is also a splendid chautauqua program on for the ten days following, and Dublin will be thronged with visitors.

The many friends of Mr. George Mingledorff will hear with pleasure and interest of his marriage last Tuesday afternoon to Miss May Helen Crumb, which took place at the home of the bride's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Crumb, of Jackson, and was a very quiet affair. Mr. Mingledorff is the son of Dr. C. S. Mingledorff, of this city, and has many friends here who extend to him their heartiest congratulations. The young couple will reside in Greenville.

A surprise marriage in this city was that of Miss Essie Rogers, of Dublin, and Mr. E. L. Kimsey, of Cornelia, which took place quietly at the Methodist parsonage here Tuesday evening, Rev. Whitley Langston performing the ceremony. Nothing was said about the marriage by either party until Wednesday morning, when the happy couple left for Cornelia. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B Rogers, of this city, and one of the most charming and popular young ladies of Dublin. Mr. Kimsey is a prominent attorney of Cornelia.

BRENAU NOTES.

On Sunday evening the class of 1903 entertained at class headquarters in honor of those members of the faculty that were present during 1903. Delicious refreshments were served and acquaintances and memories recalled.

On Monday at 1 o'clock class dinner was given to those members of the class that was present and members of the faculty during 1903. The table decorations were of the class colors, green and gold, and the class flowers, Marechal Niel roses, were used in profusion, the exquisite menu cards, on which were inscribed the present names and addresses of the entire class of 1903, and the class song and motto, were also valuable and unique, and will be preserved as souvenirs of this most enjoyable occasion.

The grand concert given on Friday evening in which pupils from the various departments of the conservatory participated was greeted by a large audience. The first piano ensemble number by Mozart was given by sixteen pupils of Professor Otto Pfefferkorn, under whose direction this was a most finished and brilliant opening to an evening of musical excellence. The chorus, which was under direction of Mr. Emil Voller, rendered beautiful selections. The vocal soloists were: Misses Blanch Lofton, Ella Denton and Jack Ward. The violin number rendered by Miss Grace Ragan was especially pleasing. The concert closed with the full Brenau chorus, singing Offenbach's Barcarolli, from the "Tales of Hoffmann."

The art exhibition of 1913 was of unusual excellence, being composed entirely of the work done by pupils of this year, among whom there was one graduate, Miss Kathleen Alleaide Evans. The mural decoration shown in the studio was the work of Miss Evans. Bacage, Nottingham, Gainlr and Miller. All of the scenes were from nature, and among the many scenes at Brenau, the most noticeable was the view of the Sinnette Bungalow, the work of Miss Evans. Miss Lula Ross, who was professor of painting during 1913, will spend the summer and the coming winter in Europe, where she will continue her studies. Miss Ross will be accompanied by a number of young lady students from Brenau and other colleges who will continue their work under Miss Ross. Miss Ross is an artist of great ability and talent, and has made many friends at Brenau.

There were two senior B recitals given, one on Tuesday and Wednesday. Misses Lucie Furgerson, Theresa Sommer and Louise Tuton gave a most creditable recital, and on Thursday afternoon, Misses Gladys Rhodes and Erin Holder were heard in a program of senior numbers, which were beautifully rendered and musically pleasing.

SYLVESTER, GA.

A pretty pre-nuptial affair was the reception and linen shower given Miss Nancy E. Perry on Tuesday afternoon by four of her bridesmaids, Misses Lovelace, Katie H. and Gladys Westberry and Lucy May Hillhouse. Miss Perry is to be married to Mr. Reginald M. Porter, of Waycross, on June 4, and will be the recipient of much social attention during the week. The affair was given at the beautiful home of Mrs. Floyd Alford, which was attractively decorated for the occasion. The guests were received at the door by Mrs. Floyd Alford, Misses Mamie and Myra Sumner. In the reception line were Mrs. T. R. Perry, gowned in Copenhagen blue charmeuse, with hat to match; Mrs. A. R. Baggs, in Copenhagen blue charmeuse; Misses Nancy Perry, in Copenhagen blue charmeuse, with white picture hat, and French plumes; Lucy May Hillhouse, in blue chiffon over messaline; Katie H. Westberry, in white net; Gladys Westberry, in a white lace costume; Gladys Porter and Mary Baggs, in white lingerie; Hazel Christopher, in black lace over old rose messaline, and Miss Lovelace Westberry, in pink and white voile. During the afternoon little Misses Carolyn Alford and Camilla; Pearl Grubbs brought in and presented as a surprise to the bride-elect a huge pink and white basket filled with dainty gifts of linen from the guests. A novel feature was the contest in which each guest was required to form an expression of good wishes to the bride-elect, using their own initials as those of the words forming the sentence.

Misses Hazel Christopher and Nan Wicker, of Montezuma, were the guests of Mrs. Floyd Alford this week.

Misses Mary Baggs and Camilla; Gladys Porter, of Waycross; Fannie Lou Johnson, of Albany, and Florence Hill, of Americus, were guests of Miss Perry to remain until after the Perry-Porter wedding on June 4, in which they will be attendants.

Mrs. Warren A. Cameron, of Macon, is visiting her mother, Mrs. P. A. Coram.

FITZGERALD, GA.

Among the pretty social affairs being given for June brides, one of the most unique was that in compliment to Miss May Wilcox, whose marriage to Mr. Henry Haywood Turner, of Atlanta, will be an event of June 25. Mrs. George Ernest Ricker was hostess, and the retiring members of the executive board of the Woman's club, of which Miss Wilcox was treasurer, were the guests. Very entertaining "reports" for the benefit of the bride-elect were given by the members of the board and at the close of the afternoon, Mrs. Ricker presented Miss Wilcox with a beautiful solid silver sandwich plate, the gift of the executive board.

Mrs. Thomas J. Dickey gave a tea Wednesday afternoon in honor of two popular bride-elect of next month, Miss May Wilcox and Kathleen Braswell. The tea was given in the tea room of Shaeffer's pharmacy, which was artistically decorated with maidenhair fern and bride roses, green and white being the color scheme.

Mrs. Cecil Brown was hostess at a Rook party in honor of Miss Kathleen Braswell, whose marriage to Mr. Redford Meyers, of Atlanta, is an event of next Thursday. Assisting Mrs. Brown were Mrs. John P. Sheahan, Mrs. Aivin Thurmond and Mrs. G. L. Killcrease.

Mrs. Louis A. Turner entertained Thursday morning complimentary to her guest, Miss Nelson, of Ohio.

Among the out-of-town guests to be present next week at the Braswell-Meyers wedding are Mrs. G. C. Smith of Brunswick, Miss Blossom Mercer of Atlanta, Mrs. Frank Freeman of Greenville, and A. Z. Pauncy of Atlanta and Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Bice of Columbus, S. C.

Mrs. Baile Linn, of Louisville, Ky., arrived Tuesday and will be entertained by Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Prentiss.

Mrs. J. C. Ligeour and daughter, Ethel, are visiting in Tarpon Springs, Fla.

Miss Eleanor Allen has returned from a visit to Waycross.

Mrs. C. B. Brown has returned from her visit to Vienna.

Miss Edna Watkins has returned home, after a term of teaching music at Ideal.

Professor F. H. McMurray, of Columbia university, New York, and daughter, are the guests of Colonel Otis H. Elkins.

Miss Nelle Fraser, who completed her senior year at Bessie Tift, returned home Monday night. She was accompanied by her father, Dr. J. L. Fraser, and aunt, Mrs. J. W. Rodwell, who attended commencement exercis at Forsyth Monday.

SAVANNAH SOCIAL NEWS

Savannah, Ga., May 31.—(Special Correspondence.)—The wedding of next week will be preceded by a number of parties. For Miss Belle Battey, whose marriage to Lieutenant Meade Wildrick, U. S. A., takes place Wednesday, the Misses Palmer entertained today with a party at Tybee, to which all the bridesmaids were invited for the day.

Monday Miss Dorotha Baldwin will give a luncheon for Miss Battey, and Monday afternoon a tea will be given for her and for Miss Laura Boyd by Mrs. John Gabell. Miss Boyd's marriage to Dr. W. F. Shallenberger will take place Saturday evening, June 7.

Tuesday Mrs. John Heard Hunter will give a luncheon for Miss Battey, and Tuesday evening Miss Carolyn Myers will entertain the wedding party after the rehearsal.

At the wedding of Miss Ada Turner and Mr. William de Bruyn Kops Wednesday evening, Miss Fanny Turner, of Atlanta, the bride's sister, will be her maid of honor, and Miss Jane Hopkins and Miss Henrietta Seaboard bridesmaids. Morton B. Paine, of Charleston, will be best man.

The girls of the Pape school enjoyed their annual picnic at Tybee yesterday. The younger girls went down for the day, returning at 6 o'clock, and the older ones went down this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock and returned at 10. Miss Pape, Miss Mitchell, Miss Mara McAlpin, Miss Farmer, Mrs. J. E. D. Bacon, Miss Haile and Mrs. E. L. Schinley accompanied the children, and with them were Misses Sara Carter, Florence Crane, Bernice Fetzer, Vandelia Gazan, Mary Harper, Elizabeth Jenkins, Doris Peeples, Ellen Schirm, Gertrude Wheless, Gussie Clay, Katherine Dunn, Julie Harman, Sara Hull, Florence Johnson, Sue and Mabel Taylor, Paula Thomas, Isabel Harrison, Dorsett Bacon, Clare Ellis, Mazie Feres, Neva Osborne, Eva Ripke, Dorothy Schwab, Marie Wilcox, Henrietta Reams, Alice and Mary Waring, Elizabeth Thesmar, Christine Thesmar, Elizabeth Stewart, Malon Rauers, Ruth Kaylon, Julia Gordon, Annie Baltzer, Elizabeth Fullilen, Frances and Anna Jones, Mary Hutchinson, Katherine Winklink, Jennie Strong, Joan Gibbes, Alice Carter, Dorothy Sauls, Lucy Armstrong, Mary Emerson, Eugenia Granger, Alice Mallard, Angela Neal, Katherine Rosenheim, Mary Tiedeman, Ethel Thomas, Virginia Heard and Masters Richard Heard, Roy Neal, Francis Heyward, Joe Anderson, Abram and Leroy Leffler, William Crane, Bradley Johnson, Jay Rauers and Noel Wright.

In the afternoon Miss Emily Charlton and Mrs. Nellie Innes Hay accompanied the girls, and in the party were Misses Effie Boyd Brewer, Ellen Carter, Lola Carter, Pauline Corson, Ruth Hoppe, Ermine Munford, Gladys Patton Nelson, Margaret White, Helen Carson, Ruth Artley, Ines Farmer, Isabel Jones, Riette Levy, Ruth Davis, Page Anderson, Marjorie Cutts.

That the people tend to stay in Savannah later and later each season, is undoubtedly true, and with the delightful weather that has prevailed this spring there seems no reason than ever to leave the comfortable big house at home in its summer artery for the doubtful pleasure of the summer resorts. But it is true that more and more Savannah people own their own summer homes in the mountains, at the seashore and in Canada, as well as at the nearby resorts, and to these fortunate ones the first of June is always a temptation to desert city for country life.

North Hatley, Can., is one of the places where a number of Savannah people go each season, and Mr. and Mrs. Louis W. Haskell own their own home there, as do Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Walthour and Colonel and Mrs. Heinz Gordon. Mr. and Mrs. Walthour and her children will leave Saturday for North Hatley. Mrs. Thesmar, who usually spends the summer part of it with Mr. and Mrs. Haskell, will not go up this season, but the Thesmar children will leave in June, accompanied by Miss Marla McAlpin, to spend the sum-Charlesworth Jtaolmfeytaolwypjpitoo mer with their grandparents, Mr. Charlesworth J. Hunter will visit Mr. and Mrs. Walthour at North Hatley late in the summer, probably in August.

Mrs. Frank M. Chisholm has returned from a visit to Mr. and Mrs. Anderson Chisholm in Charlottesville.

Dr. and Mrs. John K. Train will spend July and August at Montgomery in the Turner house, which they have taken for that part of the season.

Summer Evening Gowns For Automobile Tours

To the auto tourist of this summer the question is often put, what is just the gown to carry on the summer trips, where one is not sure about the time for the dinner toilet, and the occasion may be a dry brilliant one socially.

A very elaborate toilet can scarcely be carried in even the largest suitcase, so the modiste is put to it in selection of both fabric and style.

For an automobile who will make several week-end auto trips from one point, an evening gown which can easily be folded and put in the big valise is of the softest white charmeuse. The corsage of lace is softly draped and finish is given in a white silk rose.

For her debutante daughter in the same party was an evening gown of white embroidered chiffon, made over white silk, lace introduced on both skirt and corsage and appropriate ornaments.

A pretty school girl who will be present at the entertainments, incident to Annapolis commencement, has for her evening gown to take on motor trips one of embroidered batiste with lace of two kinds introduced, and edgings of lace giving dainty finish.

For the auto trip there is always the long top coat; either of heavy crash or linen, pongee or in cooler climates the heavier coat. Choice can be

For the auto trip there is always the the dinner gown is the only other essential. The kind of dinner gown can be determined only by the nature of the place the party will be.

For the resorts in about New York, where auto parties go in June, an Atlanta woman has selected a soft gray satin charmeuse, the skirt draped, and the corsage so draped as to show a yoke and sleeves of lace, the whole gown suggesting softness and daintiness.

For cool climates, the three-piece suit is very much in vogue for the auto trip; one of these essen this week, admitting of several different kinds of wear, the sweaters lined; the others thin and lacy.

FORTY YEARS "ON THE JOB" IS THE RECORD OF C. V. TUTWILER, OF ATLANTA POSTOFFICE

of the Nixie department in the Atlanta postoffice, who forty years ago was the first carrier to deliver a letter in this city. The other two pictures are scenes at the big, busy postoffice, the proportions of which were undreamed of in the days when Mr. Tutwiler entered the postal service.

A few more weeks will mark the fortieth anniversary of the free delivery of the first letter in the city of Atlanta, and also the fortieth anniversary of the postoffice service of C. V. Tutwiler, of the nixie department, who delivered that letter.

On the first day of July, 1873, Mr. Tutwiler entered the postal service as one of the first five letter carriers in this city and delivered the first letter of the service to Nunnally & Hallman, the predecessors in business of the present firm of Hightower & Hallman.

The postoffice at that time was located in the western wing of the old state capitol, which stood on the south side of Marietta street, just west of the corner of Forsyth street. And the firm of Nunnally & Hallman, to whom Mr. Tutwiler delivered the letter, has its place on Peachtree street in the building now occupied by the beer saloon of J. Cohen, next to the Savoy theater.

Atlanta Forty Years Ago.

Incidentally, that is one of the few buildings connected with those days which still stands. The entire character of the business part of the city has changed since then.

Mr. Tutwiler, in a reminiscent mood, the other day gave an interesting description of the Atlanta of forty years ago.

"The old postoffice," said Mr. Tutwiler, "was in the old capitol building, which stood on Marietta street, adjoining what is now the building of the Beck & Gregg Hardware company.

"The courthouse stood on the hill where the present capitol building stands.

"Where the new courthouse now stands was the old 'Martin Roost,' as they called it. It was the saloon where all the village scamps gathered. In the front yard were two enormous trees in which the martins swooped down like a cloud every night to roost, which gave the place its name. There was another name for that old saloon, too. Let's see—I believe it was called 'The Shades.'

"On the present site of the Atlanta National Bank building was the old John H. James bank, and just back of that, extending back to the Georgia railroad, was the old circus ground.

"Nearly all of the property in that neighborhood, which is now so thoroughly built up, was at that time practically vacant. Between Wall, Pryor and Decatur streets and Central avenue, which was then known as Lloyd street, was the park.

"Ed. Parsons, I remember, had a coal yard where the New Kimball house now stands.

Hotels Were Patriotic Then.

"There was no Kimball house then and hotels of such magnificence as the Georgian Terrace, the Ansley and Wirecoff were undreamed-of. The principal hotels then were very patriotic establishments, in name at least. These were the National hotel, on the site of the present Emory-Steiner building; the American hotel, at the southwest corner of Alabama and Pryor streets, and the United States hotel, at the southwest corner of these streets.

"The biggest building in town then would look like a midget beside the skyscrapers of today. This building loomed full six stories from the southeast corner of Whitehall and Hunter streets, and was the marvel of its day. People came from all parts of the state to see this wonder.

"On the site of the present postoffice was the old First Baptist church, a big red brick building. I remember it had the tallest spire in town.

"Billy Forsyth had a blacksmith shop just across the street from it where the Healy building is going up now. It faced on Walton street, and it has not been so very many years since it was torn away.

"And right across Walton street from Billy Forsyth's shop, on the site of the Grant building, J. C. Bridger had a coal yard.

Entered Service at Fifteen.

"I was 15 years old at the time I entered the postal service.

"I was running a contracting business in the old confederate government storehouse, at the corner of Alabama street and Central avenue, and Judge James L. Dunning, who was then postmaster, used to pass there every day.

"One morning about the last of June, 1873, he stopped and told me that Atlanta had the necessary 50,000 inhabitants to entitle her to a carrier service and wanted to know if I wanted to take a carrier's place.

"A few days later I went to the postoffice and took the brief examination necessary—there was no civil service then—and entered July 1 upon my duties as a carrier of Uncle Sam's mails in Atlanta.

"There were but eleven men in the entire postal service in Atlanta then, and five of these were carriers.

"Besides myself there were Carriers O. C. Fuller, Wyatt, W. A. Clarke and John C. Shelton.

Delivers Mail With Lantern.

"The five of us covered the entire city, our respective territories extending from the postoffice to the city limits in fan-shaped sections.

"My territory route included all the territory between Peachtree street, the city limits and back to Simpson street and from there to the old Wachendorf nursery.

"It was altogether a man's job to be a mail carrier in those days, too, for each of us made two trips a day and carried several times as much mail as a carrier of today. We went to work at 5:30 o'clock in the morning and worked until we got done. Many a night I have delivered mail by lantern light."

Mr. Tutwiler is one of the best known men in the postal service in Atlanta. His entire forty years of service has been uninterrupted, and he is the only man now working in the postoffice who was working there when the office was in the old capitol building on Marietta street.

Through all national administrations Mr. Tutwiler has stayed in the service, and is now one of the most experienced men in the service, having worked in practically every department in the office.

Civil Service Board Secretary.

During Mr. Tutwiler's postoffice career he has been with the following postmasters:

Dunning, Camp and Myler, who were sent he's as special agents until the appointment of Postmaster Wilson, who succeeded them; Bard, Norcross, Conley, Renfroe, Lewis, Fox, Smyth, Blodgett and the present postmaster, McKee.

When the civil service feature was installed in the postal service Mr. Tutwiler was made secretary of the civil service board, which position he held until the responsibilities of other postoffice duties made it necessary for him to tender his resignation, upon which he was asked to remain on the board.

Mr. Tutwiler is now with the nixie department of the fourth division, which department has charge of all uncalled-for mail.

Man Who Saw His Own Ghost :: And Found It Fast Asleep ::

London, May 17.—Ghosts are getting tired of wearing just filmy draperies, which they find too nondescript to enable them to be recognized easily by former friends and relatives to whom they appear—and they are taking, instead, to sure-enough clothes such as they used to wear on earth. Incidentally, ghosts sleep. Perhaps you didn't know that.

Both of these two statements are made on the authority of Marvin Hume, who is one of the leading authorities in this country on affairs in the spirit world. Hume isn't a member of "Julius Bureau," the famous psychic institute that was started by the late W. T. Stead, and claims still to be receiving messages from him, but he is a regular contributor to the official organ of the English spiritists, The International Psychic Gazette, and it was at the offices of that breezy periodical, in Bridewell Place, that he saw the writer yesterday, in response to a request for some details regarding his psychic experiences.

Hume, who looks rather ghostly himself, says that he has seen no end of spooks, including his own—and that of all those he has encountered and communed with recently, only one wore the traditional filmy, cloudy, transparent drapery.

"One ghost that I saw twice," said he, "was each time immaculately got up in his Sunday-go-to-meetings. Another wore a rough shooting suit, with a felt hat, and another was in workman's clothes. Ghost-stuff is admirable material; it makes up into any costume you want to copy."

Still, of course, the fabrication of any sort of clothes, even ghostly ones, takes time, and it was to save all bother, according to Hume, that spooks originally attired themselves in draperies only. "They are human," said he, "and such is the way of humanity, also from time immemorial the proper clothing for ghosts has always been a sort of white, filmy shroud, very easy to concoct.

It seems, however, that the ghosts found that they were not recognized by the old friends and kinsmen whom they haunted. Hume says that though walking and wailing are quite correct things for a ghost to do, they are not sufficiently evidential for identification as the wraiths of departed friends. "How," he asks, "are we to be sure that the apparition seen and heard is the actual double, astral body, or ghost of the departed?

"The quite natural thing for an ousted double to do is to wander and haunt its home or the place of the disaster which turned it into a 'wanderer.' It would, naturally, appear in its own form; that is, the form of its body, and in order to secure recognition it would probably assume clothing made out of the same filmy material as itself, the counterpart of what it happened to be wearing at the time of its decease."

Hume added with entire seriousness that the "substance" of ghosts varied as much as their costume—now that they have taken to orthodox dress.

"According to the nature of the person they are 'out of,'" said he, "so the stuff they are made of will be thick or thin. Some ghosts are almost as dense in substance as the bodies they inhabit; some are transparent; some as fine and so ethereal that you can hardly see them—you feel them, rather. With these it is more the perception of a presence of something wholly invisible yet occupying space."

It was with difficulty, at times, that we repressed a smile while Hume was telling about his ghostly acquaintances, especially when he described seeing his own ghost.

"The only time I ever saw it," said he, "it had 'gone out' without my knowledge, but I saw it 'come in' all tidily folded up in a wee little cloud and fast asleep.

"The ghost of a man who visited me once," Hume added, "was sound asleep, I watched him wake, and was greatly amused at his annoyance upon finding himself where he was."

Liquid Gold for China Decoration.

Gilding on china with gold, according to a writer in The Pharmaceutical Era, is done either by an adhesive varnish or by heat. The varnish is prepared by dissiving in hot, boiled linseed oil an equal weight of amber or copal. This is diluted wit ha proper quantity of oil of turpentine so as to be applied as thin as possible to the parts to be gilded. Let stand about 24 hours, then heat in an oven until so warm as almost to burn the fingers when handled. The heat softens the varnish, which is then ready to receive the gold leaf, which may be applied with a brush or pledget of cotton, and the superfluous portions brushed off. Burnish when cold, interposing a piece of thin paper between the gold and the burnisher. Where burning is practiced the gold reduced to powder is mixed with powdered borax glass (anhydrous borax), moistened with a little bum water, and applied to the clean surface with a stove heated to about the temperature of an annealing oven. The gum burns off, and the borax, verifying, cements the gold with great firmness to the surface.

To dissolve gold for guilding which has to be fired, triturate in a mortar some gold leaf and honey until reduced very fine. Then dissolve the honey with hot water and mix with a little gum water for use, or dissolve gold in hit nitrohydrocloric acid, evaporate to dryness in a porcelain dish and dissolve in ether for use.

For guilding either glass or porcelain a solution of gold chloride in oil of turpentine or oil of lavender, containing a little bismuth subnitrate and chromium soap is used in these proportions: Oil of lavender, 900 pars; gold chloride, 100 parts; bismuth subnitrate, 5 parts; chromium soap, 50 parts. After application, the article is dried, and then burnt in a muffle furnace. The gilded parts require no further treatment.

Room for the Cat.

(From The Manchester Guardian.)

The doors of a certain new house had shrunk horribly, as is the way of the modern door made of unseasoned wood and left to shrink in use. The builder would not send the joiner to replace them. So the householder tried the ironical method and wrote:

"Dear Sir: The mice can run under most of our doors, but our cat cannot follow them. Will you please send a man at once to make room under the doors for the cat, and much oblige?"

Next day the joiners came.

Missed a Car.

(From Judge.)

Miss Blank was receiving a call from a young man, whose reputation for dullness and egotism was only equalled by his position for "never knowing when to go home."

The rest of the family had long since retired when the youth finally took his departure, and to hostess' delight, time in working its way, had. When he reached the corner, it began to rain, and he remembered that he had left his umbrella behind. Returning to the house, he rang the bell several times before he was heard. Finally a wrathful voice from an upper window demanded,

"Who is it?"

"Mr. Carr," he replied, with dignity.

"Then walk, blast you, walk!" returned Miss Blank's parent, hastily dropping the sash with a loud bang.

TY STILL LEADS ALL THE BATTERS

Great Georgian Is Batting .475—Five Leaders in the American Are Class of the League.

Tyrus Raymond Cobb continues to lead the batters of both the majors, topping them all with an average of .475.

Jackson is second to Cobb, 37 points behind. Speaker, Collins and Lajoie, all great hitters, follow in that order in the American league batting race.

Jackson has tallied the most runs and made the most numbers of hits, and is also the leading slugger of the league.

Here are the figures of all the players who have batted .250 or better, including the games played Wednesday, May 28, and who have participated in fifteen or more games:

Crackers and Barons Offer One Another Choice Dates

The opening day attendance rivalry between the Atlanta Crackers and the Birmingham Barons has broken out all over again.

The defeat handed out by the Crackers evidently left rankles in the breasts of Slagville fandom and club owners.

The Barons are after revenge, and they propose to get it this month.

June 9 is Flag day at Birmingham. The pennant that the Barons won during the season of 1912 will be raised at Rickwood field on that date, and the Crackers have been given the choice date by the Birmingham management.

Reciprocating the compliment, the local club has given the Barons a choice date at Poncey by selecting June 19 as "trophy day," when President Kavanaugh, of the league, will present to the locals the trophy that they won by having the largest paid attendance the opening game of the season.

With two such attractions, the two big rivals in baseball, as in everything else, will endeavor to smash the attendance records for the Southern league. Whether they do this or not, the city that does have the largest paid attendance is going to have fun all the other the remainder of the season.

At present the Crackers have the laugh on the Barons by reason of having defeated them in the opening day paid attendance proposition.

The only comment of the Barons is, "He who laughs last."

Gulls 11, Vols 5.

Nashville, Tenn., May 31.—Mobile batted Williams and McManus freely today, winning the first game of the series, 11 to 5. A hard rain and hailstorm shortly before the game made the field a sea of mud, and both sides got hits on easy chances as a result of the inability of the fielders to keep their feet. The batting of Sentell and Odell featured. Fifteen hits were made by the visitors for twenty-eight bases.

"JUMBO" WELLS DYING.

Fighter Shot in Taxi Brawl at New York.

New York, May 31.—Charles Hubbard, a prize-fighter, known as "Jumbo" Wells, is dying at the New York hospital from nine bullet wounds, which apparently he received in a duel with an unidentified man early today.

A taxicab in which Hubbard, another man and a woman were riding, left an all-night restaurant on Broadway for a trip to Chinatown. At Thirty-eighth street the cab was stopped and the two men stepped out, armed with pistols. While the woman looked on they exchanged shots until Hubbard fell.

His opponent, believed also to have been wounded, got into the cab with the woman and disappeared before witnesses could call the police.

Hubbard is an Australian fighter, who came to this country several years ago. He has appeared in most of the local clubs, but has never won any important bouts.

"Jumbo" Wells is the fellow who cut cold in a bout here some time ago.

"Professionals" Win.

Waycross, Ga., May 31.—(Special.)—A team of bankers, physicians and lawyers, called the Professionals, defeated a team of Business Men in an interesting ball game here yesterday, 13 to 7. James Sinclair, who started out as umpire, was replaced by one of the professionals, and played first base for a few innings. About as many hits were made as errors, but the fans were highly amused watching men who have not played for ten or twenty years run around the diamond like kids.

EMPIRE STATE LEAGUE

Valdosta 8, Waycross 1.

Valdosta, Ga., May 31.—(Special.)—Valdosta took the last game from Waycross 8 to 1, making two out of the series. Gentle, an Atlanta City leaguer, pitched his first game for the locals, and did well. In addition, he hit two singles and a triple. Jordan hit two triples. Valdosta stole 9 bases, two of them for scores on double steals. Warwick, for Waycross, was hit freely and for long hits, Waycross played the first errorless game by visitors on the home grounds.

Score by innings: R. H. E.
Waycross ..... 001 000 000—1 6 0
Valdosta ..... 002 010 14x—8 12 3

Batteries: Warwick and Wahoo; Gentle and Fierre. Umpire, Carter.

Americus 6, Brunswick 2.

Americus, Ga., May 31.—(Special.)—Americus copped the series with Brunswick this afternoon, taking the game by a score of 6 to 2. Wolf, for Americus, kept his six hits well scattered, while Vickery gave up twelve for Brunswick. Features of the game were the excellent fielding of Bowen and the slugging work of Riley for Americus. Four hundred spectators witnessed the game this afternoon, umpired most satisfactorily by Bennett.

Score by innings: R. H. E.
Americus ..... 041 100 00x—6 12 4
Brunswick ..... 000 002 000—2 6 2 batteries—Wolf and Manchest; Vickery and Seifert. Time 1:35. Umpire, Bennett.

Cordele 3, Thomasville 3.

Cordele, Ga., May 31.—(Special.)—A ten-inning, no decision game between Cordele and Thomasville this afternoon, with the score standing 3 and 3, was called on account of darkness. It was a pitchers' battle all the way through and the most exciting game that has been seen played on the local diamond. With two men out in the sixth inning, Brazier muffed a fly in the center field, letting two men score for Thomasville.

Score by innings: R. H. E.
Thomasville. . .000 002 100 0—3 6 1

COLE

"The Standardized Car"

THE name Cole on your car is a guarantee of satisfaction. It is the maker's promise to you of all that is good, tried and true in motor car construction. This promise is possible because there is nothing in the Cole—no matter how small and seemingly unimportant to the layman—that has not been proved up under test by keen critics of Europe and America.

From the Delco Electric System, which starts, lights and ignites the Cole, to the 3-point suspension, unit power plant, long-stroke motor, long wheel base, demountable rims, on to the tiniest bolt and nut, everything in the Cole is made of the best by the best. And this is why the strength, power, comfort, convenience and speed of the Cole endures. If you can't come and see this car, send for the Cole Blue Book.

ADMINISTRATOR'S SALE
Country Home Near Buckhead

THIS fifty-acre tract, six miles from Five Points, is one of the finest in the country for a handsome country residence.

It adjoins Robert F. Maddox's home, "Woodhaven," on southwest, and Tuxedo Park on west. Near Powers' Ferry road, with wide avenue to highway. Splendid drives all around it.

High, well drained, with spring and stream. Has large bearing peach orchard and apple orchard. More than half in original forest. This land is in land lot 116, and known as the old Casey home property.

This property will be auctioned at the courthouse door, between 10 and 12 o'clock next Tuesday, June 3, for J. O. Casey, administrator.

Terms: One-third cash, balance 1 and 2 years at 6 per cent.

Go and see it, walk or drive over it, and attend the sale.

EVERETT & EVERETT
224 BROWN-RANDOLPH BUILDING.
IVY 1508.

ON WEST PEACHTREE, where big doings are presently to happen, right at junction, we have a splendid lot 51x195, right in line for enhancement, and we fairly believe that anyone purchasing this property stands to make $25 per foot in a year's time.

We can sell this for less than $500 per foot, on terms.

AN APARTMENT HOUSE SITE on Pine Street corner for $8,500.

178 FEET on Houston Street for $20,000.

MONEY SPENT FOR RETURNS

THE MARKET today requires real estate to produce; property that pays a per cent on the purchase price. It must either pay it or show a future enhancement of 10 to 15 per cent a year. We have this class of property listed below.

HOUSTON STREET—Running through to Ellis street, large tract, partly improved, now paying over 2 per cent net. Can be made to pay 12 per cent, and we figure this is enhancing 15 per cent a year.

SIMPSON STREET—Within a few feet of West Peachtree street we offer a good parcel. Rents for about $60 a month.

EAST HUNTER STREET—Close in, we have a large lot, with good improvements.

PIEDMONT AVENUE—Only 200 feet north of Edgewood avenue; lot 40 feet front, with side alley. Price, $155 a foot. Quick sale.

JUNIPER STREET CORNER, well improved, paying over 10 per cent and enhancing, we say, 15 per cent a year.

HOWARD STREET—Between the Peachtrees, large house on good lot. We think this is good.

JOHN WESLEY COOPER, Salesman.

FOR SALE AT
— A-U-C-T-I-O-N —
SIX UP-TO-DATE HOMES
And 19 Ready-to-Build-on Lots
SATURDAY, JUNE 7, 1913,
At 3 p. m., on the Premises.

THESE are 5 and 6-room houses, with every city convenience and connection, including furnace in several of the houses, but no gas as yet. These houses were built of the best material, under the personal direction of Colonel I. N. Ragsdale, who could not be induced to build a shoddy house.

These houses are real city homes, located in the social center of the Tenth Ward, and only a step from the best car service in Atlanta.

We urge you to go out and inspect this property. Each house will be plainly placarded, showing cash payment and monthly payments; also the amount of the loan to be assumed.

THESE HOUSES ARE NOW RENTED, and bring in from $18.50 to $30.00 per month. Think of what a help that will be to you, in meeting your payments, should you not be ready to occupy the house.

The houses and lots front on the following streets:

Arlington Avenue, Princess Avenue, and LaRosa Terrace.

Arlington Avenue runs off of Lee Street, right at Colonel Ragsdale's handsome home. Princess Avenue runs off of Avon (Oakland) Avenue, between the Baptist church and Captain E. P. Ryan's fine home, giving the property two approaches, each of which is a prominent street.

THIS SECTION HAS NO OBJECTIONABLE FEATURE

It is logically the place for the people to live who are engaged in business, or who are employed among the many industrial and manufacturing and railroad enterprises around the Terminal Station, Whitehall Street, Mitchell Street, and the Central and West Point railroads, and the adjacent territory. The car service and the way the streets run prove these statements to be true. Think about it, and you'll see it as we do.

THE LOTS ARE READY TO BUILD ON

These are the lots to buy, either for home sites or for speculation, because they are ready to build on. In addition to this, every lot is a beauty, with nice young oak shade trees scattered over them. Also, because their location is excellent. They are only a short distance from the business center of Oakland City. Only two blocks from the City School, and near the churches; and the farthest lot is only two blocks from the car line; and, best of all, they are socially in the swim, and will range from $150 to $250 cash, and the payments will range from $22.50 per month to $32.50 per month, with 6 per cent simple interest. Small loan on five of the houses, to be assumed by the purchaser.

ALL CITY IMPROVEMENTS DOWN AND PAID FOR.

THE TERMS ON THE HOUSES

THE TERMS ON THE LOTS

are right. Every lot will be sold on terms of $50 cash, and the balance $15 per month, with only 6 per cent simple interest on the deferred payments.

HOW TO GET THERE—Take cars at the corner of Forsyth and Alabama streets, marked "East Point," "Hapeville" or "College Park." Get off at the corner of Avon (Oakland Avenue). You will then be only a step from this property.

COME AND BE SURE TO BUY—You will never regret it if you do, and you will be sorry if you don't. Get plans from

LOTS! LOTS! LOTS!

WE ARE OFFERING at private sale the choicest lots in East Point for residence purposes. These lots lie elegantly, and most of them are beautifully shaded. Some of them have frontage of 75 feet by a depth of 400. These lots range in price from $350 to $900, and the terms of payment are 10 per cent cash and 2½ per cent per month. Each lot in this subdivision either fronts directly on a street having sewer, water and electric lights, or can be easily and quickly connected with them.

EAST POINT is the largest manufacturing city of its size in the entire country. An investment in a lot in this subdivision will prove a money-maker. While Atlanta increased its population 70 per cent in ten years, East Point increased its population over 300 per cent. East Point is built up solidly to the lots we are offering.

IF YOU are interested in suburban property within the city limits, there is nothing offered that will excel lots in beautiful "Brownwood Park." This property belongs to the Joseph E. Brown Co. The lots range in price from $7 to $16 per front foot, and in size from 50 to 70 feet frontage, and all have good depth. These lots have front and side building lines, which assures home builders ample protection. If you want a pretty home directly on a car line, with sewer, water and electric lights, we will arrange to have one built for you in this subdivision.

OUR "GRAND VIEW" LOTS, just to the right of Ponce de Leon, at North Avenue and Boniventure, are unexcelled by anything on the north side. In fact, they are the cheapest lots in the city, considering the location and their commanding view. Look these properties over and talk with us about them.

ACREAGE

106 ACRES, between Decatur and Stone Mountain, on new car line. This tract fronts the highway for a distance of 1,050 feet. Price $150 per acre. Here is something extra good for subdividing into 5 and 15-acre tracts.

226½ ACRES south of Decatur at $75 per acre. This is a beautiful tract, with a lake covering six acres of ground; excellent fishing. Will trade for Atlanta property.

150 ACRES on Powers Ferry road at $80 per acre. When the Powers Ferry road is widened and cherted this property will be worth $150 per acre.

HOMES

WE HAVE THEM—all sizes and at all prices. Let us know what you want. If you will make known your wants, we will supply them.

AUGUSTA'S SOCIAL SIDE

Augusta, Ga., May 31.—(Special Correspondence.)—Miss Arrington Butt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Butt, who has been a popular visitor for some weeks past, left this week for Annapolis to visit friends, and later will be with Mrs. Maggie Barrett Dugas and Miss Dugas at the White Sulphur Springs, Va. Mr. and Mrs. Butt have made their home in England for a number of years, and this was the first visit of their young lady daughter to the old home of her parents. So was pretty and charming in manner, and has been very popular during her stay in Augusta. Just before her departure she was entertained with a bridge party by Miss Margaret Wright at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Boykin Wright, on The Hill. Miss Isaetta Phinizy was awarded the prize for the high score. Miss Virginia Anderson drew the consolation, and Miss Butt was presented with a dainty workbag as a souvenir of the occasion.

Miss Edith Jackson, whose marriage to Mr. Bishop Alexander will occur June 18, was complimented on Tuesday with a delightful bridge party by Mrs. Leroy Hankinson at her charming home in North Augusta. The house was redolent with bright flowers, and a delightful luncheon was served after the game. Miss Mary Porter carried off the high-score prize; Miss Virginia Porter drew the consolation; Miss Therese Dugas the low-score prize, and Miss Edith Jackson was presented a pair of silk hose as a souvenir.

Mrs. R. S. Dunbar and Mrs. Roscoe Perkins carried off the prizes at the Tuesday Card club, for which Mrs. Eugene Murphey was hostess.

Miss Edith Jackson was entertained informally, but very delightfully, at bridge on Friday afternoon by Miss Calene Broome.

Mrs. Laura Duffy, after a pleasant sojourn here, left Friday for Philadelphia.

Miss Lucile Lamkin, of Birmingham, is visiting Miss Daisy Jackson, in North Augusta.

Mr. Hale Houston, now of Houston, Texas, is visiting his brother, Dr. W. R. Houston.

Miss Terence Battey has gone on a visit to relatives in Savannah.

Miss James F. McGowan is visiting friends in Athens.

The North Augusta Bridge club was entertained on Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. J. L. Barksdale, delightful afternoon tea following the game. Mrs. Andrew Walden received the high-score prize and Mrs. Anderson Sibley the consolation. The pretty home was profusely decorated with flowers, and five tables of bridge were placed.

Mrs. Susie Forbes entertained her Sunday school class with a picnic at Lakeview Tuesday afternoon.

The Redpath chautauqua, with its three daily sessions this week, has proven not only a musical and literary success, but decidedly a pleasant social feature, bringing together many friends and acquaintances each day.

The Philomathic club has chosen the modern drama for the subject of its 1913-1914 study, and the presence of Dr. Thomas Barney Thompson, lecturing each morning at the chautauqua on "The Drama," has proven quite a treat and inspiration to the members of the club. Dr. Thompson was the guest of the Philomathics at their last meeting of the season on Wednesday afternoon at the rooms of the Young Women's Christian association, and gave them a most entertaining and encouraging talk, giving new impetus and enthusiasm to the work of the club.

Miss Jessie Mae Moon, after a pleasant stay with Mrs. Nelly Ranson, on Greene street, has returned to her home in Georgetown, Ky.

Miss Helen Hatch has gone to Tennille to join a pleasant house party.

It is somewhat of a coincidence that the social columns are carrying at the same time the marriage of Dr. John C. Wright, of Augusta, this week in California, and the coming of Mr. Albert Greenberg, of San Francisco, to Augusta to marry Miss Hannah Baron.

One of the pleasant affairs of the aftermath of the 1920 minstrels was the banquet tendered President James J. Mathews Thursday night at "The College Inn." Mr. Mathews was taken by surprise, he was quietly induced to enter the establishment, and found waiting in the banquet room nearly every member of the 1920 Minstrel club. Before the delightful supper was served Mr. W. D. Irwin, acting as toastmaster, arose, and in a few appropriate words presented to Mr. Mathews, as gifts from the members of the 1920 Minstrel club, a handsome pair of diamond studded link buttons and a stickpin to match. Mr. Mathews responded with one of his characteristic speeches, which was greatly enjoyed.

Mr. Charles Crane and Dr. W. H. Goodrich have returned from Rochester, Minn.

Hon. Joseph Folk, of Missouri, who lectured at the chautauqua yesterday, was the guest of Mr. A. L. Franklin while in the city.

Mrs. John Rose Picklin, of New Orleans, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Alexander, on The Hill.

Miss Gladys Teague has returned from Staunton, where she spent the winter at the Mary Baldwin school.

A very lovely wedding of Wednesday evening, which took place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Paul Verdery, on The Hill, was that of Miss Katherine Cumming Verdery and Mr. John Craig Cranston. The Verdery home was very beautiful with its myriads of lights and its exquisite flowers. White oleanders in their bride-like purity, hydrangeas, spirea and hundreds of great golden-hearted shasta daisies; soft, feathery ferns and tall palms were placed with a tropical luxuriance about all the handsome rooms. When the orchestra sounded the tones of the wedding march, the bridal party entered. The ushers, Mr. George Hardwick, Mr. Bishop Alexander, Jr., Mr. Nesbit Teague and Mr. Henry Hardwick, entered and held the broad satin ribbons that formed the aisle. Miss Pauline Verdery, the maid of honor, preceded the bride, who entered with her father. The groom, attended by his brother, Mr. Hal Cranston, met them at the altar. The bride wore a handsome gown of white satin draped with chiffon and shadow lace, the bodice fashioned in fishu effect of filmy tulle and the entire figure enveloped in a mist of tulle, which, with the entire length of the train, a supershower of bride roses and valley lillies completed the toilet. Miss Pauline Verdery wore a lovely gown of pale green chiffon with princess lace, and carried an armful of long-stemmed Killarney roses in shades. After the ceremony the guests were entertained, the bridal party being seated at a table beautifully adorned with shasta daisies, the flowers being reproduced in the confections, and the many-branched candelabra shaded in pale yellow. Later in the evening the bride changed her gown for a sweet traveling suit of blue, with patent leather trimmings, and a chic blue hat with pink roses. The young couple left for Toxaway, N. C., where they will have a cottage for several months. Mr. and Mrs. Cranston will be at home in Savannah.

Mrs. James Moore, of Hillsboro, Texas, who is visiting the Harveys-Morris in Charlotte, N. C., will be the guest of Mrs. William Alexander next week.

Miss Ruth Marks, after a stay of six weeks in Livingston, Tenn., returned home the last of the week.

Mrs. H. J. Crail is over from Wilmington, having come to attend the Verdery-Cranston wedding.

BREMEN, GA.

Miss Alma Springfield is visiting in Chattahoochee, Tenn.

Miss Ruby Hammond, of Temple, was the guest of Miss Annie Baskin the first of the week.

Miss Mildred Daniels, of Marietta, was visiting in Bremen, teh guest of Miss Annnie Stephens, this week.

Miss Lucile Rakes, of Buchanan, visited Mrs. Lucius White this week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Matthews are visiting Jacksonville and other Florida points.

Miss Geneva Stephens, of Draketown, attended commencement here this week.

Mrs. W. C. Kelley and children, of Fort Gaines, are with relatives here.

Mrs. Charles Gober, of Carrollton, is a Bremen visitor this week.

Mrs. W. J. Jones, of Birmingham, Ala., was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Dodson this week.

Misses Fern and Ammye Griffin, of Mt. Zion, spent a few days with Miss Nina Shelnutt this week.

Misses Ruby Reeves and Ruth Brooks, of Draketown, spent Sunday with Miss Lavonia Gallman.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry McKeever, of Birmingham, Ala., are visiting the latter's parents in Bremen this week.

Miss Esther Earnest, of Mt. Zion, is the guest of Miss Fern Earnest.

Miss Vesper Garrett, of Carrollton, was visiting the Misses Jones this week.

Messrs. Frank Walker and W. C. Gray are visiting in Jacksonville, Fla.

RETAIL GROCERS PLAN BIG PARADE

Celebrating First Wednesday Half Holiday, Grocers Will Conduct Biggest Parade in City's History.

The committee in charge of the big parade for next Wednesday announces that their arrangements are about complete, and that everything points to a parade which will eclipse all former records in this line, and which will make every one in the city remember the success of the movement for early closing in summer for all time to come.

There will be grocers and their clerks from every part of the city in the parade. The wholesale grocers have co-operated with the retailers and are sending their wagons and auto trucks to make it a huge success. The different allied businesses have all joined in the movement and the celebration of the success of one of the most deserving movements which the city has seen is going to be fully worthy.

A special invitation is extended to the grocers of College Park, East Atlanta, Decatur, Buckhead and all other surrounding points to join in the parade. This invitation comes from the president of the Retail Grocers' and Butchers' association, O. T. Jones, and it is hoped that as many as possible will accept.

Reports also come that the dry goods men are contemplating joining the movement, and if they do they will add greatly to the parade.

ATLANTA GIDEONS ENJOYED LECTURE

Rev. Dr. George R. Stuart Delivered Famous Lecture to Local Camp on Friday.

The Atlanta camp of Gideons enjoyed a treat last Friday night when Rev. Dr. George R. Stuart delivered his famous lecture, Lopsided Povidence. The lecture was given in the Baptist Tabernacle and was under the auspices of the Gideon camp. There was a large attendance, and Dr. Stuart impressed his auditors with the singleness of the interval since he was a resident of this city he has lost none of his old-time fervor and cheerfulness.

Immediately after the lecture Brother Stuart returned to his charge at Knoxville, Tenn.

State President A. F. Todd, Brothers, C. H. Burge, W. L. Harding, L. P. Satterfield and C. W. Hatcher, left shortly after the meeting for Macon, where they are spending Saturday and Sunday in the interest of the Gideon work. They will be left behind them are praying for their eminent success, and will open fully to-morrow at the regular meeting of the camp, which will be held in the Piedmont hotel convention hall at 3 p. m. this afternoon. All Gideons, traveling men and others are cordially invited. A good leader for the occasion is expected in the person of a visiting Gideon, and there will be short talks from others. No collection.

News of the U. C. T. Atlanta Council 18

Brother U. L. Cox has just returned from an extended trip through Alabama and Mississippi. He reports good business.

Brother Dan Tuggle, of the Fagan-Malone Co., is in the city for the week-end.

Atlanta 18 regrets to receive notice of an accident to Brother G. Smith. Mr. Smith is with the Arnold Hat company, and, at present is on a trip through Florida.

Atlanta 18 initiated three candidates at the meeting last Saturday. They were M. H. Varn, W. A. Jacobs and O. S. Johnston.

Secretary Lunceford is in receipt of an application from H. C. Geiger, of Tate, Ga.

The Hirschberg company report all sheets men on the Firing Line and sending in good reports and, which is better, good bunches of orders.

IT WILL BE SOME BUILDING

There are 548 manufacturers in Atlanta. The Chamber of Commerce proposes to establish a permanent exhibit building which will give the visitor to the city an adequate idea of the extent of Atlanta's manufacturing industry. If each manufacturer enters into the exhibit it will be a wonderful sight to see. And there is not the slightest reason why any of them should stay out. The plan upon which it is proposed to rent the space in the exhibit building will make it perfectly easy for each manufacturer to secure the necessary space to make proper showing of his products.

In Chattanooga there are 120 exhibitors in the building. They have a good exhibit and it has undoubtedly been of vast benefit to the city. Such an exhibit as Atlanta can, and doubtless will, put up, however, will prove to be a collection of manufactured goods of which the visitor to the city today has no conception.

NOTES OF THE CITY SALESMEN

A prominent merchant last week asked a salesman visiting him for the first time, "Are you a member of the city salesmen's association?" The answer was, "No, sir." Then the merchant said, "The richest and vainest man for you to get with the retail grocers is to join the city salesmen's association."

The association is expecting to take part in the retail grocers' parade on next Wednesday, June 4. It is believed this will be the biggest parade ever held in this city.

Several applications for membership were received and read at the first time at the meeting yesterday morning. We are anxious to have all the live, wide-awake, hustling salesmen in Atlanta in connection with us.

Everything looks promising for the excursion to Charleston the latter part of June. The several sessions outing is always enjoyed by the salesmen and their families, and they are anxiously awaiting the time for leaving.

W. A. Hooper, W. R. Waterhouse and W. T. Cowart, of the Brooks and Company, motored to Macon last week. We welcome these gentlemen and the whole convention will be of benefit to them as well as to the association.

We are glad to note that Brother W. E. Park is out again after an illness of several days' duration.

It was reported that Brother Owens, of the White Provision company, was injured in a runaway one day last week. We trust that he will soon be on deck again.

It is our duty to visit regularly our brother members when they are sick or in trouble, and we sincerely hope the boys will remember all cases of this kind reported to us.

Brother Sam J. Jones delivered a very interesting talk before the association, which will appear in these columns next week for the benefit of all salesmen.

IT'S UNBELIEVABLE; STILL, IT IS TRUE

The following story is absolutely true. It sounds so unreasonable that it is necessary to unimpeachable proof before it can be believed, yet there is absolute proof.

A lady ordered some goods from a retail store, to be delivered at a certain hour. The goods were perishable and the clerk in the store positively guaranteed that they would be there on time. When the time for their delivery came, there was no sign of them. Now it happened that there was no telephone connection between the lady's home and the store, but there was between her home and another store run by the same firm. She knew that there was telephone connection and asked them to ring up the store and see about her goods. The clerk who answered the phone listened to the story and replied:

"Well, it's no business of mine, didn't sell you the goods."

Then she rang off.

Yes, it is true. But you wouldn't think so, in this day and time, would you?

S. F. Hein, with Montag Bros., will attend the Florida State Druggists' association convention, which is to be held at Tampa, Fla., on June 11.

J. C. Owens, with Fain & Stamps, was reported as busy on Friday night ordering himself some cows. Whether it was the music, singing or eating which appealed to him could not be discovered.

The ins this week with Ridley-Williamson-Wyatt company are D. L. Lassiter, R. B. McWhorter, J. L. Yates and J. S. Cheek. The rest are all out sending in nice orders, and the company reports that May has been a splendid month for them. Sales show 20 per cent better than May, 1912.

HOLT IS HUSTLING.

Selling Pickles by the Carload, He Keeps Plant Busy.

Sales Manager C. F. Holt is after somebody's scalp. It is getting to be a habit with him to go out and get these carload orders for the goods which his firm puts up. That firm is the Dixie Pickle and Preserving company. Maybe the quality of the goods has as much to do with it as Mr. Holt's salesmanship—who knows.)

There is a rumor that he is trying to send in the orders so thick and fast that he will keep President Hancock busy twenty-five hours a day to get them out. It will be an interesting race if this is true, as they are both altogether on to their jobs.

But however that may be, Mr. Holt went to Rome the latter part of this week and came back with a carload order for pickles in his pocket on Friday night. Then Mr. Hancock got in his fine work and smiled across at Mr. Holt when he saw the car roll out for its destination on Saturday night. That is making some records.

Customers in the city last week reported to Fain & Stamps that prospects and conditions are first-class all through the country, and all are feeling very optimistic over the future business for the year.

C. S. Harley, with the Consolidated Paper company, is spending Sunday at his home at North, S. C.

Cliff Edwards, of Fain & Stamps, remarked last week that he didn't know anything as he hadn't done any reporting. O. W. Stamps chimed in and said: "Well, he sure has had a month's business. It is his biggest May since he first started."

A. H. Branhorst (known as "Brandy"), representing the Squire-Dingee company, of Chicago, has been with Fain & Stamps this week pushing the sales of the celebrated Bill Quarles "South Pole" mustard.

:-: CHILE CON CARNE :-:

GET IT WHILE IT'S HOT

S. E. Brannon, secretary-treasurer of Jones Brothers company, reports that this May is the biggest month his company have had yet. He says that people seem to be taking to "Jones" brand pickles and preserves like hot cakes, and that the salesmen say they are "dead easy" to sell. The force had to work two nights this week getting orders out in order to keep up with sales.

E. F. Shyer, with the Consolidated Paper company, came in Friday from the West Point and Central roads. He reported the farmers all out at work, and business in future shipments as particularly good.

The S. P. Richards company report that their new catalog is coming along nicely, and that they are expecting it from the hands of the printer about July 1.

Dougherty-Little-Redwine company report that they expect to be busy for the next twenty-five days, as they are running a special sale in order to reduce their stock as much as possible before moving to their new home. They will have to leave the old quarters on July 1.

R. L. Fox, with Montag Bros., has been in the city for a short rest between trips, but leaves tomorrow for a run around the Georgia points.

The John Deere Plow company report that they received a nice number of orders while the Retail Hardware Men's convention was on. Amongst the salesmen who were in to meet the members were: J. M. Jeffries, south Georgia; J. L. Riddick, north Georgia; E. F. Geisemann, central Georgia; W. M. Shoemaker, south Georgia; K. D. Brewton, Athens, and L. W. Laudick, special representative for the Syracuse Chilled Plow company, of Syracuse, N. Y.

The E. L. Adams company report that they will lend all their wagons and auto trucks to the Retail Grocers' for the big parade on Wednesday next.

Manager W. H. Stents, of the John Deere Plow company, is in Knoxville, Tenn., for a visit at the company's branch house there.

Manager George H. Sneed, the C. F. Sauer company's extract representative, says that he will surely be in the parade next Wednesday.

M. J. Bernard, of the Atlanta Paper company, is spending the week-end in Birmingham with H. Freisleben, a leading salesman of the company.

W. P. Warlick, of Fort Valley, Ga., was a visitor with the Gramling-Spalding Co. this week and purchased a $1,000 opening bill, paying cash.

Among the visitors with the E. L. Adams company this week were E. M. White, of Temple, Ga., and Mr. Johnson, buyer for the Calloway department store at LaGrange, Ga.

C. J. Finger, with the M. C. Kiser company, has been indisposed at his home in Gainesville, for a few days, but will be out on the job again next week.

The E. L. Adams company report that May is the best month they have had this year, and they are very much pleased with results.

N. K. Smith, the Georgia "Rattle Axe" shoe man, is one of the delegates to the Episcopal convention to be held at Athens, Ga., next week, for the Georgia diocese.

ALF TRUITT TELLS OF GREENE CO. CROPS

Reports Agriculture There Is in Better Condition Than in the Past Twenty Years. Big Grain Crop.

Alf Truitt, of the Ward-Truitt company, spent last Friday in Green county, Georgia. He returned to Atlanta Saturday morning and told a tale of crop conditions there which made the enthusiasm ring in his voice and creep out of his eyes at every word.

"I tell you," he said, "there is the finest crop growing up in that section I have seen in the past twenty years. Do you know there were 100,000 bushels of wheat and oats cut in that district yesterday? It's a fact. Corn is 3 feet high, and cotton is just the finest I ever saw anywhere. Of course, the people are happy, and every one states that there haven't been better prospects for a crop there in the past twenty-five years.

"I went out in an ot field just to get the feel of the heads in my hands once more, like I used to in the old days. I never saw bigger and fuller heads in my life. I looked over acre after acre of grain that made me think I was in the famed 'golden west,' and the beauty of it all is that every crop is good."

Mr. Truitt is enthused over conditions all down the Georgia road, and he wants everybody to know what a splendid year there is in store for that section of the state.

News of the U. C. T. Fulton Council 505

The Bagmen of Bagdad, of Councils Fulton, 505, and Atlanta, 18, have arranged for a meeting at an early date, when several U. C. T. members will be given a trip over the hot sands.

Grand Secretary R. L. Wallace, after a strenuous week at Columbus on grand council work, is back on the job selling the sweet stuff.

Brother Dayton Hale, Jr., from San Antonio, Texas, sends greetings to all the boys. He reports everything O. K. with him, and states that he keeps up with the boys' doings through The Con Constitution Firing Line.

Brother Bob Wallace has been on the sick list for the past two or three days, but the boys are glad to hear that he is now out again on the job.

Secretary Brownlee states that he is just about recovered from his strenuous time at the grand council meeting in Columbus, and is looking forward to next year already.

Brother T. B. Lewis has been elected grand ruler of the Bagmen of Bagdad. P. J. Brownlee, keeper of the record and seals, and R. N. Fickett, Jr., doorkeeper. Look out for a warm time when the Bagmen meetin Atlanta at an early date.

A. M. Robinson Co. were found busy completing the improvement work on their dry goods and notion department. The place looks a great deal better already and will be a beauty when completed. The only men in this week are C. F. Irby, Jr., and Claude Smith.

John Paul Jones Breaks World's Record For Mile; Pennsylvania Wins Meet

Cambridge, Mass., May 31.—Twelve sturdy Quaker legs, with which six wearers of the Red and Blue gathered in 24 points, won for the University of Pennsylvania the 38th annual field and track meeting of the Intercollegiate Association of Amateur Athletes of America in the Harvard Stadium today. The score was the smallest made by a winner in the history of the association.

John Paul Jones, Cornell's captain, finished his college cinder track career by running the fastest mile ever credited to an amateur. His new world's record time was 4 minutes, 14 2-5 seconds, one second lower than the previous record he made on the same track two years ago. In the half mile event Jones finished second.

The association records in the 100 and 220-yard dashes and the 220-yard low hurdles were equalled respectively by J. E. Patterson and D. F. Lippincott, of Pennsylvania, and J. L. Wendell, of Wesleyan. The latter won both hurdle events and was the only double winner of the day.

Jackson's Misfortune.

Harvard lost when Jackson knocked down three hurdles in the 220-yard event and was disqualified. Had he won second place, Harvard would have won the meet.

Interest centered in the mile run, and many who saw Jones beat out Taber, of Brown, by ten yards, believed the Cornell captain might have supplanted the world's pre-sent time as well, had he not loafed through the first quarter, which took 1 minute, 14-5 seconds. The half was covered in 2 minutes, 9 2-5 seconds. Then Jones went to the front and passed the three-quarter in 3 minutes, 16 1-5 seconds, and with a grand burst of speed broke the tape, the acknowledged king of amateur milers.

None of the five field records was in danger, although a few were approached. Several of the contestants failed to approach their best previous exploits. It was on the cinders that the leading feats of the afternoon were performed. Captain Haff, the Michigan shot, ran the quarter mile with in 2-5 of a second of the record. Then Patterson, in the century dash, equaled association figures of 9 4-5 seconds. Wendell cleared the high hurdles in 15 2-5 seconds in one of the trial heats. Lippincott's time in the furlong equaled another association record and he was running hard at the finish.

The weather was ideal.

Summaries.

Mile Run—Won by Jones, Cornell; Taber, Brown, second; Harmon, Dartmouth, third; Madeira, Pennsylvania, fourth. Time, 4 minutes, 14 2-5 seconds. New American record.

QUERIES ANSWERED.

Under this head the sporting editor will endeavor to answer all questions pertaining to all branches of sports.

Dick Jemison, Sporting Editor The Constitution: The batter hits a ball that is ordinarily good for two bases and he is entitled to be stopped by the umpire. The runner, however, turns and overruns first base. He is entirely within his rights and the batter should be given credit for a three-bagger.

Certainly. He had reached third base safely.

Dick Jemison, Sporting Editor The Constitution: Was Walsh pitcher for Washington, Philadelphia and Boston? Was he a regular pitcher, or was one of them a periodical pitcher?

He was a periodical pitcher.

Dick Jemison, Sporting Editor The Constitution: Where are Tommie Atkins and George Mahaffey now?

Atkins is in the Texas league and Mahaffey was sent back to Charlotte.

Jones in Chattanooga.

Jerome Jones, editor of the Journal of Labor, left Atlanta yesterday afternoon for Chattanooga, where he was given a reception last night by the Chattanooga federation of trades and a number of the leading professional and business men of that city. Mr. Jones went to Chattanooga in response to an invitation from the organized labor of that city to address a mass-meeting of the working forces and the business men Sunday afternoon and to talk to the Chattanooga federation in their home tonight.

Southern Golf Champions of Past Years

The twelfth annual tournament of the Southern Golf association will be played over the course of the Montgomery Country club the coming week. The above group was taken at the tournament last year in Chattanooga, and shows the former winners. Reading from left to right, the men in the photo are: W. P. Stewart, New Orleans, winner of the tournament in 1911 and 1912; F. G. Byrd, now of Birmingham, but representing Atlanta when he won the tournament in 1910; J. P. Edrington, of Memphis, 1909; Nelson Whitney, of New Orleans, 1907 and 1908; Leigh Carroll, of New Orleans, 1906; A. W. Gaines, of Chattanooga, 1903; A. F. Schwartz, of New Orleans, 1902. A. F. Manson, of Darien, Ga., winner of the tournaments in 1904 and 1905, was in Europe when this group was taken.

Three Corking Ten-Rounders At Auditorium Next Week

If there's anything in the theory that Atlanta boxing fans like heavyweights, top-notchers and real scrappers, then it's high time to begin moving back the walls of the Gate City's Auditorium-Armory to accommodate the crowd that will turn out on the night of June 13 to see Jim Flynn and Jim Savage box ten rounds.

For not only will these top-notch heavies perform for ten rounds, but in addition Mike Saul and Terry Nelson will go over the same route and so will Meyer Prise and Spider Britt.

In the old days either of the preliminary bouts would have passed for a corking good main bout, and would have drawn an enormous crowd; but the Atlanta military companies behind the coming Queensbery festivities are determined to put on a card that will set new attendance figures for Dixie and they haven't missed the mark for with the program they are going to offer.

Class of Heavies.

Never in Georgia have two such heavyweights been offered as Flynn and Savage. As matters stand today they are the class of the heavy division.

Jim Savage is today the cleverest heavyweight in the world. Jim Corbett says that and the word of James in the matter of clever heavyweights can be taken as authoritative. For James was considerable of a clever heavyweight himself in his young and palmy days.

Corbett fairly raves over Savage and believes that his equal has never been seen—or not at least in recent years. When Savage met Kubiak here the latter landed just one real blow in ten rounds. And that was an accident. Savage could box a man like Kubiak all day and all night and not get up a perspiration. Because Savage is just naturally clever, knows how to use his hands, to duck, sidestep, parry, guard—and, when the occasion arises, to slug.

To waste any space telling who Jim Flynn is would be a waste, indeed. James is out with a challenge for the white heavy championship, and seems amply able to whip any of the crop—always excepting Savage.

Flynn Beat Coffey.

Flynn's recent battle in New York with Coffey was a corking fine showing. Misleading reports were sent out from some cases about this fight, but the big experts were all of the notion that Flynn had all the better of it. Rob Edgren, of The New York World, one of the greatest authorities in the world on fistiorial subjects, gave the verdict without question or reservation to Flynn.

The Saul-Nelson engagement should be a hummer. It has been admitted for some time that neither Saul nor Nelson was a logical candidate for a world's championship, and at the same time it is recalled that they have always given the fans a run for their money.

Mike Saul is strictly a local product. Where he was born the histories do not relate, but he has passed his busy long life right here in Atlanta. He broke into the boxing game as a rank preliminary lad—so rank that he battled under an assumed name.

He won his way to the front and stuck there a good while. He has never been far from there since. As a semi-wind-up man he is a tremendous card. Mike is a real slugger and gives the fans a run for their money. Terry Nelson is another willing miker, and their bout should be a pippin.

Prise-Britt Grudge.

The Prise-Britt affair is strictly to settle a grudge of long standing. It's really amazing how those boys do love one another.

Just mention the magical name of "Pries" where Britt can hear it and he froths at the mouth. If you say "Britt" to Pries, he holds his nose in eloquent pantomime. They have to be roped to their corners before their bouts, and separated with a crowbar at the end of each round. But they surely do give the fans a lovely run for their money.

WESTERN GOLFERS ON LONG JAUNT

Chicago, May 31.—(Special.)—A team of eight middle western golfers and possibly two officials of the Western Golf association will leave Chicago on the night of June 6 to go to the Pacific northwest to play a series of matches against northwestern teams.

Some of the members of the middle western team are:

Warren K. Wood, runner-up in the western championship, and probably the most brilliant player in the west.

D. E. Sawyer, former western champion.

Harry Legg, many times Trans-Mississippi and Minnesota champion.

W. C. Fownes, Jr., Pennsylvania state champion and former national champion.

Howard Lee, one of the best players in Michigan.

C. B. Devol, who led the field with a brilliant 73 in the national championship qualifying round last year.

Charles Evans, Jr., western champion.

The northwest will have a brilliant team; among the members of the team will be

H. Candler Egan, Dixie Flesger, some California stars and some British Columbia players of note. In addition, a team of northwestern professionals will be played.

Marist Specials Win.

The Marist Specials have just completed a remarkably successful season by defeating Fortmwell score 6-5. The winning run came across in the eighth on a well-executed "squeeze" by Perry, Adair and "Little Buck" Reeves.

Jones, for the Specials, was the especially brilliant spot of the game. The big boy got safeties four out of five times at the plate, two of them were for extra bases and put runs over.

This last series returned the Specials victors in every series played this season.

No-Rim-Cut Tires 10% Oversize

Extra Mileage Without Extra Cost

A tire that can't rim-cut is worth to you more than a tire that does.

An oversize tire, with added air capacity, is worth more than a tire without it.

Yet No-Rim-Cut tires offer both these features without any extra price.

Lower Prices

No-Rim-Cut tires used to cost one-fifth more than clinchers.

Yet they became, at an extra price, the most popular tires in the world.

Little by little, as our output increased, the price of these tires has been cut. Our last reduction was about 11 per cent.

Now no standard tire of any type costs less than No-Rim-Cut tires.

Compare Them

Compare these tires with hooked-base clincher tires.

The clincher tire will rim-cut when wholly or partly deflated. This is the costliest tire trouble one has to contend with.

No-Rim-Cut tires were never known to rim-cut.

And these tires, as compared with clinchers, have one-tenth greater air capacity. That extra capacity, under average conditions, adds 25 per cent to the tire mileage.

Now at no extra price you get tires that can't rim-cut, tires with this overcapacity. You get the tires which, in the test of time, have come to outsell any other.

Is it not worth while to insist on them?

LATEST MARKET REPORTS

WHEAT MADE ADVANCE ON LIBERAL BUYING

Market Closed One-Quarter to One Cent Higher—Corn Also Up.

Chicago, May 31.—Buying force in wheat today had greater momentum than at any time since the beginning of adverse weather and crop reports from the southwest. Notwithstanding setbacks, due to heavy profit-taking, the market closed steady at an advance of 1-4@1¾c to 1c net. Corn finished 1-4 to 1 1-4c up, oats with a gain of 1-2 to 3-4 and provisions varying from 5c down to an increased cost of 30c.

Blistering temperatures and absence of needed rain worried not only Kansas, but Oklahoma and Missouri and Nebraska as well. What was worse, no forecast gave the slightest hope of a general rain. A material cut in the official wheat crop of India tended further to disturb the bears and there were also predictions of small world shipments. Floods of selling orders from fortunate longs appeared to be all that prevented considerably higher prices than were reached in the wheat market. On all hands the offerings invariably grew to such volume as to turn the course of trade, but then quickly lessened. A notable feature of business was improvement in cash demand, especially on eastern millers. Primary receipts of wheat two days were 737,000 bushels, a year ago 259,000 bushels. Exports of wheat and flour equaled 217,000 bushels.

Belated covering by shorts in corn advanced May sharply at the close. Otherwise demand was not urgent, and prices merely reflected the action of wheat.

Severe damage reports from the southwest carried oats higher.

Provisions were helped upward by an advance at the yards, but afterwards became irregular. There was uncertainty as to what might be expected in the monthly statement of stocks on hand

On The Constitution Firing Line With the Commercial Travelers

In The Trenches

The Atlanta Paper company expressed themselves this week as very enthusiastic about the proposed permanent exhibit for Atlanta made goods, and stated that there was no manner of doubt but that they would take space there if the arrangements were anyways reasonable.

T. L. Landers, with the Gramling-Spalding company, came in for a day or two this week. He is suffering from rheumatism in his right arm, but is still on the job selling "Premium MBrand" shoes. He states that prospects for business in his territory (central Alabama) are extra good this fall.

James R. Thornton, with the S. P. Richards company, came in for the week-end to get one or two more samples which were not ready when he left last week. He will start on an extended trip Monday. All the others are out and sending in surprisingly good business.

Hagan-Malone Co. were found on the last lap of their semi-annual inventory. Walter C. Barnwell stated that they were carrying the biggest stock of their history, and were doing it to be prepared for the record-breaking business which they feel confident is coming this fall.

The ins this week with Brown, Perryman & Greene Co. are J. F. Tate, C. D. Dickinson and J. O. Chambers.

W. W. Scott, Jr., a well-known Atlanta salesman, leaves this afternoon for a ten-day pleasure trip to New York.

The ins this week with Pain & Stamps are Bill Bailey, Clic Edwards, J. C. Owens and S. E. Smith.

The Dixie Pickle & Preserving Co. report good orders from all their salesmen this week, and state that business is booming.

The Gate City hotel reports good results from the ad they are running in these columns. Numbers of traveling men have tried their meals and pronounce them A No. 1.

President O. W. Steele, of the Warren Manufacturing company spent Thursday last in Chattanooga with the chamber of commerce, inspecting the permanent exhibit there.

S. Singleton, the "Big 4" sandwich man, has put a new sandwich on the market which is making a hit. This is the "Cumback," and is a peanut butter-ohilli sandwich.

Will Montag, of Montag Bros., is entertaining Mr. and Mrs. B. Lehman, of Dayton, Ohio. Mr. Lehman is a prominent retail merchant of that city and was a heavy sufferer through the floods.

BRATTON'S LETTER TO THE MERCHANTS

Secretary Georgia Retail Merchants' Association Writes All Retailers Through The Constitution Firing Line.

Secretary John Bratton, of the Retail Merchants' association of Georgia, addresses the following letter to the merchants of Georgia through The Constitution Firing Line:

Everybody is boosting the Retail Merchants' convention to be held in Atlanta July 21, 22 and 23.

"We are coming."

This is the greeting that is coming into the secretary, John Bratton, at the headquarters of the Retail Merchants' association of Georgia from all over the state.

This is to be a notable gathering of merchants, the most notable, perhaps, in the history of the state.

Indications are that from 1,500 to 2,000 merchants will be here. They are coming from every section of the state. The Georgia legislature will be in session at that time, and they will be present to witness the deliberations of that body and hope to wield such an influence as will cause the legislature to listen to their pleas and give them the laws so much needed and which they are asking for.

Forces are at work to make this gathering of merchants a most interesting and profitable one. And while they will not come here with an eye single to pleasure, ample entertainment will be provided. In short, Atlanta never does things by halves, and will see to it that they have no dull moments. Of course, the prime cause of their coming will be for business, or which there will be a plenty, and it is hoped and confidently believed that this convention will mark a new era in mercantile affairs, and from hence forward improved conditions as relates to the retailers of Georgia will be seen.

Atlanta is indeed fortunate in securing the convention, no doubt that satisfactory arrangement will be made, and when perfected ample notice will be ing this convention, as no more important one has ever been held within her confines or which will mean more to her as a convention city. That she gets the convention is the largely to the efforts of The Constitution and The Journal. These papers are the friends of the merchants and they, with the Southern merchant, are working in support of the measures they are demanding. That much credit is due them for the work they are doing is granted and this will, without doubt be accepted by the merchants themselves. Hotel accommodations and rates are being arranged for, also the railroads are being importuned and will make rates from every point in the given through the press and otherwise.

Everybody in Atlanta is on the job. Wholesalers, retailers, newspapers and all. Now that the convention is assured each interest is vieing with the other in seeing which can do the most work toward making the occasion a grand and glorious success in every particular. That such conditions prevail is indeed gratifying and bodes well for ultimate results.

In the meantime let the merchants of the state get busy. If you haven't already decided to come do so at once. Be here, get in line with your brother merchant, stand shoulder to shoulder with him in the work before you, and thus help to bring about better mercantile conditions in Georgia.

As secretary of the Retail Merchants' association of Georgia for the past ter years, I have had ample opportunity to become acquainted with conditions as related to the retail merchant during that period, and up to the present time. They are indeed appalling. I watched the retail merchant gradually awaken from his Rip Van Winkle sleep, until at last he has become fully aroused to the situation and the needs of the hour. That he has at last buckled on his armor and got into the thick of the fight in his own behalf is more than pleasing to me. With the coming of this convention we feel encouraged more than ever before and we unhesitatingly say that the prospects of success in the work we have been doing for the mercantile interests of the state so long are brighter than ever before. At the coming convention, July 21, 22 and 23 we hope to see and shake the hand of every merchant in the state, or at least his representative.

We would have it understood that every merchant in Georgia is requested and urged to be here, irrespective of whatever he is a member of our association or not. When you have decided, kindly notify me at the association headquarters, 1124-25 Candler building, Atlanta, so that ample provisions may be made for you.

Come, be one among us to help do the things that will spell success to our efforts, and so that when the convention is over we can say "We have kept the faith, we have whipped the fight."

JOHN BRATTON.

Secretary, Retail Merchants' association of Georgia, Atlanta, May 31, 1913.

MARTIN BALDWIN IS MOVED TO NEW YORK

The many friends of Martin Baldwin, who has lived in Atlanta practically all his life, will be glad to learn of his advancement with the Underwood Typewriter company. He has accepted a much better position with the Underwood company and will reside in New York city after the first of July. his promotion taking him to the home office. Mr. Baldwin has traveled on the road as a typewriter salesman practically all his life, making Atlanta headquarters, and has made good with every firm that he has accepted a position with. After attending to his business closely without vacation for several years, he has decided to spend one month of recreation with relatives and friends throughout middle Georgia before leaving for New York city.

Pain & Stamps enjoyed a brief visit Saturday morning from Mrs. Paul Upshaw, of Little Rock, Ark. Mrs. Upshaw, before her marriage, was Miss Pearl Smith, and was employed by the firm. O. W. Stamps says she is the best business woman he ever met, and that it looked like old times to see her around again.

T. P. A. JOTTINGS

By W. M. Jenkins, State Press Chairman, T. P. A.

All aboard for Richmond!

One week from today the delegates for the T. P. A. convention will be leaving in order to be there on the morning of the 9th.

Ye blind guides that strain at a gnat and swallow a camel. "Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites, for ye make clean the outside of the cup and of the platter, but within they are full of extortion and excess." And of bribery and graft.

If $100,000 can be raised on short notice for an entertainment (which is well and good), why is it that half that amount (which would be better) could not be raised for establishing a home on the co-operative plan for working girls? Such a home would be on a business plan, would be self-dependent, and would not only pay a living wage, but would make each girl, so long as she was honesty identified with the institution, a sharer in its dividends.

We believe that any girl earning less than $18 a week at any employment could do better by entering into private employment and do housework.

Which fares the best, the house-girl employed at a wage of $4 per week, and heard, off after 2 p. m. for the balance of the day, or the shop, mill, factory or store girl at $6 and $7 a week, pay your own car fare and board yourself?

It is thoughtless to allude to denizens of the underworld as "fallen women" without giving due consideration to the fact that there are a thousand influences tending to drag women down in a land where everything should help to lift her up.

Sociability and eating go together. We talked as we eat and exchange confidences which go hand in hand for fellowship and friendship. The banquet recently given by the ladies of Park Street Methodist church in beautiful West End will do more to build up that institution in every respect, including financial, and put it on a firm, sound basis than any other one thing. Thanks to these loyal ladies for their invitation. May their church grow in strength, beauty, love and friendship until it becomes noted the world over.

The T. P. A.'s believe that tipping is an evil. Say, traveling men, why don't you quit it? In the name of all that you believe in and al that is right, quit it!

Send us $11 for membership in the T. P. A. and get a $5,000 accident insurance policy.

You can not always tell who your true friends are. True friends, we mean. When advertisity comes then is the test. If your misfortunes do not send them away, then you can trust them.

CHAMBER PARTY HAD GOOD TRIP

Result of Chattanooga Visit Will Doubtless Mean Permanen tExhibit in Atlanta. Much Enthusiasm Shown.

The special excursion of the chamber of correce to Chattanooga last Thursday was a big success from every standpoint. There were sixty-five members of the chamber who went, and they returned to the city enthusiastic boosters for a similar permanent exhibit for Atlanta to that which Chattanooga has.

The Chattanooga exhibit is voted by every manufacturer in that city to be a big success. It was found to be a bigger thing than the Atlantans had expected. Occupying a building, 50 by 110 feet and four stories high, every inch of space is used, and it is all utilized to the best possible advantage. The exhibit is only four years old, yet it has already had to double its space once. The space rentals have amply paid for all expenses, including interest on the original bonds and also to provide a sinking fund to pay off the original debt. And this is done without levying an axhorbitant price on the manufacturers for space rental, the rates being exceedingly low.

Atlanta, with her 548 manufacturers, should be able to support and exhibit double the size of the Chattanooga one. There are about 120 exhibitors in Chattanooga, and at least double this number would doubtless use the exhibit in Atlanta as soon as it is established.

The party which went to Chattanooga was composed of the following:

Wilmer L. Moore, V. H. Kriegshaber, John Morris, J. R. A. Hobson, Ivan E. Allen, Walter G. Cooper, J. P. Stevens, M. M. Davies, H. B. Chamberlain, A. E. Hill, J. P. Cannon, Ralph T. Jones, William T. Lowenstein, Paul P. Reese, W. O. Steele, W. A. Brower, Royston Cabaniss, H. K. Ward, E. A. Massa, C. M. Kennedy, D. Goldin, James Duffy, M. W. Savage, J. R. Meredith, R. L. Proctor, Charles D. McKinney, R. M. Foote, M. H. Manheim, N. E. Martin, J. M. VanHarlingen, St. Valdes, C. V. Strickland, Francis Kamper, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Fisher, Mrs. George Delvin, Mrs. P. G. Johnson, Miss Mary Dozier, S. J. Sheffield, F. D. McMillan, W. D. Hardaway, R. H. Barnwell, M. A. Rose, A. Ten Eyck Brown, T. Z. Cathcart, W. R. Ryan, R. S. Hayes, W. D. Hoyt, E. L. Harding, Dr. W. L. Gilbert, E. L. Gardener, C. F. Sciple, J. H. Andrews, Fred Hoy, R. W. Rowe, C. W. Russell, W. T. Winn, J. H. Byrley, George Holliday, M. R. Miles, W. E. Williams, R. Bartlett, Fred Houser and C. E. Helmer.

It was very much regretted that Broks Morgan, chairman of the arrangements committee, could not go, he being detained in this city by court business.

Pagan-Malone Co. announce that the latest addition to their salesforce is W. W. Scott, Jr. Mr. Scott is a popular and well known salesman in the territory and has had many years' experience in this line. He will cover the southeast Georgia territory for his new connection, and ought to make some new records with them.

Thought Control Big Factor In Success of Ball Players Don't Let Fans Yelling Bother

By TY COBB.

(EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the fifteenth of a series of weekly articles written exclusively for The Constitution by the world's greatest ball player.)

(Copyright, 1913, by Ty Cobb Service.)

"How does it affect you to stand at the plate with the shouts of 30,000 fans ringing in your ears?"

That is a question frequently asked the major league baseball player. It is an easy one for me to answer.

I can say that my years of experience as a big league player have taught me to be absolutely oblivious to the crowd and any shouts that may come my way when I go to bat in a pinch. If I don't deliver it is because I simply could not hit the ball safely under any conditions; not because the crowd "got my goat."

That is the general rule with ball players, too. If they once permitted themselves to be bothered by the yells of the fans, they would seldom make a hit, and consequently would not last long in the "big show," as the major leagues are termed.

When it comes my time to bat, I walk to the plate trying to figure out what the pitcher is going to hand me. I crowd out every foreign thought and say to myself: "The last time up he gave me a fast one, thinking I would let it pass, if he hands me one over the plate this time I'm going to whale away at it."

Mind Is On Pitcher.

Then, when I get into my position I keep my eyes glued on that pitcher. All the time my mind is kept busy trying to detect by some motion what he will heave at me. I simply have become determined to get a base hit if possible, and nothing else has a chance to force its way into my thoughts.

You have all had the same experience, in some line of endeavor. The expert accountant will sit down to his desk with a set of books which he must balance. He will forget everything except the figures before him, and his work will be done in the shortest possible time, and without error.

But just let Mr. Expert Accountant start to think about the dinner he attended at his club the night before, or the engagement he had to take his wife or best girl to the theater that evening, and he will make many errors. The figures will be crowded out of his thoughts.

That, I believe, best illustrates my point. It shows how the baseball player has to think baseball all the time just the accountant must think figures constantly. It's control of the mind which makes the star of the diamond.

A newspaper man of my acquaintance proved to me what control a man can have over his mind. I once visited his office and found about fifteen persons in the sporting department. It sounded like the weekly meeting of the sewing circle. But my friend was seated at his typewriter busily engaged in writing the story of the ball game played that day.

How in the world can you write with this noise around?" I asked him.

"Well, you see, I have become deaf—used to it," he replied. "My mind is centered on my story. You could deliver a political speech in this room and I'd not hear a word of it. I could go on writing my baseball story."

Some Cannot Master Thought.

We talked along those lines for a while and he told me that he knew some great newspaper men who always had to go to a private room, where nobody could bother them, when they had a big story to write. He explained that they had never gained that mastery over their minds which crowded out foreign thoughts.

That made me realize why ball players do not hear the shouts of the multitude—that is, they let them, but their thoughts are on the game, and it is purely a mechanical function of the ears and has no effect on the mind. This subject to me has been an interesting one, and that is why I have enlarged it at this time.

But don't think the baseball player always manages to master his thoughts. Once I happened to glance at the stands while I was going to the plate. I just happened to get the eye of a man from Georgia—my home state, that I had not expected to see. I had to hurry to take my turn at the bat and could only wave at him. But I was thinking all the time that he must be invited to dinner that evening and must send a messenger boy to his seat to tell him to wait for me after the game. As a result the pitcher, who had his thoughts on me and the game, fooled me completely on a curve ball and I trudged weakly to the second baseman.

Had I noticed my friend sitting in the stand several minutes before, I would have had a chance to bring my mind back to the game. But, as it was, I simply could not keep my thoughts on the pitcher and what I should do to outguess him.

Charley Dooin, manager of the Philadelphia National baseball club and a great catcher, once told me that he had dropped only two—I think he said two—foul balls during his baseball career. And, as it happened, both were dropped because he allowed his mind to be distracted by the shout of a spectator.

He said he was right under the easiest kind of a foul ball one day and was oblivious to everything except the fan leaning over from one of the boxes, looked right into his face and cried, "Drop that ball, you big boob!" Charley says he allowed the ball to filter weakly through his hands, his mind following the request of the spectator.

Spectators Usually Fair.

I have found the spectators in the majority of our American league cities mighty fair to opposing players. They yell, of course, and their sayings are not always complimentary. But we don't mind that if they don't become too personal, for it shows their interest in the game. Without the fans, we would not be playing baseball for a livelihood, and we welcome them to the right or rooting, even if it is against us.

Often, I have chased right to the bleacher wall for a long fly and have been met with a volley of weird noises intended to make me drop the ball. But I have held fast to it and then have looked up into that sea of disappointed faces, the shouts having died the minute the ball went into my mitt.

"That's all right, old boy, you made a good catch," one fellow would say, and instantly there would be some applause with possibly a few sarcastic remarks such as, "You must have a horseshoe in your pocket." But as a rule good feeling prevailed all around and they forgot all about me in a minute to plead with a home player to make a hit.

There are times, of course, when one foul-mouthed individual will call opposing players names which they can scarcely stand without some sort of retaliation. Nothing will take your mind away from the game quicker than to hear some unspeakable epithet applied to you in the hearing of several thousand fans, among them women. And I doubt if any man with red blood in his veins could help but resent it.

To the fans, I would say that they can help protect the ball players by showing their disapproval of such language. This is not a personal plea, but one which every professional baseball man will approve gladly. Diamond workmen are out there to entertain the public and must overlook criticism and ordinary shouts of derision. That's part of the game.

Surely you will agree with me, though, that ball players should not be expected to stand for epithets which usually mean a fight when applied on the ball field. Then remember that while you may smile and enjoy it when you hear a visiting player blaspheming, one of your favorite home players is liable to get the same dose in some other city.

Civility Helps Ball Player.

Young players breaking into the game should try to be courteous and civil with all the fans, particularly away from home. I know players playing outfield positions who are very popular with the bleacherites away from home. The reason is usually to be found in politeness.

Frequently a bleacherite will ask: "Who is that pitching now or who is that pinch hitter?" It is very easy to turn and tell him who it is or say honestly that you don't know if it happens to be a youngster on the opposing club you have never seen before. However, there are players who will either keep their back turned on the spectators or make some scornful reply. Then we wonder why they are jeered constantly.

It's not an easy life, by any means, to the man who must perform his feats every day before anywhere from 5,000 to 30,000 fans. It's hard on the nerves and the player is likely to have a streak of grouchiness when he'll think he would like to quit, go back to the plantation and hunt or fish absolutely alone with nobody around to mention baseball. But usually, when you feel that way, you want to watch your step.

I guess there is not a baseball player in the game who does not like to play before big crowds. He thrives on the cheers which come when he gets a hit or makes a stirring catch. He is walking on air, as they say, for several minutes afterward. If he did that same act with only his teammates and the opponents to see him, it would hardly be worth while the effort.

So you see, fans, there is a big part in making baseball players stick in the "big show" when the going is tough. They can help us quite a bit. But the determination to get some of those cheers that keeps the major leaguer plugging away and keeps his nervous system from breaking apart.

We don't hear you fans when we are at the bat or going after a fly ball. But, believe me, we must hear the ball is caught we hear you, and believe me, it is worth while listening to that applause. I wish you who have never played the game of baseball could get down there on the field some day and experience it.

TWO NEW PLAYERS FOR CORDELE TEAM

Cordele, Ga., May 31.—(Special)—In order to better fortify his infield, Manager "Rip" Beagan has secured Ernest Gray, coach for the Locust Grove High school, and Hen Willard, who has been holding short for Stetson university at DeLand, Fla.

It is expected that the two new players will greatly add to the strength of the Cordele team, placing it in a class that will equal, if not excell any other team in the Empire State league.

Both Gray and Willard will join the team tomorrow and will appear in the opening game of the series with the Brunswick diamond. Having an excellent record as ball players behind them, the two have every chance of showing up as among the very swiftest in the entire league.

CHECKER TITLE.

Southern Championship Will Be Played Here in August.

The Southern Checker association will hold its sixth annual tournament for the championship of the south in Atlanta on August 5-6.

This is the premier checker event of the year and always draws the strongest players from Dixie. Indications point to a large gathering of the lovers of the "royal game."

Rumor has it that Tennessee is going to run in a dark horse this year, a player who has not been in the game whose play has been considered wonderful even for one of more mature years.

In all probability Anderson, the Scotch player, who is now located at Mount Airy, N. S., and Pishburn, the South Carolina star, who won the tournament three times will be entrants. Allen, champion, the last two years, will also be on hand.

Scouts Winners.

Haneville met their first defeat of the season at the hands of Troop 3 of the Atlanta Scouts, in a close tenning game Friday afternoon.

The game was featured by pitchers' battle between Louis Carroway, for the Scouts, and Haleway, for Haneville.

Harland was decidedly the best hitter of the day, doing great work with the hickory for the Scouts. Out of five times up he got three hits, two of which were two-baggers, the last one bringing in the winning run.

Score by innings:

|---|---|
| R. Hapeville | 000 000 200 0—2 |
| Scouts | 011 000 000 1—3 |

This was the first game for the championship of the Junior league.

Americus Sticks.

Americus, Ga., May 31.—(Special).—The Americus Baseball association is not inclined yet to abandon the fight and surrender its franchise, notwithstanding the prolonged season of defeats sustained by the Americus aggregation. Fear was expressed this morning that the team would collapse today, but friends rushed to the rescue, more money was subscribed and the baseball team will continue in the contest. Americus fans are enthusiastic winners and good losers, and only the continued defeat of the local team at home and abroad has resulted in temporary indifference.

Champions of Local Prep Circles

The Boys' High School baseball team which has captured the prep school title of Atlanta. Consistently steady work has marked their play throughout the entire season. Reading, left to right: Top row, Johnston, 3b; Starr, utility; Fox, captain and pitcher; Smith, cf; Ewing, sub. Bottom row, Weaver, c; Floyd, 1b; Lipscomb, 2b; Reynolds, lf; Sams, rf; Spurlock, ss; Catcher Armstead is not in the picture.

ALL-EMORY TEAM HAS BEEN NAMED

Emory College, Oxford, Ga., May 31.—(Special)—Fourteen men who are eligible to wear an E. and have participated in a minimum of five games in the Emory 1913 baseball season, have been selected by the four coaches of the class teams.

They are: Pitchers, E. K. Perryman, of Rockmart; Asa Porter, of El Paso, Texas; Cliff Lester, of Cochran, Ga.

Catchers, H. G. Cheshire, of Colquitt, and John Harris, of Rockmart.

Second base, T. B. Neal, of McDonough, Ga.

Third base, J. H. Thomas, of Baxley, Ga.

Shortstop, John Outler, of Thomasville, Ga.

Utility infielder, R. S. Duncan, of Douglasville, Ga.

Outfielders, Louis Bondurant, of Valdosta; Linton Munroe, of Quincey, Fla.; H. R. Bowles, of Oakland, and J. R. Blake, of Mansfield, Ga.

The coaches who selected the all-Emory team are Coach Turner, of seniors; Coach Peebles, of juniors; Coach Stipe, of sophomores, and Coach Towson, of freshmen.

Although any team that might be selected would not meet with full satisfaction, it is generally thought that the selection is one of the best picks that could have been made.

NEW FRIENDS ARE WON BY SHOCK ABSORBERS

Still another manufacturer working to make his car ideal in its riding qualities has adopted Truffault-Hartford shock absorbers.

The latest to come into the fold is the Edwards-Knight car, the offering of C. G. Stoddard, who is president and H. J. Edwards, who is vice president and general manager of the Edwards Motor Car company.

The standing of the new company may be judged best by the statement that these two men were responsible for the design and perfection of the Stoddard-Dayton car and the plant and organization behind it.

Truffault-Hartford shock absorbers will be used on the front of all Edwards-Knight automobiles, which, compared with the Cantilever type of landau, now in use on many others, will form an ideal combination for easy riding, adding to the other modern features in the new car.

TOWERS AND DUNNING SHOW IMPROVEMENT

Indianapolis, Ind., May 31.—Jack Tower, driver, and Lee Dunning, mechanician, who were injured in the 300-mile race at the Speedway yesterday when their car upset, passed a comfortable night and were reported to be improving.

The extent of Dunning's injuries, which include three broken ribs, has not been determined yet, an X-ray examination will be necessary to learn whether he was hurt internally. Towers' right leg was broken.

Regatta.

Philadelphia, May 31.—Several close finishes and a new record hung up by Cornell in the junior collegiate race marked the eleventh annual American regatta of the Schuylkill navy rowed over the Henley mile and 550 yards course from the Schuylkill river here today. The surprise of the regatta was the victory of the navy eight over Columbia for the stewards' cup. The time was 6:42 2-5.

Cornell won easily from the navy in the junior collegiate eight-oared shell race setting a new record of 6:29 4-5.

The Union Boat club of Boston was victorious in the special interclub eight-oared shell event and the first four-oared sculls race.

Ahlgren Winner.

London, May 31.—The Polytechnic Marathon race from the grounds of Windsor castle to Stamford Bridge Athletic grounds, London, was won today by Alexis Ahlgren, of Sweden, in 2 hours, 36 minutes, 6 3-5 seconds, making a record for this course.

Tatu Kolehmainen, brother of Hannes and Willie Kolehmainen, of Finland, was second, in 2 hours, 41 minutes, 48 seconds. J. Christensen, of Denmark, was third, in 2 hours, 44 minutes, 50 seconds. There was a large number of foreign runners among the competitors.

GROCERS TO FORM BASEBALL LEAGUE

A called meeting of the Produce, Grocers and Butchers' Baseball league will be held at 97 Peachtree street, Wednesday night, June 4, at 7 o'clock. Several teams from the various firms in the above lines have indicated their desire to go into such a league, among which are L. W. Rogers Grocery company, C. J. Kamper Grocery company, Grant Park Grocery company, Stewart & Jones, Fair & Stamps and probably H. L. Schlesinger.

Rogers Grocery company and Jones Grocery company will play a practice game on Wednesday afternoon, June 11 at Piedmont Plaza, in Piedmont park. Mr. Carey, general manager of the park board, assures this league of an ample supply of grounds, and as they will play their league games on Wednesday afternoons, all the grocery stores will close their places of business on Wednesday afternoons during June, July and August.

FREE BAND CONCERT AT THE MOTORDROME

Fans to Be Given Opportunity of Inspecting Track, Machines and Drivers Today.

The motordrome at the old speedway grounds escaped unscathed through the big storm of Saturday afternoon, and while the rain interfered with the final grading work and with some of the finishing touches, the new racing plant will be in fine shape for the inspection and band concert which will be held this afternoon from 3:30 to 6.

Chief Beavers and a sufficient force of bluecoats will be present to preserve order. There will be no riding.

A. Jackson Heard, state agent of the Excelsior motorcycle, has left for Savannah in search of the racing machine that is on its way here and will not return without it. This is the machine that Harry Swarts is to ride in the meet Friday night. The machines belonging to Cowles and Read arrived in good order and were delivered at the track. The wire netting at the top of the track is almost all up and will be in place early Monday.

The graders will get busy at that time and will absolutely level the infield.

Practice will be started in dead earnest Monday, and will continue steadily until Friday night, when the opening meet will be held.

With the prices 25 and 50 cents, and with unlimited space, it looks now like an attendance of from 10,000 to 15,000 on opening night.

DEVEREAUX MILBURN SERIOUSLY INJURED

Meadowbrook, L. I., May 31.—Devereaux Milburn, back of the American polo team, was seriously injured in practice this afternoon. His horse was tripped with the mallet and in the fall Milburn was kicked in the head.

Milburn was taken from the Meadowbrook club to Harry P. Whitney's house at Wheatley Hills, and Dr. Sedgewick Russell, of Lakeville, was sent for. It was said Milburn was badly bruised and shaken up, but that apparently no bones were broken.

Milburn was playing back for the Meadowbrook four against a pick-up team, consisting of L. E. Stoddard, R. La. Montagne, M. Stevenson and Foxhall Keene.

Early in the eighth period, with the score 8 to 7½ in favor of Meadowbrook, Keene struck for goal in an attempt to block the ball. Milburn reached under his pony's neck with his mallet and evidently injured his horse. After rolling on Milburn, the animal, in attempting to regain its feet, kicked and trampled the rider's head and chest.

SOPHOMORES WIN EMORY PENNANT

Emory College, Oxford, Ga., May 31. (special.)—Emory's 1913 interclass baseball season is history, and the final standing is:

| | P. | W. | L. | P.C. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Sophomores | 8 | 6 | 2 | .777 |
| Freshmen | 9 | 6 | 3 | .666 |
| Seniors | 6 | 2 | 4 | .333 |
| Juniors | 7 | 1 | 6 | .166 |

The postponed game between the Sophomores and Seniors was not played because of several players on the latter team being absent. The failure to play this game leaves the Sophomores on the top round with margin. In case the game had been played, and the Sophs lost, it would have tied up the honors for first place, which would have meant a game with the Freshmen.

The pennant-winning team has played a steady game throughout the season and struck its true stride along the latter part of the race. Coach Stipe has been working hard for his crew, and has been rewarded with the honor of having coached two teams and both of them pennant winners.

AUTO TRADE IN WEST PLEASING TO DEALERS

Thriving conditions in automobile trade circles throughout the entire western and northwestern portions of the United States are reported by R. G. Neighbors, sales manager of the Hupp Motor Car company, who has just returned east from an extensive tour of the Pacific Coast country.

"During my trip," said Mr. Neighbors on his return to Detroit, "I made it a point of special interest to see all the Hupmobile owners I possibly could. I wanted to find out from first-hand information whether or not the Hupmobile was giving satisfaction to owners in the west, particularly in the hilly and mountainous sections.

"I was walking up Main street in Denver, one afternoon and saw a gentleman just getting into a Hupmobile. I remember his exact words, 'Stranger,' said he, 'during the past seven years I have had five motor cars, and this Hupmobile is the best car I have ever owned. I use this car for business purposes, and travel over 50 miles every day. It has never caused me a bit of trouble during the six months I have had it in service, and when I purchase again it will be a Hupmobile.

"The same Hupmobile satisfaction existed every place I went, even in the Rocky Mountain district. My Hupmobile is the best hill climber in the country,' said an owner at Grand Junction, Colo. 'I have crossed the Continental divide, time and again, and have never needed assistance.'

"In Los Angeles and San Francisco," continued Neighbors, "the Hupmobile has become very popular, and since the recent record-breaking trip of 14 hours with a 32" motor car between these two cities, everyone is talking Hupmobile."

COLE MOTOR CAR CO. DOUBLES ITS STOCK

Capital of Indianapolis Company Is Increased From $500,000 to $1,000,000.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 31.—One of the best indications of the health of the automobile industry is the announcement made by the Cole Motor Car company, builders of the standard-bred car, that their capital stock has been increased from $500,000 to $1,000,000. This gives to the Cole company without qualification the title of being the largest automobile manufacturers in Indiana.

The action was taken at a meeting of the Cole stockholders, President J. J. Cole, Vice President S. J. Kuguis, Secretary and Treasurer J. F. Morrison, H. C. Lathrop of Indianapolis, W. L. Holt of New York and E. C. Fradg, of Chicago. The meeting also caused the plans of J. J. Cole, to double the Cole production figures and to build a large addition to the present Cole factory, to be approved. The increase in capital, production and factory is due to the volume of business which Cole has had thrust upon him. For three seasons this company has oversold its product, so that at the end of the season orders had to be cancelled. Thus far on one model of the Cole production, the four-cylinder Model 50, over 1,100 motor car purchasers had to be informed that their orders could not be filled.

The Cole factory is at present working day and night, due to the demand made upon it for the six-cylinder model, an average of two dozen of this model being shipped from this city daily to all parts of the world.

President Cole, speaking of the increased capital, production and additions, says: "Our growth has been sane and healthy. We have forged to the front by building America's standardized car.

"I have just returned from the south. This, in connection with my recent western trip, allows me to make the statement in all confidence that the American public recognizes the automobile from its business worth and that the country has not by a long shot as many automobiles as it should have. The dealer is tilling the soil and the prospects were never brighter."

AIR PRESSURE GAUGE IS NOW WIDELY USED

One of the most convincing bits of evidence that motorists generally have awakened to a realization of the fact that inflation is a decidedly important element in the general scheme of tire service is the present widespread use of the air pressure gauge.

In this regard campaigns of education carried on by tire manufacturers are bearing fruit. Likewise experience has been a good, though perhaps expensive, teacher. The man who pays the bills has found out that if he expects his tires to render their full measure of efficiency he must keep plenty of air in them.

"Beyond question under-inflation is the most pernicious abuse to which tires are subjected," says J. D. Anderson, general sales manager of the United States Tire company. "Running tires so soft that they will not remain round under load paves the way for a large percentage of the injuries which destroy them and increase tire maintenance expense.

"It should be understood that the sidewalls of a tire are its thinnest part, and that here most of the bending action takes place when the wheel is turning. If the tire is not given enough air to keep it perfectly round the action of the rim on the sidewalls becomes violent and in a short time the carcass is broken down.

"We recommend 20 pounds of air to the inch. A 4-inch tire should be inflated to 80 pounds, a 5-inch tire to 100 pounds, and so through the various sizes.

IT will be the finest edition of its kind ever published in the South. It will prove not only to this state, but to the world, the ability of Georgia women and the progress made by their state. The women have done everything but print the edition ∴ ∴ ∴ ∴ ∴

They have acted as reporters, visiting the Capitol to secure interviews with the Governor and members of the Legislature; also visited the Mayor in his office, securing an interview with Mayor Woodward. They have attended Police Court and talked with Chief Beavers and other officers

Georgia women have written every line of the edition. They have sold many columns of advertising to firms and individuals all over the state who offer in this edition every manner of necessity and luxury, who give the very latest word of what is new from the great world of commerce. The Ella F. White Memorial Endowment Fund, for the maintenance of the general work of the Federation, shares in a substantial way in all the proceeds. They have worked night and day to make it a success and to show what woman can do and does.

A FEW OF THE MANY FEATURES:

Prize cover design in colors drawn by a Georgia woman.

Special Editorial Page covering topics of the day, written by Georgia women from woman's viewpoint.

A Department of Art, in which not only is included articles by prominent Georgia women artists, but reproductions of their paintings.

A Society Department, written and edited by prominent young Georgia club women. It contains social news of note in every section of the state, as well as clever feature stories of an original character.

A Department of Music, including articles by and about prominent Georgia women musicians and teachers, both public and private.

An Educational Section, detailing the educational work of Atlanta and the state, and woman's part in it.

A Library Department, with stories of libraries built, books donated and the effort to spread knowledge and raise the general plane of life through the distribution of inspiring and interesting books. A portion of the space is devoted to books and authors with special reference to Georgia.

A Sporting Department, in which club women discuss sports, both amateur and professional, from a feminine point of view. It gives a full account of golf and tennis matches, basketball, baseball, swimming and racing.

Original Poems, Short Stories and Essays, written and illustrated by Georgia women especially for this Woman's Edition.

Pages of News of every woman's club in Georgia, whether federated or not.

The Woman's Edition not only will be valuable from a statistical and informative standpoint, but has been relieved of heaviness by the liberal use of human interest features and unique illustrations.

PRICE EVERYWHERE——10 CENTS THE COPY

WHAT THE WILD WAVES ARE SAYING

HONESTY!
Business has changed.

Years ago what is now regarded as sharp practice was perfectly legitimate.

The best business is that which is twice blessed.

It makes money for youandthe other fellow, too.

The hog eats and eats and eats until he is fat enough—then he is killed.

The hogcish business man grabs all the profit for himself until he gets made, and then they kill him by ostracising him.

In the English public schools they have a term, "Send to Coventry." When a boy is sent to Coventry by his mates it means that none of them will speak to him or have anything to do with him at all. It is one of the worst punishments that the ingenuity of young barbarians ever devised. The business man who does not conduct his business on absolutely fair and honest lines will soon find that his peers have "sent him to Coventry." That is HIS finish.

A FEW ITEMS ABOUT LEONARD W. BROWN

Some Interesting Facts About a Man Who Deals in Headgear, Gloves and Umbrellas.

When an effort was made to discover the age of Leonard W. Brown, the genial wholesale hat man, the interviewer ran against an unexpected stumbling block. Mr. Brown declined to be explicit. Possibly the reason for this lies in the fact that he is a bachelor, though he will always tell you that he is "married to his business." However that may be, the only data that could be discovered on this important question was that he was born in Alabama and came to Atlanta "since the war."

However that may be, Mr. Brown is a graduate of the Atlanta high schools. His very first job was as shipping clerk in a wholesale grocery house, but this wasn't really a regular job—just a kind of a little dyer in the workaday world before he was really ready to choose his proper line of business. When he really did start to work he went first into the wholesale clothing business. He was first in the stock rooms and then had a period of four or five years on the road. Since that time, he has modestly described himself as an "office-man."

Fifteen years ago he went into what he describes as "the best business in the world." This is the hat business, and the company that was founded then is the same as the one that is today so familiar, except for a change in the name. It was known for the first twelve years of its existence as "Atkins, McKeldin & Brown & Co. Three years ago they made the simple change to "Brown, Perryman & Greene Co." the form in which it known today.

Mr. Brown is one of the best business men that Atlanta has, and at the same time he is one of the most unpretentious of men. He attends strictly to business and sees that the big concern of which he is head is always in the forefront of the game, but nevertheless he is not hard to approach. like some big executives, and he is always ready to give courteous and cordial treatment to the man who approaches him reasonably.

He lives, eats, sleeps and dreams "Hats, Caps, Gloves and Umbrellas," and consequently has made a success of his business and has come to be an authority on these goods.

All in all, Leonard W. Brown is a fine fellow, a good man to approach and a man whom it is an incentive to good work and right living to know.

W. H. Eckford, in Mississippi for the M. C. Kiser Co., reports good business conditions particularly promising there.

W. E. Rumph, the South Carolina man for the Warren Manufacturing company, came in Saturday to spend the week-end.

J. D Shroeder, with the Atlanta Paper company, is in from Mississippi. He is circumventing around with his machine, as usual, and the young ladies are all happy.

W. S. Gaston, with Fain & Stamps, is spending Saturday and Sunday with his parents at Carrollton, Ga.

E. E. Shyer, with the Consolidated Paper company, was talking of what a pleasure it is for a traveling man to call on some of his trade and of how he looks forward to the time when he will make a certain territory because of some particular customer he has there. He mentioned John Quaries, of Quaries & Son, leading merchants of Rome, Ga., as a good example.

The ins this week with Ragan-Malone Co. are B. R. Pennington, W. M. Johnson, Dan Tuggle, Morris Croft and Sam Hanes. They all brought in nice orders and are enthusiastic over the season's prospects.

RIFLE SHOTS

N. K. SMITH
THE "PROFIT" OF KENNESAW MOUNTAIN

"TIME WAS—LONG AGO"

"MAN AND THREE CHILDREN KILLED WHILE CROSSING TRACKS AT——"

The startling frequency of this and similar headlines in the daily papers is appalling. Who knows, it may be you next, for nearly every man, woman and child in the state of Georgia has to make grade crossings daily. The number of people killed in this way is amazing, and yet, in this great state, these conditions are allowed to exist with no effort on the part of the railroads to cure the evil or reduce these fatalities, and no effort on the part of the people to co-operate with the railroads and eliminates these crossings.

The state legislature meets and meets, and meets again, and spends money and passes laws to protect qu w to protect rabbits, and a law to create the office of game warden. They appropriate vast sums of money to care for this kind of legislation, but never seem to think of passing a law to protect human beings from being hurled into eternity by railroad trains running at sixty miles an hour and rendering these grade crossing more dangerous and more fatal than wars.

The entire burden of remedying this evil should not necessarily be placed on the railroads, but there should be co-operation. Every county in Georgia has convicts at work on the roads, and it would only be fair for the counties to work together with the railroads and remove these death traps. Let the railroads furnish and deliver at grade crossings all the material necessary to make either an underpass or an overhead bridge, and let each county do the work. This would be cheaper in the long run, both for the railroads and the counties and the state, and would be the means of saving many lives. It would be cheaper for the railroads, because it always costs them more than a grade crossing is worth to kill several people, and the loss of athe people thus killed costs the state and counties more in good citizens than they would have to spend to pay for changing a grade crossing to an over or underpass.

Not many weeks ago, one of the most beloved and respected citizens of Newnan, Ga., was driving home from his farm in a buggy. It was a bright, clear, pretty day, and all nature seemed rejoicing. He had to make a certain grade crossing that he had been accustomed to making for the past twenty years. He was careful, he did not drink, and yet it got him at last. He looked up the track and neither saw nor heard trains. He started across, and before his buggy had time to clear the track, a train, running late and fast, dashed into him, and, breaking nearly every bone in his body, killed him instantly. No doubt that same grade crossing is there today, just the same as it was then, always ready to deal death to anyone who may have to pass that way.

Has Coweta county done anything to eliminate this grade crossing that in a moment took one of her best citizens? Has the West Point railroad done anything to make a dangerous place safe? Isn't it strange to note the freaks of mankind and the curious nerrowness of his ideas? If this same man had been murdered in cold blood, Newnan could and would have raised and paid $1,000 to convict the murderer. It would have been raised in half a day. And if some man had stolen $100 from this same railroad, the officers of the road would chave cheerfully spent $1,000 to get the thief and convict him. Yet it is the height of improbability to think that either the citizens or the railroad have made any move at all to remove this grade crossing, the doing of which would probably cost about one-half of the above named sum. Certainly not any more. It is just as dangerous today as it was the moment it killed Mr. Farrott; it is just as likely to be the death of anyone at any moment as it was then. Newnan is not an exception at all. This case is merely used as an illustration of a condition that exists throughout the country. Every county in Georgia has a grade railroad crossing the public roads. These conditions could be remedied. They should be remedied, and if ever Georgia has a real legislature, it may be done. But it is more than time that this question will have to be handled by the grand juries and the separate counties, if any results are expected.

CHILE CON CARNE
GET IT WHILE IT'S HOT

W. M. Jenkins, a well-known traveling salesman and press chairman for the state T. P. A., has been confined to his home for several days from the effects of ptomaine poisoning, but is now improving, and will soon be out.

T. S. Mathews, of Albany, Ga., has been in the city attending the Retail Hardware Men's convention. He left for his home on Thursday night.

Among the visitors with the Lamar & Rankin Drug company this week were Dr. J. E. C. W. Smith, of Fairmetto, Ga.; Mr. Hewell, of Dewey Rose, Ga.; C. J. Tucker, Lithonia, Ga.; Paul D. Selman, Douglasville, Ga., and Dr. A. R. Scott, of McDonough, Ga.

John Silvey & Co. were found busy this week taking stock. It was the semi-annual inventory of their stocks, and they reported everything running smoothly.

W. B. Carlton, of the Capital City Tobacco company, came in Wednesday after a ten-day trip in south Georgia. He remarked that the weather was particularly hot there, and that business had also been particularly good.

E. H. Hagan, with J. D. Frasier company, came back this week from a trip in south Georgia, where he has evidently established some records for feed sales. He states that of all the feeds he ever sold he finds that the best sellers are McGrain and Alfarina. He states that every customer is sure to repeat orders, and that consequently a salesman feels that every time he makes a new sales he is adding to his future business—which is nice.

L. E. Meredith is the name of a recent acquisition to the forces of the Ward-Truitt company. Mr. Meredith comes from New York, where he has been with H. B. Chaflin & Co. He will cover the Georgia road territory for his new connection, and starts out on Monday.

The Capital City Tobacco company reported Friday that their sales for May, 1913, had already beaten the May, 1912, sales, and there were two days still to be heard from.

A. H. Stedman, with the J. D. Frasier company, came in Saturday from the Georgia road, where he has been placing lots of McGrain and Alfarina.

The Dixie Pickle and Preserving company were found busy, and reported big shipments and also big orders for future shipments. They were also busy fixing up screen doors on the office for the summer months.

Sales Manager J. L. Shipp, with Robert M. Green & Sons, report good sales on soda fountains this week. They have placed one deal in Augusta and another in Albany. He remarked that now was the time when the purchasers of their fountains were beginning to reap the big profits for themselves, as the weather had turned so hot.

Lamar & Rankin Drug company remarked this week that it was well worth the time it took to show their visitors through their plant. Mr. Hewell, of Dewey Rose, was much impressed with his trip this week, and remarked that the people of Georgia would certainly not suffer for lack of medicines.

J. T. Woodruff, with the Woodruff Machinery company, has been in the city all week taking in the Retail Hardware Men's convention. He reported a mighty good time, and stated that his firm were very much pleased with results.

Vice President M. L. Minor, of the Warren Maunfacturing company was found busy on Friday getting up the samples for their salesmen so that they could all get out with heir fall lines this coming week.

Mack Hirshberg, of the Hirshberg company, and a son of President Isi Hirshberg, made his debut as a traveling salesman this week. He left Monday for Macon, and judging from the bulnesss and reports that are coming in he is going to like a veteran.

The Capital City Tobacco company will have charge of the cigar stand in the new Ansley hotel. This is the same as saying that the cigars will be one of the best features of a good hotel.

Sales Manager C. F. Holt, of the Dixie Pickle and Preserving company is in Rome this week, where he is finding the "big orders."

Sales Manager A. J. Woodruff, of the Woodruff Machinery Manufacturing company, said that the barbecue he attended at the Atlanta Steel company on Thursday was the finest ever, and was only equalled by the luncheon given at the Brookhaven club on Friday.

C. P. Webb, the Alabama man with the Warren Manufacturing company, came in Friday with a pocketful of orders, and was delighted to find that he had led the sales for his company for May, thus winning the ten spot which is given every month.

Leopold Hein, with Montag Brothers, came in Tuesday after a gratifying trip through Texas, where he has been all year. He starts out Monday for a short trip around the Georgia points.

S. Singleton, the man of "Big Four peanut butter sandwiches" fame, was in Chattanooga this week, where he placed the goods with Trigg, Dobbs & Co., one of the leading wholesale grocery houses in Tennessee.

Secretary C. J. Sullivan, of the M. C. Kiser company, stated that he had been too busy this week to notice if there had been anything startling happening, but that he did know that R. B. Sloan, their Tennessee man, was having extra good business, and that he had sent in one order for $2,750 this week.

FAVORS REGULATION OF WIDTH OF TIRES

Meeting of Highway Commissioners and Wagon and Motor Truck Men Suggested.

A meeting of leading state highway commissioners and the manufacturers of horse-drawn wagons and motor-driven trucks s the suggestion of Chairman George C. Diehl of the Automobile Association of America national good roads board, who contends that the time has arrived when those interests can advantageously discuss the drafting of suitable legislation governing the width of tires and the weight of loads. After an interchange of views, a committee could prepare laws, the passage of which would be practically assured when put forward by the chief highway officers of the various states.

"Many states have enacted laws which endeavor to regulate the width of tires of vehicles, but unfortunately there has not been strict enforcement of these regulations," says Chairman Diehl. "The width of tires is one of the important facts in highway construction and maintenance. Narrow tires, especially during the wet season, form ruts in unimproved roads and in many instances where the roads are weak, break through the surface, with the subsequent rapid destruction of the highway.

"One great difficulty in enforcing wide tire ordinances with horse-drawn vehicles has been that while legislation is required with wide tires, on slippery clay or hilly roads it is very difficult in wet weather to manage a horse-drawn vehicle with wide tires, owing to its tendency to skid and slide into ditches. In fact, it is frequent where, in a journey, a farmer must drive over miles of slippery road and only have a few miles of improved highway, in which case he would naturally prefer to use narrow tires for the entire distance rather than to attempt the use of wide tires over the slippery section of the road.

"There is no question that protection and economical maintenance of improved highways require that narrow tires should be discarded, and ordinances must be enforced which will prevent their use on such improved highways which have been improved at great expense.

"Another traffic factor which should be the subject of uniform legislation or regulation is the carrying of lights on vehicles at night. Nearly all automobile laws require the use of real lights on motor-driven vehicles. In some of the more populous sections, such as New York and Chicago, many drivers of horses use lights, without the legal requirement, as a matter of self-protection. That alone does emphasize the need for laws on the subject."

Fruit Company Salesmen Now Using Automobiles In Hunting for Business

An unusually large individual sale of pleasure cars was made last week when the Pioneer Automobile company, Chalmers dealers at Sacramento, Cal., delivered sixteen Chalmers cars to the Pioneer Fruit company, with headquarters at the California capital. Ten of the cars, "thirty-sixes," will be used by salesmen of the company, and six "sixes" are for the officers.

The cars will see service in all sections of California and the western coast.

The big sale was the direct result of the performance of a Chalmers purchased by one of the fruit company's salesmen two years ago. This salesman bought the car for his personal use, and drove it when covering his territory in the fruit districts. He made so much progress and handled so much ground that his work attracted the attention of the officers of the company. They naturally looked for his "secret of success," and found it in the motor car. Up to this time they had not seriously considered the purchase of automobiles for their outside men.

The salesman's car showed such a good record with a negligible cost of upkeep and gasoline consumption that the board of directors decided on the purchase of sixteen of the new models. The one man had increased his value to them through the use of a car, and they reasoned that every salesman could do the same, provided he was properly equipped. Then they placed the order.

R. D. Bunn, manager of the Pioneer Automobile company, reports a heavy increase in coast business, and predicts a big gain next year over 1913 sales. Road improvement work in California has been so far advanced that the highways there are now pronounced as nearly perfect as possible. This, says Mr. Bunn, with the moderate climate, is, to a great extent, responsible for the popularity of the automobiles there.

Linsley to Investigate Motor Truck Prospects In American Republics

On May 1, D. R. Linsley, representing the Chase Motor Truck company, of Syracuse, sailed on an extended trip to cover the leading points in the West Indies and South America.

Chase trucks are in use in practically all parts of South America. To Argentine alone upward of forty Chase trucks have been shipped. The demand throughout that country, as well as Brazil and United States of Colombia, has of late been steadily increasing.

The chief object of Mr. Linsley's trip is to get first-hand information on roads, climate and trade conditions. Such information will be of greatest value to the home office, especially in view of the development of motor truck uses on farms, ranches and coffee plantations, which offer an excellent new motor truck field.

Mr. Linsley will inspect the Chase trucks now in service. Many have been in use for a number of years. He will find out how these now compare with Chase trucks that have seen equal service in our own climate.

Mr. Linsley will visit Chase dealers in Porto Rico, Curacao, Spanish West Indies, Venezuela, United States of Colombia, the Barbadoe s,Brazil, Uruguay and Argentina, stopping at all principal cities, including Rio de Janeiro, Santos, San Paulo, Buenos Ayres, etc.

He will interview prospective dealers throughout these countries, as numerous inquiries have been reaching the Chase Motor Truck company from South American cities and towns where the company is not now represented.

HENDERSON ANNOUNCES 1914 MODEL

R. P. HENDERSON AT WHEEL OF HENDERSON 1914 ROADSTER AND RAY HARROUN, THE FAMOUS CUP WINNER, AT WHEEL OF 1914 TOURING IN SPEEDWAY PADDOCK.

In keeping with their policy of former years, "The Hendersons of Indianapolis" are making their announcement of the 1914 Henderson cars at the time of the 500-mile race in Indianapolis. Preceding the gathering of the crowds in the Hoosier capital, the announcement is made through the columns of the daily press, and during the race the new cars will be on exhibit in Indianapolis at the Claypool hotel.

These new cars, while retaining the many features that made the Henderson prominent at all the automobile shows last winter, are further refined, and wire wheels will be offered as optional equipment. The new series also incorporates a six-cylinder in addition to the four, and both the six and four will be offered in the following body styles: five-passenger, touring, roadster and coupe.

The Henderson Motor Car company was the first in America to offer wire wheels as regular equipment on stock models, and the success of the wire wheel in the past six months has led those progressive manufacturers of Indianapolis to offer in this new series the choice of wire wheels or the conventional wood wheel on any model.

The unique center control lever which is placed between the front seats and has made the Henderson one of the most advanced cars in design of 1913 is retained. The control lever is operated by lifting up the knob of the control lever and moving back and forth.

Left-hand drive and gasoline tank in the dash cowl are also features of the new series, which were incorporated in the 1913 cars. The gasoline tank in the dash cowl is a distinctive advantage, as it gives a perfect gravity feed of fuel to the carburetor at all times, and the car will climb any grade owing to the level of the tank always being higher than the carburetor.

Another distinct feature of the new series will be the offering to the American public of the first practical kerosene carburetor in this country. This instrument is the invention of Ray Harroun, the famous racing driver. The carburetor will use kerosene, gasoline or motor spirit with like good results from all, and it can be operated for any fuel by an adjustment on the dash. This carburetor may be had on any model of the new series.

The Henderson models will also be characterized by the free running boards as in the previous models, all battery boxes and tool compartments being concealed under the front seats, and the spare tire or wheel is carried at the rear. The fifty-inch three-quarter elliptic spring which does away with the installation of shock absorbers is also retained. Another feature is the combination tail light and license bracket which is so constructed that the license tag of any state can be attached in a moment.

The Ward Leonard electric lighting and starting systems are also a part of the regular equipment, and the ignition system will be a separate high tension magneto.

"It is our opinion that every successful motor car of 1914 must be extensively advertised in the newspapers."

MOTOR CAR IS SAFEST METHOD OF TRAVELING

You Hear of Accidents, but They Are Comparatively Few, Says H. R. Radford.

That the motor car is the safest of all means of transportation is the statement of Harry R. Radford, vice president and general manager of the Cartercar company, of Pontiac, Mich. Mr. Radford makes some very interesting comparisons to bring out the basis for his assertion.

"Just consider the number of motor cars that are used," said Mr. Radford. "Think of the thousands of cars that are whizz ng over every road in the country. You hear of accidents, true, but these accidents are very few, remarkably few, when you think of the great number of motor cars in use.

"Trains are wrecked every day, yet there are more automobiles in one state than there are trains in the whole country. You hear of horses running away, of trolley cars causing trouble, of Titanic disasters, and when you sum these all up you will see that the motor car is really safer than walking.

"The manufacturers are doing everything in their power to make their cars safe," continued Mr. Radford, "and the result of their work is very gratifying. We have made the Cartercar practically immune from any kind of trouble, simply by cutting out the complicated parts, such as using a gearless transmission. This feature of the Cartercar is one of the reasons why we get so many enthusiastic letters."

PLAYERS' FRATERNITY SUES THE RED SOX

New York, May 31.—The recently organized baseball players fraternity started suit here today against the Boston American club in behalf of Pitcher Burt M. ("Casey") Hageman, to recover $1,400 on the ground that the club broke a contract with him when it suspended him last June. The papers set forth that the club refused to give the pitcher his release, and that he was not permitted to play with any other club.

The contract, according to the complaint, provided that Hageman should receive $400 a month from April 15 to October 15, 1912.

Firestone Stock Tires, Choice of Europe and America, Again Win, Taking First and Second Place in 500-Mile International Race at Indianapolis

J. Goux, the winner, driving the French Peugeot, knowing this would be a battle of tires, chose FIRESTONE. Spencer Wishart, with his American-made Mercer, finished second on FIRESTONE TIRES. This is distinctly the greatest tire victory on record and under the worst conditions of heat, weight and speed—overwhelming evidence of FIRESTONE superiority.

We Don't Build Racing Tires

Firestone stock tires won the race. Firestone stock tires have carried Bob Burman, Barney Oldfield, Ray Harroun and others to record-breaking victories. And these are the stock tires YOU will get when you specify Firestone.

A STRANGE BANQUET

By John Kendrick Bangs

Drawing by D. Russom

THADDEUS," said Bessie to her husband as they sat at breakfast one morning, shortly after the royal banquet over which "Grimmins" had presided, "did you hear anything strange in the house last night? Something like a footstep in the hall?"

"No," said Thaddeus. "I slept like a top last night. I didn't hear anything. Did you?"

"I thought so," said Bessie. "About two o'clock I waked up with a start, and while it may have been a sort of waking dream, I was almost certain I heard a rustling sound out in the hall, and immediately after a creaking on the stairs, as though there was somebody there."

"Well, why on earth didn't you wake me, Bess?" returned Thaddeus. "I could easily have decided the matter by getting up and investigating."

"That was why I didn't wake you, Teddy. I'd a great deal rather lose the silver or anything else in the house a burglar might want than have you hit on the head with a sand-club," said Bessie. "You men are too brave."

"Thank you," said Thaddeus, with a smile, as he thought of a certain discussion he had had not long before at the club, in which he and several other brave men had reached the unanimous conclusion that the best thing to do at dead of night, with burglars in the house, was to crawl down under the bedclothes and smother as loudly as possible. "Nevertheless, my dear, you should have told me."

"I will next time," said Bessie.

"Was anything in the house disturbed?" Thaddeus asked.

"No," said Bessie. "Not a thing, as far as I can find out. Mary says that everything was all right when she came down, and the cook apparently found things straight, because she hasn't said anything."

So Thaddeus and Bessie made up their minds that the latter had been dreaming, and that nothing was wrong. Two or three days later, however, they changed their minds on the subject. There was something decidely wrong, but what it was they could not discover. They were both awakened by a rustling sound in the hallway, outside of their room, and this time there was a creak on the stairs that was unmistakable.

"Don't move, Thaddeus," said Bessie, in a terrified whisper, as Thaddeus made a brave effort to get up and personally investigate. "I would-not have you hurt for all the world, and there isn't a thing down-stairs they can take that we can't afford to lose."

Thaddeus felt very much as Bessie did, and it would have pleased him much better to lie quietly where he was than run the risk of an encounter with thieves. He had been brave enough in the company of men to advocate cowardice in an emergency of just this sort, but now that this same course was advocated by his wife, he saw it in a different light. Prudence was possible, cowardice was not. He must get up, and get up he did; but before going out of his room he secured his revolver, which had lain untouched and unloaded in his bureau-drawer for two years, and then advanced cautiously to the head of the stairs and listened—Bessie meanwhile having buried her face in her pillow as a possible means of assuaging her fears. It is singular what a soothing effect a soft pillow sometimes has upon the agitated nerves if the nose of the agitated person is thrust far enough into its yielding surface.

"Who is there?" cried Thaddeus, standing at the head of the stairs, his knees all of a shake, but whether from fear or cold, as an admirer of Thaddeus I prefer not to state.

Apparently the stage-whisper in which this challenge to a possible burglar was uttered, rendered it unavailing, for there was no reply; but that there was some one below who could reply Thaddeus was now convinced, for there were sounds in the library—sounds, however, suggestive of undue attention to domestic duties rather than of that which fate has mapped out for house-breakers. The library floor was apparently being swept.

"That's the biggest idiot of a burglar I've ever heard of," said Thaddeus, returning to his room.

"Wh-wha-what, d-dud-dear?" mumbled Mrs. Perkins, burying her ear in the pillow for comfort now that she was compelled to take her nose away so that she might talk intelligibly.

"I say that burglar must be an idiot," repeated Thaddeus. "What do you suppose he is doing now?"

"Wh-wha-what, d-dud-dear?" asked Bessie, apparently unable to think of any formula other than this in speaking, since this was the second time she had used it.

"He is sweeping the library."

"Then you must not go down," cried Bessie, sitting up, and losing her fear for a moment in her anxiety for her husband's safety. "A burglar you might manage, but a maniac—"

"I must go, Bess," said Thaddeus, firmly.

"Then I'm going with you," said Mrs. Perkins, with equal firmness.

"Now, Bess, don't be foolish," returned Thaddeus, his face assuming a graver expression than his wife had ever seen there. "This is my work, and it is none of yours. I positively forbid you to stir out of this room. I shall be very careful, and you need have no concern for me. I shall go down the backstairs and around by the porch, and peep in through the library window first. The moonlight will be sufficient to enable me to see all that is necessary."

"Very well," acquiesced Bessie, "only do be careful."

Thaddeus donned his long bath-robe, put on his slippers, and started to descend. The stairs were so dark that he could with difficulty proceed—and perhaps it was just as well for Thaddeus that they were. If there had been light enough for him to see two great glaring eyes that stared at him through that darkness out from the passageway at the foot of the stairs, upon which he turned his back when he went out upon the porch, it is not unlikely that a very serious climax to his strange experience would have been reached then and there. As it was, he saw nothing, but kept straight ahead, stepped noiselessly out upon the piazza, crept stealthily along in the soft light of the moon, until he reached the library window. There he stopped and listened. All was still within—so still that the beating of his heart seemed like the hammering of a sledge upon an anvil by contrast. Then, raising himself cautiously upon his toes, he peered through the window into the room, the greater part of which was made visible by the wealth of the moon's light streaming into it.

"Humph!" said Thaddeus, after he had directed his searching gaze into every corner. "There isn't anybody there at all. Most incomprehensible thing I ever heard of."

Rising, he walked back to the piazza door, and went thence boldly into the library and lit the gas. His piazza observations were then verified, for the room was devoid of life, save for Thaddeus's own presence; but upon the floor before the hearth was a broom, and there were evidences also that the sweeping sounds he had heard had been caused by no less an instrument than this, for in the corner of the fireplace was a heap of dust, cigar ashes, and scraps of paper, which Thaddeus remembered had been upon the hearth in greater or less quantity when he had turned out the gas to retire a few hours before.

"This is a serious matter," he said to himself. "Something is wrong, and I doubt if there have been burglars in the house; but I can ascertain that without trouble. If the doors and windows are all secure the trouble is internal."

Every accessible door and window on the basement and the first floor was examined, and, with the exception of the piazza door, which Thaddeus remembered to have unlocked himself a few minutes before, every lock was fastened. The disturbance had come from within.

"And Bess must never know it," said he; "it would worry her to death."

And then came a thought to Thaddeus's mind that almost stopped the beating of his heart. "Unless she has discovered it in my absence," he gasped. In an instant he was mounting the stairs to hasten to Bessie's side, as though some terrible thing were pursuing him.

"Well, what was it Ted?" she asked, as he entered the room.

Perkins gave a sigh of relief. All was safe enough above-stairs at least.

"Nothing much," said Thaddeus, in a moment. "There is no one below."

"But what could it have been?"

"I haven't the slightest idea," said Thaddeus, "unless it was a stray cat in the house. The sweeping sound may have been caused by a cat scratching its collar—or purring—or —or—something. At any rate, things appear to be all right, my dear, so let's go to sleep."

Thaddeus's assumed confidence in the truthfulness of everything, rather than his explanations, was convincing to Mrs. Perkins, and in a very short while she was sleeping the sleep of the just and serene; but to Thaddeus's eye there came no more sleep that night, and when morning came he rose unrefreshed. There were two problems confronting him. The first was to solve the mystery of the swept library floor; the second was to do this without arousing his wife's suspicions that anything was wrong. To do the first he deemed it necessary to remain at home that day, which was easy, for Thaddeus was more or less independent of office-work.

"I'm glad you're not going down," said Mrs. Perkins, when he announced his intention of remaining at home. "You will be able to make up for your loss of sleep last night."

"Yes, said Thaddeus. "It's the only thing I can do, I'm so played out."

Breakfast passed off pleasantly in spite of a great drawback—the steak was burned almost to a crisp, and the fried potatoes were like chips of wood.

"Margaret seems to be unfamiliar with the art of cooking this morning," said Tahddeus.

"So it would seem," said Bessie. "This steak is horrible."

"The worst part of it is," said Thaddeus, "she has erred on the wrong side. If the steak were underdone it wouldn't be so bad. Isn't it a pity Edison can't invent a machine to rarefy an overdone steak?"

"That would be a fine idea," smiled Bessie. "And to take a Saratoga chip and make it less like a chip off a granite block."

"I don't mind the potatoes so much," said Thaddeus. "I can break them up in a bowl of milk and secure a gastronomic novelty that, suitably seasoned, isn't at all bad, but the steak is hopeless."

"Maybe she heard that cat last night, and thought it was a burglar, just as we did," Bessie suggested. "I can't account for a breakfast like this in any other way, can you?"

"No," said Thaddeus, shortly, and then he had an idea; and when Thaddeus had an idea he was apt to become extremely reticent.

"Poor Thad!" thought Bessie, as she noted his sudden change of demeanor. "He can't stand loss of sleep."

The morning was spent by Thaddeus in the "noble pastime of snooping," as he called it. The house was searched by him in a casual sort of way from top to bottom for a clew to the mystery, but without avail. Several times he went below to the cellar, ostensibly to inspect his coal supply, really to observe the demeanor of Margaret, the cook. Barring an unusual pallor upon her cheek, she appeared to be as she always had been; but with the waitress it was different. Mary was evidently excited over something, but over what Thaddeus could not, of course, determine at that time. Later in the day, however, the cause of her pertubation came out, and Thaddeus's efforts to keep Bessie from anxiety over the occurrence of the night before were rendered unavailing. It was at luncheon. The table was set in a most peculiar fashion. The only china upon it was from an old set which had been discarded a year previous to the time of this story, and Bessie naturally wanted to know why, and the waitress broke down.

"It's—it's all we have, ma'am," said she, her eyes filling with tears.

"All we have?" echoed Mrs. Perkins in surprise. "Why, what do you mean? Where is the other set?"

"I don't know," protested the waitress.

"You don't know?" said Thaddeus, taking the matter in hand. "Why don't you know? Isn't the china a part of your care?"

"Yes, sir," replied the maid, "but—it's gone sir, and I don't know where."

"When did you miss it?" asked Thaddeus.

"Not until I came to set the table for lunch."

"Was it in its proper place at breakfast-time?"

"I didn't notice, sir. The breakfast dishes were all there, but I don't remember seeing the other plates. I didn't think to look."

"Then it wasn't the cat," said Bessie, sinking back into her chair; "we have been robbed."

"Well, it's the first time on record, I guess, that thieves have ever robbed a man of his china," said Thaddeus, calmly. "Have you looked for the plates?" he added, addressing the waitress.

"No, sir," she replied, simply. "Where could I look?"

SHE'D STOP, RUSH TO THE DOOR, AND SHAKE HANDS WITH SOME INVISIBLE ARRIVAL

"That's so—where?" said Bessie. "There isn't much use looking for dishes when they disappear like that. They aren't like whisk-brooms or button-hooks to be mislaid easily. We have been robbed; that's all there is about that."

"Oh, well," said Thaddeus, "let's eat lunch, and see about it afterwards."

This was quite easy to say, but to eat under the circumstances was too much for either of the young householders. The luncheon left the table practically untouched; and when it was over Thaddeus called his man into the house, wrote a note to the police station, asking for an officer in citizen's clothes at once, and despatched it by him, with the injunction to let very little grass grow under his feet on the way down to headquarters. He then summoned the waitress into the library.

"Have you said anything to Margaret about the china?" he asked.

"Yes, sir," she replied.

"What did you say?"

"I told her as how wasn't it funny the way it had went, sir."

"And what did she say?"

"Nothing, sir. Only she seemed to think it was funny, because she laughed."

"And what did you say then?"

"Nothing, Mr. Perkins. Margaret and me have very little conversation, because she don't fancy me, and prefers talkin' to herself like."

"H'm!" said Thaddeus. "Talks to herself, does she?"

"All the time, sir," returned the waitress, "and she seems very fond of it, sir. She laughs, and says things and then laughs again. She does it by the hour."

"How long has this been going on?"

"About a week, sir. I noticed it first last time I had my day out. I didn't get in until nearly eleven o'clock, and I found her sitting at the table havin' supper and talkin' and laughin' like as though there was folks around."

"She was entirely alone, was she?" asked Thaddeus.

"Yes, sir."

"What did you do when you came in?"

"I said 'Hello' to her and sat down opposite to her at the table, where there was a place set, and I told her I was glad she had something to eat and a place set for me, because I had not had any supper and I was hungry, sir."

"Did she make any reply?"

"No, sir. She looked at me kind of indignant, and turned out the gas and went up to bed, leavin' me in the dark."

Thaddeus's brow grew thoughtful again. It wrinkled into a half-dozen lines as he asked:

"Why didn't you speak of this before?"

"It ain't for me to be telling tales, Mr. Perkins," she said. "All cooks as I've lived with is queer like, and I didn't think any more about it."

"All right," said Thaddeus. "You may go. Only, Mary, don't speak of the plates again to Margaret. Say as little to her as you can, in fact, about anything. If you notice anything queer, report to me at once."

The waitress left the room, and Thaddeus turned to his desk. It was plain from his appearance that light was beginning to be let in on places that up to this point had been more or less dark to him, although, as a matter of fact, he could not in any way account for the mystery of the vanished plates any more than he could for the sweeping of the library in the still hours of the night. He had an idea as to who the culprit was, and what that idea was is plain enough to us, but the question of motive was the great puzzle to him now.

"If she did take them, why should she?" was the problem he was trying to solve; and then, as if his trials were not already great enough for one day, Bessie broke excitedly into the room.

"Thaddeus!" she cried, "there's something wrong in this house; my best tablecloth is missing, our dessert-spoons are gone, and what do you suppose has happened?"

"I don't know—a volcano has developed in the cellar, I suppose," said Thaddeus.

"No," said Bessie, "it isn't as bad as that; but the ice-cream man has telephoned up to know whether we want the cream for dinner or for eleven o'clock, according to the order as he understands it."

"Well," said Thaddeus, "I don't see anything very unusual in an ice-cream man's needing to be told three or four times what is expected of him."

"But I never ordered any cream at all," said Bessie.

"Ah," said Thaddeus, "that's different. Did you tell Partinelli so?"

"I did, and he said he was sure he wasn't mistaken, because he had taken the order himself."

"From you?"

"No, from Margaret."

"Do you think Margaret is dishonest?"

"I don't know," said Thaddeus. "I shouldn't be surprised if she had friends with taking ways; in other words, my dear, I suspect that Margaret is in league with people outside of this house who profit by her mistaken notions as to how to be generous; but I can't prove it yet."

"But what are you going to do?"

"Set a watch. I have sent for a detective," said Thaddeus.

"Detective!" she gasped.

"Exactly," said Thaddeus, "and here he comes," he added, as a carriage was driven up to the door and one of the citizen police descended therefrom.

"You would better leave us to talk over this matter together," said Thaddeus, as he hastened to the door. "We shall be able to manage it entirely, and the details might make you nervous."

"I couldn't be more nervous than I am," said Bessie; "but I'll leave you just the same."

Whereupon she went to her room, and Thaddeus, for an hour, was closeted with the detective, to whom he detailed the whole story.

"It's one of the two," said the latter, when Thaddeus had finished, "and I agree with you it is more likely to be the cook than the waitress. If it was the waitress, she couldn't have stood your examination as well as you say she did. Perhaps I'd better see her, though, and talk to her myself."

So it was arranged. The detective was introduced into the family as a correspondent of Thaddeus's firm, and he settled down to watch the household. Afternoon and evening went by without developments, and at about eleven o'clock every light in the house was extinguished, and the whole family, from the head of the house to the cook, had apparently retired.

At half-past eleven, however, there were decided signs of life within the walls of Thaddeus's home. The clew was working satisfactorily, and the complete revelation of the mystery was close at hand.

The remainder of the narrative can best be told in the words of the detective:

"After we'd had dinner and spent the evening in Mr. Perkins's library, the family went to bed, and I pretended to do the same. Instead of really going to bed, I waited my chance and slipped down the stairs into the dining-room, and got under the table. At eleven o'clock the maid-servants went up to their rooms, and at quarter-past there wasn't a light burning in the house. I sat there in the dining-room waiting, and just as the clock struck half-past eleven I heard a noise out on the stairs, and in less than half a minute a sulphur match was struck almost over my head under the table, and there stood the cook, her face livid as that of a dead person, and in her hand she held a candle, which she lit with the match. From where I was I could see everything she did, which was not much. She simply gathered up all the table fixings she could, and started down-stairs into the kitchen with 'em. Then I went up to Mr. Perkins's room and called him. He put on his clothes and got out his revolver, when we stole down-stairs together, leaving Mrs. Perkins upstairs, with her boy's nurse and the waitress to keep her company.

"In a second we were in the laundry, which was as dark as the ace of spades, except where the light from four gas-jets in the kitchen streamed in through the half-open door. Mr. Perkins was for pouncing in on the cook at once, but I was after the rest of the gang as much as I was for the cook, and I persuaded him to wait; and, by thunder, we were paid for waiting. It was the queerest case I ever had.

"That woman—looking for all the world like a creature from some other part of the universe than this earth, her eyes burning like two huge coals, her cheeks as yellow and clear as so much wax, and her lips blue-white, with a great flaming red tongue sort of laid between them—worked like a slave cleaning the floor, polishing the range, and scrubbing the table. Then she dusted all the chairs, and, producing the missing table-cloth, she laid it snow-white upon the table. In two minutes more the lost china was brought to light out of the flour barrel, polished off, and set upon the table—enough for twenty people. The dining room things I had seen her take she arranged as tastefully as any one could want, and then the finest layout in the way of salads, cakes, fruits, and other good things I ever saw was brought in from the cellar. To do all this took a marvellously short time. It was five minutes of midnight when she got through, and then she devoted three minutes to looking after herself. She whisked out a small hand glass and touched up her hair a bit. Then she washed her hands and pinned some roses on her dress, smiled a smile I can never forget in my life, and opened the kitchen door and went out.

"'She's going to give a supper!' whispered Mr. Perkins.

"'It looks like it,' said I. 'And a mighty fine one at that.'

"In a minute she came back with a pail, in which were four bottles of champagne, in her hand. This she took into the cellar, returning to the kitchen as the clock struck twelve.

"Then the queerest part began," said the detective. "For ten minutes by the clock people were apparently arriving, though, as far as Mr. Perkins or I could see, there wasn't a soul in the kitchen besides Margaret. She was talking away like one possessed. Every once in a while she'd stop, rush to the door, and shake hands with some invisible arrival. Then she'd walk in with them, chatting and laughing. Several times she went through the motion of taking people's hats, and finally, if we could judge from her actions, she had 'em all seated at the table. She passed salads all around, helping each guest herself. She sent them fruit and cakes, and then she brought out the wine, which she distributed in the same fashion. She also apologized because some ice-cream she had ordered hadn't come.

"When the invisible guests appeared to have had all they could eat, she began the chatty part again, and never seemed to be disturbed but once, when she requested some one not to sing so loud for fear of disturbing the family.

"Mr. Perkins and I didn't know what to make of it. There wasn't a thing stolen, and it was clear to my mind that I'd done the woman an injustice in connecting her with thieves. She was honest, except in so far as she had ordered all those salads and creams and things from time to time on Mr. Perkins's account, which was easy enough for her to do, since Mrs. Perkins let her do the ordering. There was only one explanation of the matter. She was crazy, and I said so.

"'I fancy you are right,' said Mr. Perkins. 'We'll have to send her to an asylum!'

"'That's the thing,' said I, 'and we'd better do it the first thing in the morning. I wouldn't tackle her to-night, because she's probably excited, and like as not would make a great deal of trouble.'

"And that," said the detective, "was where Mr. Perkins and I made our mistake. Next morning she wasn't to be found, and to this day I haven't heard a word of her. She disappeared just like that," he said, snapping his fingers. "Of course, I don't mean to say that anything supernatural occurred. She simply must have slipped down and out while we were asleep. The front door was wide open in the morning, and a woman answering to her description was seen to leave the Park station, five miles from the Perkins house, on the six-thirty train that morning."

"And you have no idea where she is now?" I asked of the detective, when he had finished.

"No," he answered, "not the slightest. For all I know she may be cooking for you at this very minute."

For my part, I hope the detective was wrong. If I thought there was a possibility of Margaret's ever being queen of my culinary department, I should either give up housekeeping at once and join some simple community where every man is his own chef, or dine forevermore on canned goods.

RINGING CURFEW FOR JOHN KILBANE

Fight Critics Do Not Like the Champion—McCue and Anderson Are Promising Material.

By JAMES J. CORBETT.
(Former Heavyweight Champion of the World. Written Exclusively for The Constitution.)

New York, May 31.—(Special.)—Although Johnny Kilbane has not expressed any intention of abdicating as boss of the featherweight division, the pugilistic sharps throughout the country are busily engaged in speculating on his probable successor. It is the belief of quite a few eminent experts that the Cleveland boy has failed to hit the mark set by champions of former days, and that his days as head of the division are numbered.

In the middle west the fight critics believe they have discovered the "coming" champion in the person of Matty McCue, an 18-year-old boxer, of Racine, Wis., who boasts a long string of victories in which the "k.o." figure prominently.

There is little doubt that McCue has been coming along very fast, and that his record is sufficiently impressive to expect great things of him in the future, but it will take more than newspaper "boosts" to make us consider him seriously as a candidate for the championship at this time.

Matty's record has so far been compiled chiefly at the expense of second and third-raters. He has not yet met a first-class man, and until he has done so it is absurd to talk of measuring the youngster for a championship crown.

I understand McCue has been matched to box Abe Attell, at Kenosha, Wis., next Tuesday night. It will be a ten-round match. If Matty comes through that battle a victor it will be time enough to talk about his championship pretensions. While Attell is no longer the great little fighter of a few years back, he is by no means a "dead one," and it will take a real good performer to beat him. A draw with Abe will boost McCue's stock more than a dozen wins over the class of fighters he has been meeting the past year or so, and a clean-cut victory over the former champion would put the youngster in position to demand matches with the best boys in the featherweight division.

Anderson Attracts.

Everybody is talking about young "Bud" Anderson, the western lightweight whose remarkable work the last few months has brought him to the front with a rush. Six months ago Anderson had not even been heard of east of the Rockies, and today he looks the best material in the lightweight class, barring Champion Ritchie. And even that clever young man would probably admit, if questioned, that "Bud" stacks up as a very dangerous rival.

If Tom McCarey is the shrewd matchmaker he is popularly credited with being, he will not let the chance to match Anderson and Rivers on the Fourth of July, get away from him. It looks as if the much-talked-of Ritchie-Rivers thing is off for the present, and McCarey could not possibly arrange another card that would appeal as strongly to Los Angeles fans as an Anderson-Rivers set-to. It is a toss-up which is the more popular with the sports. Joe is a native, and "Bud" has fought all his important battles at McCarey's club. From a financial standpoint it would be the biggest thing Tom ever staged, and he has pulled off many important bouts at that.

Papers Are Faked.

It is about time the attention of the New York boxing commissioners is called to the practice indulged in by local promoters of sending out announcements of matches between prominent boxers before the important detail of consulting the boxers themselves has been attended to.

Recently the St. Nicholas Athletic club management announced that they would conduct a series of welterweight elimination bouts in which such well-known boxers as Ray Bronson, Tommy Howell and Chauncey (Wild Cat") Ferns were to be starters. It was the club's plan, according to the announcement, to continue the elimination series until a champion was developed, and to present the final winner with a belt emblematic of the title.

It was a most worthy undertaking for any club, no matter how pretentious, and the local papers boosted the show to the limit back. But this is as far as the tournament progressed—the newspaper stage. It turned out that the boxers who were to be the features of the series had not been consulted in the matter at all.

Fight followers who look to newspapers for news of important matches, and I am surprised that local sporting writers have permitted the promoters to get away with such raw work. It seems to me that their duty to their readers calls for concerted action that will result in the boxing commissioners to take steps to prevent a repetition of the offense.

Young Jack O'Brien.

One would think that an experienced bird like Philadelphia Jack O'Brien would have realized he was making a big mistake in allowing Young Jack, his brother, to take up the strenuous game of boxing as a professional, before the youngster had matured. It looks as if the predictions made that Young Jack could not stand the gaff very long are being borne out by recent performances.

When "Kid" was first "sprung," a year or so ago, he created a great sensation by his speed and boxing skill. He was a pocket edition of his famous "buddy," and his success for a while against more rugged opponents was really remarkable, considering his youth and comparative lack of experience.

I was one of the many who cautioned Philadelphia Jack about underestimating the strength of his speedy kid brother. But apparently the veteran allowed his desire to get the money quickly and in chunks to outweigh his better judgment. Young Jack was pitted against several of the toughest nuts in the game, among them Ad Wolgast and Leach Cross. While the boy made a creditable showing in these bouts the punishment received was too severe for his youthful frame. He began to go back rapidly, and his showing against mediocre performers recently had been such as to indicate that the career of this youngster of 19 is rapidly nearing its end.

Willard May Improve.

When big Jess Willard has had a year or two more of actual fighting experience he may prove a formidable candidate for the heavyweight championship. The recent contest with "Gunboat" Smith proved that experience is the one thing Jess needs more than anything else. It was the lack of it that cost him the decision.

There is a chance for Willard. He is young, and with his great physical advantages may develop into a great fighter. Champions are not made over-night. Records show they are developed slowly. Willard should not become discouraged because he failed to stop the "Gunboat." He is a big, strong fellow who needs lots of work. If I were his manager, I would see that he gets it. Jess should be brought back east at once, where the opportunity to fight often is afforded. Between New York and Philadelphia he could average a couple of fights a month, and nothing will help more to develop his natural advantages than plenty of work in the ring.

PLAYERS' CLUB IS NOW LETTER PERFECT FOR PRESENTING "THE IMPORTANCE OF BEING EARNEST"

Mrs. John Marshall Slaton, who takes one of the leading roles in the Players' club performance Tuesday evening, is shown in the center top picture, in a charming pose hitherto unpublished, taken by Hirshburg. On the left, from top to bottom, are Mrs. Henry Bernard Scott, Marsh Adair and R. Frank Taylor. On the right, Hamilton Douglas, Jr., Lamar Hill and Mrs. William Owens. In the lower center picture is Miss Hildreth Burton-Smith. Photos of Mrs. Owens and Mr. Adair are by Hirshburg; of Mr. Taylor and Mr. Douglas by Stephenson, and of Mrs. Scott by McCrory.

After three weeks of nightly rehearsals, in which the minutest points of the action have been developed into a remarkably breezy and entertaining style, the cast of the Atlanta Players' club has at last become letter perfect. The rehearsal Saturday night at the Grand went through from beginning to end without a hitch, and splendid success is predicted for the presentation next Tuesday night.

"The Importance of Being Earnest," the play to be presented, has been declared the cleverest and most popular of all Oscar Wilde's plays. It has been presented many times by the players' clubs in society circles of London, and has recently spread its popularity to America. It was lately presented with success by the Savannah club. Being filled with humor and worldly philosophy, it has a peculiar appeal that makes people want to see it again.

Only One Performance Here.

Tuesday evening will be the only time it will be presented in Atlanta, however, according to the present plans. It will probably be taken on a short tour to a number of southern cities by the Players' club later in the summer or fall.

Warren A. Rogers, the new stage director of the club, is the man to whom credit is given for getting the play into perfect shape this far in advance of the actual presentation. Night after night he has worked for many hours with the players, stamping his own individual interpretation of the lines upon the action as performed by the cast. This is Mr. Rogers' first year with the Atlanta club. He has traveled over the country as stage manager for dozens of companies, and has been at times connected with such celebrities as Viola Allen and Richard Mansfield.

Mrs. Slaton in Leading Part.

Mrs. John Marshall Slaton, wife of the governor-elect, will take one of the leading roles of the play, being Lady Bracknell, an austere Englishwoman of the upper class. Miss Hildreth Burton Smith will make her debut with the Players' club in the role of Lady Bracknell's daughter—known as the Honorable Gwendolyn Fairfax—whose adoration for the name of "Earnest" furnishes the theme for the play.

One of the most interesting characters of the play will be that of Miss Prism, played by Mrs. Henry Bernard Scott. Although Mrs. Scott really does not like the role, which is that of an old maid governess, she has thrown into it a versatility and individuality which will make the character be one of the standout features of the performance. Mrs. William Owens appears in the naive role of Cecily. Lamar Hill presents the blase and cynical Algernon Moncrief. His success in former roles is well known. Marsh Adair, Hamilton Douglas, Jr., and R. Frank Taylor render him good support.

Tom Donaldson Joins Cast.

Living up to its reputation of having skilled and talented players even in the minor parts, the club has secured Tom Donaldson to present the part of one of the butlers. He has had remarkable success in past performances. He and Mr. Taylor will appear as typical English butlers in full livery, and their portrayal of the part is entertaining, indeed.

Society will be out in full force on Tuesday night, the boxes being brilliant with the gowns of the beautiful Atlanta women who will be present. The Players' club will have seats in a body in the orchestra. After the performance the officers of the club and the cast will be entertained at supper at the Piedmont Driving club, society also gathering here at the tables on the lawn.

South Atlantic Tennis Tournament at Augusta

Augusta, Ga., May 31.—(Special.)—The first entry in the annual tournament of the South Atlantic States Tennis association was received by the local committee yesterday from Rutledge Capers, of Augusta, 14 years of age, and spoken of as the fastest tennis player of his age in the south. This meet is held each year on the five courts of the Country club of Augusta, beginning this year June 30.

This boy is said to be a phenomenon at the game, his ability being principally in the uncanny control he has of the ball, both in serving and returning. He participated in the meet of this association last year and defeated a number of the fast players of the south Atlantic states, though he was eliminated before the finals were reached.

Assurance was received from tennis clubs of Montgomery, Ala., that a number of players from that city would take part in the matches here. Numerous inquiries relative to the meet are being received each day. The tournament committee states that they expect the largest number of entries this year and, accordingly, the most successful meet.

Announcement was made Tuesday that a team consisting of Henry Garrett and Will Gary will represent the Country club of Augusta in the South Carolina championship contests at Greenville, and that M. Kennedy and Frank Capers will go to Richmond for the Virginia state championship matches.

ATLANTA WOMAN WINS IN MEMPHIS TOURNEY

Memphis, Tenn., May 31.—Mrs. R. P. Jones, of Atlanta, and A. H. Mallory, of Memphis, with a net score of 42 today won the two-ball mixed foursome, the closing event in the third annual tournament of the Southern Women's Golf association. Their handicap was 12. Mrs. H. L. Armstrong and J. H. Stewart, both of Memphis, handicap 15, tied in 85 for second place, with Miss Joy Tomlinson, of Birmingham and L. K. Thompson, of Memphis, handicap 12. In the play-off Mrs. Armstrong and Mr. Stewart won.

Court of Inquiry Ordered.

Washington, May 31.—Rear Admiral Robert M. Doyle, the commandant of the Norfolk navy yard, recently made an unfavorable report upon the fitness of Captain J. B. Quinby, commanding the receiving ship Franklin at the Norfolk yard. Captain Quinby demanded an investigation and the navy department has ordered a court of inquiry to meet at Norfolk next Monday to examine and report upon the case. The court is composed of Rear Admiral W. B. Caperton, Captains W. I. Chambers and W. S. Benson, with Lieutenant Commander J. M. Luby as judge advocate.

Marines Are Retiring.

Philadelphia, May 31.—The auxiliary cruiser Prairie with 900 marines from the naval station at Guantanamo, Cuba, arrived at the Philadelphia navy yard tonight. The marines constituted the Second regiment of the expedition mobilized in Cuba in January during the Mexican disturbances. Several detachments will be returned to their home stations tomorrow.

The armored cruisers Montana and Tennessee, sent posthaste to the Balkan war zone last winter, are also back at the yard, the Montana getting in today.

Missouri Wins.

St. Louis, May 31.—The University of Missouri won the Missouri Valley conference track meet this afternoon, scoring [illegible] Ames, the nearest competitor, by 58.

Davis Is Traffic Manager.

The Georgia Southwestern and Gulf railroad announces the apointment of R. E. Davis as traffic manager, with offices in Albany, Ga., to take the place of J. A. Wesson, who has resigned, and the apointment will take effect today.

Grasshoppers Menace Kansas.

Manhattan, Kans., May 31.—In a bulletin issued here the Kansas Agricultural college today warned the farmers of Kansas that the grasshoppers are likely to cause serious damage in this state this year. The open winter left 90 per cent of the grasshopper eggs uninjured, the bulletin stated. The pests already are at work in some parts of the state.

HE CROSSED LAKE ERIE IN A "FLYING BOAT"

Atwood's Trip Was Marred at Very Close by Lack of Gasoline.

Sandusky, Ohio, May 31.—Harry N. Atwood, of Boston, the aviator who flew from St. Louis to Boston in an aeroplane two years ago, left this city this afternoon in a "flying boat" of his own manufacture. He was sighted over Put-in-Bay island at 3:30 and a telephone message received here at 10:15 o'clock stated that he had made a landing this evening near Amherstburg, Ont., on the Detroit river, a few miles south of Detroit.

Picked Up by Tug.

Detroit, Mich., May 31.—Harry N. Atwood, en route from Sandusky to Cleveland across Lake Erie in a hydroaeroplane, was picked up near Amherstburg, Ont., this evening. His gasoline had given out. He is spending the night at Amherstburg.

Atwood told his rescuers that fog and wind, when he was about thirty miles out of Cleveland, caused him to change his course for Put-in-Bay. He said that while flying about a thousand feet up his gasoline ran low. When he reached the water he appealed to passing freighters, and one summoned a tug from Amherstburg, which picked him up. Atwood said he would attempt another trip up the river to this city tomorrow. The machine was not damaged.

CHARLESTON LOSES HER GRANDSTAND

Many Spectators in Stands, but None Were Hurt by the Flames.

Charleston, S. C., May 31.—During the progress of an amateur baseball game this afternoon at Hampton park, the baseball headquarters of the Charleston club, the grandstand caught fire and burned to the ground before the arrival of the firemen. There were many spectators in the stand at the time the blaze was discovered, but no one was hurt. The theory is that a lighted cigarette or match was dropped and thus caused the fire.

Owner Walsh, of the local club, states that the six games scheduled with Columbus and Jacksonville next week will be played here. A new grandstand will be erected at once.

Injured at Ball Game.

Lewisville, Ark., May 31.—Two women probably were fatally hurt and about twenty other persons injured when a grandstand collapsed during a ball game here today.

RINGING CURFEW FOR JOHN KILBANE

Fight Critics Do Not Like the Champion—McCue and Anderson Are Promising Material.

By JAMES J. CORBETT.
(Former Heavyweight Champion of the World. Written Exclusively for The Constitution.)

New York, May 31.—(Special.)—Although Johnny Kilbane has not expressed any intention of abdicating as boss of the featherweight division, the pugilistic sharps throughout the country are busily engaged in speculating on his probable successor. It is the belief of quite a few eminent experts that the Cleveland boy has failed to hit the mark set by champions of former days, and that his days as head of the division are numbered.

In the middle west the fight critics believe they have discovered the "coming" champion in the person of Matty McCue, an 18-year-old boxer, of Racine, Wis., who boasts a long string of victories in which the "k.o." figure prominently.

There is little doubt that McCue has been coming along very fast, and that his record is sufficiently impressive to expect great things of him in the future, but it will take more than newspaper "boosts" to make us consider him seriously as a candidate for the championship at this time.

Matty's record has so far been compiled chiefly at the expense of second and third-raters. He has not yet met a first-class man, and until he has done so it is absurd to talk of measuring the youngster for a championship crown.

I understand McCue has been matched to box Abe Attell, at Kenosha, Wis., next Tuesday night. It will be a ten-round match. If Matty comes through that battle a victor it will be time enough to talk about his championship pretensions. While Attell is no longer the great little fighter of a few years back, he is by no means a "dead one," and it will take a real good performer to beat him. A draw with Abe will boost McCue's stock more than a dozen wins over the class of fighters he has been meeting the past year or so, and a clean-cut victory over the former champion would put the youngster in position to demand matches with the best boys in the featherweight division.

Anderson Attracts.

Everybody is talking about young "Bud" Anderson, the western lightweight whose remarkable work the last few months has brought him to the front with a rush. Six months ago Anderson had not even been heard of east of the Rockies, and today he looks the best material in the lightweight class, barring Champion Ritchie. And even that clever young man would probably admit, if questioned, that "Bud" stacks up as a very dangerous rival.

If Tom McCarey is the shrewd matchmaker he is popularly credited with being, he will not let the chance to match Anderson and Rivers on the Fourth of July, get away from him. It looks as if the much-talked-of Ritchie-Rivers thing is off for the present, and McCarey could not possibly arrange another card that would appeal as strongly to Los Angeles fans as an Anderson-Rivers set-to. It is a toss-up which is the more popular with the sports. Joe is a native, and "Bud" has fought all his important battles at McCarey's club. From a financial standpoint it would be the biggest thing Tom ever staged, and he has pulled off many important bouts at that.

Papers Are Faked.

It is about time the attention of the New York boxing commissioners is called to the practice indulged in by local promoters of sending out announcements of matches between prominent boxers before the important detail of consulting the boxers themselves has been attended to.

Recently the St. Nicholas Athletic club management announced that they would conduct a series of welterweight elimination bouts in which such well-known boxers as Ray Bronson, Tommy Howell and Chauncey (Wild Cat") Ferns were to be starters. It was the club's plan, according to the announcement, to continue the elimination series until a champion was developed, and to present the final winner with a belt emblematic of the title.

It was a most worthy undertaking for any club, no matter how pretentious, and the local papers boosted the show to the limit back. But this is as far as the tournament progressed—the newspaper stage. It turned out that the boxers who were to be the features of the series had not been consulted in the matter at all.

Fight followers who look to newspapers for news of important matches, and I am surprised that local sporting writers have permitted the promoters to get away with such raw work. It seems to me that their duty to their readers calls for concerted action that will result in the boxing commissioners to take steps to prevent a repetition of the offense.

Young Jack O'Brien.

One would think that an experienced bird like Philadelphia Jack O'Brien would have realized he was making a big mistake in allowing Young Jack, his brother, to take up the strenuous game of boxing as a professional, before the youngster had matured. It looks as if the predictions made that Young Jack could not stand the gaff very long are being borne out by recent performances.

When "Kid" was first "sprung," a year or so ago, he created a great sensation by his speed and boxing skill. He was a pocket edition of his famous "buddy," and his success for a while against more rugged opponents was really remarkable, considering his youth and comparative lack of experience.

I was one of the many who cautioned Philadelphia Jack about underestimating the strength of his speedy kid brother. But apparently the veteran allowed his desire to get the money quickly and in chunks to outweigh his better judgment. Young Jack was pitted against several of the toughest nuts in the game, among them Ad Wolgast and Leach Cross. While the boy made a creditable showing in these bouts the punishment received was too severe for his youthful frame. He began to go back rapidly, and his showing against mediocre performers recently had been such as to indicate that the career of this youngster of 19 is rapidly nearing its end.

Willard May Improve.

When big Jess Willard has had a year or two more of actual fighting experience he may prove a formidable candidate for the heavyweight championship. The recent contest with "Gunboat" Smith proved that experience is the one thing Jess needs more than anything else. It was the lack of it that cost him the decision.

There is a chance for Willard. He is young, and with his great physical advantages may develop into a great fighter. Champions are not made over-night. Records show they are developed slowly. Willard should not become discouraged because he failed to stop the "Gunboat." He is a big, strong fellow who needs lots of work. If I were his manager, I would see that he gets it. Jess should be brought back east at once, where the opportunity to fight often is afforded. Between New York and Philadelphia he could average a couple of fights a month, and nothing will help more to develop his natural advantages than plenty of work in the ring.

FRANCHISE YIELDED BY THE BRISTOL CLUB

Action of the Club Due to Attitude of Head of Appalachian League.

Bristol, Tenn., May 31.—Because of the attitude of President Jacob Smith, of Cleveland, Tenn., in regard to fines imposed on Manager "Red" Munson and five of his players by Umpire Harry Nickens, and because of statements in a letter from the president, which the local club considers as serious reflections upon it, Bristol tonight surrendered its franchise in the Appalachian league.

Simultaneously with the notification of the president, a message was sent to Middlesboro, Ky., where the Boosters are scheduled to play Monday, to the effect that they will not be there.

TESTED DEVICES FOR THE HOUSE WIFE

(From The Ladies' World, New York.)

Perhaps the most difficult part of all housework, and the part still least removed from drudgery, is the weekly washing and ironing. People must be clean, but just how best to attain that end is still a problem incompletely solved, and a snag on which every housekeeper at one time or another is sure to run aground. The problem will, of course, be solved in time, but at the present day there are only two alternatives, neither one of which is entirely satisfactory; the work must be done out of the home by expensive, inefficient and more or less destructive "laundries," or it must be done in the home. Occasionally a good woman may be found who will take washing "out," but this is merely a matter of transfer of homes. The ideal way would be the establishment, in every city or town, of thoroughly competent laundries on a large scale, where work could be done in a sanitary and satisfactory manner at a cost well within the means of all. It is not only possible, but probable, that the existent laundries will rise to this standard, in which event home laundry work will be obsolete—except in rare and particular instances. Until that day arrives, however, the greater part of the family washing must be done in the home, and the problem remains.

If this is the case, why not make use of the many devices recently perfected for the purpose, and so meet the problem at least half way at once? For instance, as far as the washing itself is concerned, there are some half a hundred good machines now to do that part of the work, ranging in price from $2.50 to $150. The washboard, and its accompanying ills—sore knuckles, aching back, worn clothing—is a thing of the past.

If one cannot afford the luxury of a motor washing machine, there is a wonderful little vacuum washer well within the means and accommodations of any home, requiring no power to work them other than hand, and accomplishing results that are little short of marvelous.

The vacuum washer is funnel-shaped and works on the principle of forcing the hot water through the dirty clothes. It is attached to a long handle, and is worked by hand, either in the tub or in the boiler, as desired. With this washer a full tub of soiled clothes may be washed to a snowy whiteness in four minutes, without boiling or rubbing, or even previous soaking. There is no wear and tear on even the most delicate fabrics. It requires no bending or stooping, or straining of the back to operate it. Rinsing and bluing may also be accomplished more thoroughly and easily by means of this washer, and it is not necessary for the hands to touch the water except when the clothes are finally taken out for wringing. For blankets and woolens it is unsurpassed, also for dry cleaning with gasoline. Of course distinct stains of any kind must be removed first, as is always the case.

This washer is small and is most conveniently used in the sink or hand basin for washing handkerchiefs, baby clothes or other small articles, and is a very handy little device to put in one's trunk when traveling.

The Rapid Vacuum washer is offered as a premium with the Tri-Weekly. See the big advertisement about it, and remember your money back if it doesn't do the work after you have followed directions.

EVERY AMATEUR GAME POSTPONED

The storm played havoc with the schedule of amateur ball games Saturday, and as a result little playing, the storm breaking in all its fury just about the time the teams were scheduled to start.

Sunday Schools to Meet.

The Atlanta Baptist Sunday School association will hold its regular monthly session Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Decatur Georgia Baptist church. President John L. Green will preside, and addresses will be made by Dr. A. H. Gordon, of the Ponce de Leon Baptist church and L. T. Stallings. Interesting subjects will be discussed, and the meeting promises to be a lively one. All Sunday school workers are cordially invited, but the schools making up th eassociation are urged to furnish large representation.

Walter Travis Wins.

New York, May 31.—Walter J. Travis, the veteran golfer of Garden City, won the Tuxedo golf club invitation tournament today by defeating F. P. Rogers, of Baltusrol, in the final 36-hole match, by 3 up and 1 to play.

Reorganizing Bank Examiners.

Washington, May 31.—The national bank examiners will be reorganized by Acting Comptroller of the Currency Kane. The first step in this direction was taken today when Examiner Edwin F. Rorebeck was relieved of charge of the New York city district. He will be transferred. Mr. Kane declines to discuss the proposed shakeup, but it is learned that practically all the changes will be made through transfers.

ST. MARY'S IS VISITED BY DESTRUCTIVE FIRE

Entire Waterfront of Camden County City Consumed and Loss Estimated at $50,000.

Savannah, Ga., May 31.—St. Mary's, Camden county, was visited by a destructive fire this afternoon, the entire water front being consumed.

The loss is estimated at $50,000, the Brandon Lumber company being the heaviest loser.

The railroad docks of the Atlanta, Waycross and Northern railway and the Municipal docks were totally destroyed.

POSITIONS ARE OFFERED IN GOVERNMENT SERVICE

Secretary Jennings, of the civil service commission for the fifth district, will hold seven examinations during the present month—five on June 18, one on June 23 and one on June 25-26—in his offices in the Atlanta federal building to secure eligibles to fill vacancies in governmental service scattered throughout the country.

A skilled laborer, who can qualify as a negative cutter and lithographic helper, is wanted for work in the coast and geodetic survey at Washington, the pay being $600 a year—the examination to take place Wednesday, June 18. On the same day and at the same place Secretary Jennings will seek a sanitary bacteriologist in the public health service for duty in the hygienic laboratory at Washington, D. C., or for field service, the pay ranging from $1,200 to $1,500 per year; also an apprentice draftsman for assignment to work in the office of the chief of ordnance, war department, at $360 annually; also a copyist ship draftsman for work in the bureau of construction and repair in the navy department at Washington, the initial pay being $2.40 per diem; also an electro-metallurgist for assignment to the bureau of mines in the interior department for field service, with pay ranging from $1,500 to $1,800 a year.

On Monday, June 23, Secretary Jennings will hold an examination to secure a philatolist who will be given $1,200 a year to overhaul and arrange according to countries and issues the collection of stamps now in the museum at Washington. On June 25-26 the secretary will hold an examination to secure a ship draftsman for the navy department, with pay of $3 to $5 a day.

PORTUGAL BREAKS WITH THE VATICAN

Lisbon, May 31.—The chamber of deputies today voted to abolish the legation at the vatican, pursuant to the law governing the separation of church and state.

Rome, May 31.—The abolition of the Portuguese legation accredited to the vatican, although foreseen, has caused a painful impression at the holy see. According to the opinion expressed there today "the Portuguese republic, after a short experience, will discover that Catholic priests are more patriotic in the Portuguese colonies than foreign Free Masons who are willing to have them annexed to other countries."

W. G. Humphrey and Police Chief Help to Stop Fistic Spectacle

Two men, pressed into service on the spur of the moment, made a record for the Atlanta police department last night. A call was sent in from Decatur and Bell streets, saying that a fistic spectacle was in progress, and the peace of the community was being sadly marred.

Every call officer in the station was out. By chance, Chief Beavers and W. G. Humphrey, chairman of the finance committee of the police board, were standing near the telephone. At the door of the police station was standing Mr. Humphrey's big six-cylinder car.

"Come on, there's a call," Chief Beavers is said to have remarked. And the two, the chief and the councilman, hustled out and rushed to the scene of the combat.

Arriving, the chief jumped out, collared the two men, hustled them into the tonneau of the machine, and before the crowd could even applaud, they were back to the station.

The men registered as Wallace Hughes, of 117 Powell street, a painter by trade, and J. M. Vandergrift, of 343 East Hunter, a driver for the city.

REVIVAL MEETINGS AT TABERNACLE CHURCH

Beginning this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, a series of evangelistic meetings will be conducted at the Tabernacle church by the Rev. Armin A. Holtzer, of St. Louis. There will be two meetings daily, at 3:30 in the afternoon and at 8 o'clock at night. Mr. Holtzer is a convert from Judaism, his father having been a rabbi. He is a native of Austria and speaks four languages fluently. He has successfully conducted meetings in several of the large cities of this country and also of Europe.

Mr. Holtzer's subject this afternoon will be "From the Synagogue to the Cross." Tomorrow he will preach on "The Infallible Word;" Tuesday, on "Three Views of God's Love;" and Wednesday on "The Glories of the Palestine Cross." Topics of other sermons will be announced later.

DUCHESS OF ORLEANS TIRED OF HER HUSBAND

Brussells, May 31.—The Duchess of Orleans began suit for separation in the first civil court today against her husband, Prince Louis Phillip, Duke of Orleans, the French pretender. Yearly alimony of 80,000 francs ($16,000) was asked, as well as the restitution of 170,000 francs which she is alleged to have advanced to the duke. It is understood the duchess demands only a separation and settlement, on the ground that during a severe illness of two years her husband virtually abandoned her.

CHANCELLOR KIRKLAND STAYS AT VANDERBILT

Nashville, Tenn., May 31.—Chancellor James H. Kirkland, of Vanderbilt university, announced today that he would not accept the presidency of Arkansas university or any other offer, but would remain with Vanderbilt. He stated he had reached the determination because of the announcement of the gift by Andrew Carnegie of $1,000,000 to the medical department of the university.

Willowmean Shanley.

Willowmean Shanley, 20-months-old daughter of Mrs. Annie May Shanley, died Saturday night at the residence of her aunt, Mrs. Holcombe, at 294 North Jackson street. She has been in Atlanta for about three weeks with her mother, formerly a Miss Stewart, of Atlanta. Funeral arrangements will be announced following the arrival of her father from Globe, Ariz.

COMMITTEES OF HOUSE HAVE BEEN COMPLETED

Washington, May 31.—Committee organization in the house practically was completed today when the democratic majority of the ways and means committee met and approved the assignments proposed by the republican and progressive leaders. The full list will be presented to the democratic caucus Monday for ratification.

The ways and means, rules, mileage, accounts and enrolled bills committee were appointed at the beginning of the extra session. Representatives Underwood and Murdock recently announced the democratic and progressive selections for the remainder of the committees, and today Republican Leader Munn presented his slate to a republican caucus and had it approved.

The republicans were in session just ten minutes. Representative Mann, referring to the outlook for the extra session, said the general understanding was that the democrats were going ahead with the currency legislation as soon as they finished with the tariff.

DR. WATKINS IN RACE FOR CONGRESS IN NINTH

Dr. E. W. Watkins is a candidate for congress. He states that it is his intention to be in the race from the Ninth district in 1914. He was in the race against Mr. Bell when the congressman was serving his second term. Dr. Watkins was defeated. He believes he can le elected now, however, and will go into the race again next year.

Bloodworth, Forsyth.

24 SUNDAY SCHOOLS IN PUBLICITY PLAN

Exchange of Membership and Attendance Reports Through Newspapers Begins Today.

Twenty-four Sunday schools have entered their names in the publicity empaign which is begun today. Exchanging reports of membership and attendance through the medium of the newspapers, they will enter into a scheme for friendly rivalry that will serve as a healthy stimulus to the Sunday schools of the whole city.

Details of the plan were worked out at a luncheon Thursday, at which many of the superintendents of the city were present. It is an outgrowth, in a way, of the contest between the Second Baptist and the First Christian Sunday schools. While the new plan is not strictly a contest, there being no stake set for the winners, it will incite a spirit of rivalry very much similar, it is believed, to that existing during the two-sided contest that was lately won by the First Christian.

Arrangements for the new publicity plan were placed at the Thursday meeting into the hands of an executive committee composed of the following: Dr. Marion McH. Hull, W. C. Mansfield, Dr. Joseph Broughton, W. W. Gaines, Robert Crenshaw, J. W. Willis, Walter Colquitt, John S. Spalding, C. V. LeCraw and F. J. Paxon.

While other schools will probably be added to the list of those entering into the publicity plan, the present roster of the schools, with their superintendents, stands as follows:

Central Presbyterian—John J. Eagan, superintendent.

Wesley Memorial—Major R. J. Guinn.

St. Mark Methodist—James L. Mayson.

West End Presbyterian—C. P. Hunter.

First Baptist—Andy P. Stewart.

St. Paul's Methodist——J. B. Cochran.

First Presbyterian—Paul L. Fleming.

Trinity Methodist—W. C. Mansfield.

North Avenue Presbyterian—Dr. Marion McH. Hull.

Tabernacle Baptist—Dr. Jos. Broughton.

First Christian—C. V. LeCraw.

Central Congregational—J. W. Hoyt.

Church of Inc. Episcopal—C. J. Kamper.

Second Baptist—John S. Spalding.

First Methodist—Walter Colquitt.

Westminister Presbyterian—W. M. Everett.

Capitol Avenue Baptist—W. W. Gaines.

Grace Methodist—J. V. Wellborn.

Jackson Hill Baptist—J. E. Raley.

West End Christian—Robert W. Crenshaw.

West End Baptist—A. R. Colcord.

Ponce de Leon Baptist—J. W. Willis.

Park Street Methodist—L. E. Floyd.

Central Baptist—H. D. Sorrells.

CANDLER MONUMENT UNVEILING TUESDAY

A monument to the late Governor Allen D. Candler, placed over his grave by the appointees to office, will be unveiled at Gainesville next Tuesday. Friends from Atlanta who desire to attend the exercises are requested to assemble at the Terminal station by 6:55 o'clock a. m. The train will leave on the Southern for Gainesville at that time. The return trip will be started from Gainesville the same afternoon at 3:15 o'clock. A special rate is offered by the railroad.

AGNES SCOTT PRIZES FOR YEAR ANNOUNCED

Dr. F. H. Gaines Says Session Just Closed Most Prosperous in History.

Dr. F. H. Gaines, president of Agnes Scott college, whose brilliant commencement came to a close this week, announces that the session just ended was decidedly the most successful in point of enrollment and "all" in the history of this institution. He announces the discontinuance of Agnes Scott academy, which has served for years as a preparatory department of Agnes Scott college, which leaves Agnes Scott college, the only institution on the campus. He congratulated the trustees upon the splendid work performed by the academy.

At the closing session, Dr. Gaines announced the honors, prizes and scholarships, always a source of enthusiasm and interest.

There was no first honor awarded this year, but second honor was captured by Miss Janie McGaughey, of Atlanta. Miss McGaughey did her work during her entire course at Agnes Scott college.

By vote of the faculty, the fellowship was awarded to Miss Emma Pope Moss, of Georgia. The collegiate scholarship, which carries with it the tuition in college for next session, was won by Miss Grace Gochegan, of Alabama; the piano scholarship to Miss Mary Pope, of Tennessee. The voice culture scholarship to Miss Almedia Sadler, of Alabama, and the art scholarship to Miss Hattie Smith, of North Carolina. All of these scholarships were awarded upon the basis of greatest improvement shown during the course just ended.

The English prize, showing greatest proficiency in English, based upon the best essay prepared, was won by Miss Emma Jones, of Georgia, who also won the Aurora prize. The mathematics medal was won by Miss Annie Tait Jenkins, of Mississippi. Dr. Gaines announces the reopening of Agnes Scott college on September 17, and already the prospects are most flattering for an unusually large attendance.

Alleged "Tiger" Arrested.

Quite a lively trade in liquid merchandise was being carried, it is charged, by T. R. Persons, at 58 Hayden street, last night, when Detectives Norris, Newinge, Sturdivant and Davis walked in. On the table was a glass pitcher filled with silver to the amount of $24. Evidences of recent sales were about, and the old negro on the outside admitted to having purchased a gallon at cut rates—$3.

ATHENS' "RED LIGHT" DISTRICT ENJOINED

Action Taken by Solicitor General for Number of Taxpayers and Home Owners.

Athens, Ga., May 31.—(Special.)—After having been segregated some years ago, indicted and fined annually by superior court and city court, moved from one section to another where they built new houses, then by petition and injunction moved back again to the section from which they first moved, the "restricted district residences" here this afternoon were served with notice of temporary injunction.

The action is taken by Solicitor General Gamble for a number of taxpayers and home-owners.

LIBRARY GRADUATES RECEIVE DIPLOMAS

The eighth class to be graduated from the Literary Training school finished the course Saturday, and the students received their certificates at the graduation exercises at 10 o'clock in the morning.

The exercises were held in the class room of the school, which is on the second floor of the Carnegie library. The principal address of the morning was made by Miss L. E. Stearns, of the Wisconsin library commission, and made a deep impression on the audience. Miss Stearns' addresses to the successive graduating classes of the library school have sent the students out with a feeling of enthusiasm which is invaluable to them in their future work.

After the address of Miss Stearns another stimulating talk was made by Mr. Willis Everett, president of the board of trustees of the Carnegie library. Mr. Everett then presented the certificates to the following students: Misses Helen Brewer, Isabel Davidson, Elwyn de Graffenried, Emily Kemp, Willie Kate Williams, Isabel Stevens, Mary Thornton and Catherine Walker.

Singers Win Banner.

The United German singers of Atlanta who went to Charleston last Monday, forty strong, under the leadership of Professor Hunter Welsh, to take part in the annual singerfest of the southeastern section, came home yesterday afternoon, bringing with them a handsome banner won because of the Atlanta singers' excellent work in the grand chorus in the big concert Thursday night. The Atlantans speak in the highest complimentary terms of the treatment awarded them by the citizens of the City by the Sea.

See Ansley Park Golf Club Today

It is the most beautifully arranged golf course in the South. Roads to the club house site and through the grounds are finished to such an extent that you can take your family and friends in your auto to see this, the most beautiful and extravagant of any development in Atlanta.

Citizens of the North Side realize that the Park and Golf Club mean great enhancement for North Side realty and increases the desirability of residence property from Brookwood to Five Points. So every one interested in this section should see the Golf Links, which will grow daily in usefulness and popularity.
